WILL SHOW "DEFENSE OR TRIBUTE" UNDER AUSPICES OF DAILY PRESS

Marjorie's battleship picture, "Defense or Tribute?" will be presenated at Proctor's Theatre on March 24 and 25, under the auspices of the Plainfield Daily Press. This now famous picture which drew enormous audiences to the Park Theatre, Columbus Circle, New York, during its fortnight's run there is endorsed by the New York Times and thousands of newspapers in the country. It has earned the title of Marjorie's Battleship Picture, because it is selected by the Tribune to help Marjorie build the battleship which she is anxious to add to the American navy.

This picture has been termed an unanswerable argument in favor of preparedness and peace. It draws upon history for its illustrative material. History we all know repeats itself. The fate of Belgium; Serbia; Poland; Montenegro; Northern France caused no surprise to students of past happenings in Europe. "Defense or Tribute?" shows us that military preparedness caused the downfall of the Jews; the Gauls; and other peoples before the Romans two thousand years ago.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

The Astor Theatre opened this afternoon under the management of Fred Corlies, an experienced theatrical man who has been elected treasurer and manager of the concern which purchased the local playhouse last Friday. In an interview with a Daily Press reporter this morning, Mr. Corlies declared it would be his policy to cater to high class patronage and to present the best picture features on the market. He is planning to use the Paramount films exclusively, changing on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The new policy went into effect at once, but some of the details will not be completed before a week from today. Charles P. Freligh, who has had charge of the musical program at the Astor during the past year, will continue in this capacity, thus assuring the attendants a treat along this line.

Today and tomorrow "A Gentleman From Indiana," with Dustin Farnum in the leading role, is being shown and Wednesday and Thursday "Armstrong's Wife," with Edna Goodrich, will be the feature.

Dustin Farnum's spectacular 105-yard run through a broken field for a touchdown is one of the exciting scenes in the coming film production of "The Gentleman From Indiana," the famous Booth Tarkington novel, presented by Pallas Pictures. This lively episode of varsity football is but a prolog to a series of thrills following upon the coming of the university man to be editor of Plattville Herald. His smashing of a vicious political machine, his kidnapping by whitecaps during a thunderstorm in the forest at night, his startling identification in a distant emergency hospital, and his triumphant homecoming with an election to Congress and the love of a bewitching heroine as his reward make "The Gentleman From Indiana" a motion picture that makes you shudder once or twice but in so doing makes the delight at the ending all the heartier.

REPORT PAGE LEAVING ROME

Ambassador Said to Plan to Accompany Wife to America.

Rome, March 20.—A report is in circulation in diplomatic circles that the American ambassador here, Thomas Nelson Page, has asked the state department for permission to go to America, wishing to accompany his wife, who is leaving April 10 aboard the Rotterdam. Mrs. Page is going home because of the illness of a relative in the United States.

Regret is expressed that Mr. Page, who has taken such a deep interest in affairs concerning the European conflagration, should leave just when Rome seems about to play an increasingly important part, having been chosen as the next meeting place of the premiers of the allies.

POTASH NOW $500 A TON.

Government Experts Experiment In California For a Supply.

Washington, March 20.—Potash has increased in price from $39 to $500 a ton since the war began, according to an announcement made by the United States geological survey. The urgent need of a domestic supply of potash salts has greatly increased since the importations from Germany were stopped.

The survey is making laboratory experiments designed to aid in discovering a cheap process of separating potassium salts from natural brines. Recent experiments have been made with the natural brine from Searles lake, California, which contains the equivalent of 12 per cent of potassium chloride in the solid salts.

TROOPS LOCATE LAIR OF VILLA

Bandit Reported Trapped by Rapidly Advancing Force.

RETREATING TO MOUNTAINS

Washington Fears Rebel Chief Can Evade Pursuers For Indefinite Period In Mountain Recesses—Fugitive May Be Caught by a Column Which Is Advancing South From Casas Grandes.

El Paso, Tex., March 20.—According to the information received in wireless dispatches from the front and in telegraphic dispatches to General Gabriel Gavira, the Carranza commander at Juarez, Francisco Villa has been driven into a trap by the rapid advance of the American troops.

Everything seems now to depend on the ability of the Carranza garrisons to hold their own end of the net. On three sides of the bandit chief he is hemmed in by strong Carranza columns, while on the fourth the Americans are driving forward with amazing speed.

Villa was reported in the Babicora lake region on the ranch of Mrs. Phoebe Hearst, which he has ravaged several times. Babicora is about fifty-five miles south of Galeana, where one part of the American expeditionary force has arrived, and is pushing forward at the rate of thirty-three miles a day.

Sonora Passes Barred.

A few miles to the west of the bandit's position is Namiquipa, which is held by a powerful Carranza garrison. On the east are the frowning barriers of the Sierra Madre mountains, barring the way to Sonora. General Luis Gutierrez, Carranza's field chief, declares that he holds all the passes to Sonora.

To the south Villa's way is blocked by the Carranza garrison at Madera, a town of considerable importance as the headquarters of the Madera Mining Company, Ltd., an American concern which has vast lumber, mining and railroad interests.

On account of the importance of this town an exceptionally heavy Carranza force is said to hold it.

The whole situation seems to hang on the Carranza forces. If they remain loyal to the first chief, which up to the present they have shown every indication of doing, Villa appears trapped. It is, of course, realized that he is on ground of his own choosing and a country admirably suited for guerrilla warfare and surprise attacks.

The news that Villa had reached Babicora, near the lake of that name in the Guerrero region, after having abandoned thirty of his wounded at El Valle, came in a telegram to General Gavira at Juarez from Colonel Nieto Macias, the commander at Pearson.

Villa fled to avoid conflict with the Carranzista troops under Colonel Cano. Among the thirty wounded who had been shot in the Columbus raid and carried along in wagons only to be abandoned at El Valle was said to be the second in command, Pablo Lopez. Lopez is the leader whose death was reported as a positive fact at the Columbus raid. Later reports cast some doubt on the report of his death and indicated that another chief carrying his papers might have been the real victim. Lopez, the telegram said, was badly wounded, having been shot through the abdomen and both legs, which were broken. The Villista chief Cervantes is reported with a number of bandits in Las Cruces.

Says Pershing Force Is Divided.

General Bertani, commanding the Carranza forces at Casas Grandes, came to Juarez to talk over the military situation with his superior, General Gavira. He said that General Pershing's force was divided, with part near Casas Grandes and a part near Galeana, southwest of Casas Grandes. The Americans encamp in the country, but have permission to go into the towns to buy food, fodder and other obtainable supplies. An order to this effect came from War Minister Obregon.

No word has yet been received by Gavira regarding the use of the national railways for the transport of Pershing's supplies, and, Gavira added, no shipments of this kind had yet been made on the trains out of Juarez. This is a matter to be settled between Washington and the Carranza government.

Villa spent last Wednesday and Thursday in El Valle, according to reports at the Juarez headquarters, but fled without giving battle when he saw the troops of Colonel Cano from Santa Ana. He escaped up a steep canyon from Las Cruces.

"Villa is now in a region very difficult for us," said General Gavira, "and very favorable for his purposes. He is in broken, rocky, pine clad mountainous country, full of places of concealment. Only cavalry can operate in it to advantage.

Villa In Wild Country.

"From the boundary down as far as Pearson the country is flat and sandy, with roads. But south of there horses must be used as transports instead of wagons and motorcars. There are high ridges and many obstacles. While I have never campaigned in the section, I understand good water is obtainable from springs and also the pasture is fair, which is to Villa's advantage. But the people in that part have almost given up the cultivation of the soil because the country has been so long overrun by bandits, who took everything they wanted. Villa won't find food there.

"I can say I have every confidence in the situation, for the net drawn by the American and Mexican forces is closing up."

Villa's turn to the west was rather a surprise to Gavira, who said that General Gutierrez thought the outlaw would try to escape eastward, an event Gutierrez was prepared for.

Washington Pessimistic.

Washington, March 20.—In view of the fact that Francisco Villa, fleeing with his outlaw followers before the advance of the American expeditionary forces in Mexico, has reached his own country in the Guerrero district, high officers of the army said that he might almost indefinitely evade capture there. If the bandit chieftain makes a stand Washington is satisfied that the campaign will quickly end. But if he leaves his followers, military authorities agree, he can reach a haven of safety in the nearby mountains in less than a day of riding.

The war department anxiously is awaiting word that contact has been established with the bandits. Although it was said at the department that official information as to the whereabouts of the outlaws had been received from the border, the press dispatches passed by the military censor with the expeditionary forces were accepted as reliable. Administration officials were deeply concerned over the report that Villa had raided American colonies, killing the residents.

Villa's Old Bandit Haunts.

In the Guerrero district and in the country adjacent to Babricora Villa is at home. For years he operated there in defiance of the laws of Mexico and its constituted authorities. The mountains to the west offer countless hiding places and routes of escape. If hard pressed Villa might abandon his men, don the garb of a peon and flee so far into the south that it would be exceedingly difficult, if not impossible, to apprehend him.

To meet just this situation General Pershing, it was learned, has authority to employ trusted Mexicans and other scouts who have lived their lives in the mountainous districts. These men know the hiding places in which the bandits are likely to take refuge if hard pressed. Upon them as a final resort will fall the task of running Villa to earth. Elaborate scouting plans are understood to have been completed.

The war department, at the request of the state department, it became known, has sent explicit instructions to the forces in Mexico not to occupy Mexican towns. Such occupation, it is said, might have the result of stirring up resentment among the Mexicans. General Pershing's orders, however, will not prevent him from searching a town should he have reason to believe that Villa or any of his followers were secreted there.

CONVICT SPURNS PAROLE.

Kansas Prisoner Wants Pardon, Commutation or Nothing.

Topeka, Kan., March 20.—Governor Capper has found one prisoner in the state penitentiary who will not accept a parole. The governor knows, because he sent one and the prisoner refused it. It is the first refusal on record.

The prisoner is S. H. Etherton, convicted of arson in Woodson county eleven years ago and sentenced to fourteen years in prison.

"I hope you think you are very considerate in your clemency toward me," Etherton wrote. "I cannot use a parole. When I leave here I will be a free man. If you can do anything for me in the way of a full pardon or commutation it will be appreciated. Otherwise I will stay here and go out on June 1-5 next."

CONGRESS TO ADJOURN EARLY, IS PREDICTION

Will Speed Defense Bills; Big Program Still Ahead.

Washington, March 20.—Evidence of co-operation between President Wilson and congress, which may lead to an early adjournment at the capitol, is seen by administration officials in the action of the senate and house in putting preparedness legislation ahead of other bills and practically removing the European and Mexican questions from the field of debate through votes supporting the president. Although some congressional leaders, notably Speaker Clark, say congress will be in session until fall, administration officials predicted confidently that adjournment would come in June or early in July.

A large legislative program still awaits action. It includes the army and navy bills, a tariff commission bill, the Philippine bill, rural credit legislation, several appropriation and revenue bills, shipping legislation, revenue measures and the immigration bill.

The president is very desirous that congress take action on the important questions now pending before the political conventions assemble in June and July. Work on the Democratic platform already has been begun on the assumption that this can be accomplished.

It is expected that the house will pass the Hay army reorganization bill by Thursday at the latest. In the discussion of this measure there has been evidence of more solidarity among Democrats than had been exhibited at any time since the session began. In fact, the general support which has rallied around national defense legislation has been a surprise to the administration leaders, who had expected to encounter bitter antagonism.

A special musical program was rendered by the choir, with Miss Mary Smith at the organ. Rev. Father Bogan's sermon dealt with the life of St. Patrick.

GERMANS ON DEFENSIVE.

Berlin, March 20.—German war statement:

"Western Theatre—The Artillery and aviators are increasing their activity on both sides, especially in the Meuse sector and in the Woevre region. The French fruitlessly attacked to prevent us from attending our lines at Douaumont and Vaux. Enemy aeroplanes have been shot down at Lihons, Forges, Cuisy, Rheims and Sapt de Barde."

"Eastern Theatre—Regardless of their losses the Russians have again attacked our positions without success on both sides of Potavy and alos between Maroez Lake and Drissvjaty Lake. At Widsy we drove back the enemy, capturing an officer and 280 men."

"Balkan Theatre—There is nothing to report."

MISS JESSIE CANN LEAVES THE HOSPITAL

Resigns Her Position as Directress of Nurses at Local Institution.

Owing to the illness and the probability of her not being able to resume her active duties for some time to come, Miss Jessie M. Cann felt that it was necessary to present to the executive committee her resignation as head of the Muhlenberg Hospital Training School for Nurses.

It was about two years ago that Miss Cann came to Muhlenberg as directress of nurses and through her ability and devotion to her work has succeeded in raising the standard of the school. The committee hopes to be able in a short time to find a successor to Miss Cann, who will carry on the work of the school to even greater successes in the future.

The addition to the third floor of the nurses' home is now fully completed and furnished throughout most tastefully and comfortably. This floor provides accommodations for twenty nurses and affords a much needed relief to housing facilities for the nurses at Muhlenberg.

M'KETRICK LOSES SUIT AGAINST FRANK MORAN

New York, March 20.—Frank Moran, who on next Saturday will fight Jess Willard at Madison Square Garden, was a defendant in a suit brought by Dan McKetrick, his former manager, to recover 1,452 dollars, which amount is alleged to have been advanced by McKetrick to Moran to finance a fight in Paris with Jack Johnson in June, 1914. The jury in the suit, which was tried before Justice Lynch, in the city court, after deliberating less than ten minutes, brought in a verdict for Moran.

HOW AMERICA MAKES HEROES.

Add to the long list of American heroes the names of Dodd, Pershing, Slocum and every mother's son of a soldier that has gone into Mexico to execute that "Villa, dead or alive" order. Marching over a barren country of sand and sun, threatened on every side not only by the bandits themselves, but by independent "snipers" who cannot control their hate for Americans, and facing open revolt on the part of Carranza's half trained and little disciplined army, they are performing one of the bravest deeds in American history. The country through which they must march in order to reach Villa's mountain hiding place is not capable of furnishing food for a single traveler, let alone an army, and what few wells dot its burning plans have been poisoned by the hunted. Every article that is used, every cartridge, every drop of water, every bite of food that the American soldiers get must come from the United States border, and if Carranza troops follow their own desires instead of the orders of a ruler for whom they have no love or fear, the little expedition of 5,000 men would be hopelessly cut off from its base. Should occasion for a relief expedition arise, where would President Wilson and Secretary Baker find troops for the work? Not among the border patrols, for this would mean that women and children in the United States would be left to the mercy of murderers and robbers. What few soldiers are left could hardly be called from the Philippines in time to save their comrades from starvation or thirst, even though the knife of Villa could be stayed for days or weeks. It would be a case for volunteers to save the army. America should pay honor to these heroes for it has demanded much of them that should have been made unnecessary.

SAILOREMEN FOR A MONTH.

Young men who long have cherished a desire to be one of Uncle Sam's sailormen and have been deterred because of the long term of enlistment demanded by naval regulations will have an opportunity of enjoying a month of real pleasure beginning August 15 when the naval cruise for civilians starts. This cruise, which will be made on a real battleship with officers of the Navy as instructors, is to train Americans for emergency service in the Navy. It bears the same relation to the Navy that Plattsburgh does to the Army and is another important step in the "preparedness" program which aims to make of every American a soldier or sailor capable of defending his country in time of war.

"Recruits" for the service must be citizens of the United States between 19 and 45 years. Aside from the expenses to and from the point of embarking, each applicant is required to deposit thirty dollars to cover the cost of subsistence and necessary clothing and must be able to demonstrate to the recruiting officer that he possesses nautical knowledge or technical training which fits him for the Navy.

The object is to equip men to act as reserves in time of war by giving them a course of training on warships under naval officers and conditions. It is not to be a mere picnic. Every "recruit" will be obligated under the application blank which he must sign to hold himself during the cruise subject to the Navy regulations, obey all authorized orders and perform all work regularly assigned to him.

The large number of juvenile criminals arrested in Plainfield recently calls attention to the need here of a court for these youthful offenders. It is not the intent of the law to have mere boys and girls arraigned publicly in police court with the night's collection of drunks and thieves. Such procedure only forces them to become real criminals. It does not give them the chance to be honest that their innocence demands and that is due them through humanity and a proper regard for the future generation. Chief Kiely, Judge DeMeza and others who are experienced in handling the criminal class know what it means to imprison boys with old offenders and to try them publicly in open court as though they were incorrigible, thus branding them with the cross of crime, but they are powerless. As enforcers of the law they must obey all laws, and there is one on the books which provides that juveniles shall be treated as all others who come under the attention of police authorities. A court for boys and girls, with heart-to-heart sessions free from publicity would be the means of saving many a mere child and would cost the city but little. Someone with authority to speak should take the matter up at once.

There is a golden opportunity for Plainfield in the meeting called by President Newcorn, of the Board of Trade, for tomorrow night, when businessmen are to consider the publicity proposition of the New Jersey Central Railway. Already it has been shown that it will pay to advertise this city. The letter from a New Hampshire farmer printed in Saturday's Daily Press shows that publicity will bring new citizens here. There is no doubt but that the proposition will be accepted and every man who is interested in the future of the city should attend the meeting and lend his support to insure Plainfield doing its part.

In urging that the freeholders of Union and Somerset counties undertake the improvement of Green brook, members of the Councils of Plainfield and North Plainfield are in a way to bring about the abatement of a long-suffered nuisance. The work of cleaning it and providing against further obstruction properly belongs to the Board of Freeholders and councilmen who go to Elizabeth and Somerville to urge the improvement will find the solid sentiment of Plainfield and North Plainfield behind them.

On the Spur of the Moment

by Roy K. Moulton

A Memory.

Ah, what has become of the old-fashioned lover,
Who called for his sweetheart when sleighing was fine,
And took her out riding, by gum, in the cutter,
And drove with one arm draped around her waistline?
He's got a new-fangled self-starting gas buggy,
And riding has lost at least one of its charms.
Because, don't you see, when he's steering the auto,
He has to keep driving with both of his arms.

Uncle Abner

The Japs can't afford to have a war with the United States, because they haven't got time. They are all too busy slidin' down tight wires and kickin' barrels up in the air.

I have heerd of fellers willin' their bodies to medical observatories, but Deacon Stubbs of our midst has broke the record. He has willed his diaphragm to the Silver Cornet Band to be used as a snare drum head. The Deacon is very fond of music.

About the most unfortunate thing I know of is for a temperance lecturer to git a large boil on the end of his nose.

I never yet see the man that would not buy a gold brick if it was done up in the right kind of package.

A man never gets anything in this world if he doesn't ask fer it, and very seldom when he does.

If it wasn't fer love at first sight there would be few marriages. If everybody stopped to take the second look—good-night.

He Will Accept.

Fred Keister, of Pewamo, says: "After several excited conferences with our political advisers and former cohorts, in which we were reduced to the necessity of mauling some of them seriously, if not fatally, we are able to state that we will again be a candidate—at the earnest solicitation of our friends—for associate justice of the Supreme Court of Lyons township, county of Ionia, State of Michigan, U. S. A. We had hoped—very, very faintly, if at all—that when we had finished our present term, that we might be allowed to retire to private life while we were still able to point with pride to the fact that we had never betrayed the interests of the dear common people to the predatory clutches of the money kings of Wall street, Oyster Bay and Emporia, Kansas."

The Black Eye.

He was stooping over the Ford crank when it kicked back and hit him in the eye, placing the optic in deep mourning. That was the truth of it, but these are some of the things he heard from his friends when he walked to his office next day.

"Been having a fight? What's the lady's name?"

"Your wife can throw a rolling pin pretty straight, can't she?"

"You ought to get on the water wagon. Look at me. I haven't had a black eye in nine years."

"Oh, yes, I've heard that automobile crank story before. I guess you ran into a tree, if the truth were known."

"That story will do to tell women and children, but don't hand it to me, old scout."

"Wear glasses and then they won't dare hit you in the eye. It's a penitentiary offense."

"It seems as though when you will fall upstairs you could manage to hit some other portion of your anatomy than your eye, but there is no accounting for tastes."

"What was the bartender sore at you about? Couldn't you leave the place at shutting-up time without being thrown out?"

Over a hundred of the pupils and their friends enjoyed the second leap year dance of the season held in the auditorium of the High School Saturday night.

"Miss Civilization" and "The Mousetrap" will be presented in the High School auditorium next Saturday. There is considerable interest in the first attempt of the second year thespians. Unlike other High School theatricals there will be no reserved seats.

Now that the High School debating team has been eliminated from the race for first honors in the Rutgers College Debating League the members of the team are going to turn their efforts toward the Tri-School League formed with Battin High School and Trenton High School. Plainfield will have to have two teams in the league and it is probable that Borden, Backer and Williams, who formed the Rutgers team, will compose one and Miss Olive Lawrence, who was alternate, will be one of the members of the other team.

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME...

"THE CENSOR IS MIGHTIER THAN THE PENCIL"

- Proctor's Theatre -

A more pretentious array of photoplay attractions than is daily being presented at Proctor's cannot be assembled under one program and that popular theatre is regarded as one of the leading photoplay houses in this section of the State. Today's program consists of "The Ballet Girl," a William A. Brady production featuring Alice Brady and Holbrook Blinn. This is a highly entertaining offering, the plot being strong in suspense and possessing a sustaining element of mystery that holds the interest until the finale. In addition today, the world-wide favorite of both the young folks and the older ones as well, Charlie Chaplin, appears in a side-splitting offering of boisterous hilarity entitled, "Shanghaied." Tomorrow one of the daintiest of screen stars, Dorothy Gish, will make her appearance in a quaintly charming story of adventure in an old New England village entitled "Betty of Greystone," in which Miss Gish is given plenty of opportunity to captivate her audiences by her artistic and delightful personality. The third episode of "Mary Page" will also be an attraction at Proctor's tomorrow, while Wednesday, William Farnum, one of the greatest of dramatic stars, will appear in one of his typical powerful productions, entitled "Fighting Blood," a vehicle which shows this favorite's wonderful talents to good advantage, and Wednesday will also see the appearance of the fourth episode of "The Iron Claw," with vivacious and fearless Pearl White in the leading part. Thursday, one of the greatest sensations of this season, namely, Billie Burke in "Peggy," will be the headline feature at Proctor's. This is positively Miss Burke's first venture into the realm of the silent stage, and the vehicle in which she makes her debut is a mammoth eight reel Triangle production that cost over $200,000 to produce. This is bound to create a furore among the local film fans.

∴ Plainfield Theatre ∴

The management of the Plainfield theatre will present as the attraction this afternoon and evening "The Bostonians" burlesque company, and patrons of the house may look forward to an entertainment bristling with novel and entertaining features. This company, which for the past five seasons has toured the country establishing a new "High Tide Mark" and with gratifying success, is peculiarly fitted to present the best and brightest in burlesque and vaudeville. It has been equipped at great expense with a complete new scenic outfit and with costumes that will be a delight to the eye and that will make the stage pictures gorgeous and fascinating.

"The Princess Pat," the new comic opera by Victor Herbert and Henry Blossom, and produced by John Cort, will appear at the Plainfield Theatre Wednesday, March 29. Victor Herbert's score is said to be distinctive and pleasing and contains more than twenty numbers, the most popular being, "Two Laughing Eyes," "Love is Best of All," "All For You," "For Better or For Worse," "In Day Dreams," "I Wish I Was an Island in an Ocean of Girls," and "I Need Affection." The book and lyrics are by Henry Blossom, Mr. Herbert's co-artist in many other pleasant productions. In the plot of the opera Mr. Blossom has taken happy advantage of the well-proven liking for the story of the wife who deliberately schemes to make her husband jealous in order that, at the end of the adventure, he will love her more. The opera will be presented with a cast of rare excellence among the most prominent being Ruth Welch, Georgia Sregario, Effie Toye, Paul Nicholson, Tote Marks, Philip H. Ryley, Earl Benham, Henry Vincent, Ben Hendricks, Edward Metcalf and Francis Bryan. The plot which is in three acts is staged by Fred G. Latham and the settings presenting the garden of a country house, a living room and the smoking romm of a swagger hunt club are tasteful and solid. Mr. Cort has spared no expense in making the production of "The Princess Pat" complete and real in every detail.

JERSEY'S TOLL ROADS NOW ALMOST ALL GONE

In striking contrast to Pennsylvania's predicament, New Jersey is now almost free of toll roads. The only one in the northern part is that portion of the Bergen turnpike in Hudson county—four miles long. Negotiations are now under way for the purchase of this stretch by the county. The roads from Camden to Woodbury, Woodbury to Mullica Hill, Quinton to the Cumberland-Salem line and from Bridgeton to Millville are still toll roads. The total length of these is thirty-three miles. It is proposed this year to purchase the Woodbury-Mullica Hill turnpike, which is eleven miles long. Hence it is probable that before summer travel opens the State will have only eighteen miles of toll roads in its entire area.

Toll bridges, too, are disappearing. There are only three within the State, but more than a score link the New Jersey and Pennsylvania roads across the Delaware River.

EVERY MEMBER OF CHORUS A SOLOIST

Musurgia Sixteen Comprises Talented and Well Known Singers From New York.

The Musurgia concert to be given on Tuesday night for the benefit of the Charity Organization Society, it is believed, will be one of the best that has been given in the city for many years. The society has been successful in securing the services of the first professional male chorus that has sung in Plainfield for a long period. Of the sixteen men who constitute the chorus, nearly everyone is a solo singer in one of the New York city churches. These men have sung together so long that they sing as one man.

The numbers are most of them popular in their nature and those who have heard the club's New York concerts state that such numbers as the very familiar "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny" and "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes" are greeted with the greatest enthusiasm by New York audiences. One number will be assigned to Miss Paula Crosby, the soprano soloist, and she will also sing the solo parts in two numbers, accompanied by the male chorus.

The men will come in a body on the train reaching Plainfield at 8:04 and will leave on the 10:30 express the same evening so that the concert will be over by 10:30. They will be met at the station by automobiles furnished by the directors of the Charity Organization Society and the concert will begin promptly at 8:30.

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

If the members of the Common Council are wise they will have no secrecy about the forthcoming investigation of the Fire Department. So far as I remember there have been two such investigations since I have been in Plainfield; one after the fire in the Babcock building, the other after a disgraceful fight in one of the engine houses. In both these cases the investigations were made in secret and resulted in more or less complete whitewashing. The conditions found to exist were simply disgraceful and the public had a right to know the facts.

At the present time it is fair to say that the Fire Department does not command the confidence of the community. I was an eyewitness of the Power fire and of my own knowledge water was not in use until more than fifteen minutes after the first alarm. A prominent city official said to me that the work of the firemen at the Jewett fire was a "public scandal." Mr. Doane has a host of friends who respect him and wish him well, but it is no reflection on him to say that a man who has passed the scriptural limit of three score and ten is too old for the exacting duties of chief of the Fire Department. I hope that the coming investigation will be thorough, and will be public, and that it be made not to whitewash any one, or to punish anyone, but solely to determine why the service is so faulty. If the trouble lies at the top Mr. Doane can be allowed to resign with the honor due to a long and faithful service and he will carry with him the respect of a host of friends and acquaintances.

He Took the Skins to His Lady Love.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

What Happened To the Giant Hunter, Orion.

"I KNOW an interesting story of a hunter whose name was Orion," said daddy, while Jack and Evelyn nestled on a little chair beside him.

"Was Orion an Irishman, daddy?" asked Jack.

Daddy smiled. "No, my dear; he was a Greek, the son of the sea god Neptune, who, you remember, had control of all the waters and tides. Orion was a very handsome chap, big as a giant, and he was so fond of hunting that he made a business of clearing the island he lived on of all wild animals. His father, Neptune, was so fond of him that he gave him the power of wading through the sea. If you and I, Jack, should try to walk on the water we would surely sink. But Orion could walk in water, with just his head sticking out, miles of it, without even getting tired.

"Now, Orion loved a beautiful Greek girl by the name of Merope, who was a king's daughter. All the while he was clearing his island of wild animals he took their wonderful skins as presents to his ladylove—gorgeous leopards' with black and yellow spots; huge, brave lions' with tawny stripes and no end of small beasts that happened to get in his way."

"Did his ladylove like the skins, daddy?" Evelyn wanted to know.

"The lady liked them, but her daddy did not! The king would not let her marry Orion. So this strapping hunter decided to take his lady by force, just as he did everything else. Angry at his rudeness, the king made Orion drink a very strong kind of wine. Then he put out his eyes and threw him into the sea. Unable to see which way he was going, the blinded hunter followed the sound of the Cyclop's hammer till he came to one of them, who kindly gave him a guide to lead him to the palace of the sun. So Orion put this guide on his strong shoulders and walked east till he came to the palace, where the sun god touched Orion's eyes with a sunbeam. This gave him back the gift of sight.

"But he no longer cared to go back to his island and his ladylove. Something beautiful had been destroyed as well as his eyesight, you see. So he stayed out in the woods and hunted with the lovely goddess of the hunt, Diana, and she became so fond of him that it is said she wanted to marry him. But her brother, Apollo, was very disagreeable about it and made his sister's life quite unhappy. One day he saw Orion wading out in the sea with only his head sticking out of the water. 'Look, sister!' he cried. 'See that black thing in the water over there? You couldn't hit it if you tried!'

"Now, Diana was a proud, willful girl, and she did not like to be dared. So she sent an arrow straight as lightning, and soon the waves rolled the dead body of Orion back to her on the shore," daddy finished.

Marrying for Money

BY MRS EVA LEONARD

Sick With Today's Grief, Marian Dreams Not of Greater Trials to Come.

"Why, what is the matter, Puss?" Dudley came into the den and found Marian lying on the couch sobbing convulsively. She paid no attention to the question and Dudley sat down by her side and began smoothing the tumbled hair.

"What is the matter? Has anything new happened?" He tried to turn the tear-stained face toward him

"Nothing new needs to happen. Everything has happened that could spoil our lives. We have no home; daddy is badgered nearly sick, and you are devoting your spare moments to making that Blakely girl's visit pleasant—"

"Why, Marian!" interrupted Dudley in surprise.

"It's true! I have not had a chance to see you for the last two weeks. It was bad enough before, when we had to come up here to see anything of each other, but now I have lost you as well as my home and all the rest." Marian covered her eyes with her handkerchief to give her undivided attention to her grief.

Dudley shook her gently by the shoulders saying, "Nonsense, Marian, what an imagination you have. We have enough genuine trouble without trumping up imaginary grievances to swell the sum. I can't treat a guest in the house impolitely just because her name is Blakely."

"She is no guest of ours. I do not see why you are called to devote yourself to her," blazed the girl, removing her wet handkerchief from her eyes.

"Devoted myself to her!" exploded Dudley. "What do you mean? I have treated her civilly, that is all."

"Some people have very extensive ideas of what civility requires," was the peevish answer.

Dudley perceived that in her present mood an appeal to reason was of no use, so he used his strongest plea, one that rarely failed with his sister.

"Marian, you are making me very unhappy. I would not hurt you for the world. You surely do not want to give me pain."

"I should say I didn't want to give you pain." The girl's arms stole around his neck. "But I have been so miserable. Daddy is not like himself. I do not believe he is well, and I felt as if I had lost you, too, you who are all I have." Tears began to flow again.

"Don't you care. She can't stay much longer, and——"

"It's surely time to begin to hope," interrupted the girl, smiling through her tears. "She's been here over five weeks."

"So, we'll just make the best of a bad business and help each other to the end."

"To the end," echoed the girl, kissing him. "I can bear anything if I have you to help me.' She did not know how soon she would be called upon to show the truth of her statement.

The two sat and talked till Dudley, pulling out his watch, exclaimed: "We must go to supper. Tupper will be waiting now, I am afraid."

"You go on. My eyes are too red to face the enemy. After you are all at the table I can sneak up to my room and Tupper will give me something to eat in the kitchen after they are safely out of the way." She smiled a farewell to him as he ran down the stairs."

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

To Dry Sweater—After washing a sweater, instead of hanging on the line, place it loosely in a cloth bag or pillow slip and when dry it will fit like new.

Stain Remover—Use lemon peel, after the juice has been partly squeezed out, to rub stains from silverware; also to remove fruit stains from your fingers.

To Hasten Cooking—Add a pinch of baking powder to meat or vegetables which you wish to hasten cooking. It is much better than soda for the purpose, as there is no danger of giving the food an alkaline taste.

Knife Sharpener—Instead of rubbing knives over crocks, get a piece of emery cloth and tack it on a piece of wood. Two or three strokes of the knife across this will put a surprisingly keen edge on the tool. Dull hat pins, needles, etc., can be renewed on this handy instrument.

BLOSSOMING GREENERY FOR THE TABLE.

Into a glass bowl put some pebbles. Slip a few begonias and some ordinary "wandering Jew" and stick between pebbles.

Fill bowl with tepid water and in a couple of weeks it will make a beautiful green centerpiece. The begonias will blossom continually. The youngsters will delight in watching them grow. Keep adding water when necessary.

THE TABLE

Nut Bread for Sandwiches—One egg beaten light, one cup sweet milk, one cup granulated sugar, one cup rolled nuts, four cups flour, 2½ teaspoons baking powder. Bake forty minutes in moderate oven.

Salad Dressing—Two tablespoons sugar, one heaping tablespoon flour, one-half teaspoon mustard, one teaspoon salt, two eggs, one cup of diluted vinegar, a few drops of red pepper extract. Cook mixture in double boiler and mix with whipped cream, one part dressing to two parts cream.

Lemon Pie—Make pastry and fill with lemon filling, using whipped cream on top in place of the customary meringue.

Sweetbread Patties—Make patty shell of regular pastry dough. An outfit for cutting dough for patties consists of a small size cookie cutter, for foundation, and another cutter making rings of the same size. Brush each piece with melted butter, place in pan carefully and bake. Then put three pastry rings on the foundation pieces, fill with mixture, and for lid use one of the centers of the rings.

Sauce—Beat one-half cup of heavy cream until stiff, add one-quarter teaspoon salt, little red pepper and gradually stir in two tablespoons of vinegar or lemon juice, then add one cucumber or chopped olives.

Crullers—Two eggs, one cup sugar, 1¼ cups sweet milk, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon baking powder. Flour enough to roll out. Cut with a knife and twist. Spice if you like.

Molded Salmon—One can salmon, one-half tablespoon flour, one teaspoon mustard, dash of cayenne, yolks of two eggs, one-half tablespoon butter, three-fourths cup of milk, one-fourth cup vinegar, three-fourths tablespoon of gelatin soaked in two tablespoons cold water. Make same as cooked salad dressing. Then add gelatin and mix with salmon. Before mixing pour hot water over salmon and drain. Put in individual molds and serve with cucumber or olive sauce.

Veal Pot Pie—Cut about two pounds of fat veal into small pieces and put over fire in cold water. Cook about one hour; do not boil rapidly as that makes the meat tough. At the end of the hour add salt and pepper and a handful of rice. When it boils again add several potatoes and drop dumplings.

Nut Pudding—One cup molasses, one cup suet (chopped), one cup sweet milk, two and one-half cups flour, one-half teaspoon nutmeg, one teaspoon soda, one-half teaspoon salt, one pound English walnuts (chopped), one-fourth pound figs (chopped). Steam two and one-half hours.

Nut Loaf—One cup brown sugar, one egg, two cups sweet milk, two cups each white and graham flour, one teaspoon salt, four teaspoons baking powder, half cup nut meats. Sift baking powder with white flour. Mix well and bake one hour.

METHODISTS TO MEET IN NEWARK

Fifty-ninth Annual Conference Will Be Held There on March 27.

3 QUESTIONS PENDING

They are to Unify Several Branches of Church, to Elect Racial Bishops, and to Name Superintendents Permanently.

When the Newark Methodist Conference assembles for its fifty-ninth annual session at the Halsey Street church, Newark, on March 29, it will have its interest centered principally on a number of subjects which are to be discussed at the quadrennial session of the General Conference in Saratoga next May. Among these will be the proposition to unify the several branches of Methodism, a plan to elect bishops for races and nationalities, and a proposal to remove the time limit of the district superintendency, making appointment to such office permanent during the efficiency of the incumbent.

Among other matters of purely State interest is the election of delegates to represent the conference at the Saratoga session, an expected report from the social service commission which has been making a study of conditions in urban, suburban and rural communities, and the pastoral appointments to be announced by Bishop Luther B. Wilson, of New York, who will preside.

The unification project involves the amalgamation of the Methodist church, North and South, and the establishment of what is being referred to as the American Methodist church. The plan is to form four sectional general conferences, one North, one South and one West, with another composed of the colored contingency of the Northern church, working under racial bishops. The project has already been definitely acted upon by the Southern church at its General Conference last year, and needs only the concurrent action of the Northern body to make it effective.

Of the three proposals, it is expected that the strongest opposition will be directed toward that seeking the indefinite extension of the term of district superintendents. Many men, not only in the local conference, but throughout the church, not only disapprove of this proposal, but are, as well, opposed to the continuance of what they term an expensive and inefficient office. In making this characterization they have no reference to the men occupying the post, but simply to the fact that it serves no real purpose, except as a buffer between those having authority—the bishops, and those feeling authority, the pastors. As an indication of the expensiveness of this supervision, it is called to attention that approximately $980,000 annually is expended in salaries.

Preceded on Tuesday by the examination of candidate for admission to conference on trial, the conference proper will be inaugurated with a celebration of holy communion at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. Organization and roll call will follow at 11 o'clock, according to the program now complete, after which the time will be given over to a memorial service.

Coincident with the conference session Wednesday afternoon, the Women's Foreign Missionary Society will have its anniversary meeting, under the leadership of Conference President Mrs. J. H. Knowles. Addresses will be made by Dr. Mary Stone and Miss Jennie V. Hughes, both of Kinkian, China. A meeting in the interest of the Centenary Fund and Preachers' Aid Society, during which recognition will be paid the one hundredth anniversary of the death of Bishop Asbury, will be held at 8 o'clock at night. Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, of Plymouth church, Brooklyn, will be the speaker.

Of particular interest in the program for Thursday is a conference in the interest of religious education. Then the speakers, Dr. J. M. Avanau, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, Gary, Ind., and Dr. Edgar L. Blake will tell of the system prevailing at Gary. The annual meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society is also scheduled for this afternoon, but at 2 o'clock Mrs. George E. Backus will preside. The speaker will be Mrs. May Leonard Woodruff, national corresponding secretary.

Bishop Wilson will deliver his annual address to conferences Friday morning, at which time the class will be received into full membership. Following this "Home Missions and Church Extension" will be discussed by Dr. Freeman D. Bovard, corresponding secretary. The Laymen's Association meeting will be held at Halsey Street church, and the anniversary of Epworth League marked with a meeting and service at Central church on Friday night. In connection with the former the death of Bishop Asbury will be commemorated and an address made by Dr. Ezra S. Tipple, of Drew Seminary.

Preceded by a love feast conducted by Rev. P. C. Bascom at 9:30 o'clock, Sunday morning, public worship will be held at 10:30 o'clock, when Bishop Wilson will preach. Ordination of deacons and elders will be administered at 2:30 o'clock Dr. Wallace MacMullin, of Drew Seminary, will preach at the evening service.

It is anticipated that the conference will come to adjournment Monday night, although plans are being made for a short business session on the morning following, in event of the inability of Bishop Wilson and his cabinet to comlpete the pastoral assignments earlier. A rally in the interest of temperance will be held Monday night at 8 o'clock, during which the Close-Poulson debate will be staged.

Comparatively few changes will be made in the pastoral assignments, and these, with but few exceptions, will affect the larget charges in the conference. At least three men will retire from active ministerial duties. These are Rev. Dr. Addison Wilbur Hayes, pastor of Madison church, and Rev. Dr. A. B. Richardson, pastor of Wesley church, Paterson, and Rev. Thomas Hall, of Davis Memorial church, Harrison.

A Great National Public Utility

That concerns all merchants and all people

THE original Cash Register rang a bell, indicated and recorded the amount of the purchase. It benefited the merchant only.

In a third of a century this old model has developed into a Cash Register that directly benefits every man, woman and child who spends money in a store.

This new Cash Register equally concerns every merchant and clerk, every banker and wholesaler in this land.

It furnishes every customer with a receipt or sales slip.

It prints on this the amount paid or charged.

On this is also printed the date of the sale and who made it.

It forces a duplicate, printed record for the merchant.

It prevents disputes over charges and bills paid.

It saves shoppers' time.

It gives the merchant all his profits. It gives him more money for his family.

It promotes more and quicker sales.

It protects each clerk against making errors and against the mistakes of others.

It rewards the diligent clerk by telling his employer which one makes the largest number of sales and which one gets the greatest amount of business.

It assures the banker additional security for the money he loans the merchant.

It gives the wholesaler additional assurance that the merchant will have money to pay his bills.

It furnishes the banker and the wholesaler mechanical evidence that the merchant's statement of his business is correct.

It is a business necessity.

Thursday night—New Brunswick at Elizabeth.

Bowling in the Elks' League will soon be over. Only two matches are left in the Junior League and one in the big circuit. The Seniors' last match is scheduled for Thursday night, at Elizabeth. Paterson will roll both the remaining Junior League tilts, one at home against Plainfield and the other at Newark.

Second money in the Senior League and third in the colts' loop are still at stake. New Brunswick, by winning three games from Rutherford, Saturday night, crawled up one game behind Elizabeth, and needs three game Thursday night to wind up in second position. Two wins will make a roll-off necessary, while an Elizabeth victory will give the Betsytowners second place. In the Junior League, Newark can tie Elizabeth for third money by taking three straight from Paterson.

Rutherford ended in ninth place, two games behind Plainfield. The team was outclassed Saturday night, the homesters rolling 988, 932 and 921. Charley McCormick averaged 204.2. He hit 226 and 204. Bastedo shot 200 and 204, and Smith 207.

NEWS FROM TRAINING CAMPS

Houston Fans Tease Kauff.

Houston, Texas, March 20.—The Houston Buffaloes defeated the Giants for the first time this season yesterday, scoring a shut-out victory, 2 to 0. "Bill" Ritter, who started the game in the box for New York, was batted rather hard, seven hits and both of the Houston runs being made off his delivery.

The crowd had a lot of fun with "Benny" Kauff, and the fact that he could get but one hit, and a single at that, in four times at bat rather pleased the fans, and he was bombarded with shouts of "That doesn't look much like Ty Cobb!" but "Benny" refused to get mad and joked with the crowd.

Giantlets Slug Hard.

Galveston, Texas, March 20.—John McGraw was in charge of his second team yesterday that defeated the Galvestons, of the Texas League, here, 7 to 2. The Giants outbatted their opponents, fifteen hits to four, and the extra base clouts included a home run by Jacobson over the right field fence and doubles by Farrell, Kocher and Hunter.

Donovan to Cut Squad.

Macon, Ga., March 20.—The Yankees are now winding up their stay here, as the club will break camp in Macon next Friday, and will open its exhibition schedule in Birmingham next Saturday.

"Bill" Donovan said Saturday that he will leave here with about thirty players, which means that almost a score of players will be turned loose during the week. However, the Yankees will retain options on most of the young players to be let out.

SUMMIT GIRLS WILL PLAY HERE TOMORROW EVENING

At T. A. B. Hall tomorrow night, the St. Mary's Social Club basketball team will endeavor to wrest a win from the Summit Girls' Five, of Summit. A victory has yet to be scored by the Social Club's representatives, but they predict that tomorrow night will see the start of their winning streak. In the other half of the double header, a team composed mostly of Plainfield High School regulars will pit their forces against the T. A. B. S. team.

DUNELLEN WOULD JOIN CITY LOOP

Warry McLaughlin and Louis Dixon Forming Team to Put in Circuit.

HAVE OPTION ON FIELD

Maurer Oval, Built for Central New Jersey League Three Years Ago, Secured—Would Have to Change League Laws to Take in Club.

Warry McLaughlin and Lou Dixon, the popular battery of Dunellen's last Central New Jersey League team, will get up a team to represent Dunellen in the City Baseball League, if an application which they will make to join the league is favorably received by the officials of that body.

This news will be received with joy by the Dunellen fans, for Dunellen has had no representative team since the Central New Jersey League broke up, and the fans are hungry for baseball.

Bob Bogardus, who managed a Dunellen team for a number of years, is assisting McLaughlin and Dixon with the project. Saturday evening he obtained an option on a permit to use Maurer Oval, the ball park built at the time the Central League was formed.

If the application to join the league is favorably acted upon, several dances will be run in the Dunellen theatre for the purpose of obtaining funds to procure new uniforms and to put the ball park in shape.

News that Dunellen would like to get in Plainfield's baseball league comes as a surprise to Plainfielders. On the face of it, there appears to be little chance for the hustling suburb to pry into the circuit, because six teams, all that the organization's laws permit, now hold franchises. Unless the by-laws are amended, the only way a new club can get in is by taking the place of one of the six members, as in the case of the Plainfield A. A., which took the place of the Saurer outfit.

ALL STARS EVEN SERIES WITH INNER-TRIANGLES

The series between the Inner-Triangle Club and the All-Star team, two junior combinations in this city, was evened Saturday afternoon, when the latter five won by the score of 22-12, on the T. A. B. S. court. The rubber game will be played in the near future. The first half was close, the guarding being such that few points were scored, while in the last period the winners, by superior teamwork and shooting, were able to make the necessary points to score the victory.

Barry's spectacular field goals from the middle of the floor had an effect upon the score, while the good shooting of Townley, who dropped in six field goals, had a material effect upon the outcome. The home team was able to score only three field goals, two of which Patterson shot.

The score:

| ALL STARS. | G. | F. | P. |
| Keating, f | 0 | 2 | 2 |

The local team has two more matches to play, the one here next Saturday against Englewood, and the last at Montclair the following week. A victory in either match will give the championship pennant to the Plainfield racqueters.

Y. W. C. A. LOSES AT EASTON IN OVERTIME

Team Plainfield Girls Won From Here Wins at Home by a Scant Margin.

An extra three minutes was necessary to decide the Plainfield Y. W. C. A.-Easton Y. W. C. A. game, which was played at the latter place Saturday night, in favor of the home squad, 19 to 17. At the conclusion of the thirty minutes of play, the score stood 16 to 16. By mutual agreement between the two captains, overtime was to be played until one of the two teams got two points. Miss Ellen Doughty caged a foul goal and Miss Lucy Daler for the Eastonians threw the victorious goal and one foul, giving her team the victory by a score of 19 to 17.

The Easton association girls were defeated here earlier in the season by a score of 15 to 5, but since that time have developed a pretty system of teamwork, which was an obstacle to the locals Saturday night. Following the game, the Plainfielders remained the guests of the Easton girls and returned to this city yesterday afternoon. During the afternoon, yesterday, the Plainfielders were given an opportunity to visit Lafayette College.

GIRLS' BIG GAME WON'T BE PLAYED

Hartford Susquehannas Will Not Come to Terms With Plainfield Five.

Through no fault of the Plainfield Five, the game between the local team and the Susquehanna Girls, of Hartford, Conn., will not be played on April 1, the date first set for the second meeting of the two quintets. Despite efforts of the local management to meet the team half way, the Susquehannas refuse positively to come to this city on April 1, unless their terms are agreed to entirely.

On March 4, the Plainfield Five traveled to Hartford, and suffered a defeat of 12 to 7 at the hands of the Nutmeg State girls, playing under a code of rules with which they were entirely unfamiliar. At that time the local manager wished a return game to be played here under girls' rules, the code under which the locals have been playing. This dissatisfied the Susquehannas, and the Plainfielders immediately compromised by offering to play one half girls' rules and one half modified boys' rules, but even this did not come up to the wishes of the visitors, and as a result, "Chick" Whitney has written his final letter to Miss Clara Smith, calling the game off. In part he says:

"I am awfully sorry, but I guess we will have to call the game off, seeing that we cannot agree as to the rules. I tried to get the girls to play half and half, but they couldn't see it your way. You certainly are right about it not being sportsmanlike not to play half and half. I realize it and so do the girls."

One of the reasons advanced by a Hartford fan is that doubt exists in the minds of spectators of the March 4 game as to the truth of the assertion that the locals never played masculine rules. Their claim is that the Plainfield girls put up too good a game for novices under the intercollegiate rules.

KNIGHTS AND ST. JOSEPH'S MEET IN SAENGERBUND HALL

The Knights of Columbus and St. Joseph's Club will play the final game for the city Catholic basketball championship, in Saengerbund Hall this evening. Both teams have been putting up a good brand of the indoor pastime, and although the Columbians are older and larger than the boroughites, an interesting game is anticipated tonight.

POOL FINALS TODAY.

Chicago, March 20.—One more victory will give Emmett Blankenship, of Detroit, the world's pocket billiard championship, and on form he should win from Ralph Greenleaf, of Monmouth, Ill., in his final game of the tournament today. The event closes with today's games, but in case of ties, extra games will be played. Today Concannon meets Funk, Clark plays Allen, Blankenship and Greenleaf play in the first evening match, and Taberski and Ralph close the schedule.

ALEX. ROSS BREAKS RECORD.

Alex. Ross, of the Detroit Golf Club and Pinehurst, lowered all previous records for the No. 1 course at Pinehurst, when he made a 67 yesterday. His card was:

In ... 5 2 4 3 4 4 3 5 4—34—67

The previous record over the course as it is now arranged was 70, held by the junior metropolitan champion, P. V. G. Carter, Nassau.

S. P. P. H. GIRLS AT HOPE.

The Sunshine Weavers, a girls' basketball team from the Scotch Plains Parish House, will play at Hope chapel this eveinng.

Local Sport News, Views, Reviews and Interviews

M. G. A.'S FORTHCOMING HANDICAP LIST.

There is no reason to expect that the 1916 Metropolitan Golf Association ratings, which will be announced soon, will contain any Plainfield name in a division higher than handicap 6, in which class William T. Glenney was placed last year, not so much because the best local players are not as capable as some ranked handicap 5, and possibly 4, but because they cannot devote the time for participation in many tournaments and for the steady practice necessary for one competing frequently. The ratings are based upon showings in competitions, and when a man is unable to play in any of the invitation or championship tourneys, or at the most, in only one or two during the season, there is little chance of his work attracting enough attention to warrant a higher classification.

Golf, like all other games, requires constant practice, and most of the top notchers are playing practically every day. Two young players, both well known locally, who are sure to be nearer the top than they were last year are Philip Carter, who won his metropolitan junior crown over the Plainfield Country Club links, and Max Marston, the Cranford star. Marston, handicapped 4 last year, won the New Jersey title, and many other cups, and defeated Jerry Travers, the national open champion, in the national amateur. Carter, who was also in class 4 last year, cannot be placed higher than 3.

THE SEMI-PRO BUSINESS MAN—DAVE DRISCOLL.

It wouldn't be a baseball season if Dave Driscoll wasn't promoting the national game in some part of Jersey. The public had to wait longer than usual to learn just where the wily David would be located, and the announcement last week that the former captain of the Plainfield Pets will stage Sunday attractions in West Side Park, Jersey City, shows that Driscoll has been quietly laying plans for the summer season.

Driscoll placed the Hackettstown team in the Tri-County League last year, and in previous seasons put teams in this city and New Brunswick. With the possible exception of Nat Strong, Driscoll is the chief agent of semi-pro ball in the metropolitan district. He is noted for his shrewdness, and his proposition of bringing major league clubs to West Side Park for exhibition games with the Cubans has all the earmarks of being a sound business undertaking. The Cubans are as strong as any nine outside the big show, and if they have any part of the success in Jersey City that they had against big league teams in Long Branch last summer, the fans will flock to the Skeeters' old home in droves.

• • • • • •

HEAVYWEIGHT CROWN WILL STAY ON WILLARD'S HEAD.

"Who is going to win the fight?" is the question being heard wherever Plainfield sport lovers gather. The fight referred to, of course, is the Willard-Moran ten-round bout to be fought in Madison Square Garden, New York, next Saturday night. The usual differences of opinion regarding the outcome are heard, but a large number of critics, including several who generally know whereof they speak, are favoring Moran.

The challenger is undoubtedly in better condition than the champion, but unless the unexpected happens, the title will not change hands. Moran will be more aggressive, and will probably win on points, because it is only natural that Willard should play the safe game and content himself with staying the limit. There is a small chance of there being a knockout, but if it comes at all it will likely be with Jess on the receiving end.

LONG BASKETBALL GAMES.

Basketball games that require more than one extra period are rare, and the fact that two four-session games were played in as many nights by local teams is very unusual. The closest court tilt that a Plainfield quintet has ever been in was the Athenians' battle at Montclair, Thursday night, the score being a tie at the end of the second half, and at the expiration of two extra periods that were played. The deadlock was not played off, or there is no telling what kind of a record for extra innings would have been set. The other match that required two extra cantos was played at Hope Chapel, Friday night, the game finally being decided by one point.

• • • • • •

What a difference a few months make! Last summer, to listen to some of the Organized Baseball men, the Federal League players were a collection of jokes. Since the warring factions came to terms, big league teams have paid five-figure sums for several Fed stars.

• • • • • •

Andy Graef, who bowls with the Newark team of the Elks' Junior League, has an average of 226.3 for six games he has won in the New Jersey individual championship tourney now running on the Weingarth-Whatton alleys in Newark.

BASKETEERS OF TWO HIGH SCHOOLS TO HOLD DANCE

Invitations have been sent out to the members of the girls' and boys' basketball teams of Plainfield High School to attend a dance and reception to be given in their honor, Saturday evening, in the Harrison Avenue School, by the girls' and boys' varsity teams of North Plainfield High School. Each person has the privilege of inviting a guest, so there will be more than eighty present.

The dance is intended primarily to bring the members of both teams into a closer alliance and to promote the friendly spirit which already exists.

PREP STAR WILL ENTER YALE.

Spring football practice at Yale will begin earlier htna usual this year, according to the plans of the head coach, Tad Jones, who arrived here yesterday from Exeter, N. H. Just as soon as weather conditions permit, the entire squad will be called out for drill on the old Yale field.

Jones announced that former Captain Kempton, of Exeter, considered one of the best quarterbacks among Eastern preparatory schools, would enter Yale next fall.

P. H. S. SIX ENDS SEASON AT HOME TOMORROW AFTERNOON

The girls' basketball team of the Plainfield High School will play its last scheduled game of the season on the local school court tomorrow afternoon, when the Battin High School girls come here for the return game of the season. A series of games with the P. E. G. S. girls' basketball team was arranged at the start of the season, but postponements have delayed a meeting so far. A game scheduled for last Friday between the two teams was canceled and it is probable that it may be played next Friday.

Do You Want a "Guest-Tenant?"

When you rent a room of your home to someone, you secure a "guest-tenant." Your "roomer" is a guest of your house, on a business basis—but still a guest, somewhat in touch with your home, and this makes it highly important that the person should be of the right sort.

In advertising a furnished room it is a simple matter to indicate that the tenant-to-be must have reasonably convincing credentials as to character. You will thus have applications from a desirable class of people while a door sign or window card would merely bring to you the chance passer-by.

PICTURES MISERY OF WAR REFUGEES

Mrs. Bertrand Russell, of London, Speaks Here in Behalf of Suffering Poles.

PEOPLE ARE DESTITUTE

Driven From Their Homes They Are Forced to Flee From Battle Zone —Generous Contributions Given to the Cause.

Vivid accounts of the terrible sufferings of Polish refugees in Russia, and of the new units for their relief being organized by the Constitutional suffragists of England, under the leadership of Mrs. Henry Fawcett, was the main thread of the lecture given in the parish house of the Congregational church, last night, when the Hon. Mrs. Bertrand Russell, of London, England, pleaded for contributions for these stricken peoples. Mrs. Russell came to this country at her own expense, occupying second class steamer accommodations in order to save the further expense for the cause which is nearest her heart. At the conclusion of her talk, a collection was taken at the door which will be immediately forwarded to the proper channel for transmission to the needy. Mrs. F. C. Ard, of 604 Park avenue, is willing to receive still further contributions at her home and will see that all are sent to the cause.

In part, Mrs. Russell said: "It is hard for us to realize the hideous misery that has overtaken whole populations of the peasant fold of Poland and Galicia, forced to flee from the battle zone between the opposing armies on the long line of the German-Austrian and Russian front. We have known the martyrdom of the Belgians, and the exodus of helpless thousands, driven from their homes and their country, to take refuge in England. But from Poland, the exodus has been infinitely greater. These refugees had no ships to convey them to a friendly port, but were forced into flight over sparsely populated ——, at the beginning of the awful severity of a Russian winter. The railways being requisitioned for military purposes, thousands, even millions of them, went on foot over the rough tracks which do duty for roads in Poland, east and ever further east, looking for shelter, even as far as Siberia. Though thousands have died on the road, the towns and cities are overcrowded with refugees, and in Petrograd alone there are a million additional inhabitants this winter. Great efforts have been made in Russia, but the country does not exist that could deal adequately in wartime with such an invasion of destitute people. Shelter and food has been provided, but adequate aid for the suffering women and dying children has not yet been organized and their plight is terrible.

"The National Union of Suffrage Societies felt that it must do what it could to meet a need so desperate, and it sent, therefore, through the Joint War Committee of the Red Cross and Order of St. John, a Maternity Unit for Petrograd, consisting of two doctors, matron, nurses and sanitary officer, to be in charge of an administrator, with secretary and almoner. The Unit, which is recognized by the Empress Alexandra, and the patronage of the Grand Duchess Kyrii and of the English Ambassadress, the Lady Georgiana Buchanan. It co-operates with the Tatiana Committee, which devotes itself to work for the refugees, and is named after the Grand Duchess Tatiana, the Emperor's eldest daughter. They telegraphed that the 'need is

REVIVAL PLANS ARE NEARING COMPLETION

James Heaton, of Biederwolf Party, Confers With Local Committee Today.

The Biederwolf campaign headquarters in the Y. M. C. A. building was visited today by James Heaton, of the Biederwolf party. Mr. Heaton, who is a member of the National Quartet and business manager for Dr. Biederwolf, came on noon train from Norristown for the purpose of learning just the status of the different committees, and to make a few suggestions about the completion of the preliminary work.

In company with representatives of the entertainment committee, he visited several houses that are being considered as a possible home for the Biederwolf party during their stay in this city. It is expected that a decision will be made in the next few days.

Later in the afternoon Mr. Heaton met the executive committee assembled for the purpose by W. D. Murray, the chairman. Brief reports of the various committees were submitted. F. R. Stevens, chairman of the building committee, stated that the tabernacle would be in readiness, that the stoves would all be put up, sawdust and shavings covering the ground; that all dampness would be removed and the building made warm, dry and comfortable.

The report of the devotional committee, made by the Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, showed a splendid increase in the cottage prayer meetings. There are about fifty each night at the present time, and this number would be increased to one hundred before the coming of Dr. Biederwolf. Mr. Heaton referred to the tremendous importance of the cottage prayer meeting with the statement that "the cottage prayer meeting is the power plant. We depend on the cottage prayer meeting for spiritual growth, maintaining interest and keeping the people close to the Lord."

The opening date of April 9 was definitely decided upon. Answering a question regarding the schedule of the meetings, he stated that the campaign would begin Sunday morning, April 9, with a union service in the tabernacle at 10:30 and another meeting at 7:30 in the evening. The beginning of the second week afternoon meetings will be held weekdays, except Mondays, beginning at 3, and that on every Sunday, except the first, afternoon meetings will be held, beginning at 2:30 o'clock. The evening meetings during the week will begin at 7:30, and will be held on every night except Mondays.

Mr. Heaton left well pleased with the situation, and said he was looking forward to a great campaign in Plainfield.

After he had been attended by Dr. Lufburrow he was taken to his home.

BATTLESHIP FUND GETTING A BOOST

One Little Fellow Earned His Dime Shoveling Snow and Now His Name is on List.

LETTERS INTERESTING

Kiddies Looking Forward to "Defense or Tribute?" Picture, to Be Shown at Proctor's Friday and Saturday —Proceeds for Ship Fund.

Another batch of Marjorie Sterrett fund letters arrived at the Plainfield Daily Press office this morning, one containing three dimes and the signature of Albert Hedden. Little Mr. Hedden writes: "I want to be one to help build the battleship U. S. S. America, so I am sending three dimes for myself and each of my sisters, Ruth and Helen, which I made shoveling snow. I hope all other boys and girls will help, too." Today's fall of snow will give other little boys and girls an opportunity to collect dimes as Albert did.

Francis Keenan, of 403 New street, is an enthusiastic rooter for "Preparedness," his letter reading as follows: "Enclosed please find my dime as my share towards the battleship 'America.' For one thing, I believe in 'Preparedness,' and will anxiously wait to see our new battleship America proudly sailing on our waters." Francis is eleven years old and his fourteen-year-old brother Harold send this letter:

"Enclosed please find my dime for the building of the battleship 'America.' It is for a most worthy cause, and I hope the money will soon be raised to show pacifists what we, the children of the United States, think of the preparedness plan."

Here's one from little Samuel T. Carter, 3d, who evidently doesn't read the newspapers: "Why don't you start a fund here in Plainfield for Marjorie Sterrett's ship? You'd get a lot of money from the kids here who don't read the New York Tribune. You could send the money to the New York Tribune. I am sending ten cents to start it with, and I hope that you will like the suggestion." Sam will no doubt be surprised to find that his name has lots of company in the list of contributors published below. His letter indicates that he's a wideawake young American, but he should pay a little more attention to the Plainfield newspapers.

These and many other letters have been received by the Plainfield Daily Press since Marjorie Sterrett appointed this newspaper her representative in this district. Considerable interest has been manifested among local school children, and many letters are now being written. All want to be among the patriotic young Americans who are boosting the worthy project, and those who neglect the opportunity will regret it when the big ship is christened.

Plans have been completed for the presentation of the Marjorie Sterret motion picture films, "Defense or Tribute?" under the auspices of the Plainfield Daily Press, in Proctor's Theatre, next Friday and Saturday afternoon and evening. The list of cotributors to date includes the following:

FIRE PROBE SET FOR NEXT WEEK

Lyle Charges to Be Taken up by the Council Tuesday Night.

DOANE WELCOMES IT

All Witnesses Are to Be Present for Examination—Hearing Will Be Public and Taxpayers May Attend.

A public hearing of charges that the Plainfield Fire Department was destructive and inefficient in fighting the Lyle fire on the night of January 18 has been ordered by the fire committee of the Common Council for Tuesday night, March 28. It will be held in the Council Chamber and all taxpayers will be permitted to attend and hear any evidence submitted.

A date for the hearing was decided upon at last night's meeting of the fire committee. J. Irvine Lyle, who recently addressed a letter to the Council charging Chief Doane and members of the department with inefficiency, will be asked to be present and to submit whatever evidence he may have to substantiate his accusations. Mr. Lyle has already given to the Council written statements from a number of eyewitnesses to the fire at his home, but he will be asked to have these persons present so that they can be examined by members of the committee or by any member of the Council.

Chief Doane will be present and it is likely that he will be called upon to testify in defense of his work that night and of that of the department in general. Captain Townley, Captain Mehl and other officers of the department will also be present.

Chief Doane welcomes the investigation. He recently addressed a letter to the Council in whiche he demanded that a public hearing be called in order that charges made by Mr. Lyle be either substantiated or disproved and his wish is carried out in the latest action of the fire committee.

The hearing will be informal and no attorneys will be allowed Mr. Lyle or Choef Doane. Questions will be asked by the chairman of the committee or by some member and every effort will be made to have the truth brought out. It will begin at 8 p. m. and will probably attract a large crowd.

BORO MAN SUES OWNER OF AUTO

Louis Sutherlein Asks $1,300 From W. Taverner as Result of Accident.

Louis Sutterlein, of North Plainfield, has begun suit against William Taverner, of Westfield, to recover damages in the amount of $1,300 as a result of an accident which occurred March 4 on Martine avenue, between Scotch Plains and Fanwood, when the automobile of Taverner struck a wagon being driven by Sutterlein. Robert Newton Crane, of Plainfield, represents the complainant.

It is likely that the accident will lead to charges against E. R. Collins, a special State motor vehicle inspector at Westfield. Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Dill had a hearing in Newark yesterday in which it was brought out that Collins had failed to make a prompt report on the accident. Sutterlein told Mr. Dill that Collins had tried to "square" things for Taverner, asking for leniency because the auto owner was a respectable man in the community.

Sutterlein claims that Taverner ran into the rear of a road wagon which he (Sutterlein) was driving and demolished the wagon and injured the horse as well as himself. Sutterlein claims that Taverner had no lights on his automobile and that as soon as the accident happened he made his getaway.

In addition to the suit, Taverner was summoned before State Motor Commissioner Dill at Newark, to show cause why his automobile license should not be revoked for violation of the automobile laws and for not stopping after the accident had happened.

Suterlein is a painter and paperhanger and was on his way home when the accident happened.

Taverner has retained Augustus C. Nash, of Plainfield, to look after his interests in the case.

DEATH SUMMONS W. F. WILLIAMS

Widely Known Borough Resident Passes Away Without Any Warning.

AN OLD COMMUTER

Traveled 575,000 Miles to And From New York During Nearly Forty Years of Business Life—An Authority on Blooded Cattle.

Without any previous intimation of fatal illness, death came suddenly last night to William Frederick Williams, for neary forty years a resident of the borough, and regarded throughout the metropolitan district as one of the country's best authorities on thoroughbred Jersey cattle and blooded horses. The end came at his home, 136 Somerset street, following a coughing spell which seized him shortly after he had retired at about 12 o'clock, having spent the evening with his family and in reading. He summoned his wife and daughter, and hurry calls were sent for Drs. Zeglio and Buchanan. The former arrived just before death ensued, but was unable to afford any relief. Heart exhaustion is ascribed as the direct cause of death.

William F. Williams, or "Barney," as his hundreds of friends chose to call him, through the application of the nickname when only in his 'teens, was one of the most familiar personages in the two Plainfields. He was born at Salem, Connecticut, seventy-two years ago, but removed to the borough about 1878, making his home there ever since. His business interests were always in New York, and only last Sunday, while in the midst of a family group, figured up that he had traveled 575,000 miles on the New Jersey Central Railroad as a commuter. He had gone backward and forward to his work practically every week day without cessation for all the years that he lived here, and his record is one that is equaled by few local residents.

When a young man, Mr. Williams entered the employ of the Peter Kellogg Company, in New York, which conducted a big auction business in pedigreed cattle and trotting horses. Through his continual tracing of records, Mr. Williams became an authority on the subject, and times without number was called upon as a final resort in disputes between stock men and buyers. Although he never owned a trotting horse himself, he was a lover of the sport, and always assisted in its promotion when he knew that it would be conducted as a clean pastime and not as a means of abetting games of chance. He was one of the earliest members of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Association, and acted as its secretary for many years. In this capacity he was a familiar figure at tracks throughout New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, and associations everywhere secured information from him as to the proper manner of holding race meets and classifying horses. The late J. Wesley Johnson, owner of one of the finest trotting stables Plainfield has ever known, and owner of the driving park on Park avenue, since sold by the estate for realty development, named one of his fastest and finest horses "Barney Williams," in honor of the secretary, who could quote trotting figures as easily as a schoolboy rattled off the alphabet.

Mr. Williams remained with the Kellog Company until the death of Peter Kellog, after which he associated himself with the well-known firm of A. G. & C. D. Williams, of New York, dealers in all kinds of high-grade leather goods. The concern has a large tannery and plant just outside of Newark. He occupied a position of trust and confidence with the concern, and frequently made trips to various parts of the country in its behalf. While traveling to and from New York he became acquainted with commuters all along the main line and branches of the New Jersey Central, and there is hardly a city or two in the State where he has not at least a dozen acquaintances. When Plainfield Lodge of Elks was organized in 1903 he was one of its early members, but secured his demit a few years ago. He never affiliated with any other organization, and though he took a keen interest in the municipal affairs of the city and borough, he never sought public office. His personality was a most attractive one, democratic to the extreme. To know him was to meet him on equal terms, and he responded to the salute of "Hello, Barney," from young and old. He had always enjoyed good health, a fact which made the suddenness of his death all the more acute to his family and immediate friends.

Beside his wife, Mr. Williams is survived by three daughters and two sons. These are: Mrs. Blanchard Randolph, of Albert street; the Misses Julia and Isabelle Williams, residing at the parental home; Fred Williams, of New York, and Harry Williams, of Arlington avenue. The funeral will be held at the lat home, Thursday afternoon, at 2:30, and will be in charge of Rev. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

The bill gives to municipalities of the class of Plainfield the right to issue bonds in the amount of $150,000 for public buildings. Under the law now in effect $100,000 is the maximum for this purpose. If it is not passed the proposed new municipal building cannot be completed during the present year.

NEW CHURCH WILL NOT BE READY EASTER SUNDAY

The magnificent new edifice of St. John's parish will not be ready for dedication on Easter, as had been hoped. With the exception of slating the roof and finishing touches here and there, the outside work is completed, but the inside work, which has progressed to the point where the plasterers are ready to commence work on the walls, is being held up through the delay in getting slate, which was shipped over two weeks ago. Owing to the great congestion in freight, the consignment of slate has been lost in transit and has yet to be located.

In view of the present state of affairs, Rev. E. J. Dunphy, the popular rector of the parish, told a representative of the paper that he wouldn't care to venture a guess as to when the church would be ready to be dedicated.

The new church reflects the growth of the borough and is a credit to the municipality in every way. Even in its present state, with its grounds yet to be graded and seeded, it is a structure of stately beauty and passersby are wont to pause and gaze in admiration upon it.

ANNUAL SCHOOL MEETING WILL BE HELD TONIGHT

The annual school meeting will be held in the Whittier School this evening, when the budget for the coming year will be presented to the voters and three members elected to the Board. The members whose terms expire are A. F. Todd, Mahlon R. Dayton and A. J. Hamley. It is understood that all three are candidates for re-election. The amount of the budget is $14,050. Of this amount, $12,600 is for current expenses; $800 for building and repairing schools, and $650 for manual training. A printed report of school affairs, prepared by the Board of Education and circulated in pamphlet form broadcast throughout the borough last week, has stimulated an interest in school matters, and indications point to a good-sized attendance tonight.

"TRUCE SIGNED" AFTER FAMILY JARS ARE AIRED

On the complaint of his wife, who alleged that he drove her and her six children out of the house, Saturday evening, Charles Finchot, of South avenue, was arraigned before Recorder David S. Campbell, in the borough court last evening. According to the evidence produced in court, a "star boarder" was the cause of a dispute which arose between husband and wife, and in Mrs. Finchot and her children being driven from their home. They sought refuge in the home of John Chopin, on Dunellen avenue, and remained there until the hearing resulted in a truce being signed by wife and husband under the fatherly direction of Dunellen's venerable judge. Finchot, who, his wife charged, spent too much money and abused her, promised to do better; and upon his signing a pledge to this effect, his wife agreed to return to him, and the entire family went home.

FUNERAL SERVICE OF MARION F. WILSON HELD

The funeral of Marion Frances Wilson, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Alfred Wilson, who died on March 16, was held at the home yesterday afternoon. The service was conducted by the girl's pastor, Rev. H. L. Polan, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist Church, New Market. A duet, "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," was sung by Miss Edna Burdick and Miss Ethel Rogers, and a solo, "Nearer My God to Thee," sung by Mrs. H. L. Polan.

The floral tributes were beautiful and bore evidence of the esteem in which Marion was held by relatives, neighbors and friends, and by her schoolmates and teachers.

Burial was at Hillside Cemetery, Plainfield. The bearers were C. M. Pryne, Frank Burdick, Milton Randolph and Byron Burdick, members of the Young Men's Bible Class, to which the father belongs.

Marion was born at New Brunswick on June 30, 1902. Her sweet and patient disposition and conscientious spirit endeared her to many hearts. Her greatest interests in life were her day school, her Sabbath school, Junior Christian Endeavor and her home, and in these her sincerity and devotion were most deeply felt.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Pfeister, of Front street, entertained Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pfeister, of Bound Brook, Sunday.

Mrs. William A. Craig attended the funeral of her uncle, John Ruple, at Flemington, yesterday.

The friends of Mrs. James Murphy will be pleased to learn that she is improving at the St. Peter's Hospital, New Brunswick.

Mrs. G. H. Buckle, of Dunellen avenue, entertained her brother, Mr. Tipling, of Newark, over the week-end.

A. E. Smith, of Front street, who submitted to an operation for eye trouble last week, is still confined to his home.

EUCHRE MATCH.

A complaint against him was made by the disillusioned wife. Johnson and his wife, colored, live at 309 Arlington avenue. Yesterday the woman called at police headquarters several times asking that her husband be arrested before he came home. She said he was down town drinking and that he had threatened to show her who was boss when he got back. Johnson eluded the police and managed to get home shortly before 6 p. m. ## WILL NOT INCREASE SCHOOL FACILITIES

Borough Board of Education Decide Not to Build During Present Year.

The present school facilities will have to do for the coming year it was decided at the adjourned meeting of the Borough Board of Education held last evening. It had been proposed to submit to the voters at the district meeting this evening one or two propositions, viz.: Either to build a new school in the east end or to make an addition to the Harrison Avenue School. The present congested condition will be relieved instead by putting the classes on part time. For example certain classes will be conducted in the morning from 8:30 until 10:30 and other section from 10:30 until 12:30. At 12:30 the first section will return until 2:30 when it will be dismissed for the day, and the second section will return at 2:30 and be dismissed for the day at 4:30.

A communication received from W. G. Debele offering to sell his hall for school purposes was tabled. A committee of which John Campbell was chairman submitted its report in connection with setting a maximum amount for teachers' salaries. In this report which was approved and accepted, the maximum amount to be paid the superintendent was set at $3,000, that of the High School teachers at $1,800 and that of the grammar and primary teachers at $1,200.

The scheme of saving banks for the schools was tabled because the Board didn't think its adoption advisable.

District Clerk Rowley's report was read and accepted. It will be re-read at the district meeting tonight. The new Board will hold a meeting after the district session this evening. The Board will meet for reorganization on April 3.

BORO ORDERS FIRE WAGON MADE HERE

Contracts Awarded for Remodeling of Old Fire House.

The new automobile combination chemical and hose wagon for the borough fire department will be made by the International Motor Company. The bid of this company was accepted at last night's special meeting of the Council. Chairman Stahl of the fire commitee, to which all bids for apparatus and for the remodeling of the fire hall so that it can be used as a central building for all borough offices, submitted a report on the offers which was accepted. The bid of the International Motor Company for the new apparatus was for $4,200, less $1,200 for the old wagon and two horses. This included new equipment entirely but the chemical tanks on the old wagon are in good condition and will be used again, thus cutting $500 off the bid. The apparatus is to be delivered at once. Contracts for the work of remodeling were awarded to the following firms, all of Plainfield or North Plainfield: Mason work, Townley Brothers, $1,080; carpenter work, George Forgerson, $999.90; painting work, Woolston and Buckle, $215; electrical work, Allen B. Laing Company, $107. All of the contracts are to be started as soon as possible and will be finished within a short time.

Newark, March 21.—Upon the recommendation of Special Master Nicholas W. Bindseil, a decree of divorce has just been granted to Mrs. Flossie M. Williams from her husband, John J. Williams, on the ground of desertion. The couple was married in June, 1904, the bride being Miss Flossie Johnson, of Cranford. At the time she was employed in Plainfield as a telegraph operator. Later, her husband deserted her.

The announcement of the marriage was made two weeks after it was performed. The couple lived in Cranford for a short time, and they then removed to Elizabeth. Mrs. Williams wanted to go to housekeeping, but her husband objected. With the decree, the complainant is allowed to resume her maiden name.

DESCRIBES VISIT TO HAWAIIAN ISLANDS

H. C. White Gives Interesting Address Before West End Community Center.

The West End Community Center held its monthly business meeting last evening in Washington School. In the absence of President Carroll, Vice-President Boyd presided. Reports from the chairmen of the various activities were very encouraging, showing that the efforts of the Center to provide entertainment was becoming more and more appreciated by the residents.

The meeting was by far the largest attended since the Center was organized, and much enthusiasm in the work being carried on was exhibited by all present. At the close of the business session, Henry Crofut White, president of the Plainfield Recreation Committee, gave a very pleasing and instructive address on his visit to the Hawaiian Islands, interspersed with humor; also exhibiting several curios gathered there. His description of the volcanos was so vivid, that one could almost imagine they saw them in reality.

It is a well-known statement that a person once having visited Hawaii would never die until he had made a second visit, and the speaker said that he was endeavoring to live in order that he might be able to verify the ancient statement.

At the close of Mr. White's address a rising vote of thanks was extended, after which the Glee Club, under the direction of Mrs. Joseph Edgar, sang a part song, which was well received. Mrs. Edgar also played two numbers of Hawaiian music, one a love song, and the other the national air of the islands.

Before the gathering dispersed, Miss Scarborough announced on behalf of the sewing class that on Thursday evening there would be a demonstration on the uses of the feather bone, to which all women are invited.

The dancing class, under Miss Marion Snyder's supervision, who teaches all the latest steps of the up-to-date dances, was well patronized.

It was voted to purchase roller skates, with fibre wheels, which can be rented at a very nominal fee, thus enabling those who wish to enjoy this activity.

Washington School has become the neucleus of recreation work in the West End, and with the many opportunities offered, there should be no lack of patronage.

ROSENBAUM IS SENT TO BIG CONFERENCE

Will Represent Plainfield Societies at Pittsburg Next Sunday.

Henry Rosenbaum was last night elected a delegate to the Jewish National conference to be held in Pittsburg next week. He will represent all Jewish societies in the city of Plainfield, with a total membership of about 350. All but two of these societies were represented at the meeting of last night, and there were many aspirants for the honor of representing them, but Mr. Rosenbaum was selected.

At the conference, which will be held at the Hotel Walton, in Pittsburg next Sunday, it will be decided when and where the great national Jewish congress for the betterment of the race is to take place. A permanent executive committee will also be named.

OPEN AIR SCHOOL NEEDS MORE ROOM

Matter is Discovered at the Monthly Meeting of Anti-Tuberculosis League.

The monthly meeting of the executive committee of the Anti-Tuberculosis League was held in the Babcock building last night. George M. Holstein presided.

Routine business was discussed and reports submitted. One of the most interesting points brought out was the case of two little brothers who were examined at the Open Air School and both found to be in delicate health and in need of the school privileges. As there was only one vacancy in the school, only one of the brothers could be taken. The other little fellow could not see why there should be any discrimination and comes every day to the school. The officials in charge could not turn this little fellow away, so let him eat his meals there also, while a member of the league has been assigned to arrange the family larder so that the little lad could eat at his home.

This example was brought up to bear out the need of more room at the Open Air School, and the urgent need of more buildings. The little school in the West End has accommodations but for twenty children, and as these stay at the school for several months, there are a number on the waiting list.

FILES PAPERS IN $10,000 DAMAGE SUIT

Raymond Stryker, of Bound Brook, Brings Action Against Clyde Potts.

Somerville, March 21.—A damage suit for $10,000 has been brought by Raymond Stryker, of Bound Brook, against Clyde Potts, a sanitary engineer of New York, the papers being received by Deputy County Clerk Voorhees here this morning.

The suit is the outcome of an explosion of illuminating gas near Belmar on April 25, 1915, when Councilmen Carson LaRue and Raymond Stryker, with Mayor George M. Baldwin and Assessor William Morecroft, all of Bound Brook, were making an inspection of a septic sewer tank under the guidance of Clyde Potts, the engineer in charge.

Councilman LaRue was killed. Mr. Stryker, Mayor Baldwin and Mr. Morecroft were badly injured. The plaintiff in this action blames Mr. Potts for the accident, setting forth the fact that the visitors should not have been permitted to make the inspection at the time they did. The defendant is represented by F. S. Katzenbach and plaintiff by John A. Frech, of Somerville.

ANCIENT MUSICIANS CALLED "MUSURGISTS"

Name Chosen by Singers Who Appear Here Tonight Arouses Interest.

A number of inquiries have been made as to the name of the society which is to sing for the Charity Organization Society tonight—The Musurgia Society. In the thirty years of its existence that name has excited considerable curiosity and comment. The explanation given by the gentleman who founded the society is that it was the Latin form of a Greek word meaning "Music." The ancient musicians were called "Musurgists."

Prof. Walter Henry Hall, who leads the Musurgia Sixteen tonight, is the third in succession of the conductors.

The concert to be given tonight is distinctively a popular concert and it is safe to say that such numbers as "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny" and "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes" will be rendered as Plainfield audiences have seldom heard such glees rendered. The concert is at the High School Auditorium, begins at 8:30 and tickets can be bought there.

JEWISH MASQUERADE BALL PROVES POPULAR AFFAIR

More than 150 people attended the masquerade ball held under the auspices of the Hebrew Ladies' Benevolent Society last night. The affair, which was held in Abrams' Hall, was a social and financial success. The committee in charge of the event was Mrs. O. Victorson, Mrs. H. Dreier, Mrs. M. Fiedler, Mrs. K. Rothberg and Mrs. J. Kogan. Prizes were awarded for the best costumes. Two of these were won by Mrs. Fiedler and Miss Ritter. Officers of the society which gave the ball are Mrs. O. Victorson, president; Mrs. M. Abrams, vice-president; Mrs. H. Dreier, secretary; Mrs. H. Pearlman, financial secretary, and Mrs. M. Fiedler, recording secretary.

UNION MEN CALLED OFF NEW POSTOFFICE WORK

Because non-union men have been working under a different contractor, all union carpenters on the new postoffice building were called off by William Lunger, business agent of the Building Trades Council this morning. Only three men were effected by the order, and it is expected that the troubles will be righted at once. The carpenters were employed by Contractor Charles Nonemaker, of Dunellen, who has a sub-contract. Progress of the building will not be delayed, as only a small force is employed there.

G. O. P. CLUB DEFEAEED.

The pinochle team of the Borough Domino Club, which re-organized after a string of defeats by electing W. T. Campbell captain, sprung a big surprise in the race for leadership of the borough pinochle tournament last evening, when they defeated the Republican Club team under the leadership of Howard Woolston in the lair of the G. O. P. by the score of three games to nothing. The Gaub's barbershop team tightened its grip on first place by taking two games out of three from the fire department team.

PICTURES REFUGEES' MISERY

urgent,' and the letters received from our advance party, confirmed the urgency with stories that wring our hearts, of the huge dark 'baraks' were women and children are crowded together in insanitary quarters, and where babies are born only to die. In connection with a group of such 'baraks' is a feeding station, to which the refugees go for their three daily meals, and next to this feeding station is our hospital of twelve beds, with operating theatre, kitchen and doctors' room. Thither the members of our Unit have gone, and though few in number, their long training and experience in organized work will enable them to cope with difficult conditions, and even to become a centre training for others.

"All the reports received from our administrator emphasize the need of trained workers, and small bodies of experienced women sent now will save an incalculable amount of suffering, and do a service out of all proportion to their actual numbers. It is for this nucleus of help that an appeal is made, and in order that our pioneer workers in Petrograd may have the assurance that at least there are funds enough to keep their hospital going; money is needed for equipment and stores to pay adequate salaries to our workers, to keep up the hospital, and above all for the power to extend our work, since crying needs everywhere are for organization and personnel.

"English women are contributing all they can, and they are now appealing to their American sister to help in this work for suffering women and children and to American men to give a thank offering that their country h been preserved from the supreme m ery of invasion."

ALLEN S. WILLIAMS WILL EXPLAIN MANUAL TRAINING

Allen S. Williams, of New York, who is to entertain the members of the senior department of the Young Men's Christian Association on Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock, is a man who has spent most of the years of his life in the study of wild animals and reptiles. He has many live specimens and has a vast number of slides and reels which illustrate his experience in lion taming and wild animal training.

What he has to say regarding training the wild animals involving taming them to a degree that will admit of teaching, never fails to interest his hearers. He outlines the patient and painstaking work necessary in subduing these powerful and ferocious animals, commanding the attention of grown people as well as children.

A rare opportunity is offered the senior members on this occasion to learn something about which the average man, busy with his everyday affairs, knows little or nothing. Other features in the program will be of interest, and light refreshments will be served.

CORLIES AMUSEMENT CO. FILES INCORPORATION PAPERS

Elizabeth, March 21.—For the purpose of engaging in the theatrical, moving picture and catering business the Corlies Amusement Company filed papers of incorporation in the county clerk's office today. The office is at the Astor Theatre, 235 West Front street, Plainfield.

The capital is $25,000, divided into 250 shares at $100 each. The incorporators are Andrew P. Jaeger, Jeannette M. Jaeger, George Corlies and Minnie O. Corlies, all of Jersey City.

MAXIMUS WILL EXHIBIT FEATS OF STRENGTH

Judging from the sale of tickets for the coming "Barnyard and Dingling Circus," which will exhibit under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association on March 30 and 31, it will be necessary to increase the seating capacity of the association auditorium. Reserved seats for both nights are going fast and still the demand for more is unabated. Some unusually good interesting arts will feature the programme. For instance, the management has been most fortunate in securing the gratuitous services of Maximus, who will exhibit many of his marvelous feats of strength.

In addition to Maximus, J. T. McCloud, of the New York Athletic Club, the national amateur club-swinging champion who won his title at the Panama Exposition in San Francisco last year, in competition with the best club-swingers of the country, will show what can be done with Indian clubs. Many other attractions will be provided. The menagerie is growing, the peanuts and red lemonade will be better than ever, and a good time is promised everybody.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients for 50 cents a large bottle, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous. This rady-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of diseases.—Adv.

National Committee Chairman Busy With Convention Details.

Selection of a temporary chairman for the Republican national convention, which meets in June, was the principal question to be solved by the members of the Republican national committee's subcommittee on convention arrangements which assembled in Chicago. Chairman Hilles declined to discuss presidential possibilities. He said an effort would be made to have the convention go on record as favoring a uniform presidential primary law.

FIRE DESTROYS PART OF EDISON'S PLANT

"I'll Have It Up In Six Days," Says Inventor

Orange, N. J., March 21. — "They went quickly after they started, but I'll have them up again and men working in them in six days."

This was the only comment made by Thomas A. Edison as he watched the third fire in one of his plants since Dec. 9, 1914, when practically the whole of his West Orange factory was burned to the ground.

The fire began with an explosion in a wooden building just across the street from the new plant, which was put up after the other burned. The building, used as a storehouse, is said to have contained celluloid. It burned like tinder with several minor explosions, and the heat was so great that the Blue Amberol plant, a frame building in which phonograph records were made and stored, caught fire in spite of the stream of water poured upon it.

Mr. Edison saw the flames from his home in Llewellyn Park, overlooking the plant, and with Mrs. Edison was among the first on the scene. Firemen were called from Orange, and Mr. Edison helped to fight the flames.

Undoubtedly the fire would have reached across the street had not the new window frames been of steel and the panes of wire glass, which cracked but did not break.

The two buildings destroyed were of a group of four which were practically all that were unharmed in the big fire fifteen months ago.

When Mr. Edison's daughter, Mrs. John A. Sloane, appeared in her motorcar and the flames had reduced the buildings to heaps of debris, his first remark to her was, "Oh, you're late; you missed the best part of it."

FIRE NEAR POWDER PLANT.

Sixty In Danger as Flames Menace Haskell Buildings.

Haskell, March 21.—Sixty persons were driven into the street in their nightclothes when fire destroyed three buildings in Wanaque avenue and damaged another, with a total loss of $30,000. In one of the buildings, a lodging house, there were fifty men. Many of them had to jump from the second and third story windows. One man was hurt.

In another building the proprietress of a lodging house after getting all her lodgers safely out of the building was trapped by the flames. She was carried out by a policeman, who was burned about the hands.

Of the men who jumped from the lodging house nearly all lost everything they owned. Clad only in their nightclothes they marched through a nipping wind to the Haskell hotel, where they were cared for. Later they borrowed clothing from their friends.

The fire was discovered in a lunch wagon conducted by Goldstein & Levy of Paterson. Patrolman Louis Fink, who first saw the flames, summoned the fire department of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co.'s powder plant and the Midvale fire department. Six lines of hose were run from the Du Pont water hydrant, near the Du Pont clubhouse.

TAGGART NAMED SENATOR.

Governor Ralston Appoints Him as Successor to Late Benjamin Shively.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 21.—Thomas Taggart, Democratic national committeeman, was appointed United States senator to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Benjamin F. Shively by Governor Ralston. Mr. Taggart left for Washington immediately.

The new senator has been prominent in politics in Indiana for twenty-five years and has maintained the leadership of the Democratic party in Indiana practically all that time. The only offices Mr. Taggart ever held were auditor of this (Marion) county for two terms and three times mayor of Indianapolis.

After Governor Ralston signed Mr. Taggart's commission he wrote him a letter saying it afforded him genuine pleasure to appoint him United States senator.

INSIST PUPILS ARE IN DANGER

Dunellen Board of Trade Demands New Fire Escape for School.

QUESTION UP TONIGHT

$200 Must Be Appropriated for Improvement and Board Will Leave Decision to the Taxpayers of That Municipality.

Most of last evening's meeting of the Dunellen Board of Trade was spent in talking about the Whittier School fire escape. The subject was opened by President Arthur Cockburn calling upon G. Sumner Smith, one of the committee of two from the Board which attended the last meeting of the Board of Education and brought to the attention of that body the "dangerous condition of the fire escape." Mr. Smith said that the committee had met the Board of Education at the last meeting and that $200 to have the fire escape fixed had been placed in the annual budget which will be voted on at tonight's school meeting.

President A. F. Todd, of the Board of Education, said that there was a difference of opinion as to whether the present condition of the fire escape was dangerous or not and that therefore the Board had decided to have the $200 appropriation for the fixing of the escape which has been included in the budget under building and repairing schools voted on as a separate item tonight, or in other words that the proposal is purely up to the taxpayers.

Mr. Todd said that the attitude of his colleagues on the matter was that the fire escape was safe and that they were therefore against adding $200 for what is hardly a necessary expense at this time. He said that the fire escape had been put there with the approval of the State inspector about five years ago and that there had never been any complaint until now. He said that the fire escape was only an additional precaution anyway as their were two wide stairways, one at each side of the building, and that it was the opinion of the Board that either of these stairways would really be the means of escape for upstair pupils in the event of a fire, which he said could hardly gain much headway before being discovered because of the fact that there was somebody in most every part of the school building during school hours. He said that the pupils were being given surprise fire drills and that the record for emptying the entire building was 55 seconds. Mr. Todd said that he had personally been there when all of the pupils had filed out in 65 seconds.

Mr. Todd called the attention of the meeting to the fact that there was only one vacant schoolroom in the two schools and that this was in the Lincoln School. He said that it would be necessary to open this room next year and that at the present rate of growth of the town another room would be necessary two years from now. He said that it was the intention of the Board to provide for this growth by making an eight room building out of Whittier School. He said that this school was in great need of sanitary improvement but that this need was being held up until such a time when the school should be remodeled so that the whole could be done under one item of expense. Referring to the subject under discussion in view of this necessary remodeling of the school Mr. Todd wanted to know what was the use of making alterations which would only have to be torn out in a short space.

Mr. Todd called attention to the fact that the schools were in reality a part of the Plainfield school system and that its grades were at present on a par with those of that system which is the best in the State. He said that he had been complimented time and time again on this fact and only recently by one of the teachers of Plainfield High School, whom he had never met before.

He spoke of the modern methods employed by Superintendent Maxson, of the Plainfield schools, to maintain the standing of his schools and of the difficulty experienced by the Board in keeping abreast with the schools of the Queen City which employs the best system of teaching in the country. Mr. Todd's point here was that in order to do this the schools must have sufficient rooming facilities so that the pupils can be graded properly and a good teaching corps and that all of this costs money which must not be expended on any unnecessary item. Closing his remarks Mr. Todd reiterated that the Board was putting it up to the taxpayers tonight to decide whether this expenditure of $200 is necessary or not.

G. Sumner Smith took the floor upon the conclusion of Mr. Todd's remarks and in great heat said that people would only have to view the fire escape to ascertain its dangerous condition. He exclaimed, "It is a death trap, nothing but a death trap." In conclusion he asked, "Are we going to allow present conditions to continue for two years until the school is remodeled and run the risk of even one child losing its life for the miserable sum of $200?"

W. P. Deering was the next to take the floor. He said that in dealing with the question extraordinary and not ordinary conditions should be taken into consideration. The point which he made was that while pupils file out of school in an orderly manner during a practice drill, the reverse is apt to happen when there is a fire and smoke is smelt. There is a leap of 18 inches to the fire escape under present conditions and Mr. Deering said that the falling down of only one child would cause a piling up and a great loss of life. He said that action should be take at once to make conditions as safe as it is humanly possible. In closing Mr. Deering said that he didn't think that a body politic which would allow money to be spent for manual training and music would hesitate to expend $200 for the safety of the children.

Among other business transacted by the Board was the election of Lewis Schneider to the office of vice president.

CLOSING IN ON GENERAL VILLA

U. S. Troops May Soon Be Engaged In Battle.

CARRANZISTAS IN CLASH.

Now Believed That Rebel Chieftain, Hemmed In Both on North and South, Will Be Compelled Into Conflict With Mexicans or Americans.

San Antonio, Tex., March 21.—Reports emanating from the headquarters of General Pershing and also from Mexican sources lead to the belief that United States troops and Villa's force may be soon in conflict.

General Pershing reported that Villa had been declared defeated by Mexican government troops near Las Cruces and that he was marching northward in retreat. General Pershing's report was followed by the unofficial report that Villa was still fighting at Namiquipa, south of Las Cruces.

If the Carranza force wins in the fighting that was said to be still in progress Villa will have to move northward along a road over which a detachment of American troops is riding southward or leave the road and head for the Santa Maria mountains to the east or to the Oriental range on the west. Retreat, according to the report, is impracticable because of the presence in the rear of Mexican troops who forced him to turn northward from Las Cruces.

General Funston revealed that the American troops now closest to Villa are in three separate columns. The detachment that is headed south on the road along which Villa was reported to be advancing is one of three subdivisions operating south of Casas Grandes. One column was sent toward Lake Babicora, seventy miles slightly southeast of Casas Grandes.

Detachments Separate.

The other two detachments moved as one to Galeana, southeast of Casas Grandes. There they separated. One continued in a more easterly direction toward Carmen, sixty-five miles from Casas Grandes, and the other south toward Las Cruces, fifty miles from Casas Grandes, which now has become the advanced base of the expeditionary forces.

Just where General Pershing is was not announced, but he is directing the work of the three detachments.

From all points to which the three detachments are moving Villa has been reported in the vicinity. Although it is realized that he could not have been at all points where he was said to have been, the three detachments will be so widely separated by the time they have gone a short distance further that it was regarded as almost certain that one of them would come in conact with him. The force moving toward Las Cruces is only a short distance north of Valle, twenty-eight miles north of Las Cruces.

General Pershing reported that the Carranza garrison at Casas Grandes was "friendly, but passive," and that the Mormon colonists there looked upon the Americans as their "rescuers." He made no mention of further attacks by Villa upon American colonists.

Lieutenant Colonel Parmeter reported from Del Rio, Tex., that a group of Mexicans, detected in crawling up the Pecos bridge on the Southern Pacific, had been fired upon by a sentry after his challenge to halt had been disregarded.

Villa Fights Carranzists.

El Paso, Tex., March 21.—Pancho Villa, with 300 bandits, was engaged in battle with 500 Carranza troops under command of Colonel Cano near Namiquipa, Chihuahua, according to a dispatch received by Andreas Garcia, Mexican consul here, and General Gavira, commandant of the Carranza garrison at Juarez. The battle still is in progress.

An earlier dispatch said Villa had been routed at Las Cruces and was fleeing to El Valle directly into the arms of an American column. Namiquipa is some twenty miles south of Las Cruces, however, which would indicate that Villa had outflanked his adversaries after the Las Cruces battle.

While the reports give only 500 men under Colonel Cano, he is said to have had 900 cavalry when he came in contact at El Valle with Villa forces, which on that occasion fled without giving battle.

Cut Off North and South.

The Villa troops were commanded by General Villa in person, the message said. The troops of Colonel Cano were a detachment from the command of General Luis Gutierrez. There is but one main road through this district, encompassed by the continental divide on the west and a high range of hills on the east.

Pressing down from the north is an American column; moving up from the south is the army of General Gutierrez. Unless Villa is killed in the Namiquipa battle he may either flee north and encounter the Americans or break either east or west into the mountains.

Word is being anxiously awaited by Carranza authorities that Villa had been captured or killed. It was believed that Villa in desperation would take any risk of death at the hands of Mexicans rather than chance death or capture by General Pershing's troops.

One American column, believed to be Colonel Dodd's, is known to be near El Valle. A second column is moving rapidly southward toward Maedra and the Babicora pass through the continental divide. This, according to dispatches, was General Pershing's column.

Third V. O. Column.

It is now reported that a third American force is moving toward Carmen, but as Carmen is on the road to El Valle and only ten miles northwest of that town it is believed this report refers to Rio Del Carmen, twenty miles northeast of Carmen and El Valle.

The presence of a third column had not been reported before. It would constitute either a part of Pershing's command or some of the re-enforcements sent out from Columbus, N. M., a few days ago.

The extraordinary rapidity with which the American cavalry had pushed into Mexico gave rise to high hopes that the unexpected had happened and the notorious bandit was cornered. This seemed inevitable if the Carranza soldiers did their part and if the account of the strength of their field forces was correct.

More Troops Sent.

Columbus, N. M., March 21.—A large body of American cavalry has left here. The troops, brought here from Texas border points, were preceded by a motor train carrying supplies.

Whether the detachment will serve as a separate command in the effort to capture Villa or is to join the punitive expedition force now in the field under General Pershing was not indicated by military authorities here. Accompanying the troops were a number of American civilian scouts.

That more Villa followers than the seventy-nine already accounted for were killed in the running engagement following the raid on Columbus was indicated by the discovery of three additional bodies by H. K. Lemmon, a ranchman, three miles south of here. Mr. Lemmon said one of the bodies was clad in the uniform of a lieutenant.

WHY NOT?

"THAT IRRESISTIBLE FLAVOR."

JAPANESE PATIENCE.

A Strong Man's Challenge to an Artist and the Result.

Maruyama Okyo was the founder of the naturalistic school of Japanese painting. He was born in 1735 and died in 1795. In the International Studio Mr. Harad Jiro tells this story about Okyo:

Tanikaze Kajimosuke was a champion wrestler. One day he called on Maruyama Okyo and proposed a trial of strength, each according to his own line of pursuit. He would show the greatest feat he was capable of by his physical strength, and Okyo would show his by his ability to paint. Okyo agreed. The next morning he was awakened by the sound of something falling outside the door of his house. He opened the door and found Tanikaze standing by a rock large enough to tax the strength of a dozen ordinary men. He had brought it, without resting, all the way from Mount Kurama, many miles distant.

Now it was Okyo's turn. He gave lessons to his pupils as usual, but spent every available minute in his private atelier, working very far into the night. Tanikaze called four or five times, but was told that the painting was not yet ready.

At last, after four months had passed, the wrestler said to the painter, "If you cannot show me your work today I think it is only fair to consider myself as the winner of the contest. I came here today prepared to take the rock back to the mountain."

"I have finished the work," answered Okyo, with a smile. And he presented to Tanikaze a roll of silk. Tanikaze slowly unrolled it—it was seven feet long—and looked at it in amazement. "Has this taken you four months to paint?" he asked. "Does this represent your greatest skill?"

His surprise was not altogether unjustified, for the artist had painted nothing except a stringed bow in its actual size. Then Okyo calmly explained the matter as follows:

"This is a picture of the bow you received from the emperor when you had the honor of wrestling in the palace grounds. The greatest achievement in it is the drawing of this cord. To draw a straight line over six feet long without anything for a guide is by no means an easy task. Just as you brought the rock from the mountain without resting, so I have drawn this line with a single stroke of the brush. Many a time in my attempts the line faltered or the ink gave out before the line was finished. I have experienced with the brush a hardship such as you encountered with the rock on your way from Kurama. Come and see the proof."

So saying he led Tanikaze to his atelier and emptied a large box full of papers and rolls of silk that he had spoiled in his endeavor to draw in a single sweep of the brush a straight line over six feet in length. Tanikaze was thoroughly convinced. He raised the drawing to his brow in token of gratitude and left Okyo, promising that he would treasure it and hand it down to his posterity and praising the artist for his perseverance and steadfastness of purpose.

The Roman Forum.

The Forum was originally a market place and only by degrees became the center of Roman civic and political life. About B. C. 470 it became the place of assembly of the people in their tribes and was gradually adorned with temples and other great public buildings. The Roman forum—the Acropolis at Athens alone excepted—is perhaps the most thrillingly interesting spot on earth to such as know and appreciate the teachings of history. From the forum came the august laws which governed the then known world for more than a thousand years.

DEMAND VETO OF THE PIERSON BILLS

Trenton, March 21.—Twenty municipalities of the State and two counties, Essex and Hudson, were represented at a hearing yesterday in Governor Fielder's office on the municipal financing bills introduced by Assemblyman Pierson, which passed both houses of the Legislature. The financial officials generally throughout the State are opposed to having the bills become laws, chiefly on the ground that they have been unable to determine definitely the probable effect of the measures on the present system of finances in the State.

Aiding the municipal officials in the protest against the bills was Louis A. Delafield, of the bond attorney firm of Hawkins, Delafield & Longfellow, of New York, who, in a detailed criticism of several of the bills, held the interest of the Governor for some minutes.

The views of the bond attorneys were of interest to the municipal officials since the firm he represented does much of the work of approving the bonds sold by the municipalities. He feared the effects of more than one of the bills upon the status of the municipalities, especially with regard to the effort of the commission which prepared the Legislation to deprive the municipalities of the right to issue what are generally accepted as long-term bonds for improvements.

Newark and Jersey City led the delegation that called upon the Governor to disapprove all the bills so as to allow for another year of consideration of the various problems embraced in the Pierson measures. Only two municipalities had representatives present who favored any of the measures. Westfield, through its representatives, who sat beside Mr Pierson throughout the hearing, expressed approval of all the bills, while Pitman's Grove was especially interested in House 353, which, it is said, would aid that small community in various ways. As to the other bills, the Pitman official declared he had not familiarized himself with their provisions.

"PREPAREDNESS FOR PEACE" IS THE GREAT FILM'S DRAMATIC PUNCH

It is not necessary to see the five-reel drama, "Defense or Tribute?" which will be shown at Proctor's Theatre Friday and Saturday, under the auspices of the Plainfield Daily Press, to realize that the story of the film is the timeliest and most popular that could have been selected for this or any kind of production. Just glance at a file of the newspapers chosen at random or, for that matter, deliberately. What do you read about most? Preparedness! What are people mostly talking about these days? Preparedness! Who started the topic? President Wilson. And what moved the chief magistrate of the country to set the word preeparedness into literary and calloguial currency? Events in Europe, of course.

The inspiration for the scenario of this picture came from bloodstained battlefields. The fate of Belgium, of Servia, of Northern France—has made many people in these United States think seriously of what might happen to them. Experts tell you that the Eastern seaboard of the United States is vulnerable to attack. Hudson Maxim, the other night, pointed out that ninety per cent. of the munitions made in this country came froom the North Atlantic States which, he cheerfully said, could be easily taken in a fortnight by 250,000 men And 250,000 men could be easily shipped across the ocean these times.

Untravelled Americans find it hard to realize the imminence of these dangers. But they are real; and far from chimerac they were at once regarded. Destructive science progresses very rapidly, as current records attest.

This picture, "Defense or Tribute?" may be compared to a doctor whom you go to consult when you are sick. He diagnoses your complaint, prescribes a remedy; and, perhaps, cures you. Then he hands you some advice, telling you to be more careful in the future; to cut out this or the other thing or you'll fall sick again. He preaches preparedness, in fact.

Same thing in "Defense or Tribute?" The deadly parallel, the awful examples, are cast on the screen. Nations that once were great were wiped out by the tyranny of might, simply because they didn't arm themselves for the inevitable—the inevitable that is before our very eyes this moment. It is the inevitable that happens.

Talk about the educational value of films! Judged by any test, there could not be a film of higher educational intent than this picture, which teaches 100,000 people one of the fundamental laws of nature, self-preservation. The picture is in five parts and is released by the Public Service Film Company.

Miss Ruth Welch, in the leading role of Victor Herbert's operatic success, "The Princess Pat." At Plainfield Theatre, March 29.

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

In your communication on the City Hall site, March 16, in the editorial column, you make the statement that the price paid, $31,000, was not exorbitant. According to a letter I received from W. A. Coddington, of the Union County Tax Board, it is entirely out of reason. Enclosed you will find the letter I refer to. It says the owners claimed in 1914 that the entire property, land and buildings, was not worth more than $16,950. The valuation placed on the land that year was $80 per front foot. The same amount per foot was placed on the property not over three weeks ago by three disinterested real estate men If Plainfield is going to pay such high prices for real estate whenever it is needed, when is the tax going to stop going up. Taxes more than doubled from 1906 to 1914. The tax budget for 1906 was $282,533.04; the budget for 1914 was $591,161. More than doubled.

Almost every taxpayer thinks we need a City Hall near the business section. Plainfield cannot afford to pay more than the people who own property think it's worth every time we need it for public improvements.

F. W. BIRD.

Mr. Coddington's letter to Mr. Bird follows:

"In response to your inquiry in reference to the proceedings before the County Tax Board in 1914 regarding the assessment for that year against the land and buildings of the Brooks property recently purchased by the city for a City Hall, I beg to say that an appeal was taken to the County Tax Board for taxes assessed against the property for 1914. The owners of the property at that time claimed that the assessment was exorbitant, and after listening to the evidence submitted on behalf of the owners and on behalf of the city, the Board allowed a reduction of $2,000. The land for the year 1914, I believe, was assessed at $14,325, and the buildings assessed for $4,625, making a total assessment of $18,950. The reduction of $2,000 left the total assessment against land and buildings of $16,950. The valuation placed upon the land for the year 1914 would amount to a little less than $80 per front foot. There was no evidence submitted before the Board on behalf of the city that the land was worth $100 a foot. If the land should be valued at $100 a foot, the total valuation would only be $19,100.

"The owners, at the time of the hearing before the Tax Board in 1914, claimed the entire property was not worth, including both land and buildings, $16,950. I cannot see how the property has increased so greatly in value in one year's time if the owners of the property told the truth before the Tax Board at the time of the hearing of said appear."

—Until you have canvassed the eaders of this newspaper on the matter, do not decide whether or not this may be a "poor time to sell" that property

HISTORY OF ROAD LEGISLATION.

Under the caption, "It Pays To Be Fair," the Trenton Times editorially gives some inside history on road legislation before the present law-making body of New Jersey. It accuses Senator Gaunt of attempting to play politics in framing a special commission, the most important duty of which would be to sign a receipt for salary paid by taxpayers. The editorial says:

"Instead of carrying out its pledge to revise the road laws of the State and adopt a satisfactory plan for the development and systematic repair of the improved roads, the Republican Legislature wound up by passing the Egan bill and rejecting the office-creating scheme of Senator Gaunt, the chairman of a joint committee charged with the special duty of preparing a bill to carry out the platform pledge as to roads. It has been openly charged that the Gaunt bill would add $42,000 a year to the cost of administering the Road Department, while the triple-headed commission it proposed would create even greater confusion than now exists.

"Senator Gaunt refused to report the $7,000,000 road bonding bill introduced by Senator Egan, but it was finally pried out of committee by a ruse, and was passed in both houses. Since it conforms to the recommendation made by Governor Fielder in his annual message, that the money needed for road improvement should be raised by a State tax, there is little doubt that the Egan bill will receive the Governor's approval. It is to be said, in the bill's favor that there is a referendum that puts up to the people the decision whether the State shall create a debt of $7,000,000 by issuing bonds.

"There is satisfaction in knowing that the Legislature not only ignored political considerations in dealing with the road question and refused to create new jobs for hungry place-hunters, but gave its approval to the plan presented by a member of the minority. No doubt the tactics resorted to by the Gloucester Senator contributed to the final result. They at least will strengthen the sentiment against smothering bills in committee—especially by an arbitrary and selfish chairman despite the protests of his fellow-members. It pays to be fair."

ONE HEART WE GLADDEN

There are many constant readers and admirers of the Daily Press but probably not one whose allegiance surpasses that of an aged woman who has been going without meals recently to pay her carrier that she might have her favorite paper each afternoon. This friend is an invalid and has been receiving medical attention and other assistance through municipal supervision. Those who call on her have found her taking money that meant a day's food supplies to pay for the Press. Such sacrifices will not be longer necessary, for as soon as the case came to the attention of the management the carrier was ordered to see that our aged friend gets her Press every afternoon and without charge to her or anyone else, and may the happiness it brings increase with each day of her fading years.

Year after year, when the Legislature wants to dodge voting on some issue of interest to the people, the members get around the matter by appointing commissions to make investigations and report back to the next session. This year has been no exception, and as a result a lot of the peoples' money will be paid for expenses for "investigating" something that has already been pretty thoroughly aired, and needs little or no investigation. One committee has been continued to investigate the fish pounds and the salt water fishing industry along the shore; another will report on the question of military training in the high schools, and a commission will look into the revision and codification of the fish and game laws. The latter is perhaps the most needed of all. Governor Fielder has vetoed a resolution providing for a similar commission to revise and codify the laws relating to elections, and one that he has helped create will revise and codify the laws relating to the repair and improvement of roads. As the Long Branch Record says, it is a step backward when as many commissions are created as has been the case this year.

General Pershing's invaders who went into Mexico with orders to get Villa dead or alive have set a new world's recording for marching across a desert country, according to General Funston, and the scrappy little Kansan is not given to idle boasting. It is not necessary, however, to prove that the American army as it stands is efficient. No braver or better body of men ever wore a uniform. There is nothing the matter with the army. If there was it would not have undertaken such a dangerous task as that of invading a hostile country without proper support for its supplies. The trouble is back home—at Washington mostly, but every man who is not for preparedness, and for it strong enough to train himself and his sons for soldiering, is partly to blame for the helpless condition of the country.

Some of the illicit expense attendant upon the ownership and enjoyment of an automobile will be reduced through the operation of house bill No. 287, which has been signed by Governor Fielder and is now a law. This bill prohibits garage keepers from paying bonuses to chauffeurs or the latter from receiving them in connection with the storage of automobiles and the purchase of supplies. If enforced it will put an end to "graft" combinations between chauffeurs and garage owners with the car owner as the victim, and will put garage owners on a fair basis in competing for business. Now that laws have been passed governing every act of an automobile owner it is time that some be enacted for his protection.

It looks suspiciously as if Senator Pierce was asleep at the switch in the matter of helping Plainfield with her new city hall project. Certainly that was the case, or some one opposed to the erection of the hall has persuaded the Senator that it would be an unwise thing to help the city out in the matter. If reports from Trenton are true all that was needed to get the bill through was to make sure that it was on the calendar to come up for final passage this week, and the Senator somehow or other neglected to see that this was attended to.

"Fathers Should Support Their Families."—Headline in an exchange. What a remarkable statement!

On the Spur of the Moment

by Roy K. Moulton

A Creed.

Let foreign nations belch and roar,
And fire their shot and shell;
Let blockade seal the foreign shore,
And sound commercial knell.
Let the fettered fools go forth to slay
Those of another clan;
They'll not drag me into the fray—
I'm an American.

I get my living in this land;
This nation's kind to me;
I have had plenty from its hand,
And it has made me free.
My gratitude I'm glad to sing;
On war talk I've a ban;
Let others root for foreign kings—
I'm an American.

The Cynic and the Cook Book.

On her birthday I gave my wife, as a bit of gentle and refined satire, a cook book for a remembrance. Yesterday I came to the hospital, where I am now doing as well as can be expected. Several weeks elapsed between these two events and I have nearly elapsed myself.

Young man, never give your wife a cook book, even in a spirit of merriment, or you will live to regret it. Or, perhaps, you will not live. It all depends upon the state of your constitution.

We were having plain, old-fashioned cooking when I conceived the brilliant cook book idea. I thought it would put her wise to the fact that there were other things in the world besides corned beef and cabbage and pork and beans.

My wife is not a dull woman, even though she did marry me. She tumbled to the hint as readily as though it were a bargain sale in shirtwaists, and the day after I gave her the cook book she began to make things out of it. She began to sit up nights with the cook book in one hand and the egg beater in the other, doping out a line of polite and aristocratic food for the next day.

We had cheese ramikins and three or four a la modes for breakfast, which made my stomach feel like a motion picture show.

She used up about $19 worth of fancy groceries and meats every day, and when I kicked on the bills she politely but firmly referred me to the cook book.

With my digestive apparatus hitting on only one cylinder, I sought my physician. He said: "You came to me just in time. One more month and a lot of people would have been looking down at you and saying, 'Doesn't he look natural?'"

When I get home from the hospital I am going to hire a burglar to break into my house and steal that cook book.

Concerning the Court House.

"In the day of Palm Beachers and clean shaven freshness," writes Tobias Larson in the Highland (Kan.) Vidette, of the Brown county courthouse, "it stands in homespuns with unkempt whiskers and moss. It is a reminder of the days when corn sold for 16 cents and cattle at 4, when celluloid collars were admitted to society and a rubber-tired buggy was the acme of luxury. It's like an out of tune tuba in an orchestra—the one grossly discordant note in a harmonious scheme. It doesn't conform with nor represent the Brown county of today. It doesn't belong to the century that is, but the century that was. If Brown county owns a square in the center of a town like Hiawatha it ought to dress up that square at least in conformity with the rest of Hiawatha."

More uplift.

Some Cow.

G. W. Munroe, living south of the city, has a cow that has broken the record. It is keeping two families, one of six persons and another of three, besides furnishing D. D. Lilley's milk route with cream, and raising two flourishing calves.—Owosso Press-American.

Trying to Make Amends.

The killing of Birdeen Peterson, aged 24, by Miss Olga Agetveldt, aged 21, at Stanwood, last week, was declared accidental by the coroner. She shot herself and took poison and has recovered.—The Deer Park (Wash.) Journal.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

About fifteen pupils took part in the tryouts held yesterday afternoon before the Aloha Literary Society for positions on the two teams that will join the Tri-School League. Instructor Harold Biddle will make the results known in a few days. With the members of the team that was in the Rutgers College Debating League competing, two good teams will undoubtedly result.

The members of the Senior cast who will present "The Taming of the Shrew" early in April have started active rehearsals under the coaching of Harold Biddle

Several members of the two High School literary societies are planning to enter the speaking contest that will be held in the local High School in the near future. The speeches will be on "Preparedness," and will probably attract some of the best speakers in this section of the State.

The first game of the High School team's baseball season is two weeks from Saturday, with Camp Bowser, and unless at least several days of outside work can be had before then, the contest will probably have to be called off.

This is the first of a series of dinners which the Japanese Ambassador is tendering to Washington officials. Secretary and Mrs. Lansing will be dined on Saturday evening, and Secretary and Mrs Baker, with Secretary and Mrs. Daniels, will be guests a week from tonight.

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME--

—HOUSECLEANING IN MEXICO—

- Proctor's Theatre -

At Proctor's Theatre, Wednesday.

Miss Dorothy Gish, one of the most talented and popular of the younger screen stars, appears today at Proctor's in an exceedingly quaint and fetching dramatic Triangle play entitled "Betty of Greystone." The action takes place in an otherwise quiet New England village, which is suddenly attacked with a scandal that reeks vengeance among all classes, and Miss Gish is entrusted with a part that fits her personality admirably. Today the third episode of "Mary Page," with Henry Walthall and Edna Mayo, will also make its appearance. Wednesday will see the return of William Farnum in a powerful Fox production entitled "Fighting Blood," a picture that does not belie its title in the least, and one that bring to the fore with remarkable realism the wonderful dramatic characteristic possessed by this far-famed dramatic screen star. In addition, tomorrow Pearl White, Sheldon Lewis, Creighton Hale and "The Laughing Mask" will be seen in the fourth episode of "The Iron Claw." Thursday the management will present the sensation of the season, namely, Billie Burke, the most adored of comediennes, in her first venture in the realm of the silent drama "Peggy," the mammoth eight-reel Triangle production that cost over a quarter of a million to produce. To say that Miss Burke is extremely popular is putting it mildly indeed, and the management of Proctor's will have a severe time trying to find accommodations for the throng of film fans who will doubtless wish to see this extraordinary attraction. On Friday and Saturday "Defense or Tribute," the latest and and greatest of vital patriotic productions, which is even a more spectacular and interesting feature than "The Battle Cry of Peace," will see its inception at Proctor's, being presented under the auspices of Plainfield Daily Press for the benefit of Marjorie's Battlship Fund. This is positively the greatest photoplay production now betfore the public dealing with the timely and serious question of the countyr in war time and a feature that will be regarded as an epoch-making attraction, a feature that will stir one to the depths of emotion, and then elevate one to the highest strains of patriotism and honor.

∴ Plainfield Theatre ∴

The familiar quotation that "actors lead a dog's life" will be reversed at the Plainfield Theatre today when the bill for Tuesday and Wednesday opens at the afternoon performance. It will be a case of dogs leading actors' lives as Edmund Martin's troupe of canines announced as the headline feature, present a dramatic sketch entirely by themselves. Eleven dogs are in the company, and they present "The Great Train Robbery." Dog bandits stop a train, rob dog passengers of their valuables and stand off the train crew of dogs. More dogs, impersonating a sheriff and citizens' posse give chase to the bandits and carry out the drama with all the thrills usually seen in a blood-and-thunder production. Mr. Martin has exhibited his dogs in all the leading theatres of the country, and press and public alike declare it one of the most novel and interesting acts ever seen on the stage. The performances at the Plainfield Theatre are absolutely limited to those of today and tomorrow.

Other numbers on the new bill are Allen and Clark, presenting their original offering, "Miscellaneous Musical Minstrels"; Cassidy and St. Clair, comedy singers and dancers; Hemingly and Olcott, in a novelty protean production; Corinne Vivian, vaudeville's most charming character singer; Harry Jacobson and Co., in a comedy playlet, "Shannon of the Seventh," and the Gilmore Sisters, "modern dancers mixed with musical moments."

The Pathe Semi-Weekly will be included in today's portion of the photoplay program, and the fifth episode of "The Strange Case of Mary Page" will be shown tomorrow instead of Friday, owing to the appearance of Howe's pictures on the latter day. The Pathe serial, "The Iron Claw," is shown every Thursday.

Henry Blossom, the librettist, who, in collaboration with that masterly composer, Victor Herbert, has given us "The Princess Pat," a three-act comic opera that set a new rage for such productions in New York this season, and which will be the attraction at the Plainfield Theatre, Wednesday (matinee and night), March 29, is undoubtedly one of the foremost lyric writers now before the public. He knows how to write verse, to set music that is singable and not the utter rhymed drivel that his confreres constantly grind out. It may safely be said that just now he is the cleverest author of lyrics in the business. He can also write a good book when he is in the right mood, and that he surely was when he wrote "The Princess Pat." Other operas on which Mr. Blossom and Mr. Herbert collaborated are "Mlle. Modiste," "The Red Mill," "The Prima Donna," and the musical play, "The Only Girl." Every one of these is a distinct success both artistically and financially.

The semi-annual engagement of Howe's Travel Festival is booked for Friday night and Saturday, matinee and night, March 24-25, at the Plainfield Theatre, when an entirely new program will be presented comprising some amazing demonstrations of the untold possibilities of motion photography. Among them may be mentioned the very latest cinematographic process, showing the movements of animals which ordinarily are so agile that they elude the eye. However, movements that are entirely too swift for the human eye to note in detail, are here reproduced eight times slower than normal. Another curiosity of filmdom which is weirdly beautiful shows the crystallization of various metals, and the world of industry also contributes a film showing in a most comprehensive way every phase of making an automobile at the immense plant of the Willys-Overland Company, Toledo.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How a Butterfly Chose His Bride.

He Asked Her Three Times.

(Adapted from Hans Christian Andersen.)

"ONCE upon a time," daddy told the children when they begged for a story, "there was a butterfly that went to look for a bride among the flowers. He looked at them well as they sat so primly on their stems, just like pretty girls waiting to be asked to marry. But they were all so beautiful that the butterfly found it very hard to choose. At last he flew to the daisy. You know how every girl pulls petals off the daisy and says, 'He loves me—he loves me not.' So the butterfly thought he would find out his fortune from the daisy too. So he said: 'Sweet Marguerite daisy'—Marguerite is the French way of saying daisy—'you are the wisest wife of all flowers. Tell me, shall I get this one or that? To whom shall I fly?'

"But the Marguerite was so cross at being called 'wife' that she would not answer the butterfly. He asked her three times, but she paid no attention to him, and at last he flew off. It was early spring, and the crocuses and snowdrops were out. 'They are charming, but too young,' said the butterfly. Like most very young men he preferred older girls. So he flew to the anemones, but they were too bashful for him. The violets were too enthusiastic, the tulips too fond of snow and the jonquils too common. The apple blossoms were lovely, but they all fell off soon as the wind blew. It would not be worth while to be married for only a day, thought the butterfly. Finally he saw a sweet pea. She was pink and white and dainty, yet would look well in a kitchen. He was on the point of asking her to marry him when he happened to see a pea pod hanging beside her. 'What's that?' he cried. 'My sister,' said she. 'Some day you'll probably look like her!' And away he flew.

"So the spring and the summer passed and the autumn too. The flowers were still clad in beautiful garments, but youth's fragrance was gone. The butterfly liked fragrance very much, so he flew to the dahlias and hollyhocks and wild thyme. Delighted with her, he said: 'She will hardly blossom, but she is all fragrance. I will take her.'

"But the wild thyme stood stiff and still. 'Friendship only. We are both old. Let us not make fools of ourselves in our old age,' she said.

"So the butterfly got nobody and was left a bachelor. The fall rain poured, and winter's snows fell. Finally the butterfly had to crawl into a house to get warm. After he had spent a long time flying against the window pane he was caught and stuck upon a needle in a case of curiosities. 'Now I am sitting upon a stem, just like a flower,' he thought. 'It's not very pleasant—almost like being married, one is tied so fast!'"

Marrying for Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Apparently Dudley Townsend is Not to Be Caught in Adelaide's Net.

"Where is Marian?" asked Jacob Townsend, looking at her empty place.

"She will not be here this evening," said Dudley.

"Where is she? Is she invited out?" asked her father.

"She has planned something that keeps her away," said Dudley evasively. "I'll explain later."

"Marian is a very erratic young lady. One can never tell what she will do a minute ahead," remarked Ortrude loftily. No one noticed the remark, and the meal progressed in constrained silence.

"Aren't you going to be with us this evening?" asked Adelaide as Dudley rose from the table.

"No, father needs me in the store. I have been away too much lately. He is not well and I must save him all I can." Adelaide followed Dudley into the hall and laid her hand on his arm.

"You know I am going away right after Hallowe'en and you can work all you want to then. Ask your father to let you off just this evening." Adelaide's tone was wheedling. Dudley was glad Marian could not see her looking up into his face entreatingly.

"It is not a question of being let off, Adelaide. Father is so kind that he would tell me to stay by all means and then he would have to work much harder than he is able because I was not there." Dudley was getting into his coat as he spoke.

"Did you know that Mrs. Jaynes is going to give a party on All Saints' night and all three of us are invited?" continued Adelaide.

"That so? I have received no invitation." Dudley's hand was on the door knob.

"Here it is." Adelaide ran to the table in the living room. "I knew it was an invitation because it is in the same sized envelope as mine and the writing is the same."

Dudley tore the envelope open and read.

"It is an invitation, isn't it?" Dudley nodded. "Lucille was over here this afternoon. She says they are to have the party in the billiard room on the third floor, and they are to have an orchestra from Kansas City to play for dancing."

"It will be a nice farewell for you," Dudley smiled as he opened the door. Marian was just coming up the walk.

"Do my eyes look as if I had been crying?" she asked as they met.

"Adelaide is in the front hall, and they do look a little red. I believe I would go round to the kitchen and get Tupper to give you your supper before you go upstairs. They will be out of the line of march by the time you have finished eating. And you are not going to cry any more because you are jealous of Adelaide, are you?" He tweaked her ear as he spoke.

"That depends on whether you give me cause to." Marian dropped her eyes.

"Well, I have good news for you. She is going home after the party at the Jaynes' on Hallowe'en."

"Good!" breathed Marian thankfully. "I shall be so happy over that, I shall find nothing worth crying over." She waved her hand to Dudley and ran down the side path to the kitchen.

Household Hints

LUNCHES FOR SCHOOL AND BUSINESS

The regular daily lunch is soon apt to become as serious a problem for the person who has to prepare it as it is for the individual who has to consume it.

For the Schoolboy—Crackers and cheese, hard-boiled eggs cooked twenty minutes, sliced for sandwich filling; meat chopped fine mixed with prepared mustard and a little butter, for sandwich filling; brown bread and maple sugar sandwiches; apples, peaches, pears, figs, raisins, tarts, turnovers, small iced cakes.

For the Business Girl—Cold chicken minced into an appetizing paste; lobster salad with mayonnaise makes delicious sandwich filling; cream cheese flavored with chopped pimento, with white or brown bread; lettuce with mayonnaise and chopped nuts; bread and jelly; biscuit spread with marmalade; grapes, oranges, lady fingers, macaroons, hermits, marguerites, layer cake.

For the Business Man—Roast beef sandwich; sardine sandwich; potato salad when cup up fine makes good sandwich filling; lettuce with crisp bacon for sandwich; rye bread and Swiss cheese; a few radishes, olives or celery; cookies, gingerbread, figs, stuffed dates, apples, piece of pie or small turnover.

Packing the daily lunch depends upon the wishes of your people.

For the boy to slip in his pocket, wrap in oiled paper first, then in strong manila paper.

For the fastidious girl, a candy box that can be done up in white or one of the fancy wrapping papers, to look as little like a lunch box as possible.

For the man, a collapsible tin box, which he can slide in his pocket when empty.

Wrap all sandwiches and cake in oiled tissue to keep fresh.

For Drink—Carry a small bottle of grape juice, ginger ale or pop; or get fruit powder and add water.

RECIPES

Stuffed Squash—The bright yellow, green and red of the vegetables make this an attractive looking dish. If served artistically it is fit for a king. Take two each of young crooked neck squash, tomatoes and sweet green peppers. Prepare the vegetables for stuffing by scooping out centers. Cut the squash cylinder shape; parboil both the squash and peppers until slightly tender; they will then bake in the same time as the tomatoes. For stuffing put together one cup cold boiled rice, one cup chopped cold meat, moistened with the tomato juice and a tablespoonful of butter; one level teaspoon salt, a dash of paprika and a few drops of onion juice. Fill shells with mixture and bake slowly in casserole forty minutes, basting the squash with juices.

Apple Nut Cream—Two or three sweet apples, one-quarter pound grated nuts, two tablespoons chopped raisins. Peel and grate apples, add nuts and raisins. Mix well, and just before serving add one stiffly beaten egg white, in which a little cream has been whipped.

Cabbage Salad—Remove heart of a small crisp head of cabbage. Cut the edge in scallops. Chop fine a little green pepper and the cabbage you have removed. Cover this with French dressing and refill the cabbage bowl. Sprinkle over this a little grated cheese. Garnish with ripe olives.

USE FOR SALT.

Here are two good uses for salt: During warm weather, when so much lemonade is used, the housewife finds that requires a great amount of sugar. If a pinch of salt is added it will take just half the sugar to sweeten a pitcher of lemonade.

Washing lettuce in salt water causes any bugs that may be in it to come to the surface of the water, which makes the cleaning process very simple.

RED, WHITE AND BLUE SALAD.

Boil some beets until tender. Peel and cut in small squares; then boil one large head of cauliflouwer; when cool break off the little stalks and lay them on a large plate. Mince very fine one head of blue cabbage. Put lettuce on the plates and arrange the border of red beets, then the white cauliflouwer with the blue in the center. Pour French salad dressing over all.

REPRESENTATIVE HAY.

His Army Reorganization Bill Has Indorsement of President Wilson.

An unequivocal statement that President Wilson was sponsor for the Hay army reorganization bill, coupled with a speech by Speaker Champ Clark advocating its passage, solidified house support of the measure. Chairman Hay of the military affairs committee explained at the outset of the debate that "this is the president's bill." Speaker Clark said he regarded the bill as one that afforded reasonable preparedness, and he predicted an almost unanimous vote in its favor.

BIG STANDING ARMY REJECTED IN HOUSE

Measure Providing For 220,000 Men Is Defeated.

Washington, March 21.—After a spirited debate the house thrice went on record against a large standing army. This seems to assure the passage without material amendment of the Hay bill for an army of 140,000 men and the federalization of the militia.

The Kahn amendment, proposing an army of 220,000 men, was defeated, 183 to 103. A majority of the Republicans voted for the amendment and a large majority of the Democrats against it, but party lines were not closely followed. No roll call was taken, as the bill was being considered in committee of the whole. It is understood that at a late stage Mr. Kahn will revive his amendment.

Prior to the vote on the Kahn amendment, about which the debate centered, the house defeated on a viva voce vote a motion by Representative Charles E. Fuller of Illinois, a Republican, to authorize an army of 20,000 men. Subsequently Representative Thomas S. Crago of Pennsylvania, a Republican, sought to put through a compromise plan for a larger army. He proposed that 60,000 men be enlisted for one year, with a proviso that they then go into a reserve for six years. This amendment was defeated, 134 to 82.

The house debated the Kahn amendment for nearly three hours. James R. Mann, the Republican floor leader, closed the discussion in support of the amendment. He reviewed President Wilson's conversion to preparedness and told how last January he followed the unusual, almost unexampled course of making a tour of the country to urge that it get into a better position of preparedness for international troubles, adding:

"Now, what has he received therefor? This bill would authorize an increase in the standing army during the next fifteen months of 10,000 men. An additional 10,000 would be added during the next twelve months, and so on. Does anybody call that preparation?"

Chairman Hay in closing the debate declared that his bill was ample for the peace needs of this country and that the adoption of the Kahn amendment would impose an unnecessary financial burden upon the country.

NEW JUDGE FOR ORPET.

Accused Slayer of Miss Lambert Wins a Point.

Waukegan, Ill., March 31.—William H. Orpet, the University of Wisconsin student indicted for the murder of Miss Marion Francis Lambert, won a victory at law. Circuit Judge Edwards granted Orpet's petition for a trial before another judge of the circuit. The petition stated that in Orpet's opinion he would not get a fair trial before Judge Edwards.

It is possible that Judge C. H. Donnelly of Woodstock, McHenry county, will preside at Orpet's trial. He is quoted as saying that he would favor granting a change of venue from Waukegan to Woodstock. Orpet's counsel will move for a change of venue.

Woman Run Down by Auto Dies.

Orange, N. J., March 21.—Mrs. Adophina Krueger, sixty-nine years old, died in the Gladden Lodge hospital in Irvington. She was run down by an automobile driven by Harold Dalrymple of Gladstone, N. J. He was held in $2,500 bail on a charge of manslaughter. Mrs. Krueger got off a car at Park place to go to her home and while walking behind it was struck by the motor bound in the opposite direction.

PATERSON SILK WORKERS RESTIVE

Demand Made For Nine Hour Workday.

ORGANIZATION IS STRONG

Threaten Complete Tie-up of Industry Unless Claims Are Granted—All Branches of Operatives Are Banded Together—American Federation of Labor Back of Local Unions.

Paterson, March 21.—Every indication today is that before the end of the week there will be a complete tie up of all lines in the silk industry in this city. If it comes it will be an absolute tie-up. All branches of the workers have agreed to stand together. The workers demand a nine hour day. The hatband weavers started the agitation two weeks ago and, meeting with little success in their demand asked the approval of the workers in the other branches of the trade. Then both ribbon and broad silk weavers, the dyers and others took the matter up.

The executive committee of the Brotherhood of American Silk Workers called for a vote in all shops. This was taken Friday and Saturday and the vote was canvassed on Saturday night and Sunday. Later the board found that the vote was unanimous for a nine hour day. The committee then decided that the manufacturers must reply favorably by Wednesday of this week or there would be a general walkout.

It is said that the brotherhood has taken into membership practically the whole body of workers in all branches of the silk trade. It is working in harmony with the American Federation of Labor. The workers assert that at the time of the settlement of the great strike in 1913 they were led to believe that as soon as conditions would permit the nine hour day would be put into effect.

WILSON CARTOON NO CRIME.

Judge Dismisses Complaint—President as Gladiator.

Washington, March 21.—Judge Mullowney, in the police court, dismissed the charge against Charles Richardson growing out of the display in a Washington show window of a cartoon representing President Wilson as a Roman gladiator standing with his feet on two fallen warriors labeled "Congress." The police seized the picture on the ground that it "represented an attempt to commit a crime."

Counsel for Richardson declared that the picture was merely an "allegorical cartoon of a timely subject." The court agreed it referred to the recent action in congress in which the administration won its fight for the defeat of the resolutions to warn Americans to keep off armed belligerent merchant ships. Judge Mullowney held that the picture was "inoffensive."

PREACHERS SAY PREPARE.

Methodist Conference at Asbury Park For Adequate Defense.

Asbury Park, March 21.—The New Jersey Methodist conference adopted a resolution upholding President Wilson's stand upon national preparedness. The resolution was offered by the Rev. Dr. John Handley of Camden. Dr. Handley, speaking in favor of the adoption of the resolution, said:

While I and every other member of this conference deplores the necessity for wholesale armament, the country, after all, is patriotic, and ministers are among the patriots. We are patriots, and our government comes before our lives. We are ready to fight and die if necessary to preserve our national honor. Let us stand by the president.

The resolution was adopted amid applause.

IF BACKACHY OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat Less Meat Also Take Glass of Salts Before Eating Breakfast.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—Adv.

Convicts in the Washington State penitentiary, of whom there are now 782, will number not more than 400 after a year or two under the prohibition law, says W. H. Cochran, a member of the state board of control.

"I base that estimate upon our experience in operating the penitentiary during the last year," Mr. Cochran said. "I think that within the present year the number of prisoners may be brought down as low as 500. This will be absolutely due to the fact that the saloon is gone in this State.

"When you have attended a few of the quarterly parole meetings, gotten acquainted with some hundreds of these men who are in confinement and consider the reports of prosecuting attorneys and judges who send them to us, you can't get away from the conviction that 80 per cent. of them are in the penitentiary because of acts they committed while drunk, or acts due to careers of excessive drinking that left them out of money and out of work.

"We held over many prisoners who were entitled to parole until the coming spring, so that they would not be turned into a wet State, but would be given a chance after the saloons had been closed.

"This decrease in penitentiary population is beginning to show already, and there is no question that it will be a permanent factor just as long as the law is enforced."

The Emporia (Kan.) Gazette is authority for the story that the other day a tobacco manufaturer offered Walt Mason $1,500 to write some verses about cigarets. "Walt could have written the verses in two or three days," remarks the Gazette, "but he turned down the offer. He holds cigarets in low esteem. The cigaret is prohibited by law in several states, including Kansas. It is a vicious, death-dealing nuisance, and Uncle Walt is standing on sure ground in turning his back on cigaret money."

License courts in Pennsylvania are hearing convincing evidence of the value of prohibition. In an effort to keep the saloons out of Berwick and West Berwick, where no licenses have been granted for two years, officials of the Berwick district of the American Car and Foundry Company told the court of the highly-increased efficiency of the men in their plant and of the decrease in the number of accidents.

In a statement submitted to the court by the hear of the Safety First department he declared that for the last six months of the open saloon, July to December, 1913, there was one accident to every nine cars built. During the first six months after the saloons were closed there was a decrease of 51 per cent. in accidents, or only one employe injured for every eighteen cars built. For the first six months of 1915 the number of accidents decreased still more, or 61 per cent.: that is, only one man was injured to every twenty-two cars built. These acidents, in each case, were many of them only slight ones. Comparing October and November, 1913, with October and November, 1915, 3½ more cars were built in the latter period with a decrease of 74 per cent. in accidents per cars built, or an increase of 266 per cent. in cars built per accident. The personnel of the men applying for work was never so high. Many of the men frankly admit that they came to Berwick because it was a dry town.

In spite of the repeated assertions under oath of the representatives of the breweries that all the papers, records, etc., demanded by the Federal government in its investigation concerning their contributions to politics had been destroyed, the government agents discovered and seized a large number of drawers of files in the offices of the United States Brewers' Association in New York City.

It is generally believed, according to the Philadelphia press, that the one hundred and one brewing companies indicted by the Federal grand jury will pay the fines, totaling more than a million dollars, rather than invite disclosures affecting individuals involved in contributions made to political campaigns.

"A man had $2,000 in the bank. He took alcohol and had no trouble whatever in dissolving the $2,000. The coin became highly liquefied, and though the man's wife tried to catch it, it flowed through her fingers." In this fashion the special "Booze Number" of Crane-ing, a monthly publication of the Cleveland Crane and Engineering Company, enlarges upon the qualifications of alcohol as a dissolver. Alcohol outclasses magicians and sleight-of-hand performers in this power of making things disappear. Nothing is safe from the dissolving power of alcohol.

"The proper amount of alcohol," continues Crane-ing, "mixed with a well-mounted, six-cylinder brain, will speedily dissolve the said brain into vapory musical sounds and hilarious utterances, which, combined, say, 'Hail, Hail, the Gang's all Here,' and 'We Won't Go Home Till Morning.'

"The subtileness of alcohol to penetrate and dissolve is even greater than in the instances so far given. If a man uses it in sufficient quantities, it will not only dissolve his brains, but in many cases will partly dissolve the brains of any children he may have while using it. They are likely to be born short on brains and long on feeble-mindedness.

"Another thing on which alcohol can work a surprising change is muscle. Take a lusty man weighing 182 pounds, a good share of him being hard, powerful, lithe, springy muscle, with walk elastic, his movements having tonicity; mix him daily with the proper amount of alcohol; before long he will look like a barrel of sides of fresh pork—mostly fat. The fat will hang down from his cheeks, fill his collar, put puffs under his eyes, form a bay window over his digestive apparatus, make his legs look like posts, and cause him to drag around like an over-fat capon. Alcohol can turn muscle that carries a man into fat that a man carries.

"For the aforesaid reasons alcohol is entitled to the blue ribbon, the highest award, the grande prix, and the cake, as the champion dissolving and transforming fluid of the world."

"Few men are inclined to let well enough alone, when they see something better within reach"

SPRING STYLES AT FASS'.

These are exhibition days at The Paris store, where the new season changes are on display for the benefit of women who want to know "what's what" in styledom. Yesterday a steady throng of visitors came to see the specially attractive opening exhibition. New season models in the latest style whims in materials that are the "hit" of the season, noticeably the new shepherd checks and fancy overplaid checks. The suits show the new flare bottom effects, some have the fancy small cape collar, some are partly belted at waist, and others completely belted; the skirts are in wide flare models. The top coats are fashioned in sporty, dress and in conservative styles, and in a variety of attractive materials.

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Adv.

LATE SPURT PUTS KNIGHTS ON TOP

CARTY'S GOALS TIMELY

Columbus Club Guard Drops in Pair of Beauces Near Finish—Game Last for the Local Catholic Championship, Which Goes to K. of C. Team.

A trio of goals, two by Joseph Carty and one by Billy Coyle, and a foul by Al Bryinarski, all coming in rapid succession, sufficed to put the Knights of Columbus well in the lead in the last four minutes of play in the St. Joseph's Club basketball game in Saengerbund Hall last night, the final score being 34 to 27. By winning last night's contest, the Columbians clinched the city Catholic championship this year. They defeated both the St. Joseph's and the T. A. B. S. quintets in previous meetings.

Saengerbund Hall held a capacity number of spectators, who were generous with their applause. Both the Knights and the borough boys were keyed to a high pitch, and the rivalry which was exhibited throughout the play frequently resulted in deliberate personal fouls. During the first period the West Front street aggregation had little difficulty in running up a comfortable lead, but in the second period, almost before they realized it, the St. Joseph's rallied, and with an overwhelming burst of speed in teamwork and shooting, edged nearer, and tied the score, 18 to 18. Bryniarski's foul at this point put the Knights again in the lead, but this was again tied by a successful 15-foot throw by Moulton. The score swayed back and forth from this point until the eleventh-hour spurt put the city team again at the head.

George Linke was the individual shooting factor for the Knights, while Coyle played a floor game during the first twenty minutes. Coyle threw three long-distance goals. Two of the neatest two-point tallies recorded were made by Joe Carty during the last half. Running up from his position at guard, he relieved his covered forwards and rolled the leather into the basket. Bryniarski was unable to arrive in time for the first half, and his berth was excellently filled by Gerald Linke. The latter and Dan McAfee played splendid floor games. Alfred Seidel, Martin and Andrew McDonough put up the best games for the North Plainfield team, all three performing in perfect unison. Seidel tallied three field goals, while the McDonoughs each caged a duo of the two-point variety.

PEG SECONDS AT HOPE.

The P. E. G. Society second team will play the Hope Chapel Senior girls at Hope chapel next Monday night.

LOCAL PROS WON'T PLAY IN NATIONAL

Marty O'Loughlin Will Again Compete for Metropolitan Golf Title, However.

It is likely that no local golfers will play in the national open championship this year. Neither Marty O'Loughlin nor Andy Conway, two professionals who played in the championship last year, will make the trip to Minneapolis, where the tournament will be held. O'Loughlin has announced that he will again play in the Metropolitan open, in which he was the only Metropolitan pro. to finish in the money last year.

The Plainfielders will not compete for the United States title for the same reason that many other Eastern players will stay home—on account of the long trip West. The affair was decided right near home last year, when Baltusrol staged the championship, adn if the title play had been awarded to a course in the East there would undoubtedly have been one or two local entries.

The Metropolitan will be held at Garden City. Whether O'Loughlin's traditional success at Fox Hills will follow him to Long Island remains to be seen. The Plainfielder's golf at the Staten Island links last year was par excellent, and only his strokes lost on the greens kept him from being a closer contender for the title.

TWO GAMES ON TABS' COURT THIS EVENING

A mixed double header will be staged on the T. A. B. S. basketball court tonight. A team of Summit girls will play the St. Mary's Society Club maids, an the Abstainer passers will take on a quintet from the High School.

ST. MARY'S WINS.

NEWS OF THE GOLFERS.

Instead of playing for a gross prize at every one of their one-day tournaments this year, the women in the metropolitan district will score on the point system, and the gross trophy will be presented at the end of the season for the greatest number of points. The net prize will still be awarded by the entertaining club.

It is said among the professionals that Wilfred Reid, who is located at the Wilmington Links, in Delaware, will take up the position left vacant by Alec Ross at Braeburn, Mass. Ross has gone West to take charge of the Detroit Golf Club course.

It has just become known that Alec Findlay, Jr., professional at the Haworth Country Club, was in an automobile that was struck by a train on a crossing in Jersey a few weeks ago. His companion in the automobile was killed and Findlay was injured. Alec Findlay, Sr., said yesterday that his son was recovering.

RAYNOLDS TAKES LEAD.

Edward F. Raynolds, of the Amateur Billiard Club, yesterday afternoon took the lead in the amateur pocket billiard championship at the New York Athletic Club by defeating James J. Maloney, of the Bronx, by a score of 125 to 61. The victory was the fourth in succession recorded by Raynolds, who until yesterday was tied for first honors with the last year's champion, J. Howard Shoemaker, who has three triumphs to his credit.

ENTRIES CLOSE THURSDAY.

Preliminary entries for the Great United Hunts Steeplechase, which is the feature event of the two day's spring meeting of the United Hunts Thursday. The purse is $5,000, the largest recorded for many years for an event of this kind. The entry and starting fees are doubled for nominations made after that day. The race is for four-year-olds and upward, at about two and a half miles. It will be run over the club's course at Belmont Park Terminal, May 13.

WILL HOLD BOXING ENGAGEMENTS HERE

Governor Fielder Signs the Bill Permitting Bouts Under Restrictions.

Trenton, March 21.—Governor Fielder signed the bill here yesterday afternoon permitting four-round boxing exhibitions between amateurs in New Jersey, when properly sanctioned by the governing body of the Amateur Athletic Union or the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America.

These exhibitions can take place in any incorporated club or organization in the State, and the police must be present to see that the law is obeyed.

The law provides that gloves of not less than eight ounces shall be used, and that each round shall not be longer than three minutes duration.

At least one club in Plainfield will start to hold informal sparring matches. Some of the members have been talking the matter over for several weeks.

Boxing has been indulged in at the local Y. M. C. A., Saengerbund Hall, and other clubs here, and the sport has many local adherents.

"INTS" ADOPT SCHEDULE.

Club owners of the International Baseball League met yesterday in New York and adopted their schedule for the coming season. The opening games will be played on April 26 at Baltimore and Richmond, and the following day Newark and Providence will get under way. The season will close on September 17.

The Jersey City franchise was transferred from the Jersey City Baseball Company to James R. Price and Fred Tenney. The new owners of the club have not decided whether they will be located in Jersey City or Newark, but it is probable it will be the latter city.

PENN WILL PLAY TIGERS.

Philadelphia, March 21.—The University of Pennsylvania basketball team will meet Princeton in a post-season game in this city on March 28 to decide the intercollegiate championship, providing the Pennsylvania Faculty Committee gives its consent at a meeting to be held today.

WILLARD BEST EVER—CORBETT

Jess Willard had the longest and best workout of his present training campaign at the Pioneer A. C. yesterday afternoon. He boxed eight full rounds in faster and more vicious style than he has heretofore attempted. Jim Corbett, former occupant of the throne which Jess now graces with his gigantic limbs, watched the champion in his workout and expressed the opinion that Willard could have beaten any of the old-time fighters at their best.

Head of Army Aviation Corps Under Fire.

Lieutenant-Colonel Samuel Reber, head of the aviation corps of the army, and the aero branch itself is under the probe of the War Department following the charges of Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, that the aviation service was "cotnemptibly inefficient." General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff and Acting Secretary of War, has appointed a commission of officers to investigate the affairs of the aero corps. Senator Robinson charged favoritism in promotion, that Colonel Reber had tried to get Congress to buy aeros "as accessories to airships," and that he is attempting to hide from his superiors the condition of affairs in the aviation corps.

GERMANS HELD AT VERDUN

French Counter Attack Northwest of Threatened Fortress Repulsed, Is Berlin's Claim—Spirited Aerial Encounters Take Place Along Lines In France—Kaiser's Airmen Score Victory.

London, March 21.—Allied aeroplanes, in retaliation for Sunday's air raid by the Germans on English towns, have dropped bombs on Zeebrugge, the German submarine and seaplane base in Belgium. It is estimated that about sixty-five British, French and Belgian machines participated in the attack.

Fifty of the raiding aeroplanes carried 200 pounds of bombs each. They rained these missiles down upon the seaplane station at Zeebrugge and the German aerodrome at Houltade.

Fifteen armored fighting planes convoyed the bomb bearing air craft to the Belgian towns to engage enemy airmen. The admiralty announces that all the allied planes returned safely to their bases.

One Belgian officer, the admiralty announced, was wounded by German fire

According to an official statement from the French war office, only nineteen aeroplanes took part in the attack on the Houltade aerodrome, which lies east of Ostend.

This latest raid on the German seaplane base, one of the greatest sky attacks made by the allies in Belgium in many months, was also the first instance in which allied airmen carried the war to the enemy's air camp immediately after an air invasion of England. This policy, it is understood, will be pursued in every case hereafter. Lord Derby made this decision immediately after he assumed office as "unofficial aviation minister," it was reported.

The Ink That Homer Used.

Ink of various hues was used by the ancient Romans, that of a purple tint being considered the exclusive fluid for the execution of all royal writings, as it was distinctively the royal color. It is said that Homer's works were written in letters of gold on a roll 120 feet in length, formed of the intestines of serpents, but we are left in ignorance as to the method of preparing this ink.

Badly Balanced.

A witty Frenchman wrote at the commencement of this century a very interesting and amusing book bearing the title, "Les Agremens et les Chagrins des Mariages." In this work the first four pages are devoted to the "agremens" (joys) and the remaining 350 to the "chagrins" (sorrows).

DUNELLEN IN THE CITY LEAGUE

If the City Baseball League decides to extend outside the confines of Plainfield, it could embrace no suburb that would be more welcome than Dunellen. Mayor Latham's settlement is nearer to being a part of this city than any other suburb, because it is the only town build up right to the city line.

The Sunday School League circuit included South Plainfield one year, and the arrangement wasn't satisfactory on account of poor transit service. No such argument can be presented in this case, for Dunellen is right on the main trolley line, and is nearer to two of the three City League fields than is the East End of Plainfield proper.

Dunellen is said to be baseball hungry just now, and such a condition is not surprising. Absence of their favorite menu makes the fans' hearts grow fonder, and there isn't a doubt but that a Dunellen team in the league would receive enthusiastic support. That the club's followers who would trolley to Plainfield for its games away from home would noticeably swell the gate receipts at the games is beyond question. The inter-city rivalry, which has been absent since the Central Jersey League passed away, would be revived, and it is this spirit that makes the national game.

The players who would wear the "D" uniforms would include Plainfield tossers, and the remainder would be Dunellen boys almost as well known in Plainfield as if they lived here, so the club would be as much of a local outfit as any other team in the league. The boundary line that divides Calkinsville and Lathamtown may separate Plainfield and Dunellen geographically, but sentimentally and baseballically, the two towns form one unit.

Golf professionals in this district are of the opinion that the dates for the Metropolitan open follow too closely on the National. The U. S. G. A. championship will be held at the Minikahda Golf Club, and will not end until June 30. The Metropolitan will start six days later, and included in the six-day interim, besides the time required for the trip back East, are one Sunday and the Fourth of July, two days when most of the pros will have to be at their home club. No request that the M. G. A. title play be postponed has come to the officers of that body, but if a sufficient number of players desire it, the date will be changed.

NO PEACE MOVE IN THIS COUNTRY

Wilson Denies Germany Has Asked Him to Serve as Mediator.

KAISER IS AT VERDUN

Austrian Front Broken by Russians—Turks Abandon Important Town—Holland Will Not Investigate Tubantia Sinking.

Washington, March 22.—President Wilson today authorized an unequivocal denial of the Washington despatch printed in a New York newspaper yesterday to the effect that Germany had made overtures to the United States to initiate peace offerings. Secretary Tumulty made the following announcement:

"President Wilson authorized an unequivocal denial of the story appearing in a Metropolitan newspaper with regard to peace. The story is untrue in every detail and there is no foundation for the inferences drawn in the story."

The following was given out at the State Department:

"Any statement that the German government had intimated that it desires this government to act as mediator in peace negotiations, or had in any way suggested formally or informally that this government should take the matter up with the other powers, is absolutely without foundation. The Department has no information that Germany is preparing to make a move in the direction of peace."

Kaiser at Verdun Front.

The Hague, March 22.—Emperor William has returned to the Verdun front. Berlin advices state that the final assault on the French fortress is about to begin.

Holland Accepts German Denial.

The Hague, March 22.—The Dutch Foreign Office has notified the Minister of Holland at Berlin not to demand an investigation of the sinking of the Holland Lloyd liner Tubantia, in view of the official statement of the German Admiralty that a German submarine was not responsible for the destruction of the ship. Official announcement of the action of the Foreign Office was made today.

Austrian Front Broken.

Rome, March 22.—The Russian Embassy states that the Austrian front on the Dneister is broken and the Austrian losses are enormous. The Russian offensive continues with violence.

Turks Leave Erzingan.

Bucharest, March 22.—The Turks have evacuated Erzingan, according to information which was received here today. The retirement indicates a victory of importance for the Allies, for Erzingan, which is in Arenia, is one hundred miles west of Erzerum and the same distance south of Trebizond.

U. S. Protests to England.

London, March 22.—Protest against the seizure of United States securities was made to the Foreign Office today by W. H. Page, the United States Ambassador. Ambassador Page declared that he was acting in behalf of the American consignees of the securities, and set up the claim that the British Government had no right to hold up the stocks and bonds because they constituted a bona-fide neutral consignment. The Ambassador said he would again call at the Foreign Office on Thursday for a definite answer to his protest.

Turk Steamer is Sunk.

London, March 22.—The sinking by a Russian warship of the SS. Esperanza off Kali Akra in the Black Sea, off the Roumanian coast, is reported in a Reuter despatch filed at Bucharest on Sunday. The Esperanza, a 7,000-ton vessel flying the German flag, is said to have been loaded with foodstuffs for Constantinople. The crew was captured by the Russians.

Galloper Lightship Sunk.

London, March 22.—It was reported in marine circles today that Galloper lightship has been sunk by a German submarine. Galloper lightship is in the North Sea off the mouth of the Thames River, where there are treacherous sands.

Dutch Liners Held Up.

London, March 22.—An Amsterdam despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company states that the Holland-America liner Nieuw Amsterdam is held up at Rotterdam owing to submarine peril in the North Sea. Dutch captains refused to sail until measures assuring safety are taken by the Dutch government.

French Report Gun Duels.

Paris, March 22.—French war statement:

"West of the Meuse there was a very violent artillery duel east of Hill No. 304. The bombardment was particularly violent against Mamelon and Haucourt. East of the Meuse there was an intense bombordment in the region of Vaux and Damloup. No infantry action occurred during the night. The night was quiet on the rest of the front."

SENATOR OLIVER.

Foe of Armor Bill Engages In Bitter Debate With Sen. Reed.

When Senator James Reed of Missouri charged that Senator Oliver, one of the principal opponents of the Tillman armor plate bill, is the owner of 1,000 shares of stock in the United States Steel company, head of the armor monopoly, there was a sensational scene in the senate. Senator Oliver gave the lie direct to those who have accused the armor makers of selling more cheaply to foreign governments than to the United States.

MRS. DEMLER DIES IN HER 89TH YEAR

Aged Resident of Watchung Passes Away at Her Home Today.

Mrs. Elizabeth King Demler, widow of George W. Demler, aged 89 years, died early this morning at her home in Watchung from the infirmities of advancing years. She was born at Mt. Bethel and had lived at what was known as the "Corner," Watchung, for nineteen years. Her husband conducted the tavern which is now the Washington House in the "Notch," for many years.

Mrs. Demler was a devout Christian and held in high esteem by all who knew her. She leaves one son, William M. Demler; two daughters, Mrs. Edward Marfinz and Miss Ida Demler; four grandchildren, William H. Demler, Douglas W. Demler and Miss Margaret K. Demler, all of Watchung; Miss Caroline Demler, of North Plainfield; also two brothers, Abraham King, of North Plainfield, and Joseph King, of Millington. The announcement of the funeral will be made later.

"GEMS" PROMISES TO WIN FRESH LAURELS

Miss Marsh and Robert Bellows Will Give Pleasing Exhibition Dance.

"Gems," a musical panorama, will be given at the Plainfield High School Auditorium Friday evening for the benefit of the Woman's Exchange, under the direction of Miss Edna E. Colladay, and it is predicted that it will win many fresh laurels.

Chief among the specialties will be an exhibition dance by Miss Marian Marsh and Robert Bellows, both of whom have remarkable skill and originality. Fred VanEps will accompany them. Mrs. Wilfred L. Wright, contralto, will be heard to excellent advantage in her two selections, "Auf Wiedersein," and "June Love," the words and music being by Miss Colladay.

A feature of the performance will be the singing of old English ballads in costume by Mrs. James Boyd Potter, whose quaint and pleasing interpretation of "Barbara Allen" will undoubtedly charm the audience. Bernard A. Belien, of Delaware, who has been accompanist for Miss Colladay for several years, will play here.

Miss Edna May James, of Burlington, will make her own plea for approval when she sings "Daddy Did a Wonderful Thing." Miss Colladay and J. Hartley Mellick will dance a stately old-fashioned Gavotte. Tickets are now on sale at Miller's drug store and seats can be marked off at that place.

WILL PORTRAY DEVELOPMENT OF PHYSICAL TRAINING

Under the direction of Miss Addie Parker Jackson, who has charge of the physical training department of the Plainfield High School, a demonstration of school work will be given at the High School on Saturday night, April 1. The entertainment will be entitled, "Physical Education Historically Presented." The affair is designed to show the development of physical training from the earliest period to the present time. The public is invited, admission being by card.

COURT DEFINES CLAUSE OF WILL

Presbyterian Board of Missions to Get Bequest From Mary E. G. Baldwin.

NOVEL POINT DECIDED

Vice-Chancellor Howell Holds That as Testator Was a Presbyterian She Meant to Remember That Denomination.

Newark, March 22.—Vice Chancellor Howell, after listening to evidence in the will case of Mrs. Mary E. G. Baldwin, who died in Plainfield in October, 1902, to interpret a clause of the instrument, decided that the said clause was intended to mean that Mrs. Baldwin wished to give one-twentieth of the residue of her estate left to John D. Miles, of Plainfield, to the Home and Foreign Mission Societies of the Presbyterian church after the death of Mr. Miles.

The will did not specify the Presbyterian church, but inasmuch as Mrs. Baldwin was an active member of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Plainfield, the court construed that part of the will to mean she had that denomination in mind at the time the instrument was made. The matter was up on a rule to show cause why the missionary societies should not receive the bequest.

The estate, which was valued at about $100,000, included realty in Chicago valued at $60,000. Out of this there was left $10,000 to an aunt, Mrs. Harriet S. Miles, and an equal sum to a sister, Mrs. Harriet C. Gardner, both of Plainfield. John D. Miles died on April 18, 1915. William Wadsworth was named as executor of the will, and he filed a petition through Arthur Lovell, asking for a ruling on the disposition of the one-twentieth of the estate as cited in the will. Arthur F. Egner appeared in court yesterday in behalf of the Presbyterian Mission Boards. He cited similar rulings in other Supreme Court cases. The mission boards will receive between $5,000 and $10,000.

TRUSTEES CHOSEN WITHOUT OPPOSITION

F. O. Dunning, J. H. Cooley and H. M. Fisher Elected at School Meeting.

Frank O. Dunning, J. H. Cooley and Horace M. Fisher were chosen members of the North Plainfield Board of Education, at the annual election held in the Somerset School last night. The vote was very light, only about sixty ballots being cast. Both the appropriations propositions were passed.

The Board members are elected for a term of three years. Mr. Cooley and Mr. Dunning are reelected. There were only four nominees, the vote polled by each one being as follows: J. H. Cooley, 51; F. O. Dunning, 40; H. M. Fisher, 35; William Rowley, 30. The balloting for the appropriations was very one-sided. The appropriations are $25,925 for current expenses and $1,375 for manual training, and $1,968.87 for repairs. There were 52 votes registered for the current expenses and 45 for manual training.

DR. ANDERSON TO LEAD UNION PRAYER SERVICE

E., the First Presbyterian, First Baptist, Trinity Reformed, Temple Baptist and the Netherwood Reformed churches. Edwin Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, will be the speakers. Edward L. Suffern, chairman of the official board, will preside.

LADIES' CHRISTIAN WORK SOCIETY GIVE 'RUBBER SOCIAL'

The meeting of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church, held at the home of Mrs. E. T. Van Winkle, of Sandford avenue, yesterday afternoon, was in the nature of a "Rubber Social." Each of the forty attendants brought a parcel of "cast off" rubber goods which the society is to sell to raise funds for its work. During the afternoon an informal program of musical and vocal selections was rendered by the members and refreshments were served in conclusion. Vocal solos were given by Miss Etta Raybert, and piano solos by Mrs. Frank Templin and Miss Dorothy Bird Van Winkle.

CITY HALL BILL PASSES SENATE

Trenton, March 22.—The Senate this afternoon unanimously passed the bill increasing the amount which Plainfield can spend for its new city hall to $150,000. The matter was considered in executive session last night, and unanimous consent was given for the matter to be taken up today. Senator Pierce worked unceasingly since yesterday morning to secure its passage.

While no action was taken on the Plainfield city hall bill by the State Senate last night Mayor Calkins and other officials who went to Trenton to urge its favorable consideration returned feeling that it would be passed today. The bill gives to Plainfield authority to issue $150,000 in bonds for a new city hall. Unless it is passed a limit of $100,000 is fixed for public buildings. The bill has passed the House and has been passed on first and second readings in the Senate. There has been no opposition to it at any time, but unanimous consent must be secured now before it can be called up, because of an agreement of members fixing a time limit on all legislation.

WILL BRING NEW CITIZENS HERE

Committee Named to Formulate Plan for a General Publicity Campaign.

RAILROAD WILL HELP

Board of Trade in Important meeting—Its Members Tell of the Advantages Of Living and Working in This City.

Two important committees, one to formulate a plan for the general advertising of Plainfield and the other to confer with all civic and commercial organizations in the city with the idea of merging them into a single body, were named at the special meeting called by the Board of Trade for last night. The meeting was held in the Council Chamber of the City Hall. William Newcorn, president of the Board of Trade, presided.

Passenger Agent Hope and Advertising Agent Carter, of the New Jersey Central Railroad, were to have been present, but were unavoidably detained in New York. The proposition of the New Jersey Central to spend one dollar advertising Plainfield for every one put up by the city was received and was accepted with enthusiasm. The Board of Trade publicity committee, consisting of Harry W. Marshall, A. E. Force, E. F. Feickert and J. A. Gaffney, was named to take up this work and devise a plan for the campaign

John J. Carroll declared that the work under consideration could not be properly done without co-operation of all local bodies, and he urged that steps be taken to bring them together. Later Mr. Carroll, with C. S. Smink and E. F. Feickert were named as a committee on organization to confer with other organizations in the city.

Mr. Feickert told of the success of an advertising campaign for Plainfield conducted twelve years ago, and said that one could be made to produce even greater results now. Mr. Newcorn said that Plainfield had no rival in the East, and that in all his travels he had seen no better place for a home. Mr. Smink could think of nothing the matter with Plainfield. He said that more industries and more citizens were needed, and that they could be brought here easily by pointing out the advantages of this city. He told of an increase of 4,500 population in the past five

CLASSIFIED ADS. WILL BE GIVEN COUNTY-WIDE CIRCULATION IN THE FUTURE.

Beginning today, advertisers using the classified columns of the Plainfield Daily Press may also have their advertisements inserted in the Elizabeth Evening Times upon the payment of one-half more than the rate charged by the Daily Press. Thus, if your Press advertisement costs forty cents, you may pay twenty cents more and have the same advertisement inserted in the Elizabeth Times, a paper having a circulation of 9,000. Through this agreement between the Press and Times, classified advertisers will be assured an additional circulation of at least 9,000, and the extra cost will amount to only fifty per cent. of the price formerly paid for the Press advertisement alone.

The Elizabeth Evening Times has earned a reputation for itself as an advertising medium, especially along the classified line, and the advertisements placed with the Press will receive a circulation in this and other counties that has never before been equalled.

PLAINFIELD TO HAVE AN ARMORY

Appropriation of $25,000 for Erection of Building Here is Recommended.

MONEY NOW AVAILABLE

Plans for the Structure Will Be Prepared at Once and Actual Work Started at the Earliest Possible Date.

Plainfield gets an armory.

As a result of legislative efforts of Assemblymen Pierson and Runyon and the activity of local officials and business men the appropriation bills introduced in the Assembly this morning contain an item of $25,000 for an armory for Company K, of the New Jersey National Guard, to be located in Plainfield. Through agreement the appropriation bills are yet to be passed, and as the local item was inserted by the Senate committee and carries a favorable recommendation from that body there is no likelihood of its being defeated.

The money will be available at once, and plans for the armory will be immediately prepared so that the actual work of construction can be started at the earliest possible moment.

Officers of Company K and friends of that organization have been expecting favorable action on this appropriation for the past year and are therefore ready to take advantage of the bill. The armory was authorized by a bill passed by Assemblyman Runyon at the last session but awaited an appropriation.

A home for the Plainfield company will fill a long felt want. Company K, which this year is fifteen years young, has always commanded a high place by its efficiency, and this carries all the more credit because the work has been done under such handicaps. The company is held in high esteem in National Guard circles outside as well as inside the State. The present captain is Charles A. Peterson.

Several years ago efforts were made to get a State appropriation for a local armory, but they failed. At that time William Newcorn was a member of the Assembly and he tried hard to have the appropriation made, but he was unable to convince his colleagues that Plainfield needed an armory.

It will now be up to the freeholders to provide the land for the armory, the $25,000 appropriation being used for the construction of the building.

DEATH ENDS CAREER OF WELL KNOWN MUSICIAN

Philip B. Hapney, a well known resident of the city and prominent for years as a musician, died at 7 o'clock this morning at the home of his son-in-law, Harry Hann, of 319 West Front street. Mr. Hapney had been ill for about three months suffering from blood trouble in one leg which developed complications.

Mr. Hapney was born in this city fifty-two years ago and had always made his home here. He was the son of Richard Hapney, who was killed on the New Jersey Central tracks near Plainfield avenue about twenty-five years ago. The family at that time lived on West Second street, just west of Elmwood place. When a young man Philip Hapney exhibited talent as a drummer and for many years played this instrument in the once popular Plainfield Cornet Band. He later mastered other instruments and in recent years made a specialty of trap drumming in orchestras. He has been a familiar figure at local dances, especially those given the last two years in the Washington School Auditorium under the auspices of the Public Recreation Committee. His regular occupation was that of a driver.

Mr. Hapney's wife died about a year ago while he was residing on East Second street, since which time he had made his home with his son-in-law. Beside Mrs. Hann he is survived by one other daughter, who resides in Newark. The funeral service will be private.

REGULAR TICKET CHOSEN AT ANNUAL SCHOOL ELECTION

Somerville, March 22.—The school election held last evening proved to be one of the most interesting in the past ten years. L. M. Codington, C. H. Bateman and Joseph Fitzgerald, backed by Herman Moosbrugger, completely swamped Joseph F. Lake, George Thomson, new candidates, and Joseph Fitzgerald, at present on the Board, but supported by James Mets, Jr. There were 438 votes cast with Thomson and Lake receiving a few votes over a hundred.

During the meeting James Q. TenEyck, chairman of the election, read a letter purporting to be from a citizen requesting that Supervising Principal W. A. Ackerman resign. ## REV. DR. G. C. FOLEY GIVES IMPRESSIVE LENTEN TALK

Grace Episcopal church parish house held another large audience last night when Rev. Dr. George C. Foley, professor of the Philadelphia Divinity School, continued his Lenten lecture of Monday night, on "What is a Prophet?" Dr. Foley is a speaker of unusual ability, and possesses the power of throwing light on subjects obscure to the average Biblical student. His talk last night was of even more practical value than his previous one, and his development of the subject was absolutely clear. The speaker said that the prophet was an institution of Israel, and though other peoples had their seers, their soothsayers and interpreters, the prophet was reserved for Judah. The most essential function of the prophet is revelation, and preaching is his means of imparting interpretation.

The second of the series of lectures will be given in the parish house next Monday and Tuesday, and will be delivered by the Rev. Lester Bradner, director of Board of Religious Education. His subject will be "St. Paul and Early Church."

Edna Goodrich, the distinguished American actress and world famous beauty, will be seen at the Astor Theatre, today and tomorrow, in the Paramount production of the Jesse L. Lasky production of "Armstrong's Wife," a thrilling drama by Margaret Turnbull. Miss Goodrich has long been considered one of the most versatile actresses and most beautiful women on the English speaking stage. The plot of the play has to do with a country girl who is tricked into a false marriage by a professional gambler and how she returns to her first love. The action of the play occurs in fashionable New York and in the rugged mountains of the Canadian Rockies. In the cast supporting Miss Goodrich is one of unusual excellence, including the well known Thomas Meighan, James Cruze and Hal Clements, all of the Jesse L. Lasky all-star organization. The gambling devices are destroyed by the police as soon as they are discovered and it was only by waiting until a raid had been made on a gambling house and then securing permission from the police for their immediate use, were the tables secured. Immediately after the taking of the scenes, the tables were destroyed by the policemen who were guarding them at the Jesse L. Lasky studio. "Armstrongs' Wife" is a Paramount picture.

AN INGENIOUS SNARE.

Uncanny Insect Trap With Which the Pitcher Plant Is Armed.

No trapper ever invented a snare for his prey more ingenious or a trap that ever had a higher percentage of "catches" than the pitcher plant, for few insects ever escape from the clutches of this horticultural meat eater. He catches them, holds them, drowns them and finally eats them.

And while he's doing it he smiles so innocently and prettily that you would imagine him one of the quietest and most peaceable flowers of the woods.

His leaves are his insect traps. They are a greenish purple and fold together like a cornucopia, with a half closed lid covering the top. The inner walls of this "pitcher" are lined with hairs, which point downward and are covered with a sweet, sticky fluid.

This fluid is regular "candy" for the bees and flies. The insect enters the half closed door of the pitcher, tastes the honey and begins to explore the interior. As he crawls forward the hairs bend with him and give him free passage. But when he tries to return he finds that these hairs are veritable barbed wire entanglements to keep him a prisoner.

The insect tries to fly out, and the curve at the top of the pitcher bars his way. He dodges this way and that, bewildered, until he tumbles in a little well at the bottom of the pitcher, where he drowns.—Exchange.

Heron's Foot For Bait.

So great is the heron's repute as a fisher that it has long been thought that its feet, owing to some peculiar scent or oil which they were supposed to possess, attracted the fish, more especially eels, to within easy reach of its beak. In some places the rustic angler still believes that if a heron's foot is placed with his worms the latter are more eagerly taken by fish.—London Outlook.

Quite Friendly.

The women who called just because they couldn't get out of it were met at the door by the maid. "My mistress is taking her beauty sleep," she said.

"How long does it take her?" asked one of the women.

"Oh, less than half an hour."

"She looks it," said the other woman in a whisper to her friend. Then they left their cards and trotted along.—Argonaut.

LOVERS OF MUSIC ENJOY RARE TREAT

Musurgia Sixteen Give Delightful Concert for Charity Organization Benefit.

Lovers of modern music enjoyed a treat at the Plainfield High School last night, when the Musurgia Sixteen, of New York, assisted by Miss Paula Crosby, soprano, gave a delightful concert for the benefit of the Charity Organization Society of Plainfield. This was the second appearance here of this weel-known male chorus, and the reception accorded was flattering indeed.

Every member of the "Sixteen" is a talented soloist and it is seldom that a Plainfield audience has had the privilege of enjoying such an excellent program, the presentation of which was faultless. The individual voices of the singers blended perfectly, and whether it was in the more difficult selections or those of a lighter vein, the rendition left nothing to be desired on the part of the audience.

Miss Crosby, who has a voice of unusual strength and sweetness, featured several numbers in which she had solo parts, and in her solo selections. She sang with such ease and grace that she at once won the admiration of the audience.

Another outstanding feature of the program was the work of J. McKinley Rose, who awakened true appreciation of his fine tenor voice in the singing of "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny," "At Dawning," "Sweet Miss Mary" and an encore number. Still another enjoyable number was the "Interrupted Serenade," by Messrs. White, Trench and Thomas.

The entire program was exceptionally well arranged, each number being of the popular sort and well calculated to bring out all the fine qualities in the voices of the chorus. Walter Henry Hall, the conductor, who is professor of choral music at Columbia University, also came in for a large share of praise for the finished manner in which he directed the concert. The program follows:

"Hymn Before Action," Walford Davies; "The Comrades' Song of Hope," Adolfe Adam; chorus, "Love Has Wings," "To You," Miss Crosby; "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny," Mr. Rose; "Lullaby," Brahms, chorus; "Since My Love Now Loves No More," Cox; "Banjo Song," Home, Salmon Whitcom; "O World! Thou Art Wondrous Fair," "On the Sea," Dudley Buck; "Winter Song," Bullard, chorus; "Stars of the Summer Night," "Oft in the Stilly Night," John Erskine, chorus; "At Dawning," Cadman, "Sweet Miss Mary," Neidlinger, Mr. Rose; "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," Old English; "Like the Woodland Roses," Mair; "Interrupted Serenade," Haydn, Messrs. White, Trench and Thomas; "Hie Thee, Shallop," Kucken, chorus.

ONE CONTRIBUTOR HAS INSPECTED A FIGHTER

Battleship Fund Booster Says He Has Crawled Inside a Big Gun.

Three more dimes were received at the Plainfield Daily Press office this morning to swell Marjorie Sterrett's fund for the building of the battleship "U. S. S. America." The contributors are amounting up now and when the call is issued for a final rounding up, the Plainfield list will probably be up with the leaders.

One little tot, Desmond O'Malley Knott, says he hopes the battleship will be a good one. Here is his letter:

"I am sending a dime to help build the battleship, and I hope that they will build a good one. I have been on a battleship and know what they are like. I crawled inside a big gun."

If all of Plainfield's little boys and girls had the opportunity of crawling inside a big gun and personally inspecting one of Uncle Sam's big sea monsters, everyone would want to be a contributor toward Marjorie Sterrett's big new boat. When the ship is built and launched, all those who contributed dimes will be able to say that they have a share in the vessel and will take pride in looking it over.

John B. Charles, of 977 Belvidere avenue, sends the following letter with his dime:

"I am enclosing my dime towards the battleship America. I hope all the boys and girls will send their dimes too, so that it will be the biggest and best battleship in the world."

George Bruce Holley is the third contributor of the day, and he says:

"I am three years old and want to see America the only nation on earth. When I am of age I hope to be president of these United States. Enclosed please find ten cents to the fund for the battleship U. S. S. America."

SENATE VOTES FOR U. S. ARMOR PLANT

Tillman Bill Passes After a Fiery Debate.

Washington, March 22.—By a vote of 158 to 23 the senate passed the Tillman bill authorizing the construction or purchase of a government armor plate plant at a cost of $11,000,000. Every Democratic senator who voted was recorded in favor of the new plan of ownership.

The vote came after a day of debate in which the controversy at times waxed hot.

In reaching a conclusion to authorize a government armor plant the senate made a remarkable record. By a vote of 47 to 33 they refused to direct the secretary of the navy to call in expert chartered private accountants to open a set of books and keep a record of the other expense leading up to the establishment of a government plant and finally to report on the cost per ton of armor at a government plant.

The majority of the senate, acting upon the recommendations of the president and the secretary of the navy, had determined to embark on the new scheme of government ownership and control of armor making.

Senator Weeks offered an amendment that the secratary be directed to call in expert private accountants, who were to ascertain the cost of making armor, applying the same methods that would be applied in reaching the manufacturing cost in any other manufacturing plant, and then award contracts to the three plants at prices that would return 6 per cent on the invested capital above the cost of manufacture.

Senator Newlands offered an amendment to postpone the operation of the law for sixty days from its passage to permit the secretary of the navy to contract for armor with the private manufacturers at a price not exceeding $280 a ton. The senate voted down this amendment with a rush and refused to roll call on it. Senator Newlands' amendment provided that if the private manufacturers could be induced to make armor at $280 a ton the secretary of the navy should not build a plant.

Senator Ashurst closed the debate by attacking Senator Weeks and other "presidential candidates" for defending the "most outrageous monopoly in the United States."

The bill now goes to the house and may be considered and passed under a special rule.

Berlin, March 22.—An official statement issued by the war office announces the capture of French positions ten miles northwest of Verdun and northeast of Avocourt. It is claimed that the Germans took great quantities of booty and more than 2,500 prisoners.

West of the Meuse, after careful preparation, Bavarian regiments and Wurtemberg territorials stormed a whole French strongly fortified position near and in the forest northeast of Avocourt. Besides very considerable bloody losses, the French lose thirty-two unwounded officers, including two regimental commanders, and more than 2,500 soldiers, as well as booty not yet counted. The enemy's counter-attacks availed nothing excepting that they increased his losses. East of the Meuse the situation remains unchanged.

Contrary to the general impression, the air pressure used in the air brake on railroad cars is applied to hold the brake shoes away from the car wheels. The instant that the air pressure is released the brake shoes are forced against the car wheels, bringing the car or train to a stop. It is the releasing of the air or the passage of the air through the valves that causes the whistling noise heard under the cars.

The total weight of the chain was 180 tons, and its length was 450 yards. Parts of it are still preserved at West Point.

PLAINFIELDER TO BE COMPENSATED

John Williams May Receive Large Sum for Relatives Lost on the Lusitania.

FIVE WERE DROWNED

Authorities at Washington Retain Reed & Hetfield to Arrange Legal Details—Husband Located by Constable York After Search.

Provided final signatures are given the tentative agreement between the United States and Germany that all American lives lost in the sinking of the Lusitania should be compensated for at from $3,000 to $10,000 each, John Williams, a former Plainfield man, will receive from $15,000 to $50,000. The amount will be paid over to the authorities at Washington when final adjustment is made because Williams' wife and four small children were among the 121 Americans who went to a watery grave when the U-boat torpedo struck the big liner.

The law firm of Reed & Hetfield, of this city, was retained by the American government to locate the bereaved husband and he was found yesterday on board the Cunard line steamship "Ordunia" at her dock in New York, by District Court Deputy George York. He was brought to Plainfield and after submitting affidavits and giving the lawyers power of attorney returned to his duties on board the vessel as special watchman.

Williams has been a resident of Plainfield off and on for many years working most of the time as a machine helper at the Potter Press Works. When the European war broke out he was lured to England by offers of "big money" as a worker in munition shops. After getting located, his wife decided to follow him, taking with her six small children ranging in ages from an infant of a few months to a girl twelve years old. Williams was unable to furnish the necessary passage money and neighbors and friends helped the wife secure the necessary amount. She embarked on the ill-fated Lusitania and when the boat went down off Fastnet, Ireland, on May 7, last, she made a heroic attempt to save herself and family but without success. She went to her death with the infant and another child clasped to her breast while two others sank beside her. Only two of the seven escaped, Edith, aged twelve and Albert, aged ten. They were pushed into a life-boat and taken to Queenstown, at which place the [illegible] They have since been living with an aunt in England but are to be brought to Plainfield on the father's next trip westward from Liverpool. The authorities find that it will be necessary to have them here to substantiate certain facts of the deaths before compensation is made. Edith and Albert both saw their mother and the other children sink beneath the waves.

Sometime ago Williams gave up working in an English factory and secured the position of special watchman on the "Ordunia," making regular trips between New York and Liverpool. When Messrs. Reed & Hetfield were called upon to locate him, the task was assigned to Constable York and he has been following the matter up for the past month. He recently received definite information that Williams was on the "Ordunia" and after great difficulty managed to board the ship yesterday morning. Because of the danger from pro-German sympathizers it is next to impossible to set foot on any English liner but York accomplished it after two hours of argument with officials and credential showing. Williams was found on duty and had to be given special leave in order to come to Plainfield. He will be here tomorrow again to make arrangements for the coming of the children when he brings them over the next trip. When the family lived here before they resided for a time on Berckman street and also on West Third street, the drowned children attending both the Bryant and the Washington schools.

FARRELL ARRAIGNED ON CHARGE OF EXTORTION

New York, March 21.—On a charge of attempting to extort $100 from Hiram O. Hance, a New York lawyer, who resides at Watchung, N. J., to keep from newspaper publication four letters, alleged to have been written by the attorney to business associates, Cornelius Farrell, alias John Smith, will be arraigned today for a hearing before City Magistrate Marsh in police court.

The contents of the four letters alleged to have been stolen from Mr. Hance's office, according to his attorney and the police amount to nothing. It is said that Farrell is only a tool in the hands of an active band of blackmailers, and the police are making a thorough investigation and keeping a close watch on their prisoner.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature recorded at the State Trust Company today was as follows, 9 a. m., 29 degrees; 11 a. m., 32 degrees; 1 p. m., 33 degrees.

NATIVES OF ALASKA.

Both Classes of Them Seem to Be of Asiatic Origin.

There are but two classes of natives in Alaska—Eskimos and Siwash Indians. Eskimos live along the northern coast line, while the Siwash is found in every part of Alaska.

The Eskimo is probably of Mongolian extraction, and the Siwash certainly is. In a mixed company of Siwash Indians and Chinese coolies, all dressed in similar garb, it would be impossible to distinguish one from the other by physical appearance alone. Likewise in speech the guttural tones are identical, and peculiarities of inflection and the unconscous little mannerisms of orientals and Siwashes are as strikingly similar as their physical characteristics. The Siwash vocabulary contains between 200 and 300 words—some villages using more and others fewer words, but all containing some words of oriental origin.

The language of all Siwashes was unquestionably the same originally, although at present the inhabitants of some villages are unable to understand the language spoken in others. The speech of these natives on the Aleutian islands probably shows the widest divergence from the original of all the various dialects.

Many Indians speak Russian, and not a few speak the provincial idiom called Chinook, common in British Columbia, Washington and some other states.

All these Indians had a common origin, and that origin was in Asia before the continents divided at Bering strait. Siwashes frequently have red hair, and bald heads are not uncommon. Not so of the true American Indian. While Siwashes drifted far southward, even into California, none of them ever crossed the big barrier, as they term the Rocky mountains.

In every way except in occupation they are different from the Indians of the states. The Siwash turns his attention to hunting and trapping from necessity not from choice. He never hunts for sport—only for meat.—New York World.

HAZING AT WEST POINT.

A Sample of the Pranks the Cadets Played in 1860.

From a West Point cadet's letter, published in 1860 in the South Atlantic Quarterly, we learn:

"General Scott has arrived. We will review before him Monday or Tuesday. He makes West Point his headquarters during the summer. The officers in charge of the new cadets this year are making every exertion to protect them from rough treatment. Their quarters and the immediate vicinity are by special order rendered off cadet limits so that any cadet found there would be placed in arrest and treated with the same severity which he might expect were he discovered at Benny Havens.

"Three cadets have already been placed in close arrest for 'trifling with new cadets.' One of them who threw a potato at said new cadets in the mess hall will probably be court martialled. Notwithstanding all this vigilance, they still have their share of 'hard times.'

"The most amusing of the practical jokes was perpetrated upon them the other night by some cadets who went up to their rooms while they were dreaming of home and carried off all their clothes. The consequence was the Plebes were half of them absent from reveille; the rest presented a most ridiculous appearance. All of them without hats, some in their stocking feet, no man with his own coat on, while from the windows above the others looked down with long faces and wrapped about with blankets, terrified to death at being reported absent from reveille, but 'not even an umbrella in case of a fire.'

"Goodby, with much love to all from your Affectionate Son,

"T. ROWLAND."

Two Horses.

Is it the fast horse or the slow horse in a team that pulls the greater part of the load? The department of agricultural engineering of the Iowa College of Agriculture says it is the slower horse. It says that supposing one horse of a team is eight inches ahead of the other, the load divides in a ratio of 100 to 106 pounds, in case the center hole in the equalizer is four inches out of line with the holes at the end of the equalizer.

A Want Ad Is Often the First Link in a Chain of Consequences

years, and of $3,000,000 spent here in new buildings as proof of the progressiveness of the city.

Although Mayor Calkins was prevented from attending by another engagement, he addressed a letter to President Newcorn in which he heartily approved of the movement to advertise Plainfield. Mayor Calkins said, in part:

"When one stops to consider the very unusual advantages which we enjoy as a community, it is sometimes a matter of surprise to us that it should be necessary even to consider, much less talk about, ways and means for advertising these advantages. Offhand it would seem as if people ought to find their way into a favored locality without having the way pointed out to them.

"And yet there is nothing so very unusual about the situation. In trade we do not find that it is only the inferior article which i heralded and advertised. In fact, it is the best things which are most advertised, and the most unworthy about which we hear the least.

"I would therefore suggest that, in so far as the growth of our city in population and in business activity may not be all that we think it should be, the explanation is to be found, not so much in our exaggerated opinion of our worth, as in our failure, by the many ways that should be open to us, adequately to put Plainfield on the map. We know that it pays to advertise, but have not followed this business rule of action.

"We have all the material required for a successful campaign. We are far enough from the metropolis to claim the benefits which accrue from country life. We are near enough, with our exceptional train service, for ready access to all parts of the greater city. We enjoy a healthful climate; schools of known excellence; honest government; a public-spirited citizenship from which, in any emergency for the relief of the suffering or needy, there is always an immediate and generous response; a hospital and a library which rank among the best in the State; community welfare organizations and civic associations which are active in promoting the interests of the people. Best of all, we have a people who, at heart, are very loyal to our city, and although we are composed of commuters and locals, we find both elements working together in the government and on our various boards, and in church and social activity, with little or no jealousy, and with a great deal of harmony and mutual encouragement."

LARGE GATHERING AT EDWARD CONNORS' FUNERAL

In the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends, a solemn high mass of requiem was sung in St. Mary's church this morning over the body of Edward Connors, one of the oldest members of the parish, who died at his home on West Fifth street, Sunday night, after a long illness. Both these organizations contributed handsome floral pieces, as did also Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, of which two of Mr. Connor's sons are members, and Branch No. 7 of the New York Detective Bureau, to which another son, Joseph Connors, is attached. There were many other floral pieces from relatives and friends.

During the service, Father Bogan took ocasion to speak upon the life of the deceased, mentioning his many years of devoted membership in the parish, his exemplary bearing as a husband and father, and the loss that will be felt by his family and intimate associates. A majority of his tries were made from difficult angles and were completed by neatly-executed shots. The game of golf pool originated with a group of New York sporting editors and has become a popular pastime wherever pool is played. The previous Elks' Club record was fourteen.

THOMAS R. GRUMAN DIES AT HOME OF DAUGHTER

Thomas R. Gruman, for many years one of the most widely-known dealers in molasses in the New York wholesale field, died suddenly yesterday afternoon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. C. Strong, of Martine avenue, Fanwood. He suffered a paralytic stroke about seven years ago which practically made him an invalid, but it was not until a short time before death ensued that it was realized his condition had undergone a change.

Mr. Gruman was born at Clinton, Oneida county, New York, sixty-eight years ago, but when a young man entered the business world in New York City. He built up a large trade in both domestic and imported molasses and carried the business on under his own name until his invalidism caused retirement about seven years ago. Mr. Gruman had a wide acquaintance throughout the metropolitan district and also in Fanwood, although he had resided at the latter place only four years.

He is survived by his widow, two daughters, Mrs. Strong and Mrs. H. R. Healy, Jr., the latter of New Brunswick; also one sister, Mrs. W. B. Munger, of Clinton, N. Y., and two grandchildren, Raymond Healy, of New Brunswick, and Ethel Strong, of Fanwood. Dr. Ray T. Munger, of Fanwood, is a nephew. The body is to be taken to Clinton, N. Y., where the funeral and interment will take place Friday afternoon.

PATERSON STRIKE AVERTED.

Employers Name Arbitrators in Response to Workers' Ultimatum.

Paterson, N. J., March 22.—An immediate strike of 25,000 silk workers in Paterson was averted when the Paterson Silk association, in response to an ultimatum of the Brotherhood of American Silk Workers demanding a nine hour workday for 5,000 workers in the ribbon weaving industry, appointed five manufacturers to serve on a board of arbitration with ten members of the brotherhood.

Louis Magnet, secretary of the brotherhood, said that the union hopes to accomplish its aims without trouble, but is prepared to enforce its demands if necessary.

Washington, March 22.—The postmastership at Kendallville, Ind., will be settled by a local primary, Representative Cline announced.

NOVEL "ALPHABETICAL" CAMPAIGN PLANNED

Prince of Wales Relief Committee Will Raise Funds for Hospital Supplies.

The novel "alphabetical" campaign which the New Jersey Branch of the Prince of Wales Relief Committee has planned to conduct for the purpose of raising funds to purchase hospital supplies, will be commenced tomorrow. All the members attending the regular weekly meeting in Grace church parish house from 10 to 12 in the morning will receive their campaign cards with full instructions as to the best methods of aiding the proposition. The campaign will continue until Thursday, May 25, at which time the total amount raised will be announced.

As most Plainfielders are aware, the local branch of the Relief Committee has been working industriously for the past year or more, preparing and shipping hospital supplies to the St. George station in England, from which place they are forwarded to the base and field hospitals of the belligerent zone. At last week's meeting it was found that the grand total of articles of all kinds sent out by the energetic Plainfield women was 118,000. It not only requires a lot of time and work to make such a showing as this, but also means money for raw material. This led to the proposition of a campaign, and the "alphabet" method was selected. Each member participating is given an initial letter of her surname, together with a number, her identity thus being concealed. The participants are supposed to bring in at least three dollars from March 23 to May 25, and, of course, any amount above this is acceptable in proportion. A chart is to be hung on the wall of the supply-making room, and as the weeks progress, any one can readily see how much is being gathered.

It has been announced by th committee that various entertainments can be given to raise money, and members are already planning a number of social events, large and small. The nature of these and the dates will be given in the columns of the Daily Press from time to time. Anyone interested in the work of the New Jersey branch can take part in the campaign provided she is introduced by an active member. A cordial invitation is extended to the women of Plainfield to visit the parish house Thursday morning between 10 and 12 to view the chart and not the determined manner in which the organization is preparing supplies and comfort bags for the wounded soldiers and sailors of the warring nations.

ENCOURAGING RESULTS FROM COTTAGE SERVICES

Already rich in results the cottage prayer meetings being held preparatory to the coming of Dr. Biederwolf and his party on April 9, when the evangelistic campaign will begin, are growing in influence and some remarkable instances of conversion and re-consecration are being reported. In one section last night a father and son pledged their lives to Christ. This action following the conversion of the wife and mother at a previous meeting. The son has already started in to win others.

In another case, a family of non-Christians having previously refused the use of their home for meetings are now not only willing but have asked for one, and on next Tuesday night for the first time a religious service will be held in that home. Many people have been praying for this family since the cottage meetings started. One more instance is that of a man converted in his own home while the people in one of the meetings were praying for him. The attendance last night shows large increase over any other night, some districts reporting over a hundred.

ACID IN STOMACH SOURS THE FOOD

Says Excess of Hydrochloric Acid is Cause of Indigestion.

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion is nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation, then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases, which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas, or have heartburn, flatulence, waterbrash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids, and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast while it is effervescing; and, furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.

P. S. EMPLOYEES AGAINST UNIONS

Trolleymen In Essex Division Want No Organization.

CONDITIONS SATISFACTORY

Vote Which Nullifies Effort of Amalgamated Association to Unionize Platform Men Is Almost Unanimous. Number Affected by Decision Is 1,265, Attached to Ten Car Barns.

Newark, March 22.—Practically unanimous voting against the formation of a union among Public Service trolleymen is reported from the car barns of the Essex division. Though barns varied in the form of the question voted upon, all in effect supported the action of the delegation of eighteen platform men which recently informed organizers of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees of America that a branch of that body was not needed or wanted on the division.

The car barn social clubs set out to get the sentiment of all men of the division as soon as it was declared publicly by organizers and Newark union men that the recent report of a delegation was not representative and that a majority was dissatisfied with company conditions. While the delegation had claimed that 80 per cent of the trolleymen were opposed to the union, the activity of the social clubs in holding meetings for voting and in interviewing those who could not attend the meetings apparently shows about 95 per cent of the men definitely opposed to unionizing.

Meeting votes were reported as unanimous, and there were no dissenters among those seen by the club committees. Practically the only men whose opinions were not asked were those on the sick list.

The number of men affected by this vote is 1,265, according to figures supplied by the Public Service Railway company. This includes the men running from ten of the eleven car barns of the Essex division. The eleventh barn is in Harrison, where the employees have little direct interest in the controversy for the reason that the activities of the outside organizers are in part directed by the Essex Trades council and the Building Trades Council. Only eight reports were made by the trolleymen to Newton W. Bolen, general superintendent of the company, as the Kinney and Central barns voted with the Roseville barns.

The first report in was from the Montclair and Lake street car house. It was made public with other reports.

As a sample of the feeling of the men the resolutions forwarded the company by the Montclair men condemned the "cowardly assault committed on Inspector Albert Johnson, brother of our past president," and indicated that as this was a part of "the tactics of the labor agitators we will have nothing to do with them." The approval of 236 of the 263 men of this barn was reported in writing by James J. Harling, recording secretary. Twenty-seven men were off sick.

The barn employees in Nutley approved the action of the delegation, of which James O'Brien and Charles Haberbush of that barn were members, in telling the union men that 80 per cent of the men are satisfied with conditions. Edward Walsh and James Early were appointed to interview those not at the meeting.

NEW LEHIGH TERMINAL.

Railway Announces Improvements to Cost $10,000,000.

Jersey City, March 22.—The Lehigh Valley Railroad company has announced plans for a new freight terminal, steamship piers and loft buildings in South Jersey City, to cost from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000. The improvements will involve the employment of 6,000 men in construction and make room for many thousands of workers after the new terminal is finished.

The announcement was made by Peter Bentley, counsel for the railroad company, who said the plan depended only upon the decision of the Jersey City commissioners as to the vacation of one or two streets to facilitate the improvement. The company already has options on 450 acres, mostly under water, which will be reclaimed.

SELF INFLICTED SHOT FATAL.

Paterson Woman Thought Her Husband Didn't Love Her.

Paterson, March 22.—Mrs. Elizabeth Vanderbush, who shot herself in the stomach in her home on March 6, lies dead in the General hospital.

The shot was fired as a sequel to domestic misunderstanding. She thought her husband had lost his love for her, but later his absences were explained. He was preparing a new home, which he intended as a surprise for her.

WESTFIELD TO HEAR DR. W. L. SAUNDERS

Will Ask Residents There to Pass Resolution on Preparedness.

William L. Saunders, of Plainfield, will address the citizens of Westfield at the Knights of Columbus Hall there tonight on "Preparedness." Mr. Saunders will put before them the following resolution and ask for a favorable vote on it:

"The people of Westfield, assembled in public meeting under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus, on March 22, 1916, believe that it is unworthy a great nation like the United States, that it is dangerous to the peace, safety and liberty of its people, to remain in our present position of inadequate military, naval and industrial preparedness.

"We believe that between pacifism and militarism there is a just, safe and proper ground, greatly in advance of our present position—a ground which involves large additions to both the navy and army, a large increase in our schools for training officers, and a co-ordination and mobilization of the physical and industrial resources of the nation.

"We believe that this nation should never make war except to enforce peace; that when strongly supported by armed resources its influence in maintaining its own liberties and rights, and the liberties and rights of the weak and oppressed throughout the Americas, will be greatly strengthened.

"We believe that Congress should give due weight to the opinion of experts and should then appropriate sufficient money, no matter what the sum may be, to put the nation in a position of defense against attack on either the Atlantic or the Pacific coast."

WHEN YOU WAKE UP DRINK GLASS OF HOT WATER

Wash the poisons and toxins from system before putting more food into stomach.

Says inside-bathing makes anyone look and feel clean, sweet and refreshed.

Wash yourself on the inside before breakfast like you do on the outside. This is vastly more important because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing illness, while the bowel pores do.

For every ounce of food and drink taken into the stomach, nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out of the body. If this waste material is not eliminated day by day it quickly ferments and generates poisons, gases and toxins which are absorbed or sucked into the blood stream, through the lymph ducts which should suck only nourishment to sustain the body.

A splendid health measure is to drink, before breakfast each day, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless way to wash these poisons, gases and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs but very little at the drug store but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on inside-bathing. Men and women who are accustomed to wake up with a dull, aching head or have furred tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, sallow complexion, others who have bilious attacks, acid stomach or constipation are assured of pronounced improvement in both health and appearance shortly.—Adv.

PROPAGANDA NEWSPAPERS.

Those Democratic politicians at Elizabeth who are figuring on starting another daily paper at the county seat would do well to think twice before tackling the job, unless they want to sink a good many thousand dollars in an effort to put it on its feet. That they have the money and the determination to finish whatever they may undertake, no one disputes, for General Dennis F. Collins, Senator James E. Martine, former Congressman William E. Tuttle and Judge Abe J. David, who are said to be the backers of the movement, are fully able to continue such a proposition indefinitely. But there never was a more inauspicious time to start a newspaper than at present. The cost of everything used in the production is today at a higher figure than ever before, and probably at a higher one then it will be for a good many years after the war is over.

It was not such a long while ago that a number of German residents of New York, dissatisfied with the way in which the papers of that city were treating Germany in the war news, announced they would start a great daily, printed in English for the purpose of supporting the cause of the Fatherland. Evidently investigation has proven that the amount necessary to launch such a paper was prohibitive.

So far in the history of journalism, as the Paterson Call points out, newspapers started for the purpose of carrying on a propaganda, or those printed in the interest of a sect, or cult, or organization of one kind or another, have not amounted to a great deal as newspapers. Several of them have done well financially as partisan organs, but they have not had a great deal of influence. The very fact that it is published in the interest of an organization or society or religion stamps it as partisan or biased from the very beginning. The proposed German daily—to be printed in English—would fail to impress others than Germans simply because it would be believed, whether it were true or not, that it was giving the best of the argument always to the Germans. And the same criticism would apply to any other like publication printed by any other nationality or organization of whatsoever kind.

With few notable exceptions the newspapers of this country are absolutely independent in thought, and serve the people of the various communities in which they are printed much better than could the strictly partisan organ. This for the reason that the great newspaper is an institution far more influential and far more unbiased than the person who may own it. The chances are that with few exceptions there is not a newspaper printed in this country but employs on its staff and in advisory capacities, people of every nationality and of all religious belief. In the collecting of the day's news, in the deductions of the editorials, in the preparation of features for the general reader, neither politics, nor religion, nor race is considered, as a general proposition.

Any move which tends to teach children more about out of doors life is a splendid one. The Kenyon gardens, which are soon to be started in memory of the founder of the Monday Afternoon Club, will serve a very useful purpose in the community, and those who are responsible for the plan open up a new field for the amusement and instruction of young folks in this city. School gardens have become very popular in other places, and the crops that youngsters have raised on very small tracts have been remarkable, and have materially helped the "back to the soil" movement, as these youngsters have grown up. We predict a most successful future for the Kenyon gardens plan, and believe that it will work great good in the community.

Persons who think the streets of Plainfield are in bad condition should take a trip to Newark and the Oranges. The former city has raised $250,000 to fittingly celebrate the 250th anniversary of the city. They might better turn the funds into rebuilding the wretched thoroughfares which are to be found there. And as for the Oranges, some of the tree bordered places called streets remind one of the "rocky road to Dublin," and then some.

The retirement of Frederick L. Greene as pastor of Hope chapel will remove from local activity a man who has done much for the youth of the city, especially in the West End. To say that he will be missed is putting it mildly. The sudden way in which the announcement of his resignation was made to the Hope chapel congregation but adds to the regret that is being generally expressed over his decision to leave Plainfield.

Down at Scotch Plains a Men's Forum has been started, holding sessions each Sunday afternoon. Speakers of note are secured and the gatherings each week attract a large number of the residents of the community. Such meetings, especially in smaller towns, always tend to help community spirit, and the Scotch Plains men are to be congratulated upon the success of their efforts.

Talk about patronizing home trade! The borough authorities certainly did that with a vengeance on Monday night, when they awarded a contract for their new auto fire engine to the International Motor Company, which has a factory in this city, and gave all the work of altering the municipal building to contractors who live in the borough. That is looking after home interests to the nth degree.

With poets, white shoes for men and other horrible things that spring always brings there may be expected another carnival of blood upon all of the European battle fronts. For a few weeks men will die even faster than during the fierce charges on Verdun, but there is a ray of hope this year in the realization that peace must come soon now.

Former Governor Franklin Murphy made a statement in Chicago on Monday that Roosevelt sentiment is never heard in the East. Mr. Murphy must go around with cotton stuffed in his ears, or else he confines himself strictly to talking to the Essex county machine crowd. It is a sure thing that he does not read the newspapers.

Plainfielders never found a better display of spring goods in the stores of the city than is to be found this year. The only thing lacking is the absence of decent spring weather, to attract the buyers to the business session.

On the Spur of the Moment

Men's Wants.

"Man wants but little here below"—
An adage we have met.
But still we have not found it so,
For nearly all the men we know
Want all that they can get.

"Man wants but little here below"—
Yet adds unto his store.
He loves to see his fortune grow;
It doesn't matter how much dough
He has, he longs for more.

Uncle Abner

There may be other ways of making a living besides workin' for it, or living with your wife's folks, but none of 'em has ever been discovered.

Grandpa Bibbins says, jedgin' by the argyments, it is putty hard to tell whether the country is being saved or is going to the dogs. He will probably find out that neither argyment is correct.

One of the pleasant things in this life is to see a baldheaded feller on a street corner sellin' hair restorer.

There is a leetle something wrong with most of your friends, but there ain't nothin' the matter with you yourself.

There are a lot of experts on the national currency question sittin' around the corner grocery store who can't pay their bills.

Mr. and Mrs. Lem Higgins have sold their solid mahogany parlor table and their piano to buy gasoline.

There is an end to everything in this world excepting automobile bills.

People are gettin' so they can struggle along without arctics and red flannel chest protectors.

A traveling man died of old age while waitin' fer a train at our depot.

Ridin' on the back end of a motorcycle is about the hardest way we know of a young woman to win a husband.

Our Ideas.

Of a golden opportunity—Sitting next to a man with a diamond scarf-pin during a dark scene in the theatre.

Of a steady job—Trying to save up enough cigar coupons to get a 25-cent pipe.

Of nothing to read—The ordinary 10-cent magazine.

Of a stitch in time—Leaving the house locked up just before the man arrives to read the gas meter.

Of a sad coincidence—Two back suspender buttons leaving at the same time.

Of a miracle—Hearing a life insurance agent talk about anything else.

Of a left-handed compliment—Letter from publishing house praising story, but rejecting it.

Optimist and Pessimist.

The optimist says: "Go ahead;
there's not a chance to lose;
The time is now and, on the dead,
you really can't refuse."
The pessimist says: "Wait a bit, and look before you leap;
If there is any good to it, the chance will surely keep."
The optimist sees but the sun, the pessimist the rain;
The optimist prepares for fun, the pessimist for pain.
The optimist pulls forward, and the pessimist pulls back;
The one throws wide the throttle and the other sands the track.
This world would be monotonous if people were all the same;
With no one 'round to raise a fuss
'twould be a tiresome game.
The optimist with his glad tone, the pessimist so blue,
We really couldn't get along unless we had the two.

"DEFENSE OR TRIBUTE?" FILM COST ONE MILLION DOLLARS TO PRODUCE

The Plainfield Daily Press will present Marjorie Sterrett's million-dollar battleship picture at Proctor's Theatre on Friday and Saturday afternoons and evenings. Our authority for the statement that this picture cost $1,000,000 is "The Hebrew Standard." And another commentator on motion pictures avers that the production rivals the "Birth of a Nation," which recently created considerable stir in the country. As a production, it is one of the most colossal ever shown on the motion picture screen. There are great battle scenes, beautiful views, and some of the most interesting personalities ever seen in a motion picture.

At the beginning of the production we see the spirits of the great departed entirely perturbed over the defenseless condition of their beloved country. Washington, Lincoln, Jefferson, Franklin, Andrew Jackson, Patrick Henry, Daniel Boone, Alexander Hamilton, William McKinley, General Robert E. Lee and General Ulysses S. Grant comprise the gathering which, after an invocation from the Spirit of Peace, is succeeded by the Council of the American Branch of the Cosmo Peace Society. The chairman addresses the gathering and, quoting the words of President Wilson on the necessity of preparedness, gives place to the dramatic parts of the picture. The Jews are shown paying tribute in bondage to their conquerors; Caesar subdues the Gauls; and so on down through the middle ages to modern times, the same tale is told, namely, that a nation which is inadequately armed invites attack and subjugation.

The spirit of 1776 is invoked to inspire, to stimulate modern Americans to provide adequate defense for the protection of their beloved country—the richest in the world.

done that could be, to make an evening's entertainment worth while, they have attempted with this production. All that is synonymous with "High Life" is caricatured with a delicacy of hitherto unknown flavor, and an exquisite gay riot of colors and design is displayed in the scenic equipment, so lovely, so fresh, that concealed under the miracle of its simplicity, the marvelous of the color drawings and compositions are almost unnoticed, and in a language of the paddock, the "Tip-Top Girls" are to burlesque what stake horses would be amongst selling platers.

Motion pictures of all sorts may come and go; the "posed" fad films have their fleeting day, and photo dramas of yesterday may wane and vanish as quickly as they came, but the semi-annual presentations by Lyman H. Howe remain as perennially popular as ever. Indeed, because of their surpassing excellence, they grow in prestige and popularity with each recurring visit. Undoubtedly the attraction keeps its firm grip on the hearts and minds of the public because it appeals to the heart and mind—because it aims high and fulfills that aim better than any other exhibition before the public. These merits are particularly well illustrated in a feature of the new production which will be presented at the Plainfield Theatre Friday night and Saturday, matinee and night, March 24-25. The scenes were filmed away up in the northwestern corner of Montana, where Uncle Sam set aside 1,500 square miles of mountain, lake and plain and called it Glacier National Park, so that ours and future generations may see and revel in nature's wonderland unmarred by the devastating hand of civilization. Interspersed with the scenes of the magic of the mountains are film studies of the American Indian of today in his native haunts in Glacier National Park.

- Proctor's Theatre -

The program of photoplays being presented at Proctor's are wonderful creations of the greatest film companies in the universe and feature the most prominent stage and screen stars of the present generation. The mammoth new and modern projection machines recently installed produce a perfect and flickerless projection, and this, together with the $1,000 gold fibre screen, make Proctor's the ideal photoplay theatre in this vicinity. One does not have to grope for a seat or enter a dark auditorium when attending Proctor's, for by the modern equipment it is possible to present the pictures in a finely-lighted playhouse without detracting in the least from the clearness and excellence of the projection. The dramatic feature today is "Fighting Blood," and stars the most admired and powerful of male screen stars, namely, William Farnum, a modern Samson indeed, and a screen actor whose powerful physique and remarkable work upon the screen has made him the idol of hundreds of film fans in this vicinity. Today, also, as an added feature, Pearl White and the competent Pathe serial cast, appear in the fourth episode of "The Iron Claw," in which thrills and adventures run riot, making up one of the most interesting chapters yet shown. Tomorrow is sensation day indeed at Proctor's, for then Billie Burke will make her debut into the fold of motion pictures in "Peggy," a mammoth eight-reel Triangle production, written especially for this star and bringing to the fore all her delightful talents and bits of personality. "Peggy" was produced by Thomas H. Ince, America's foremost director, at a cost approximating $200,000. Patrons are urged to attend the matinee to secure choice seats, as this production will be shown one day only, and the rush will be so great that many patrons doubtless will be unable to be accommodated.

MRS. VAN HOESEN SEEKS INFORMATION ABOUT DOGS

Mrs. S. G. VanHoesen, the agent for the S. P. C. A. branch in this vicinity, has requested the publication of the following:

"I would be gratefully obliged to anyone if they will will mail from time to time their own verified reports or clippings from newspapers in reference to dogs in New Jersey that have saved lives, given alarms of burglars or performed other acts of heroism or public benefit."

COMPANY K NOTES.

The school of musketry, which officers of the battalion attend at Elizabeth, Tuesday nights, had a special session last night, at which the officers of Co. M of Somerville and Co. H of New Brunswick attended in addition to the officers of three Elizabeth companies, and Co. K of this city. Lieut.-Col. William B. Martin, formerly captain of the Plainfield company, is in charge of the school.

Members of Plainfield's body of citizen soldiers are anxiously awaiting word from Trenton about the armory promised this city. A definite decision is expected this week.

Just as soon as the going underfoot gets better, outdoor drilling will be started.

LADY ABERDEEN THANKS PLAINFIELDERS FOR HELP

Mrs. William M. Sandford, of this city, who has interested herself and others in the observance of "Irish Baby Week," yesterday received a letter from Lady Aberdeen, of Ireland, who is now in this country, thanking her, as well as Mrs. Frederick W. Goddard, Father B. M. Bogan and the Parochial Mothers' Association of St. Mary's Parish for their work in behalf of the movement.

The "Irish Baby Week" is being conducted along the same lines as the "National Baby Week," and there has been a generous response to the appeal made by Lady Aberdeen in behalf of the babies of her country. Appropriate literature has been sent broadcast in this country and has aroused much interest.

INDEPENDENT FIFE AND DRUM CORPS RECEPTION

Arrangements are rapidly nearing completion for the annual ball to be given on Easter Monday night at Saengerbund Hall by the members of the Independent Fife and Drum Corps. The committee in charge have secured the services of two well-known singers from Elizabeth who will entertain, as well as a quartett of colored entertainers.

During the evening, Miss Marie Glaentzer, of this city, will make her debut on the stage, rendering several vocal selections. Among the many features of interest provided by the committee will be a prize waltz to be held for the championship of New Jersey and for which the winning couple will be awarded a gold piece. Two silver loving cups will be awarded the visiting corps who make the best appearance. Prof. Albert Squiers' orchestra will provide music for the occasion.

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME...

∴ Plainfield Theatre ∴

Edmund Martin's troop of "dog bandits" made an emphatic hit at the Plainfield Theatre yesterday when they presented for the first time their own canine production, "The Great Train Robbery." Every part in the "melodrama" was taken by a knowing dog who seemed to be imbued with human intelligence, and the novel spectacle of bow-wows "play acting," tickled the audiences immensely. This act is absolutely original and unusual and must be seen to be appreciated. "The Great Train Robbery" will be on the program only for this afternoon, as an entire new change of bill will hold the boards tomorrow.

There were other good things on the program opening yesterday, and are still on today. These include Allan and Clark, presenting their musical act, "Merry Moments of Musical Minstrelsy"; the Carroll Sisters, offering a delightful singing number under the title of "Black and White," one of the girls appearing in blackface; Bert and Dorothy Adair, singing, talking and pianologue offering; Doyle and Ford, "The Two Boys at the Piano," and Catherine Norden, the popular singing comedienne, who opens an engagement at the Palace Theatre, N. Y., in two weeks.

The fifth episode of the serial film, "The Strange Case of Mary Page," will be shown at the theatre as a part of the picture program this afternoon, and tonight, owing to the fact that Lyman Howe's pictures have been engaged for Friday and Saturday. A complete new change of program will be shown tomorrow afternoon and night, the acts being up to the usual standard despite the fact that their engagement is for one day only. The complete list will be given in these columns tomorrow.

"The Princess Pat," Henry Blossom and Victor Herbert's latest comic opera which has reigned Queen of Broadway for many months, will be the attraction at the Plainfield Theatre, Wednesday (matinee and night), March 29. It is one of those very rare comic operas which are at once comic and operatic. The book and lyrics are in Mr. Blossom's best vein, with pith and point to the comedy, while Mr. Herbert's music not only excels the best that he put into "Mdlle. Modiste," "The Red Mill," and "The Prima Donna," but in one or two of the concerted numbers, approaches closely the distinction of his grand opera efforts in "Natoma" and "Madeleine." Add to these facts the introduction of an excellent cast of principals and ensemble that can sing as well as look beautiful, and you have the reasons for the success of the opera.

The "Tip-Top Girls" at the Plainfield Theatre next Monday, matinee and night, is an entire new show from start to finish, new book, new music, new scenery, new lyrics, and a brand new and up-to-date cast have been engaged, and everything has been

"TONIGHT I will tell you a Hans Andersen story," said daddy when Jack and Evelyn climbed on his chair.

"Oh, please do, daddy!" cried the children.

"There was once a prince who wanted a real princess—but she must be a real princess. So he traveled around and around the world to find her, but there was always something wrong. One was ugly, and one was cross, and one was silly, and one was too proud. The prince met hundreds of charming girls, but whether or not they were real princesses he had the greatest difficulty in learning. So at last he came home again, and because he wanted a real princess so badly and was not able to find one he was very sad."

"Why didn't he advertise for one, daddy?" Jack wanted to know.

Daddy smiled and went on: "One evening just after he had come home there was a terrible storm. It thundered and lightened, and the rain poured down in torrents. It was a fearful night. In the middle of the storm somebody knocked at the gate, and the prince's father, the old king, went himself to open it. And there stood a beautiful girl, who said she was a real princess lost in the storm. Water streamed out of her hair and clothes and ran in the top of her shoes and out at her heels. But she said she was a real princess.

"'We shall soon see,' thought the old queen. So she went to the spare bedroom, took off the bedclothes, laid a pea on the bed and then piled twenty mattresses and twenty feather beds on top of the pea. This was where the princess slept. In the morning the old queen asked her, 'Did you sleep well?' 'Oh, terribly!' cried the princess. 'I hardly closed my eyes all night long! I tossed and tumbled and ached, and heaven only knows what was in the bed. I seemed to be lying upon a lump, something hard that hurt me till I am sure my whole body is black and blue by this time. It was terrible!'

"Then the old queen ran and told the king and the prince that the beautiful young girl they had taken in from the storm must surely be a real princess because she had slept upon a pea that had twenty mattresses and twenty feather beds on top of it and had felt it. Nobody but a real princess could have such a sensitive skin, you see.

"So the prince took the girl for his wife, sure now that at last he had found a real princess. And the pea was put in a museum, where it may still be seen to this day if nobody has stolen it. This is a true story," daddy finished, while Jack and Evelyn gave him two hugs and ran off to bed like good children."

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

New Way of Quilting—The old-fashioned way of quilting is quite a serious problem to the woman who hasn't much room in her home for the quilting frames. Usually it takes some time to finish a quilt, and the room cannot be spared. To have the work done outside is expensive. Sew pieced blocks together in strips as long as desired. Line this strip with flannelette. Quilt this strip on machine, any pattern you wish. Continue in this way until quilt is wide enough. Sew strips together, flatten seam and sew again. Line with calico and bind edges. Makes a fine quilt.

Home-Made Bunches of Apples, Cherries, etc., for Trimmings—Take a piece of cotton, stuff it in a round piece of satin, draw edges tightly together. Run needle up through center and back again, making a strong knot. Touch up the fruit you have made with oil paints, in their natural run through any old stems you have left from old trimmings.

Turkish Bath at Home—Take an old comforter and spread it over the bath tub, allowing it to hang over the sides. Cut a round hole in the comforter at the proper place large enough to admit your head. When you are suffering from a cold or feel the need of one of these baths, get into the tub, fill it with water as hot as you can stand it, then cover tub with the comforter. Put your head through the opening and allow yourself to steam for about twenty minutes. Rub briskly with coarse towels and get into bed immediately. In the morning your cold will be entirely gone.

Comfort Booklet for Invalid—Take one or more magazine articles, light and bright; detach them from the rest of the book by opening the little wire clasps and sewing into a little book. Put it in a pretty, bright cover of paper or something else suitable, tie with ribbons, sew the edge in bright silk and the result is a pretty booklet not too heavy for invalid hands. A recumbent position makes the holding of any book a weariness to weakened hands, and so the little paper story book fills a need. Such booklets would be acceptable in hospitals.

THE TABLE

Egg Biscuit—Two cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, one-half cup milk, one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon lard, one tablespoon sugar, whites of two eggs. Sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar together. Cream butter and lard together and add it to the dry ingredients, using the tips of your fingers when mixing. Then add the milk mixed with whites of the eggs, mixing with a knife until you have a very soft dough. Place on your molding board, pat out lightly until three-fourths inch thick. Cut out and bake in hot oven fifteen minutes. This will make twenty-four biscuits.

New Sandwich Filling—One pound liver boiled with two bay leaves and five cloves until tender. Cook broth until one cupful remains. Grind liver, using the finest knife, and pour the strained broth over this. Grind up a medium-sized onion with the finest knife and fry in one tablespoon butter until tender. Put on with ground liver, grind once more, then add the juice of a lemon or a little vinegar and grind again.

"Toad-in-the-Hole"—Mix one pint flour with one teaspoon baking powder, with milk enough to make a batter like pancakes; add one egg and a little salt. Grease baking dish with butter, put in lamb chops with a little hot water; pepper and salt to taste; pour batter over and bake one hour.

Apricot-Prune Sauce—Half pound each of dried apricots and prunes. Cook with plenty water until well done, sweeten to taste, and slice a half lemon into sauce when you sweeten. Cook a few minutes longer and let cool.

German Puffs—Sift one and one-third cups flour with one and one-quarter teaspoons baking powder. Now take two tablespoons butter (butter rubbed by itself till creamy); when soft add two-thirds cup granulated sugar, then add yolk of two eggs. Mix thoroughly, add two-thirds cup sweet milk. Put in the flour. Bake twenty minutes in quick oven. Use little gem pans.

Marrying for Money

— BY MRS EVA LEONARD —

Driven to Bankruptcy's Verge, Jacob Townsend Suffers Physical Collapse.

"What is it, Daddy?" asked Dudley anxiously. Jacob Townsend dropped a letter on his desk and passed his hand over his eyes in a dazed sort of way. For answer he motioned toward the letter. Dudley picked it up and read:

"Chicago, Illinois, Oct. 11, 19—

"Mr. J. C. Townsend, Fairport, Kan.

"Dear Sir:

"In reply to your letter of October 2, I regret to say that we will not be able to extend the time of payment as you requested. Stringent money market compels us to insist upon a prompt settlement of your account. Your Christmas order will be held up till payment is made.

"Very truly yours,

"JOHNSON & PEETS."

Dudley laid the letter down and his father said: "That is the first time I was ever refused credit in the thirty-five years that I have been in business."

"Don't take it to heart so. It's the fault of the unsettled condition of business generally. You know what a time you have to collect; I suppose they are in the same boat."

"The point is I cannot make the payment," replied Jacob. "How are we to get goods for our Christmas trade?"

"Can't you borrow somewhere?" asked the junior partner.

"I have not been able to so far. The loan I got at the bank last fall is not paid off, so I can't very well ask for more," was the weary reply.

"You are not fit to think about business today. Go home and rest a while and things will look clearer," urged Dudley, really worried about his father.

Jacob rose and reached for his hat and started for the door. George came up and Dudley whispered:

"I am going with him. He is not well enough to go alone. Read that letter," he added, as he hurried after his father.

Leaning on Dudley's arm, Jacob slowly made his way home. He sank into a chair in the hall and Dudley hurried to the kitchen for a reviving drink. With a small tray in his hand he had started back when he heard a heavy thud. Dropping the tray on the table he fairly ran to the hall. His father was stretched on the floor. Ortrude and Mrs. Tupper came running from opposite directions. Dudley knelt on the floor listening for a heart beat. He rose very pale and motioned to Tupper to help carry him upstairs.

"Call up the doctor," he said coldly to Ortrude, who stood pale and trembling in the parlor door. "I am afraid it is a stroke of paralysis."

Dudley and the housekeeper carried the sick man to his room and got him to bed. Ortrude crept upstairs and into the room as soon as she was assured that the doctor was on his way to the house. Mrs. Tupper dispatched her on errands and assumed full charge of the patient. When everything possible had been done Tupper stole from the room and beckoned to Ortrude to follow, leaving Dudley sitting by the bed holding his father's hand and counting the feeble pulse. Ortrude waited in the parlor for the doctor, looking anxiously down the road.

DR. BIEDERWOLF TO SPEAK AT EVANGELISTIC RALLY

The spring rally of the New York City Evangelistic Committee, of which the Rev. Dr. Arthur J. Brown is superintendent, will be held in Carnegie Hall, Manhattan, on Monday evening, April 24. The speaker announced is the Rev. Dr. William E. Biederwolf, the noted evangelist. The National Male Quartet will sing at the Carnegie Hall meeting.

NEWARK AMUSEMENTS

There is only one Joseph Quinney as an individual, and as a character, just as there is only one Quinney—the famous establishment in Soho Square; but there are many dealers whose characters are as good as Quinney's, and whose transactions are as honable.

Perhaps you have not yet made the acquaintance of Joseph Quinney; in such case you should make haste to do so if you have any liking for the quaint; for to know Quinney is a liberal education. He is as quaint as the stuff in which he deals, and in the course of a couple of hours or so he will teach you a hundred tricks of the trade and enable you to avoid many a pitfall. Perhaps you cannot go to Soho Square to discover him in that old world "sanctuary" of his, where all his choicest bits are congregated, including his pretty daughter, Posey, the gem of his collection.

But this need not distress you, for Quinney just now is making a business trip especially for your (and his own) benefit, and during the next few days he will be happy to entertain you at the Shubert Theatre, Newark. He must be seen to be believed, but you will always believe in him and in the honesty of the reputable dealer—when once you have seen him. Your friends in town are enjoying "Joe Quinney," enjoying it to such an extent indeed that eight performances in each week hardly suffice for the multitude of customers. Collecting is a cult; "Joe Quinney" is an inspiration.

The same company seen at the Haymarket Theatre, London, and the Maxine Elliott Theatre, New York, including Clifford Brooke in the title role, will be at the Shubert Theatre all next week.

TO REGULATE CHILD LABOR.

Trenton, March 22.—The Public Education and Child Labor Association has called a conference at the State House today to consider what shall be done to properly regulate child labor in the cranberry bogs of New Jersey. An investigation of the subject was conducted last fall, and it was found that about 2,000 children from the public schools of Philadelphia, as well as many thousands of New Jersey school children were engaged in the work on the bogs until five or six weeks after school opens.

MORE TROOPS FOR MEXICO

War Department Orders Fifth Cavalry to Border.

TWO U. S. AEROPLANES LOST

Aviators Sent After American Column Fail to Reach Destination—Bandits, Trapped, Fail In Effort to Break Through Carranza Forces—Funston Expects No Attack, but Is Cautious.

Washington, March 22.—The war department, acting upon a request made by Major General Funston for more troops, has ordered the Fifth cavalry to proceed at once to re-enforce the American column in Mexico.

The regiment at present is distributed into squadrons at Fort Sheridan, Ill.; Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and Fort Myer, Va. These troops have been under waiting orders since last week and will now get under way immediately. The squadron at Fort Myer left on the Southern railway and is due to reach the border the latter part of this week.

Whether the Fifth is to go into Mexico at once or is to take the place of other troops sent to re-enforce General Pershing was not announced. It is understood, however, that Pershing has asked for more infantry and that the Fifth cavalry will take the place of the Twenty-third infantry or some other regiment seasoned to the border climate.

The additional infantry, it is assumed, will be used principally in guarding the lines of communication, although with unofficial reports stating that Villa is heading for the mountains this branch of the service, army officers said, could be used almost as well as cavalry in pursuing him.

Mexicans Friendly, Says Baker.

After examining all dispatches received at the war department Secretary Baker announced that the latest news from Pershing indicated that the attitude of the Mexican natives toward the expedition was still friendly.

"As far as our dispatches show," said the secretary, "not a shot has been fired since the American forces entered Mexico."

Secretary Baker stated that in addition to the Fifth cavalry the new troops ordered to the border include the Twenty-fourth infantry at Cheyenne, Wyo., and that a squadron of cavalry from Fort Ethan Allen, Vt., has been ordered to Fort Myer, Va., to take the place of the squadron of the Fifth, ordered from here to the border.

"These troops," he said, "are going to the border at the request of General Funston to relieve tension along the boundary line and to provide more forces for the protection of the border towns."

Approve Carranza Proposals.

Carranza's proposals looking to the drawing up of a protocol between the United States and the de facto government of Mexico for co-operation in the pursuit of Villa and his band of outlaws met the approval of President Wilson and his advisers. Acting Secretary of State Polk so advised Eliseo Arredondo, Carranza's ambassador-designate, at a conference at the state department.

As a result of this it is expected that the negotiations will now proceed rapidly and that within a few days the two governments will reach an agreement covering every possible contingency which may be expected to arise in connection with the joint campaign against the Mexican outlaw.

Mr. Arredondo declared as he left the department that he was confident that matters would move along smoothly and that there would be no friction between the two nations growing out of the pursuit.

In view of the favorable progress of the negotiations it is thought possible that Carranza may agree ahead of the actual drafting of the protocol to permit the United States to ship supplies to General Pershing's military base at Casas Grandes by the Mexico Northwestern railroad from El Paso.

In again urging the need for such a privilege Acting Secretary Polk, following instructions received by him at the cabinet meeting, assured the Mexican representative that the United States has no intention of using the railroad for transportation of troops or even of ammunition. The sole desire, he informed Mr. Arredondo, was to obtain rapid transportation facilities to provide the expeditionary force with food and water.

Bandits Are Trapped.

Casas Grandes, by Wireless to Columbus, N. M., Maarch 22.—With the tightening of the cordon around Villa to the south a report has reached General Pershing that bandits attempted to break the circle of steel at Namiquipa, but were driven back into a trap by a Carranza force under Luis Herera.

Reports were received from native spies and Mormon scouts to the effect that the Villa band is in sore need of horses and that his generals, Bracamontes and Servantes, were dispatched on raids to get same.

General Pershing is in constant communication with units of the encompassing movement of American troops, all of which are striving for the honor of first contact with the bandit force.

Condition of men and horses in detached columns is reported good. The troops are learning to eat dried Mexican beef and live off the country like Villistas. Horses are now hardened and acclimated, capable of pursuit as soon as the location of the Villa force is determined.

Two Aeroplanes Lost.

Columbus, N. M., March 22.—Two of the United States army aeroplanes sent south for the use of General Pershing's American columns are lost somewhere between the border and their destination, and a third has been smashed in a fall.

Lieutenant T. S. Bowen, a native of Frankfort, Ky., operating the wrecked machine, sustained a broken nose and other injuries and the machine was considerably damaged in the fall. The wind was blowing hard and in eddies, according to wireless messages received at the border reporting the accident. Additional aeroplane scouts have been sent out for the front in an effort to locate the two missing machines. It was stated that they might have become disabled in some manner and forced to alight without serious mishap, in which event repair men are to be sent to them.

General Pershing now has five planes with him for mountain scouting, according to the report of Captain Foulois, in charge of the aerial corps, but the air currents are so uncetain in the lofty mountains where Villa is now hiding that operations by the aerial scouts are difficult. Owing to the lightness of the air in that altitude the machines do not fly well, and the engines, tuned up at Columbus, have to be readjusted to the mountain air of the Sierra Madres.

Funston Playing Safe.

San Antonio, Tex., March 22.—General Funston when questioned as to how many troops he has asked the war department to send him replied:

"A fairly large force." The general said he did not expect an attack, but he wanted to play "safety first" and take no chances.

The three squadrons of the Fifth cavalry which have been ordered to the front are widely scattered. One is at Fort Myer, Va.; a second is at Fort Sheridan, Ill., about twenty miles north of Chicago; the third is at Fort Leavenworth, Kan. These three make up the twelve troops of the regiment.

The number of troops in the southern department and in Mexico now number approximately 30,000, it was said. Practically all these either are south of the border or immediately on the border, scattered from Brownsville westward.

There are in round numbers 5,000 soldiers in the lower Rio Grande valley, but General Funston said these could not be moved from the patrol duty. Therefore the request for troops means they will be brought from other departments.

Department headquarters has not heard direct from General Pershing since Monday night. General Funston would not admit communication had been cut off and explained some delay caused by the accidental breaking of one of the telegraph wires, commonly called a "buzzer."

This damage, however, was said to have been repaired in a short time. The long silence from the front has created some uneasiness in army circles here.

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

Addressing you under the authority of the press committee of the Religious Society of Friends, also as a citizen of your commonwealth, I want to congratulate you upon your new home and extend best wishes for your future prosperity and welfare.

Realizing what a wide field of influence the press has upon its readers and the community, it is largely in your power to uphold a high standard for the city, which is so often judged by strangers from the quality of news items that are considered of sufficient importance to be displayed on the front sheet with prominent headlines. Therefore, I beg you to make your paper more attractive by the elimination from the first page of your issues of those items which deal with crime and immorality.

Would ask, as one of the changes toward advancement, that you devote a special column on the inside leaf to the doings of the police court and all items of this nature, believing it will not only make vice and crime less attractive, but also raise the moral standard of our city.

MRS. RICHARD D. WILLIAMS.

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

Some of my friends have honored me by mentioning my name as a possible candidate for the office of city clerk. I am fully conscious of the distinction accorded me thereby, but I want to make the statement that I am a candidate for no public office. I do, however, want to emphasize the qualifications of a man for this important post whom I have the privilege of knowing.

The City of Plainfield has stood out among other communities of the State as one demanding the highest type of efficiency in its city government. Plainfield is a city of very practical men and women. Most of them are men trained to think and act efficiently. The skilled mechanic in the shop spends his working day under high standards of efficiency. The man who stays in town carries on his business on the highest and most efficient plane he knows. The commuter either demands efficiency of his employes, or as an employer he expects from the head of the business a standard of work that will encourage and help him to the best that is in him.

That being the case, why should not the City of Plainfield, the home of all these voters who believe and practice efficiency, demand, in times like these, the appointment of a man for its city clerk that can maintain the high standards that have made this city conspicuous among other communities for years.

Business men, as a rule, pick the men entering their employ who know how to do the things for which they are employed. When a man has been twenty-two years in a subordinate position in an establishment, all other things being equal, that man normally would make the logical candidate for the office of his chief when it is vacated.

As a taxpayer in the community in which I am proud to live, I look to the Common Council to maintain the same excellent standards that have, in the past, made Plainfield what it is, and since the city clerkship is the executionary office for putting into action the decisions and rulings of the administrative branches of our excellent government, I want to eliminate myself as a rumored candidate for the office in favor of George B. Wean.

ALAMO, RUDDERLESS, ADRIFT

Norfolk Tug Goes to Assistance of Mallory Line.

Norfolk, Va., March 22.—Minus a rudder the Mallory line steamship Alamo, bound from New York, with passengers and freight, for Florida, is 170 miles south of the Virginia capes awaiting assistance. The steamer has sent out wireless calls, and the wrecking tug Rescue was sent to her assistance from Norfolk.

The crew of the Alamo made a makeshift rudder for the steamer, but she could not be properly handled in the high seas, and she appealed for help.

WASHINGTON DENIES RUMORS OF PEACE

No Overtures Made to United States by Berlin.

Washington, March 22.—The state department makes a categorical denial of reports circulated from Washington and published in evening newspapers in New York city to the effect that the German government has intimated that it is preparing to use the good offices of the United States in furthering peace proposals.

The reports were based upon specific statements made in these newspapers that Ambassador Gerard had advised the state department that the German chancellor told him that Germany ask the United States to sound out the allies on peace proposals and that for this reason the American ambassador should not leave Berlin at this time.

The denial stated specifically that the state department has received no such report from Ambassador Gerard. He has neither reported that the chancellor told him that Germany was preparing to ask this government to act as its representative in negotiations looking toward peace nor has he reported that the chancellor has asked him to remain in Berlin because of the possibility that his services might be used along such lines.

The state department every few days receives rumors from Berlin, London, Paris, Vienna and Constantinople that peace proposals are being prepared and that an early settlement may be expected. Reports of this sort have been current in Washington since the early stages of the war, but they are not taken seriously, because the administration has no reason to believe that either set of belligerents is prepared even to consider the peace proposals entertained by its enemies.

P. H. S. SIX WINS ITS FINAL MATCH

Keeps One Point Ahead of Battin in Each Half of Game Played Here.

MISS GOOD IS STAR

Playing Her Last Game for Red and Blue, Team Captain Makes All but One of Her Side's Points—Other Players in Final Appearances.

The girls' basketball team of Plainfield High School ended its season's schedule yesterday afternoon on the local court when it handed Battin a 12 to 10 defeat in an exceedingly fast and well-played game. It evened matters, as Battin gained a victory down at Elizabeth earlier in the season. The playing was speedy at all times, and neither team gained any big lead. The locals were one point ahead at the end of the first half, and barely managed to keep from having it cut down. Irma Good, playing her last game for P. H. S., made all but one of the points, and put up a great game.

After Miss Good had rolled in a foul for the first point of the game, the two Battin forwards each made a goal and kept the visitors in the lead nearly all the rest of the half. The P. H. S. captain put her team one point in the lead by shooting a goal just before the blow of the whistle, and with the help of a foul by Mary Simons, kept it for the rest of the game. The second half was as closely played as the first, but there was less chance for scoring.

The two Battin forwards both put up good games, although Miss Odgen led in the scoring. Miss Jennie Bremble, another who played her last game for Plainfield, put up a great game at guard, as did Priscilla Pennock.

SPORTING NOTES

Duke Kahanamoku, the Hawaiian swimming sensation, is embarking today for the United States, where he will compete in the big swimming meets. His presence is likely to make the title events the greatest in history. Among the stars the Duke will meet are Herbert Vollmer, the New York prodigy, and Perry McGillivray, of Chicago.

The baseball team of Waseda University, in Tokio, leaves for this country in a week or ten days, to play some of the leading college nines of the United States. The Jap players will tour the Pacific Coast and will get to the Middle West, and possibly as far East as New York.

Golfers from Chicago, Indianapolis, Louisville, St. Louis and other mid-West cities are gathering today at French Lick Springs, Ind., for the first annual golf tournament to be staged there. Tom Taggart has donated a championship cup. Today's event is an inter-city match for teams of four at 36 holes. Tomorrow there will be a qualifying round at 18 holes for the championship, and subordinate flights of eight each. Match play rounds will be held Friday. Finals for the flights are set for Saturday.

Fond-du-Lac, Wis., has a big boxing bill on for tomorrow night, when Jeff Smith meets Gus Christie for a ten round go.

New Jersey cycle officials are reviving this spring the famous Irvington-Milburn road race, a classic of the old days of the sport. The revival takes place on Memorial Day. It is a triangle course of 25 miles, and amateur riders from all sections of the East are entering.

Speaking of Walter Johnson, a Washington sportsman tells how the famous pitcher came East from Idaho. Some New York travelers saw him work and begged Joe Cantillon to send out there for him. It looked like the old story "good in the bush, bad between high fences," but a shortage of men induced the Washington club to take a chance. Walter had an eye to business and secured a guarantee of his carfare home if he foozled.

Summit Girls Hold St. Mary's Social Club Scoreless in First Half.

TABS ARE TROUNCED

Quintet of Plainfield High School Boys Trim Abstainers, 35 to 23—Jim Noonan and Dick Lawton Score Most of the Points.

Visiting teams won both games played on the T. A. B. S. court last night. The girls' team from Summit proved to be very fast, and easily defeated the St. Mary's Social Club, 17 to 5. A team of Plainfield High School passers downed the Tabs, 35 to 23.

The home girls were blanked in the first half, but held their own in the second half, when they scored five of the eleven points that were made. The boys' contest was interesting, the P. H. S. lads, who performed under the name of the "Oracle Five," being only two baskets ahead when the second half began.

Jim Noonan was high point man. He tallied six goals. Dick Lawton made five for the Tabs.

SPORT NEWS OF P. H. S. WRITTEN IN SHORT METRE

The members of the boys' and girls' basketball teams and several other members of the school will attend a dance given by the two basketball teams of N. P. H. S. at North Plainfield Saturday night.

The members of the Rutgers team that won in the High School College Basketball League this winter were rewarded yesterday. They got bronze watch fobs.

The girls' Interclass Basketball League will continue tomorrow afternoon, when the Seniors play the Freshmen and the Juniors play the Sophomores.

The return meet with the local Y. M. C. A. scheduled for the boys' swimming team will not come off until sometime next month, having been postponed by the association team. It will be the last of the season for the school boys.

YOUNG TENNIS STARS CLASH.

George M. Church, last year's intercollegiate tennis champion, and Dean Mathey, will play against Harold Throckmorton and Harry McNeil, the Heights Casino professional, on April 8, in the fourth of a series of tennis exhibition matches on the Casino courts, New York, this season.

N. P. H. S. GIRLS HAD GREAT YEAR

Lost Only Two Games, and Those to Teams They Later Defeated.

DEFENSE WAS STRONG

Team Held Rivals to 143 Points, Mainly Due to Excellent Work of Guards—Miss Barnard's Coaching Valuable Aid.

With only two defeats bieminishing their record, the North Plainfield High School girls' team this winter enjoyed one of the most successful seasons in the history of the school, triumphing in thirteen battles, eleven of which were won consecutively.

The boroughites succumbed to two teams, losing the second game for the city title with Plainfield High School, while they also dropped their first defeat of the season to Newark Normal. In both cases these defeats were retrieved, the borough team winning from Plainfield the third game, while they outscored Newark Normal on their own court by a two-point margin, thus not making them inferior to any team which they played. After a hard struggle, the North Plainfield team was able to gain the city championship. The borough team retained the title, this being the second consecutive time they have won, while they claimed the title three times during the past four years.

Winning two championships in succession reflects creditably to the coaching abilities of the one in charge of the squad. Miss Ethel Barnard has handled the borough forces for the past two years, and through her able directions the Maroon and Black team has won over thirty games from high schools in this vicinity, while they have lost only four.

Captain Lillian Spencer and Miss Marjorie Burtis were an excellent pair of forwards, these two players totaling 354 points during the season. Miss Burtis, who has been a regular during the past four years, had a grand total of 223 points, being composed of 78 field goals and 67 fouls, or an average of 15 points per game. Miss Burtis has been one of the best forwards her school has ever had, and her services will be greatly missed next year. Miss Spencer contributed 131 points to her team's score, but she had the faculty of getting the ball often, being a fine passer, helping her teammates considerably.

N. P. H. S. tallied 365 points during the fifteen games, while the apponents were given credit for 143 This is due directly to the fine guarding of the Misses Keller and Doughty. In five of the contests they allowed their opponents 18 points, or approximately three points per game, their forwards' scoring never exceeding four points during that period. New Brunswick High School and Mt. S. Mary's College scoring one and two points, respectively.

When next season commences the vacancies of Bertha Keller and Marjorie Burtis will have to be filled, two of the most consistent players that ever represented that school. With Captain Spencer, May Doughty, Theresa McCullough and Adelaide Ricketts as a nucleus, the outcome does not look dubious.

LIST OF FEATURE NIGHTS AT A. B. C. A. TOURNAMENT

Washington, D. C., March 22.—The officials of the Atlantic Coast Bowling Association are sending out notices to bowlers throughout the East, who are anticipating taking part in the tournament at Washington, commencing April 3, that their entries must positively be mailed on or before March 25.

Judging from all indications, the entry list will exceed all expectations, and the schedule committee is already making arrangements for making up the schedule so that the tournament will start at 8 o'clock in the morning and continue until midnight for the eighteen scheduled days, which eliminates Sundays.

The feature nights for the tournament are as follows: April 3, Woodrow Wilson Night, at which time the President will roll the first ball and officially open the tournament; April 4, Clark Griffith Night, at which time the Washington Baseball Club will participate in the tournament; April 5, Masonic Night, when the Masonic League, composed of twenty teams, will be the feature attraction; April 6, Congressional Night, when Champ Clark and Vice-President Marshall will have representative teams of the nation's leading men, including Congressmen and Senators; April 7, Knights of Columbus Night, when the Knights throughout the East will compose the entire program for the night; April 8, Mardi Gras Night, festivities of all kinds will be indulged in making a gala night of the occasion, in fact, a celebration such as the District of Columbia has seldom witnessed; April 10, Southern League Night, and 11, Southern Night! 12, Commercial Night; 13, New York Night; 14, Philadelphia Night; 12, Commercial Night; 13, Syracuse Night; 18, Ladies' Night, which will be recognized as a society event; 19, Moran and Gude Night; 20, West Virginia Night; 21, Elks' Night, at which time Elks' lodges representing cities east of Pittsburg will roll for the handsome Elks' trophy, and the closing night, April 22, will again be celebrated by Mardi Gras.

FROM BIG LEAGUE CAMPS

Young Giants Win Out.

San Antonio, Texas, March 22.—Triples by Jim Thorpe and Benny Kauff pulled yesterday's game with San Antonio out of the fire for the Giants' second team. New York won, 7 to 4.

Matty Suffers Split Finger.

Marlin, Texas, March 22.—Christy Mathewson had the little finger of his pitching hand split by a hard hit grounder in yesterday's practice, and he retired from the games after having pitched three-hit ball for six innings.

Yannigans Clout Cy Pieh.

Macon, Ga., March 22.—Cy Pieh, who is slated to be one of the first Yankees canned by Manager Donovan, was slammed hard by the second team yesterday, the Colts winning the game, 11 to 0.

Marquard Pitches Cleverly.

Daytona, Fla., March 22.—Pitching the last four innings for the second team, Rube Marquard exhibited the best form yesterday since the Dodgers began training here. He held the regulars at bay, and the colts won, 9 to 6.

Phils Lick Cubs in Twelfth.

Tampa, Fla., March 22.—The Phillies whipped the Cubs again yesterday, needing twelve innings this time. The score was 9 to 6.

NEWARK ELKS MAY ENTER A. C. B. A. TOURNAMENT

Bowlers from Newark will probably form two teams, which will compete in the Atlantic Coast Bowling Association tournament next month at Washington. The Newark Senior Elks' League pinners are expected to form one quintet and the other will be composed of pinners representing the Weingarth-Whatton Academy. The Newark Elks are expected to roll April 21, which is to be Elks' Day at Washington. The W.-W. team will ask for a date around April 15.

The Elks' team will be composed of the bowlers who will represent the lodge in the American Bowling Congress tournament at Toledo: Charles Wagner, William Weingarth, Richard W. Erler, Lewis Van Ness and John Speary.

The W.-W. pinners will be George Sutter, Andrew Gralf, Frank Gilland, Jimmy Whatton, George Dennebaum and James Hoagland. The entry of the local teams will probably be sent to Washington today or tomorrow.

SCHOOLBOY ATHLETES.

On Saturday afternoon the Princeton Club of New York City, will conduct its sixth annual interscholastic track and field championship games at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory, in New York. Thirty of the public and private high schools of the city have entered their complete track and field teams. More than eight hundred entries were received by "Sammy" Reid, one-time captain of the Princeton baseball team. Last year "Poly Prep's" team, which represented Brooklyn, won the championship.

SEASON RECORD OF P. H. S. SIX

Basketball Girls Won 10 Out of 17 Games, and Outscored Opponents.

TOTALED 246 POINTS

Got Off to Bad Start, But Won Ten of Last Thirteen Tussles, Bowing Only to N. P. H. S.—Only Two Members Will Be Lost.

Winning the last game of the schedule, the girls of the Plainfield High School basketball team closed a fairly good season yesterday afternoon with a record of ten games won out of seventeen. Getting off to a bad start, they lost four games before a win was registered, but when the team got balanced some excellent work resulted. In every case where they had been trimmed once by a team, usually on a foreign court, the P. H. S. maidens turned in the second game and made matters even. North Plainfield was the only sextet to gain two verdicts, the boroughites winning the interscholastic championship after three of the best games ever played between the girls' teams of the two schools.

The P. H. S. girls outscored their opponents by a margin of thirty-one points, which is pretty good when the closeness of the scores is taken into consideration. Only four times did the locals tally over twenty points in a game, while their opponents did so but twice. Roselle Park handed out the worst defeat, but a second game wiped it out. Cranford was easily beaten twice by Plainfield.

Irma Good, who, after being captain for two years, has played her last game for P. H. S., was the individual point leader, with Mary Simons, second and Elsa Palmer, third. Clementine Bremble, playing at center, was probably the most valuable member of the team, as besides putting up a great exhibition of passing, she shot goals from the middle of the court on three occasions. Natalie Goetter also showed up well at side center for her first season, and the graduation of Jennie Bremble will break up the best combination of guards that has graced the squad in a number of years. Elsa Palmer was the only one to play in every game.

With only Irma Good and Jennie Bremble lost by graduation, the prospects for next year are unusually bright. The center berths should be the strong points, while there is a host of material for the forwards and guards.

TRAPSHOOTING HAS BECOME POPULAR WINTER SPORT AT MANY NEW JERSEY COUNTRY CLUBS

Trapshooting has become so popular as a sport during the past two years that it is now as much a feature of country club life as golf. Through New York and this State the country clubs are meeting in inter-club matches, with from seven to ten shooters on the teams, and each match brings out more followers of the sport.

Some time ago the Baltusrol Golf Club at Short Hills installed five traps so as to give its members something to do when they couldn't talk with Colonel Bogey, and the club succeeded so well that it soon had a trapshooting squad, and now they are competing in a tournament with the teams of the Arcola Country Club, Rumson Country Club and Essex County Country Club, Essex County and Rumson Country Clubs have been interested in trapshooting for a number of years, but not to such an extent as they have been this season.

The Rumson golfers are very enthusiastic over the "sport alluring." Not only have they installed the ordinary assortment of spring traps, but W. G. Green, the professional golf instructor, has introduced several novelties in shattering the targets which are extremely popular.

Real brush shooting is indulged in by means of a pathway about sixty yards long through scrub oaks, young pines and b[illegible] with traps concealed in the brush that shoot the blue rocks out unexpectedly and at every conceivable angle. As in field work in Scotland and England, the gunner has a beater, but the Rumson beater follows the gunner, instead of preceding him, and springs the traps as he walks behind the shooter down the pathway.

The targets can be sent up in singles, pairs or convoys, and the traps are so set that the gunner gets a full variety of shots, straightaway, headon, quartering, full cross, high, low, and, in fact, in every direction. Another innovation is the setting of traps in the top of the water tower, near the clubhouse, from which the clay birds are sent whirling down in the manner of wild ducks coming into decoys. The speed of these targets furnishes a real test of gun and gunner.

All over the country clubs that were formed for tennis and golf are adding trapshooting to their list of sports, and some of the most important clubs are conducting important shooting events yearly, among them being the New York Athletic Club, Manahassett Bay Yacht Club, Laurel Club, of Lakewood; Oakland Golf Club, of Long Island, and Pinehurst Country Club.

LIDGATE SIGNS WITH CLUB IN DELAWARE COUNTY LOOP

Eugene Lidgate, a former Plainfield High School backstop, has been signed by the Media Club, of the Delaware County League, to do the catching this year. Besides being the league that Frank "Home Run" Baker made famous, it is considered one of the best independent organizations in the country, and plays only Saturday ball. Lidgate had several flattering league offers, but like his townmate, Frank Hand, who turned down a Philadelphia American contract, he prefers week-end ball playing.

BOWLING NEWS

The team that represented Newark Council in the Knights of Columbus League will roll in the Knights of Columbus Eastern championships on Friday, March 31. The championship tournament is being rolled on Thum's White Elephant alleys in New York. The Newarkers will bowl in the five-man, two-man and individual competition. The Newark team won the five-man championship last year, while Jack Speary captured the all-around individual championship with an average of 205.5.

Eddie Feihl will shoot Andy Hellmann on Jackie Clark's Branford place drives in Newark tonight. This is the second half of a home-and-home series of fourteen games. In the first seven games rolled on the alleys of the Northern Republican Club, Hellmann gained a lead of 118 pins.

BASEBALL CHALLENGE.

The Clifton A. A., a fast-traveling semi-pro team, of Clifton, which made an enviable record on the diamond last year, is desirous of booking games with clubs in this vicinity offering suitable inducements.

Managers seeking a fast attraction can be accommodated by communicating with G. Kertocy, P. O. Box No. 48, Passaic, N. J.

BATTIN AND P. H. S. GIRLS HAVE A PARTY AFTER GAME

After finishing their basketball season yesterday afternoon by beating Battin High School, the members of the Plainfield High School girls' basketball team, together with the members of the Battin team, were entertained at a "feed" given by Miss Ruth Wean, the P. H. S. coach. About twenty were present and enjoyed a social time with speeches and toasts by Irma Good, Elsa Palmer, Miss Wean and several members of the Battin team.

NEWS OF THE GOLFERS

Apparently having given up all hope of immediate springlike weather, the officials of the Rockaway River Country Club are arranging to have Tom Gourlay, professional there, give indoor instruction on golf at the country club, beginning next week, and keep up the good work until it is possible to play with comfort outdoors.

The Milwaukee Golf Club, in conjunction with the Blue Mound Golf Club, will try to work out some scheme whereby the caddies can be formed into groups of boy scouts. This has been done before in Western clubs. A start has been made in the direction of giving better housing quarters to the boys. The idea is to have the caddies feel that they are assistants, rather than servants.

Although no plans have been given out yet, it is understood that something like 7,000 square feet will be devoted to the miniature nine-hole links on the new Garden Pier at Atlantic City. This will have a height of seventy-five feet, which will enable the enthusiast to make mashie shots to his heart's content. It is believed that there will be a resident professional on hand all the time, and that the playing fee will be so small as to stand in the way of no one.

Do You Want a "Guest-Tenant?"

When you rent a room of your home to someone, you secure a "guest tenant." Your "roomer" is a guest of your house, on a business basis—but still a guest, somewhat in touch with your home, and this makes it highly important that the person should be of the right sort.

In advertising a furnished room it is a simple matter to indicate that the tenant-to-be must have reasonably convincing credentials as to character. You will thus have applications from a desirable class of people while a dog sign or window card would merely bring to you the chance passer-by.

THIRTY THOUSAND MEN FOR MILITARY TRAINING CAMPS

With camps at seven different points and an expected enrollment of 30,000 men, the "Plattsburg idea" will loom large in national affairs this year. The "Plattsburg idea" is a plain plan for military training of Americans. It does not advocate militarism. It is simply a plan to give young men four or five weeks of healthy, outdoor life and military training in the field under regular army officers and with regular army troops.

The original Plattsburg camps will continue on Lake Champlain, where the first one will open June 5 and continue until July 2. Four other camps will follow there in succession, lasting until October 5. The first camp, this year, will be at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., from April 3 to April 30. The camp at Monterey, Cal., will begin early in July. Other camps will be held at Fort Sheridan, Illinois; at San Antonio, Texas; Salt Lake City, Utah, and American Lake, Washington. Others will probably be announced a little later, especially for the Middle West.

Headquarters, 31 Nassau St., N. Y.

To systematize the work, the Military Training Camps Association has been organized with headquarters at 31 Nassau street, New York City. D. K. Jay is in executive charge of the machinery for enrollment in the camps all over the country. There is no conflict among them. Each is drawing men from its tributary territory and all are working in close co-operation. Mr. Jay says "the association will steer clear of political activities and devote itself exclusively to the single purpose of encouraging and providing military training for young men."

General Leonard Wood, head of the Department of the East, in a public statement, says, "The whole effect of the camps has been excellent, both from the standpoint of increasing the sense of each man's responsibility to the nation for service and his obligation to fit himself to render it effectively and efficiently. I believe all men who have attended these camps have left them better, physically and morally, and with a higher and better conception of their duty as citizens."

Foundation for National Army.

Since, under present conditions, the men at the camps are obliged to pay their own way, no express obligation or enlistment under the Government is involved. Those who have followed the trend of the training, however, are impressed with the possibility of the Plattsburg idea becoming the foundation for a national army, through effective help and recognition by the national government. Throughout the whole idea prevails the spirit of efficiency, discipline, patriotism, and national service.

The purpose of the training camps association is to develop the common aims not only of the several camps but to co-ordinate the Plattsburg work with results the students' camps have accomplished. The student volunteer camps, which started at Gettysburg in 1913, have been merged into the general Plattsburg movement.

The association, from its headquarters at 31 Nassau street, New York City, has announced that it will send any applicant full details concerning enrollment and instruction.

FIELDER SETS A NEW VETO RECORD

Governor Sends Back 39 Bills in One Day With His Written Disapproval.

SEVERAL WERE LOCAL

Pierson Municipal Finance Bills, Morgan State Normal School and Pierce Grade Crossing Measure Included in List.

Trenton, March 23.—Governor Fielder established a new record for vetoes when he sent thirty-nine to the House and Senate yesterday. Of this number thirty-two went to the House last night and seven to the Senate earlier in the day. Among the bills introduced by Union county representatives that came back with the written disapproval of the Governor, were seven of Assemblyman Pierson's municipal finance bills. These bills are rated as among the most important enactments of the session, and were presented to carry out party platform pledges. In explaining his veto Governor Fielder pointed out that twenty-five separate municipalities in the State had sent representatives to Trenton to oppose the passage of the bills, and that the only municipality in the State that urged their enactment was Westfield, Mr. Pierson's home town.

The Morgan bill, providing for a new State normal school at Elizabeth, introduced by Assemblyman Morgan, of this county, was vetoed on the ground that the location of the school should be determined by the State Board of Education.

The Governor found many objections to the Pierce grade crossing measure, under which railroads would be compelled to eliminate at least one grade crossing each year for every forty miles of track. Some of the objections were that the Pierce bill would relieve street railway companies of all obligation to pay any part of the expense of removing crossings which they use; that the bill fails to make proper provision for eliminating several crossings which may occur at one point and that it provides contradictory methods for payment of costs.

In disapproving the Gaunt bill to reorganize the agricultural department the Governor took exception to the wide range of power given the new board which would be chosen at a convention composed of delegates selected by farmers independently of any official or State body.

Among the measures vetoed was the Wolverton bill designed to abolish capital punishment by giving juries in first degree murder cases power to direct the substitution of life imprisonment. It was assumed that in practical operation the death penalty would be rarely, if ever, exacted.

In vetoing Assemblyman Pancoast's measure amending the Geran election law by eliminating some of the questions to be asked of voters, providing an additional registry day and doing away with personal registration in municipalities having a population of not more than 10,000, the Governor took a stand against tampering with the election machinery provided during the term of his predecessor, President Wilson. He held that the proposed amendments would materially weaken the measure.

In vetoing a bill appropriating $10,000 for a monument commemorating the retreat of Washington across New Jersey over a bridge spanning the Passaic River, the Governor suggested that such a memorial might better take the form of something useful as well as merely ornamental.

In disapproving a term extender and salary increase bill applicable to members of the steam engineer and boiler operators license bureau in the Department of Labor the Governor said the members of the bureau were not so modest as the Commissioner of Labor, since they wanted life terms, the Commissioner in another measure having asked only an extension of two years.

The Dalrymple bill amending the act of 1912 by permitting the erection of portable booths for moving picture exhibitions in halls and buildings was disapproved on the gound that it would materially weaken the original act. Other Houses bills vetoed included:

Increasing the salaries of boards of freeholders and officers in first class counties.

Compelling the American flag to be displayed outside of all polling places.

Fixing 6 per cent. as a maximum rate of interest on municipal bonds.

GERMANS TAKE FOREST TRENCHES

Success of Fierce Assault on Small Position is Complete, They Claim.

RUSSIANS ARE ACTIVE

Move Against Austrian and Teuton Fronts—Bulgaria Arrests American Consul Employe—Divers Go Down to Tubantia.

Berlin, March 23.—German war statement:

Western theatre.—"The German success at the Avocourt forest, northwest of Verdun, has been made complete by the occupation of the French positions at Point d'Appui, on the mountain ridge west of Haucourt. Four hundred and forty prisoners were taken. Otherwise the general situation on the west front is unchanged.

Eastern theatre.—"The Russians yesterday showed the utmost aggressiveness and there was a great activity throughout the evening and night. They advanced with strong forces against the German positions at the Janobstadt bridgehead and on both sides of the Mitau Janostada railway.

Schilling Says it was Mine.

Berlin, March 23 (via Sayville, wireless).—Richard Schilling, one of the American citizens on board the Tubantia, has returned to Stuttgart from Amsterdam. In an interview today he declared that from the hollow sound of the explosion he is sure the Tubantia was sunk by a floating mine and not by a submarine. He said the ship was brightly illuminated on the night she was sunk, and her name spelled out in electric lights. Mr. Schilling, although an American citizen, is the consul for Gautamala at Stuttgart.

Norwegian Bark Sunk.

London, March 23.—The Norwegian bark Lindfield, 2,276 tons, has been sunk off the Irish coast. Thirty members of the crew were rescued and taken to Queenstown today. The Lindfield was enroute from the Pacific coast of the United States to England. It sailed from Portland, Oregon, on November 7, and from Astoria, Oregon, on November 9.

England Takes Big Liners.

London, March 23.—The Prize Court has condemned the Prince Adalbert and Kronprinzessin Cecilie of the Hamburg-American line, which have been taken over by the British Government. At the beginning of the war both vessels were held in British ports, and have remained there ever since.

American is Arrested.

Paris, March 23.—A despatch from Bucharist says that the Chancellor of the U. S. Legation at Sofia has been arrested by the Bulgarians, who allege that he bribed a police official to issue several passports. Charles J. Vopicka, United States minister to Roumania, Bulgaria and Serbia, has demanded the release of the Chancellor.

Fight East of Meuse.

According to this afternoon's bulletin issued by the French War Office there was a violent bombardment east of the Meuse River during the night. West of the Meuse the fire decreased in intensity and the general situation is unaltered.

Divers Examine Tubantia.

The Hague, March 23.—Divers employed by the Dutch government have examined the sunken hull of the Dutch liner Tubantia, which was destroyed by a mine or torpedo off North Hinder Sands last Thursday morning. The liner found lying on her side in 15 fathoms of water. Scraps of metal were found. The investigation has not yet disclosed through what egency the ship was sunk.

To Debate U-Boat Issue.

Amsterdam, March 23.—The budget committee of the German Reichstag, according to advices from Berlin, will debate the submarine question next week. A debate in the House has been found advisable.

CONCRETE COMPANY'S OFFER.

It has been learned from an authoritative source that if Dunellen cares to surface South avenue from Washington avenue with concrete, the Ransome Concrete Company which has perfected a machine which mixes and spreads the material will do the work free of charge providing that the town furnishes the material and puts the street to grade. II is said that the company will make a similar offer to this city in connection with the improving of South Second street from Rock avenue.

ANDERSON WILL REFORM COUNTY

Declares Corkscrew is Emblematic of Political Candidates There.

HEADS A NEW LEAGUE

Members Not to Be Made Public, But Purpose of Organization is to Depose Whiskey Interest From Power.

Declaring that a corkscrew is emblematic of political conditions in Somerset county, William De la Roche Anderson, former Assemblyman and now chairman of the Watchung Township Committee, has started out to bring about a reformation.

Mr. Anderson is at the head of a new political organization, members of which are not to be known except by their work, the avowed purpose of which is "to depose political dictators in Somerset who serve those engaged in the whisky business." He would not give the names of members of the new organization, saying that there could be no good in subjecting more than was necessary to the disagreeable things which are bound to come in a fight of this kind, but said that enough workers had been secured to make the organization a potent factor in political affairs. Mr. Anderson's explanation of the new league, which has not been named, follows:

"It is not as reformers, anti-saloon leaguers or prohibitionists that we are making this effort but merely as citizens who have a sense of proportion and who, no matter how lenient we may be as to the use of spirituous liquor, do not stand for its abuse either personally or politically and who strenuously object to alcohol getting the best of us in either a personal or political way.

"When we witness the selling out of a political organization against its own candidate and in favor of the liquor candidate, when we see the bondsmen of high officials as representatives of the liquor traffic, when we see those who pretend to stand for temperance and decency acting in accordance with the wishes of the liquor element and when a corkscrew, with knife attached, is presented by a successful candidate as a token of appreciation of election we conclude that the corkscrew is emblematic of the condition of political affairs in our county and that it is high time to put the 'brakes on.'"

"We will co-operate with the temperance organizations of the county but will ask that those interested from our especial angle offer their services or their contributions to this organization direct."

Because the troops now marching in Mexico are not in one place long enough to establish field kitchens the government is having soup wagons built like those in use in the German army, and these will be taken with the column wherever it goes in Mexico. Sergeant J. L. Buzzacott, who invented the present field service kitchen, is in charge of the work of having the field kitchens built and will go to Mexico to take charge of the first battery of these portable kitchens. The picture shows an army kitchen in the field.

Park Avenue Baptists Hold Annual Meeting and Elect Officers for the Year.

Deacons were elected and reports presented at the annual meeting of the Park Avenue Baptist church last night. Rev. Dr. Birney S. Hudson, the pastor, presided. The reports showed that during the past year there was a net increase of fifty in the church membership and an increase of eighty in the membership of the Sunday-school. All other departments were reported as being in excellent condition.

The deacons elected for the coming year are as follows: David M. Runyon, Americus Hellyer, B. F. Hadley, John H. Doane and Charles R. Vincent, the last named being a new member of the board. Charles Hellyer was elected treasurer of the benevolent fund and William F. Doane was re-elected cerk.

The annual meeting of the church and society is fixed for Wednesday, April 12, but inasmuch as the Biederwolf evangelistic campaign will be in progress at that time, it will probably be postponed to a later date.

UNION PRAYER SERVICE IS LARGELY ATTENDED

Notwithstanding the inclement weather, the union prayer meetings held last night were well attended, and the spirit of the cottage prayer meetings is being expressed in these union meetings. In the First Baptist church, Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson led the meeting, over which Rev. J. Y. Broek presided. This group was composed of the following churches: First Baptist, First M. E., First Presbyterian, Trinity Reformed, Temple Baptist and the Netherwood Reformed.

The second group met in the Congregational church, Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie and Rev. Edwin Shaw both speaking. In this group the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church and the Seventh-Day Baptist church united with the Congregational, and Edward L. Suffern, chairman of the official board of the Congregational church, presided.

Rev. J. O. McKelvey led the union meeting for the third group in the Grace M. E. church. The churches united in this group are the Warren chapel and Wilson Memorial church.

Robins, of East Second street, this city. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents, and was performed by Rev. Otis M. Trousdale, pastor of the First Reformed church, of Newark, assisted by Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, of Plainfield, of which the bridegroom is a member.

Her bridesmaids, the Misses Dorothy N. Clark and Evelyn Willis, both of Newark, wore charming creations of turquoise blue and white silk net. They carried arm bouquets of daffodils.

The flower girls, Catherine B. Miss Linnett's gift from the groom was a dinner ring, while her gift to him was a scarfpin. Her gifts to Miss Willis and Miss Clark were a lavalliere and brooch, respectively. To the flower girls she gave gold barpins. The best man received a scarfpin and the ushers silver cigarette cases.

IMPROVED TROLLEY SERVICE FOR THE BORO

Mayor W. L. Smalley Confers With P. S. C. Representative on the Subject.

Mayor W. L. Smalley, of North Plainfield, held a conference this morning with J. J. Gettings, of Elizabeth, representing the Public Service Corporation, relative to the improvement of the trolley service on Somerset street, the borough. The matter was gone over thoroughly and while Mr. Smalley would not give out the exact results of the conference, he expressed the hope that the people of the borough are to have relief from the present unsatisfactory conditions.

The matter of widening Somereet street, which is proposed by the Borough Council, entered into the plans for a change, and it is expected that the trolley company will in the near future give the people what they want.

When Somerset street is improved the trolley company will be required to stand one-third of the expense, according to the ordinance under which the company is permitted to operate cars in the borough, and it is the opinion that the company will then adjust traffic conditions in response to the request of Mayor Smalley.

CARRANZA SOLDIERS JOINING VILLA TO WAGE WAR ON U. S.; MAY CALL OUT STATE TROOPS

ANTI-AMERICAN SENTIMENT ALONG BORDER HAS BROKEN LOOSE—DISQUIETING REPORTS FROM GENERAL FUNSTON.

CONSUL AT CHIHUAHUA NOT HEARD FROM.

Col. Cano, Who was Engaged in Battle With Bandits, Said to Have Gone Over to Leader With 900 Men—General Herrara, Hater of Americans, Also in Revolt—Eleventh Cavalry Crosses Border.

Washington, March 23.—A resolution, authorizing the Government to offer a reward of $50,000 for the body of Francisco Villa, was introduced in the House today by Representative Scott of Pennsylvania.

El Paso, March 23.—Fear of a general anti-American uprising in Chihuahua and all other border states is freely admitted here Carranza generals are reported to be unable to handle their soldiers, who are deserting to join Villa, and those who understand the border believe that all of Northern Mexico will be up in arms against the United States within a few more hours, if this has not already happened.

The most disquieting reports come from the State of Chihuahua, where it is said that Gen. Luis Herrera, long an enemy of Americans, has revolted against the Carranza government and gone over to Villa with his 2,000 soldiers. Col. Cano, in charge of the garrison at Namiquipa, and the garrison at Agua Prieta, are also said to have declared sympathy for Villa and to be in open war against the United States.

At noon today no word had been heard from American Consul Letcher at Chihuahua City for more than twenty-four hours. Consul Letcher has been in daily communication with the State Department since the American invasion of Mexico began. His reports, while disquieting, have been cheerful and optimistic. The fact that he has not reported for more than a day and a night leads to the belief that troops of Herrera have carried out oft-spoken threats to murder all Americans in their territory.

The Mexican representative here has received an emphatic denial of the revolt of Herrera.

Col. Cano, with 900 troops, engaged Villa in battle near Namiquipa several days ago. Reports of the fighting have been received here, but lately no announcement of the outcome has been made. It is now reported that Col. Cano went over to Villa with all his troops. This means that Villa has escaped the net thrown around him by Carranza and United States troops and that his band has been materially strengthened by armed and trained men, probably carrying cartridges passed across the border recently by the United tSates Government.

Macardo Herrera, a brother of Gen. Herrera, was arrested here last night by Capt. Hall, of the El Paso police. He has been charged with conspiring to murder American citizens.

The situation in Jaurez, where many Americans have remained, is disquieting. Street cars between El Paso and Jaurez have been stopped and efforts are being made to get some kind of protection for the United States subjects still across the border there.

May Call the Militia.

Washington, March 23.—Secretary of War Baker refused to discuss the Mexican situation here today, but he did not deny that he was considering a call for State troops, and it is believed that volunteers will be needed at once. Gen. Funston has wired for more men, and there are but 7,000 regular soldiers available. To send this number would mean the stripping of every post in the entire country, with the exception of the coast artillery stations, and the throwing into field service of all staff officers.

Eleventh Goes Into Action.

Chattanooga, Tenn., March 23.—A private despatch received at Fort Oglethorpe today states that the Eleventh Cavalry, formerly stationed there, has crossed the border in support of Gen. Pershing's command. The regiment was sent across in three detachments. Col. Lockett, of the Eleventh, has been promoted to Brigadier-Commander, and Col. Sands succeeds him.

Lansing Back in Charge.

Washington, March 23.—Secretary of State Lansing is expected to return to his desk at the State Department today. He will take immediate charge of the delicate Mexican situation and will hold the various issues with European belligerents in abeyance for a time.

Baker Asks for $8,000,000.

Washington, March 23.—Secretary of War Baker this afternoon sent to Congress estimates of over $8,000,000 needed to cover the cost of the

AUGUSTA, GA., IS RAZED BY FIRE

Thirty Blocks Burned—Loss Estimated at More Than $5,000,000.

Augusta, Ga., March 23.—Fire swept through ten business blocks of Augusta and twenty residence blocks last night and early today, causing damage conservatively estimated at not less than $5,000,000 and made 3,000 persons homeless. No lives were reported lost, although there were scores of narrow escapes and several firemen were severely burned.

The flame-swept area covers something like one and a quarter square miles, and in it were the city's largest office and business buildings on the north side of Broad street; warehouses on historic "Cotton Row," containing thousands of bales of cotton, and some 600 homes, many of them in the city's best residence section.

LAST SAD RITES FOR WILLIAM F. WILLIAMS

The funeral of William Frederick Williams, the well known borough resident, who died suddenly at midnight Monday, was held this afternoon at his late home at 136 Somerset street. An extremely simple service was conducted by Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, in the presence of a gathering of relatives and friends, the latter including a delegation of business associates from New York. There was a profusion of beautiful flowers, several of the larger set pieces having been extended by wholesale leather houses in New York and intimate friends in Plainfield and vicinity.

Burial was made in Hillside cemetery, the pallbearers being a nephew, Charles D. Williams, of Brooklyn, and the following close personal friends: Newton B. Smalley, Frank Rowley, George Kirch, Charles C. Randolph and William F. Day.

EMPLOYER ACCUSES HAMIL OF EMBEZZLING $98

James Hamil, an employe of Geo. Wescott was arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of embezzlement, preferred by his employer. It is charged that Hamil failed to turn over $98 collected by him that belonged to Mr. Wescott. He entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned before Judge DeMeza, and the case was passed for one day.

SELECTIONS FROM ORATORIO.

The quartet choir of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will give a musical service Sunday afternoon at 4:45 o'clock, when selections from Stainer's oratorio, "The Crucifixion," will be given. The quartet will be assisted in the service by an augmented choir.

MRS. MARY PASCH.

She had been at the hospital since March 11. Besides her husband she leaves several small children. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

SUIT PENDING AS RESULT OF ACCIDENT IN FANWOOD

There is a case at present pending in the Court of Common Pleas in Elizabeth that grew out of a collision on Martine avenue, Fanwood. Louis Sutterline is the complainant and is asking $3,900 damages from Walter H. Taverner, of Westfield, for injuries said to have been received when the Westfield man ran into the wagon Sutterline was driving toward Fanwood.

The accident occurred on the night of March 4. Coming from behind, it is alleged, Taverner struck the local man's wagon, demolishing it and throwing him into the roadway. Instead of stopping, it is charged he sped away and Sutterline asked the Fanwood authorities to locate the man. The Trenton records helped identify him and the suit resulted. Taverner claims the local man had no light on his vehicle.

BORO LAWS IN BOOK FORM.

Now that the Borough Council has passed all the ordinances needed for the time being at any rate, the printing and stationery committee is having several hundred phamplets printed that embody all the borough ordinances. When completed one will be placed in the hands of each resident so that he may acquaint himself with the laws of the borough. In the past year the Council has passed a dozen ordinances that have in nearly all cases already proven their worth.

GIRLS TO CLASH.

A game was scheduled yesterday by the manager of the basketball team of the Sunshine Weavers with the sextet of the Y. W. C. A., of Plainfield. It will be played on the Parish House court Monday night.

CHANGE IN DATE.

It is expected that the social being arranged by the women of the Methodist church will be held in the Parish House on the night of April 11 instead of at the home of one of the women on April 2.

OFFICERS ELECTED FOR COMING YEAR

Baptist Young People's Union Has Had a Successful Year of Work.

At the annual meeting of the Baptist Young Peoples' Union conducted Monday night, an election of officers was held that resulted in the following selections: President, Mrs. Edward Johnston; vice president, Willard Marston; secretary, Miss Edith Jahn; treasurer, Harry Paff; chairman devotional committee, Horace Daniels; chairman social committee, Miss Edith Jahn; chairman flower committee, Miss Ella Schenck; chairman membership committee, Edward Hatfield; chairman music committee, Mrs. George Dunn, and superintendent junior society, Miss A. E. Johnston.

The receipts during the year were reported at $181.32 and the expenditures at $176.34, leaving a balance on hand of $5.18. It was also reported that over 3,600 bunches of flowers were sent to the New York poor during the year. The Union now supports a missionary in Africa, and during the year formed a junior society in charge of Miss Johnston.

MAY IMPROVE NEGLECTED ROADS IN NEAR FUTURE

Now that King street, one of the thoroughfares that forms the boundary line between Fanwood borough and township, has been put in shape successfully under the joint supervision of the borough and township authorities, the other streets, Westfield road and Summit avenue, are to receive like attention during the coming spring and summer. In forming the borough in 1895 the boundary line was drawn up so as to run on the inner side of the three above thoroughfares, and ever since that time the two places were at odds as to which should stand the expense of the upkeep. No agreement being reached the roads were neglected and at certain seasons were hardly passable. Last fall the street committee met and it was mutually agreed that each town should bear half the expense of whatever repairs were made.

King street was the first road to be fixed, being finished last fall, and it is next proposed to repair Westfield road. It is one of the most traveled roads in the two towns and those who have occasion to use it will welcome any repairs. The stone carters who use that street in going to and from the stone crusher have offered the use of themselves and their teams, and with that aid the expense should be considerably lessened.

FRANK CORIELL TO BUILD FINE SUMMER RESIDENCE

The chances are that before the end of the coming summer the Willow Grove section of the township will have another large country estate. Plans are already made for a large country house for Frank Coriell, of Plainfield, to be erected on property owned by him on Martine avenue, known as the Sinker farm. It is said that the cost of the structure will be in the vicinity of $40,000 and will be the showplace of this section. The probable location of the house will be on a hill overlooking Martine avenue a little south of the present farmhouse. Mr. Coriell has intended building there for several years, but it is said that actual work will be started the forepart of warm weather.

It will mean the passing of another of the farms in that section of the township that are rapidly being turned into country places, and with the eighteen hole golf course with all modern improvements that is being built by W. R. Nelson in that section, there will undoubtedly be more changes in the coming year.

HEALH BOARD BUSY.

Although no definite action can be taken until Mayor William H. Hoar fills the three existing vacancies, the Fanwood Board of Health has held several meetings recently to discuss the adoption of several new ordinances and the amending of others. Some form of ordinance to govern the actions of garbage collectors in the borough will be the first to receive attention, while the plumbing and milk codes will be somewhat altered.

FUNERAL AT CLINTON.

The body of Thomas R. Gruman, who died Tuesday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. William C. Strong, of the borough, was taken to Clinton, N. Y., this afternoon, where the funeral and interment will take place tomorrow. He was in his sixty-eighth year, and for the past three years had lived with his daughter. Another daughter residing in New Brunswick survives him.

In Want Ads Do Not Use An Unnecessary Word, Nor Omit a Necessary One

A want ad may be too short as well as too long. There ought to be, always, a rational brevity—but this should not preclude a touch of "human interest"—the statement of such facts as will give the advertisements a certain DEFINITENESS instead of vagueness.

Forget the Sound of Borough's Long Idle Fire Alarm Bell

Fanwood borough has established in the twenty odd years that it has been incorporated some rather unique records, but what is probably the best one for residents is in the matter of fires. It has been slightly over two years since the volunteer firemen were called out and local people have nearly forgotten the sound of the old alarm bell.

The Westcott fire, which was one of the worst in the history of the borough, was the last occasion that caused any great stir. It occurred early on the morning following the heavy snowstorm of March 1, and with the thermometer registering six degrees above zero the men that responded had all they could do to keep the fire from spreading to adjoining dwellings. Two automobiles belonging to the doctor, besides wagons and other things stored in the barn, were consumed by the flames, and the coachman saved his life by jumping from the second story window.

SCHOOL PUPILS' TRANSPORTATION BILL HAS ATTRACTED CONSIDERABLE ATTENTION

Two rather important facts concerning the local schools were announced Tuesday night at the annual election held in School No. 1. For the first time in local history an amount for the transportation of students going to Westfield and Plainfield High Schools was included in the amount appropriated for current expenses. It was also made known that the time limit set by the State Board of Education for the partitioning of the assembly room of School No. 1 had nearly expired, and it is probable that a meeting of the voters of the district will be called in a short time to take action on the matter.

For a number of years past the Board of Education has been on the point of providing transportation for local pupils going to the Plainfield and Westfield High Schools, but each time some added expense has caused the matter to be postponed. Recently several parents took the matter up with the State Board of Education with the result that the Township Board was asked to hurry matters.

Figuring as closely as possible under the circumstances the Board has calculated that about $3,000 will be needed to send the nineteen Plainfield pupils and twenty-six Westfield pupils to school. The State will bear seventy-five per cent. of the expense, but it will not be received until next December. It is not known exactly when the Board will start paying transportation, but as the voters were in favor of it, it may start any time.

In trying to relieve the congested condition at School No. 1 a year ago the Board of Education secured permission from the State authorities to partition the assembly room in two classrooms. That move, together with the building of School No. 3 gave promise of postponing the necessity of building an addition to the school for several more years. But such was not the case, as upon the re-opening of the schools last fall the increased attendance made more crowded quarters than before. Even with the shifting of pupils to School No. 3 and the use of the extra rooms in the assembly hall, it became necessary on January 1 to discontinue the kindergarten class in order to make room for the other grades. Now that the State authorities will not extend the time limit, the extra rooms will have to be torn out and matters will be more acute than ever.

The only solution seen by the Board of Education is the building of an addition to the school similar to the one that was built in 1901 and it will be for that reason that a meeting of the voters will probably be called in the near future to decide the question.

CHURCH NEWS BRIEFS

The members of the Lend-a-Hand Society of the Baptist church will meet in the church parlors tomorrow afternoon.

The next meeting of All Saints' Guild of the Episcopal church will be held on March 31 at the home of Mrs. James Mineszek, of Midway avenue.

A weekly meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Episcopal church was held yesterday afternoon at the home of the Misses Whitehead on Martine avenue, when the women continued sewing for charity.

The weekly Lenten service in the Episcopal church tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock will be in charge of the Rev. Oscar S. Michael.

A social will be held in the Willow Grove chapel Monday night.

Mrs. Elifritz, president of the Union County Temperance Union, will speak at the Methodist church on Friday night, March 31.

The annual meeting of the trustees of the Baptist church will be held in the Parish House on the night of April 3.

In the absence of the Rev. J. Madison Hare, A. D. Beeken conducted the prayer meeting in the Baptist church last night.

INTEREST IN FORUM.

The Rev. J. Madison Hare has not announced any special subject for discussion at the Men's Forum this coming Sunday, but anyone will be welcome to ask questions that will invite discussion in answering. No special speaker has been secured, but Mr. Hare is making plans for the "Transportation" meeting on the following Sunday, April 2. Besides General Passenger Agent Hope, of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, and Superintendent Hines, of the Public Service Corporation, he expects to have a representative of the New Jersey Telephone Company present, probably Paul Burns, superintendent of the Plainfield district.

—That funny fellow scoop is on the classified page.

AWAITING WEATHER MAN.

As soon as the weather permits a few minor details left unfinished around the new school in the Graceland section of the township will be completed by the contractors. The ground has not yet been graded and a flagpole has to be erected. The structure, which is of the latest fireproof construction, was especially commended by the inspector from the State Board of Education on a recent inspection.

—Do the available household workers of this city, who read the classified columns of this newspaper, know that you need a good servant?

CLASSIFIED ADS. WILL BE GIVEN COUNTY-WIDE CIRCULATION IN THE FUTURE.

Beginning today, advertisers using the classified columns of the Plainfield Daily Press may also have their advertisements inserted in the Elizabeth Evening Times upon the payment of one-half more than the rate charged by the Daily Press. Thus, if your Press advertisement costs forty cents, you may pay twenty cents more and have the same advertisement inserted in the Elizabeth Times, a paper having a circulation of 9,000. Through this agreement between the Press and Times, classified advertisers will be assured an additional circulation of at least 9,000, and the extra cost will amount to only fifty per cent. of the price formerly paid for the Press advertisement alone.

The Elizabeth Evening Times has earned a reputation for itself as an advertising medium, especially along the classified line, and the advertisements placed with the Press will receive a circulation in this and other counties that has never before been equalled.

MODERN EDUCATION IN THE TOWNSHIP.

By S. Dana Townsend, Superintendent Fanwood Township Schools.

In the schools of Fanwood Township effort is being made to relate the studies of the pupils to the actual conditions of life in the home, the community, and the school. To this end the work in geography lays especial emphasis upon the geographical and commercial features of the district; in the history study special attention is paid to local history; in connection with the work in arithmetic the pupils are required to ascertain what problems are actually met with in the business of the community.

Every proper interest of children is educational; and the school authorities feel that everything possible within the means available should be done to broaden the interests, and consequently the capabilities, of the pupils in the schools. The girls are being taught to sew, the boys are being encouraged to make articles in wood which may be either of use in the home or school, or may be a practical application of the arithmetical knowledge learned in the classroom. The aim in all this is to vitalize the work of the schools through the attempt to relate the work to the genuine interests of the children. It is believed that abstract knowledge has very little place in the education of children below the high school age.

All of the teachers are interested in the policy of the schools as indicated, and are equally entitled to credit for the success of the work done in its furtherance. In the upper grades Miss Emma T. Crowley has accomplished much in making the work in arithmetic really practical; Mrs. Florence W. Dodd has encouraged the pupils to obtain a great deal of most excellent geographical material by writing to all of the important railroad and steamship lines, and to many of the large industrial concerns; Miss Anna Littell has collected and uses in the classroom a most excellent collection of pictures and documents relating to local and national history; and these teachers are equally active in directing the manual activities of the upper grade pupils.

TOWN TOPICS

IT'S A LONG TIME COMING.

Spring arrived at 5:39 Monday afternoon according to newspaper reports But where did it linger? Certainly not in Scotch Plains or Fanwood. Old "residenters" are wagging their heads and laying awake nights trying to figure out just when the tubers will be ripe for digging this year. Never before have they been forced to entertain the snow king for so long a stay during the month of March and the wiseacres have long since ceased to predict when gentle spring and her retinue will sweep down upon us. Some, however, have concluded that it's going to be a summerless 1916 and that farmers hereabouts will have to content themselves with meager and stinted crops. Snow has fallen with an unprecedented ease for days past and the rain and sleet that has accompanied it has made vehicular and walking conditions bad. All that's left is hope and if we don't get a little encouragement pretty soon we're not going to pay our annual visit to the pawnshop with that winter overcoat.

GET ACQUAINTED.

We have with us this week several new advertisers on the Scotch Plains-Fanwood page. Do you know them? If not, now is the time to get acquainted. The home trade slogan cannot be impressed too deeply on the readers' minds and these business men have a perfect right to expect to be given a chance to supply community demands. Business prosperity means municipal prosperity and that's what the citizens of Scotch Plains and Fanwood are seeking. No merchant, professional man or mechanic will linger long in a town that does not recognize him and try his wares or service and without this class of resident the suburbs are likely to fall into a cut not easily gotten out of. Show your civic pride by patronizing home industry and use the Press business directory to guide you in every undertaking.

AN EFFICIENT SERVANT.

In Alfred D. Beeken's retirement from the Board of Education the township has lost a director of education who has served well and faithfully for twelve years. It is the regret of the community that so efficient an official should be forced by ill health to sever his connection with so important a body and it is the wish of all that he may regain his normal strength and return to the official fold that his experience and ability may be devoted to the welfare of the township. Mr. Beeken will be succeeded by Thomas Norton, another able man who is returning to public life following his refusal last January to accept a third term in the Borough Council. The community well knows Mr. Norton's record as a councilman and that he is well qualified to take up the burden laid down by Mr. Beeken is the unanimous opinion. We wish him success and join with the township in wishing Mr. Beeken a speedy return to health.

NOTHING DOING.

That there is an imperative need for trolley service to Fanwood is the opinion of all, but the widely circulated report that the Public Service Railway Corporation was contemplating such an extension has no foundation. Firstly the expenditure necessary in realizing such a convenience would not be warranted and secondly the Public Service Corporation would not look favorably on the proposition after being enjoined from running the trolley line through the borough some twenty years ago. Those persons who have occasion to travel to surrounding towns would welcome the improvement but the number is too limited to guarantee a remunerative return for the cost of constructing and maintaining such a highway.

According to the statistics of the local Board of Health this place is entirely free of contagious diseases at the present time and the township has but four cases, these being confined to the Willow Grove section. This is a condition we might well be proud of and it is to be hoped that it will continue for time to come.

During the past week Mrs. Stephen G. Van Hoesen, of Fanwood, was appointed New Jersey State chairman of the committee on arrangements for "Humane Sunday." She served in a like capacity last year and it was largely due to her zealous efforts that the novel idea proved a success throughout the entire State. Mrs. Van Hoesen for a number of years has been instrumental in promoting anything that pertains to the welfare of dumb beasts in this section and few are as intimate with humane conditions in New Jersey as she.

Will the granting of transportation to school children prove a burden or a benefit to the township? This is the big topic of the day in Fanwood and the citizens have split into two factions as the result of the favorable consideration by the Board of Education of such a proposition. For some time past parents of those children attending Plainfield and Westfield High Schools have argued that they are entitled to railroad fare but the issue has from time to time been put off. The matter came to a head when the question was taken up by the State Board of Education at the instigation of several parents and it now seems apparent that it will become a reality. It is claimed that the parents of those children attending High School can well afford to supply car fare but on the other hand even the most pessimistic will be forced to admit that provision for transportation will prove an incentive to higher education throughout the borough and in all probability the number of students will be tripled in another year.

CONCESSION FOR SILK WORKERS

Shorter Hours Promised by Paterson Mill Owners.

OFFER MAY BE REJECTED

Operators Want Reduction Immediately and Situation Is Critical—Manufacturers Are Given Until April 3 to Reconsider—Fred Boyd Set Free and Quinlan's Release Probable.

Paterson, March 23.—The manufacturers have answered the ultimatum of the silk weavers with a promise.

They agree to meet the demands of the united 20,000 mill operators for a nine hour day with a compromise of a nine and a half hour day, to go into effect May 1, and on Nov. 1 to establish the nine hour day. They hold it is impossible for them to make further concessions now, as the filling of many advance orders make it imperative that the present schedule continue. A change now, they said, would mean a loss of thousands of dollars.

Whether this reply to the demands of the workers will be satisfactory is conjectural. In mapping out their action they declared they would place no credence in promises made by the employers. The shorter day concession was pledged in terminating the 1913 strike, but was never lived up to.

The members of the four big labor organizations' branches here, the American Federation of Labor, the Brotherhood of American Silk Workers, the American Textile Workers and the I. W. W., will meet to consider the manufacturers' reply. In view of their attitude toward promises, the situation appears ominous, and it is the consensus of opinion here that the threatened strike will materialize.

There is a very general belief in this city that if there is not a strike in the silk mills as a result of the nine hour agitation Patrick Quinlan, the agitator who was sent to prison as a result of the last strike, will get his freedom. His release has been petitioned for a year now, and Judge Klenert, who has the disposal of the case, is said to be inclined to agree to recall the sentence and terminate it in the near future.

Fred Boyd Set Free.

Trenton, March 23. — Fred Boyd, who was convicted of advocating sabotage in the Paterson silk mill strike has been released from state prison He was sentenced to serve from one to seven years and was fined $1,000 The petition asking a parole for him had thousands of signatures, including those of ex-President Roosevelt and Lincoln Steffens. Boyd recanted his radical tenets. His minimum term has expired, and the board of pardons ordered his release.

ENDOW TWO BEDS AT THE HOSPITAL

Pupils of the Hartridge School Show Further Interest in Local Institution.

At this time, when there are so many new and worthy causes brought about by the war conditions abroad, to enlist the sympathies and to demand needed help, it is most gratifying to learn that charitable needs in Plainfield are not overlooked. The pupils of the Hartridge School have contributed $400 to endow two beds, for a year, in the children's ward of Muhlenberg Hospital.

This continued interest on the part of the Hartridge pupils is encouraging to the hospital managers, and is particularly so when one remembers that the entire furnishings in the children's ward were the result of the excellent efforts of the pupils of Hartridge School.

The Young Men's Auxiliary, which the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital authorized to be formed to enlist the active co-operation of the young men in the affairs of the hospital, has started on its career of usefulness. The young men were gotten together the other evening by President Ladd and they organized by electing Murray Rushmore chairman and Thomas M. Day, 3rd, secretary. This is the beginning of what will probably develop into a most helpful adjunct to the hospital management.

UMBRELLA MENDERS FALL OUT AND GET IN JAIL

Peter Gordon, Thomas Murphy and John Norton, umbrella menders, who have no home, fell out while going about their business here yesterday, and as a result they had the police station roof for a covering last night. All three were brought before Judge DeMeza this morning on charges of disorderly conduct. They were willing and anxious to leave Plainfield, and the judge gave them this opportunity.

H. H. VAN NESTE WEDS MISS EMMA DANZ

Ceremony is Performed in Plainfield by Rev. Frank Fletcher.

Miss Emma F. Danz, of New Market, and Howard H. Van Neste, of this borough, were quietly married at noon yesterday by the Rev. Frank Fletcher, a former pastor of the First Baptist church of New Market. The ceremony was performed at Mr. Fletcher's home on Grove street, North Plainfield. The couple was attended by Mrs. Bertha Moody and William Danz, a brother of the bride. The bride wore a dark blue traveling suit.

Following the ceremony the bridal party went to the home of Mrs. Bertha Moody, where a wedding luncheon was served. Others present at this luncheon were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ahearn and Mrs. Hannah Johnson. After the luncheon the couple departed on a honeymoon trip of several days' duration. Upon their return they will make their home with Mrs. Bertha Moody until June 1, when they will go to housekeeping here.

Both bride and groom are well known throughout this vicinity. The bride is a life long resident of New Market. She is the daughter of the late Herman and Lena Danz, who came to New Market some thirty years ago. Herman Danz at the time of his death some twenty years ago was the proprietor of the Lake House now run by Frank Stilwaggon. Mrs. Danz continued this business until two years prior to her death eight years ago.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Van Neste, of Neshanic. He is employed by the Public Service Railway Company. He has been a resident of this borough for the past fifteen years, during which time he has boarded at the home of Mrs. Bertha Moody. He is a member of Friendship Council, Jr. O. U. A. M.

DIME CONUNDRUM TEA AN ENJOYABLE AFFAIR

The twenty-five or thirty women who attended the dime conundrum tea under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal church at the home of Mrs. Ella Kennedy, Tuesday afternoon, had an enjoyable time. At each plate was a menu slip and these apprised the women that the conundrum part of the program had commenced. There were ten entries on each slip but the names of each were spelled wrong.

One proficient in solving difficult conundrums could have her choice of five of the ten entries which included sandwiches, salads, fruit, relishes, tea, water, etc. Pencils were given each guest by the waitresses and they were told to check any three of the entries which they desired.

In doing this some of them fared well and others the reverse. The guest who had the poorest luck received a pickle, an olive and a glass of water. She had checked off a string of letters which placed in their proper places would have spelled "a temperance beverage."

Later the menu slips were returned and all were given a chance to check off two more entries, bringing the total up to the aforesaid five.

Following the luncheon the afternoon was spent in solving other conundrums and in a general social way. During this part of the program Miss Estelle Eick rendered a number of piano solos which were enjoyed. Mrs. J. F.G. Kinney and Mrs. Ella Kennedy, who arranged the affair, were congratulated upon its complete success.

BELIEVE STOLEN AUTO IS ON WAY TO PLAINFIELD

The local police this morning received word from Milburn to look out for a stolen automobile, which, it is believed, will be brought through here. The machine is a big National, license number 2,100, engine number 14,933, car number 14,412. It was stolen from the garage of William Bagley about 3 p. m. yesterday. A tall man called at the Bagley home and said he had been sent for the car to bring Mrs. Bagley home.

HOT TEA BREAKS A COLD—TRY THIS

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Adv.

Observers all over the world found significance in the announcement by James W. Persons favorable to the allies asserted that Germany sought peace and wanted Mr. Gerard to remain in Berlin to act as an intermediary.

NEARLY 108, HE DIES IN HIS FIRST ILLNESS

Jersey Man a Democrat Ever Since He Voted For Jackson.

George Niper, nearly 108 years old, died on a farm near Stanhope, N. J., the other day after an attack of pneumonia, which lasted only three days. It was his first illness. He was the oldest man in New Jersey probably.

Mr. Niper was born on May 11, 1808. "Them was the good old days." Thomas Jefferson was president. There were 7,240,000 people in the United States, of whom 1,200,000 were slaves. The war with Great Britain was declared four years after Mr. Niper first saw the light in a log cabin. He lived near Stanhope all his life.

This patriarch chewed tobacco for ninety-six years. Until time and death closed his eyes he never wore specs. In the winter of his days he made ax handles for a living. He was a Democrat; he voted for Andrew Jackson and boasted that he cast a straight Democratic ballot at every election since.

Mr. Niper came of a long lived family. His father died at ninety-nine, his mother at ninety-seven. He leaves six sons, of whom the youngest is sixty-six; two daughters, thirty-four grandchildren and eight great-great-grandchildren. Since his wife departed at eighty-one Mr. Niper had kept bachelor's hall with two of his unmarried sons.

"DON'T WORRY" IN TRENCHES

Frenchman Explains Why There Is No Need to Get Excited.

Henri Raveau, a Paris business man, at present a sergeant of engineers at the front in France, sends a friend in the United States the following amusing litany, which he says is very popular in the trenches:

"You have two alternatives—either you are mobilized or you are not. If not, you have nothing to worry about. If you are, you have two alternatives—either you are in camp or at the front. If you are in camp, you have nothing to worry about. If you are at the front, you have two alternatives—either you are in reserve or you are on the fighting line. If in reserve, you have nothing to worry about. If you are on the fighting line, you have two alternatives—either you scrap or you don't. If you don't, you have nothing to worry about. If you do, you have two alternatives—either you get hurt or you don't. If you don't you have nothing to worry about. If you do, you have two alternatives—either you get slightly hurt or you get badly hurt. If slightly, you have nothing to worry about. If badly, you have two alternatives—either you recover or you don't. If you recover you have nothing to worry about. If you don't, and have followed my advice clear through, you have done with worry forever."

SOLDIERS JOINING VILLA

Mexican expedition and the recruiting of the army to full strength, as authorized last week.

Denial from Carranza.

Washington, March 23.—The Carranza agency today received emphatic denials of reports that more than 2,000 troops of the de facto government has deserted to Villa. The State Department has no information on the subject.

Two Scouts Are Killed.

El Paso, March 23.—Two American army scouts are reported to have been killed in a brush with Villista forces in the El Valle-Namiquipa district of Chihuahua, in which the pursuit of Villa is progressing.

Word to that effect was received by army officers here. It was the first report of an American killed since the punitive expedition entered Mexico.

Fighting is believed to have been in progress between American troops and the Villa command at intervals. Whether this had been a running fight or a series of brushes with advanced outposts of the Pershing column the indefinite advices received via Casas Grandes do not make clear.

Active preparations continue to be made here for sending troops into western Chihuahua through Juarez and over the Mexico Northwestern railroad. Although consent has not been given yet by Carranza for the use of this line southwest of Juarez, United States army officers are showing unusual activity in preparing for such a movement.

Conductors, engineers, firemen, brakemen and other trainmen are being listed, so that only Americans will be employed. All of the equipment in El Paso, including the locomotives in the town railroad yards, has been carefully inspected and listed, and the army is now said to know exactly how many trains can be moved and where the crews for the trains can be called night or day.

The quartermaster's corps is especially active and is making plans for establishing a base in El Paso larger than that now in Columbus.

The local railroad men are co-operating with the army in getting equipment and locomotives, and it is said that everything will be ready to move within twenty-four hours. One officer declared that the activities not only were preparations to send supplies to the column now in the field over the Mexican Northwestern railroad, but also that troops would be sent through this port.

General Bell, military commander of the El Paso patrol district, had a conference with Mexican Consul Garcia, but neither would make a statement. However, it is believed that they discussed the shipping of supplies by the Mexican Northwestern to the Pershing column. After the conference Consul Garcia declared:

"I know of no arrangement by which supplies are to be shipped to the American troops out of Juarez."

It is said that the department at Washington has put the matter up to Carranza at Queretaro and that General Bell conferred with the consul with a view of getting hurried action. The consul went to Juarez after the conference and was at the telegraph office for some time.

Wire Service Restored.

The hope that Villa may be defeated and captured or killed, which arose out of the reported battle at Namiquipa on Monday, was discounted when wire communication was restored south of Juarez, and it did not bring any news of importance to Carranza officials relative to the battle.

The wire had not been cut, as supposed. The Mexican operator for the Mexican Northwestern railway had merely left his key open and gone off some place, according to the railroad officials. The Carranza officials got all their information from Casas Grandes over the wire.

El Paso since the announcement of the battle of Namiquipa has been on the alert to learn whether or not the American troops forming the column under Colonel Dodd were anywhere near Namiquipa when the engagement is supposed to have occurred and if he was near what part the colonel and his command may have had in the combat.

Tells of Massacre Plot.

Galveston, Tex., March 23.—Mrs. Jessie Barbour, one of the American refugees who has arrived here on the Morgan tank steamer Tapilo from the oil fields west of Tampico, brought the story of an anti-American murder plot.

She reported that several hundred Mexicans who attended a banquet at Tampico last week passed a resolution calling for the murder of every American in the city and adjoining country and were only prevented from carrying out their murderous designs by the prompt action of the Carranza soldiers then in possession of the district. Many prominent Mexicans of Tampico and the state of Tamaulipas attended the banquet, she said. Mrs. Barbour declared, and so did others of the Tapilo's passengers, that Americans were openly insulted in Tampico and that life in the oil fields of Panuco is not worth living. Mrs. Barbour states that 250 Americans now in Tampico and vicinity are literally begging for conveyance to the United States and that murder, robbery and starvation pervade the smaller towns in the Tampico district.

"CHOOSING A VOCATION."

Supervising Principal D. Fred Aungst, of the North Plainfield schools, will address the members of the Borough Parent-Teacher Association at their meeting in the Harrison Avenue School this evening on the subject of "Choosing a Vocation." The meeting will be called at 8 o'clock.

ACCUSE NEGRO OF LARCENY.

Ernest Trent, colored, entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned before Judge DeMeza this morning on a charge of larceny. He was arrested on complaint of William Hill. Hill charges that Trent took a gray raincoat from him. The case will be tried tomorrow morning.

COMPLETE COURSE IN MUSIC TAUGHT

Subject is Now Part of Borough School Curriculum and Credits Are Given.

A thorough and complete course in the theory of music and sight-reading is being established in the North Plainfield schools from the primary and grammar grades through High School under direction of S. Frederick Smith, supervisor of music. The required subject matter of the grades is preparatory for the High School course, which is elective and for which credit is now given.

It is the opinion that credit should be given for music fundamentals which includes sight-reading in the grammar grades as in other subjects, where a practical and systematic course in the technical knowledge of music is followed. There are few subjects in the school curriculum which have as refining and elevating influence on the future lives of children as music, it is said, and the best results are impossible until the subject is systematically taught and placed upon the basis of other subjects with credit in the elementary and grammar grades as well as in the High School.

Some interesting facts recently came to light in a response to a questionaire in which two high schools gave credit for music lessons outside of school. These were probably not in New Jersey. Five high schools treat music as a major subject with full credit, and nearly all other high schools give credit for music proportionately to the work done. The following is outlined as a four year course with credit for the Borough High School.

First year—Music fundamentals, no text books. Elements of music. Advance sight-reading, ear training, elementary voice culture, melody writing, study of lives and works of important composers, elementary acoustics, elementary harmony to dominant seventh chord.

Second year—Musical appreciation, history of music, analysis, development of the mediums of expression, rise of oratorio, detailed study of grand opera, ancient music, rise of notation, period of church counterpoint, the organ, the piano, development of piano technic.

Third year—Voice culture—individual and choral singing, detailed study of breathing as applied to voice training, voice placing, execution, technic of interpretation, Italian school of voice training, folk songs, recitative and aria, composers, characteristic examples.

Fouth year—Intervals, major and minor keys, chord progressions, the structure and use of triads and their inversions, four part harmonization of given and original melodies, cadences, passing-tones, the structure and use of dominant, supertonic and leading tone seventh chords and their inversions, composition in small forms, advanced ear-training, elementary chromatic harmony.

FRIDAY HAPPENINGS.

They Register Many Important Events In American History.

Are you a good American and do you look on Friday as an unlucky day? You are not superstitious and are quite sure that one day is just like another as far as national significance is concerned? No doubt that is true, and yet the importance of Friday in American history, as it has been worked out, makes an almost convincing showing for itself. We have not forgotten that Columbus discovered the new world on Friday, Oct. 12, 1492. Did you know that he also set sail on the sixth day of the week, that he started on his return voyage on that day and that he reached Palos on another Friday? In addition to six vital points in the Columbus exploration, which were marked by Fridays, that day was carried over into our national experiences with England.

Cabot's commission from Henry VIII. bears the date of Friday. On that day of the week the Mayflower landed, and on a much earlier Friday the town of St. Augustine was founded. One G. Washington was born on Friday, and that day marked the seizing of Bunker Hill, the surrender of Burgoyne at Saratoga, the discovery of Arnold's treason and the surrender of Lord Cornwallis at Yorktown. This was in 1781, almost five long years after John Adams made the famous motion in the Continental congress that "the United States are and ought to be independent." That declaration was made on Friday, the 7th of July, 1776, three days after the actual drawing up of the Declaration of Independence and six years after the Boston massacre, which precipitated the Revolution.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The First Anthracite Coal.

When the first two tons of anthracite coal were taken into Philadelphia in 1803 the good people of that city, so the records state, "tried to burn the stuff, but at length, disgusted, they broke it up and made a walk of it." Fourteen years later Colonel George Shoemaker sold eight or ten wagon loads of it in the same city, but warrants were soon issued for his arrest for taking money under false pretenses.

All but the Cover.

"Did you hear about Scribbles? The police caught him walking out of a hotel writing room with about $10 worth of the hotel stationery under his coat."

"What did he have to say for himself?"

"Said he was gathering material for a novel."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

DR. WAITE ARRESTED AFTER SECRET AUTOPSY

New York, March 23.—District Attorney Swann today ordered the arrest of Dr. Arthur Warren Waite owing to discoveries made in investigating the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Peck, of Grand Rapids, Mich., parents of the physician's wife. A secret autopsy on the body of Mr. Peck at Grand Rapids revealed arsenic in his stomach. The district attorney also has obtained information from a maid employed by Dr. Waite in whose home Mr. and Mrs. Peck died. The district attorney stated that Waite's arrest was not ordered on a charge of murder but that he might be in custody in reference to the maid's story.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts if Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-know authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.—Adv.

DUNELLEN WANTS MOTOR APPARATUS

George I. Apgar, Jr., Points Out Necessity for An Up-to-Date Fire Department.

With the completion of the sewage system and restoring the thoroughfares of Dunellen to a normal condition, the residents of that borough are now of the opinion that one of the most urgent needs is the purchase of a combination hose and chemical motor fire truck. The agitation for this improvement has been emphasized by the action of North Plainfield in placing an order for such an apparatus. George I. Apgar, Jr., president of the Apgar Construction Company, in discussing the matter today, said:

"Many towns, not a few of which are no larger than Dunellen, are replacing horse-drawn vehicles with motor apparatus. Here in the borough we have an apparatus which must be drawn by hand if no team of horses or motor vehicle is about. This system is a disgrace to the borough, which, with this exception, is a modern municipality.

"Since the rapid expansion of the borough during the past five years there has been no fire of any consequence at any distance from the fire house. This good fortune cannot continue forever, and one of these days a fire will break out and, through the tardy arrival of the department, will gain such headway that great damage will result and there will be a big clamor for the purchase of modern equipment.

"I believe in preparedness. The money expended in national preparedness, as well as for a local municipality, is well spent. The nation is beginning to realize this. It is time for Dunellen to wake up. The Council should take immediate action on the matter. True, the borough has had to raise considerable money to pay for the new Lincoln School and sewers, but its credit is good. This must be kept good, for money will have to be raised to improve streets, especially North avenue, and to remodel the Whittier School into an eight-room building, which will be necessary in two years owing to the rapid growth of the borough; but the expenditure of a few thousand dollars for a motor fire apparatus will not impair the borough's credit.

"The local bank would readily advance the necessary money for such an object. North Plainfield will turn its horses and old truck in as part payment on the new apparatus, the net cost of which has been reduced from $4,200 to $2,500. This same plan could be adopted here.

"One consideration is that the cost of operating the motor vehicle would be less. Now when a motor vehicle takes the fire apparatus to a fire it costs $5, and that expense could be saved. Another consideration is that the purchase of a motor apparatus should lower insurance rates in the borough.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through you hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy, and you look years younger. Wyet's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Adv.

CONDITIONS OF THE EARLY MISSIONARIES

Mrs. Helen B. Montgomery Gives the Second of Series of Lenten Talks.

"Indian Christianity Taking Root" was the subject of the second lecture given in the First Baptist church yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Helen Barrett Montgomery, under the auspices of the Interdenominational Mission Study Class. Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, led the devotional portion of the program.

Mrs. Montgomery's talk was given in her usual fine clear style, her chief line of thought lying with the conditions the early missionaries had to grapple with in India. There probably is no more idolatrous country than India, and because of the rank or caste of the people in the villages, it was a difficult problem to get any of the natives to enter the schools, because through so doing the entire family and village would turn against them. Much of the work of Christianizing was done in groups, thus discarding that fear of the individual.

Next Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Montgomery will continue her talk on India, dwelling on the "Social Service in India and Burma." Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of the Grace Episcopal church, will conduct the devotional service.

APPOINT APPRAISER OF GRIGGS' ESTATE

Action Taken Today Upon Petition of Mrs. Grace S. Wallace of Plainfield.

Brooklyn, N. Y., March 23.—Upon the petition to the court by Mrs. Grace S. Wallace, of Plainfield, Joseph Welwood, a transfer tax State appraiser, was today appointed appraiser of the estate of David Augustus Griggs, a grand-uncle of the petitioner, who died in his sixtieth year in New York on July 24, 1889, and was buried in Brookline, Mass.

The surrogate directed the appraiser to file his report at the earliest possible date, the reason being that the petitioner wants to pay to the State all taxes due out of the estate under the inheritance tax law. She does not state why she waited so long before taking this action.

According to the petition those only interested in the estate now are the petitioner; Bertha S. Hunt, of Bedford Hills, N. Y., and Hilda S. Fox, of Mount Kisco, N. Y., two other grand-nieces, Frederick W. Wallace, of Plainfield, as executor of the estate of Addie L. Seccomb, a deceased niece and the Brooklyn Trust Company as substituted executor and trustee of the estate.

Two accountings, according to the records, have been filed. In the first accounting the tax executor showed that the testator had left an estate of exactly $82,175.45. This was directed to be divided among the several heirs.

SEEKING RECRUITS FOR UNCLE SAM'S ARMY

A United States Navy recruiting party, composed of Lieutenant W. J. Mosses, Dr. E. C. Taylor and C. W. T. Griffin will visit this city tomorrow. They will examine at the post-office building any young American between the ages of 17 and 30 years who wishes to join the United States navy. Examinations will be conducted between 3 and 8 p. m. The examination is prolonged into the evening in order to give young men who work during the day an opportunity to come.

The officers were gratified with their last visit here on March 10, when three qualified out of twelve applicants. The United States navy offer any young American citizen of good character and in good, sound physical condition, the best chance to see the world, learn a trade, save money and, above all things, to serve his country.

RUSSIA'S GREAT ATTACK WIDENS

Strong Forces Hurled Against German Lines.

CZERNOWITZ IS EVACUATED

Kaiser at Verdun Front as Violent Artillery Duels Rage—Paris Hears Final Assault on French Fortress Is Imminent—Germans Bring Down Three Aeroplanes.

Berlin, March 23.—The German war office announces that, despite heavy losses, the Russians are continuing their vigorous offensive in the district south of Riga.

The great offensive movement of the Russians has increased in extent. The points of attack have become more numerous, and advances followed each other without interruption at several places throughout the day and night. The strongest storming attack was again directed against the front northwest of Posavy. At this point the losses of the enemy reached an extraordinarily high degree, even for the numbers of Russians in action.

During a successful counter attack at the point where small inroads were made in our lines eleven Russian officers and 572 men were taken prisoners. During many other engagements south and southeast of Riga, near Friedrichstadt, west and southwest of Jacobstadt, south of Dvinsk, north of Vidzy and between Narocz and Wiszniew lakes, our brave troops repulsed the enemy completely, inflicting the greatest possible losses on him, and during counter attacks took away more than 600 prisoners from the enemy. The Russians did not succeed at any point in gaining any success. Our losses were slight in all these actions.

Austrian Front Broken.

London, March 23.—The Austrian front on the Dniester has been broken at several places by the Russian offensive, according to special dispatches from Petrograd. The Austrians suffered serious losses in their retreat. Several hundred were drowned.

A wireless dispatch from Rome asserted that the Austrians have abandoned Czernowitz, capital of Bukovina, because of the Russian victory on the Dniester. The report is unconfirmed and was received with reserve here.

Violent artillery duels occurred on the front northwest of Verdun, the Paris war office announces, but the Germans did not renew their infantry attacks.

Kaiser at Verdun.

Emperor William has returned to the Verdun front, and the final assault on the French fortress is about to be made, according to advices reaching here from Berlin by way of The Hague.

The statement issued in Paris follows:

West of the Meuse the artillery duel was very lively in the region of Malancourt, Esnes and Hill 304. A particularly violent fire was directed against the Haucourt hill.

East of the Meuse the bombardment was intense to the region of Vaux and Damloup.

The German war office announced:

During the work of clearing up the battlefields after the attacks of March 20 northeast of Avoncourt and owing to the occasional capture of additional trenches from the enemy outside the wooded sectors, the number of unwounded prisoners captured has been increased to fifty-eight officers and 2,914 men. Artillery battles continued on both sides of the Meuse with great violence, although at times they became less intense.

At Obersept the French again attempted to make up for the check they suffered on Feb. 13. They were repulsed with considerable losses.

Three enemy aeroplanes were put out of action by our aviators in aerial engagements north of Verdun. Two came down behind our front northeast of Samogneux. The third crashed down in flames.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, MARCH 23, 1916.

At last it has come! The housemaids have formed a union in Denver and are demanding twelve dollars a week salary—not pay—Sundays off, shorter hours, more polite treatment and "followers" allowed. It was not such a long while ago that such suggestions were taken as a joke everywhere, but this time the matter is mighty serious for the employers of household servants. If all these things are not forthcoming the maids will not strike. Instead, they threaten late meals, flirtations with the master of the house and other inconveniences. The union has rented a house where the maids will live between "situations," and here will be posted a list of names of employers, with characteristics described in no uncertain terms. Just how are those who praise the ten-hour day for women in employment going to get around a proposition of this kind when the servants in their own houses are considered? If things keep on as they are now, with the scarcity of maids, and the Denver movement becomes nation-wide, it will soon be so that the only people who can work a full day will be the heads of the household. Pretty soon they will have to be paying themselves overtime.

Next Tuesday night is the time set for the investigation of the conduct of the fire department, asked for by J. Irving Lyle, as a result of the way the blaze was handled which destroyed his home. There have been all sorts of unkind things said about Chief Doane in the matter, and it is a good thing that the affair is to be aired, once, and we hope, for all time. There is a whole lot to be said on the Chief's side; more, perhaps, than his opponents realize. Instances are quoted in which it is claimed fires have been poorly handled, where persons who were on the scene say that nothing that could be done was left undone by the Chief and his men.

"Spring here this afternoon" was the text of a misguided headline on Tuesday. It begins to look as if the arrival was to be much delayed, in spite of the almanac.

"Who is behind Villa?" asks an exchange. Recent developments would indicate that he has sharp bayonets behind him, no matter which way he turns.

Unless some legal obstacle is thrown in the way, and it does not seem possible that such a step will be taken now, the new City Hall will probably be ready for occupancy early next year. The passage by the Legislature of a bill making it possible to spend up to $150,000 for the building and land, has relieved the city fathers of the only thing which embarrassed them in their plans. In any public improvement of this kind the authorities must look to the future, and the new City Hall will be a credit to the city. The lack of a municipal building has been felt here for many years, and it is to be hoped that the Council will expedite the erection in every way.

It begins to look as if the splendid work which has been done by Company K, Second Regiment, of this city, is at last to be recognized by the State. The appropriations committee of the Legislature has reported a bill which includes $25,000 for an armory for the local soldier boys, and usually when an amount is included in the bill there is little or no trouble about it being voted. Captain Peterson and the friends of the Company are to be congratulated upon their persistent efforts in the matter, for to them is due the credit for securing the appropriation.

Have you sent your dime toward Marjorie Sterrett's Battleship Fund? Children all over the country are contributing to the cause through representative newspapers, and already several thousand dollars have been raised for the cause. Plainfield youngsters are sending their contributions to the Daily Press, and each day the list grows. One youngster proudly announced that he earned his mite shoveling snow, and others are telling of how much they are interested in the matter in the letters which are being printed each day in the Daily Press.

It might be a good plan for the government to issue a call for 50,000 volunteers for the Mexican campaign, even if they were not sent into that country. They would be given a thorough training, and this would materially aid in the preparedness movement. That there would be little trouble in raising that number of men goes without saying, and if they were seriously needed it is safe to predict that ten times that number could be raised in a couple of days.

There has been talk about the purchase of an automobile for the use of the police department for over a year now, and it is nearly time some action was taken. Plainfield moves slowly, but usually when it takes a step it takes a good one.

"Automobiles Sold on Time," says an advertisement. What is worrying most people nowadays is not the first cost, but how to get gasoline "on time."

It has been suggested that an editorial be written about the month of March. If we tried to say what we think of it, the postal authorities would refuse to allow the papers to go through the mail.

There are always things to be thankful for. The Legislature has about completed its work for this year.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Edna Goodrich, the distinguished American actress and world famous beauty, will be seen again at the Astor Theatre today, in a Paramount production of the Jesse L. Lasky production of "Armstrong's Wife." Miss Goodrich has long been considered one of the most versatile actresses and most beautiful women on the English speaking stage, and according to the large number of Plainfielders, who visited the Astor Theatre last night, she will become quite popular in this vicinity. On Friday and Saturday there will be shown on the screen, Broadway's most popular comedy star, Victor Moore, in the famous characterization of "Chimmie Fadden Out West," a laugh from start to finish. The Jesse L. Lasky Company has engaged for a long term of years the Broadway favorite, and there is no doubt that his screen version of original antics will be well received. This Paramount production and others will comprise our bill for Friday and Sat- comprise the bill for Friday and Sat-

On the Spur of the Moment

by Roy K. Moulton

No Age Limit.

I used to slam those gay short skirts
Which showed of calf a yard;
I thought they were the limit, and
I dealt in language hard.

I used to see 'em on the street,
And shameless things they were;
I put on blinders like a horse,
And turned aside, yes, sir.

I cannot roast them any more,
Their use I must allow;
My lips are sealed, I am resigned,
For grandma wears them now.

The Hickeyville Clarion

Anse Frisby placed an order for a new oatmobile down in the city the other day and the salesman said, "Your new car will have a splendid finish." Anse said: "I'm glad of it. The last one I had had a fierce finish. It tried to butt a streetcar off the track."

Lem Betts is gettin' sort of spleened agin them mail order houses. He ordered a dozen strictly fresh eggs by parcel post the other day and when they came one of 'em had a note written on it in lead pencil, the message bein' dated April 7, 1911.

Miss Hepsiba Tuttle, our school teacher, has had several proposals of marriage since she has been in our midst, but she says on account of the modest income allowed teachers nowadays it is about all she can do to support herself.

A feller is here with a $20 bill in his possession. It is quite a curiosity and he showed it to several in the Golden Nugget. Constable Ezra Hand is keeping an eye on the feller, as he has an idea there may be a reward out for him.

Note on Mexico.

The Mexican has little use for money. In fact, his money is discouraging in the extreme. A piece as big as a pie tin would hardly buy a pie. It is generally conceded that the expression, "I feel like 30 cents," was first used by the Mexican dollar. The soulful, sad-eyed burro is often impressed to haul money, and two of these robust and faithful animals can carry almost enough to pay for a square meal.

Withal, the Mexican is a kindly, generous wight who will gladly share his work with the despised gringo. But his present captious ways make the country a poor place to Sunday in, or for accident insurance companies to pile up a corpulant surplus of unearned increment.

It is not known at this moment who will be President of Mexico tomorrow, but it is an odds-on bet that he will not be anyone who is in the public eye today.

The Real Worry.

I don't care how the legions hike across the seared and bloody plain,
I didn't cause the pesky war with all its suffering and pain.
I don't care how the German hosts fall backward or how they advance
And chase the gay French infantry—the ones who wear the crimson pants.
But here's a worry real to me, beneath its weight I'm bent—
It's difficult for me to see how I will pay my rent.

The powers may fight until they're lame and halt and sick and sad and sore;
They may go forth each morning bright with guns to seek each other's gore;
They may send millions to the fray
until there's not a man to spare;
'Tis absolutely their own fight, it's naught to me and I don't care.
But here's the problem I must face,
it worries me clear through:
How I can make one dollar do the work of two?

- Proctor's Theatre -

Today is a gala one at Proctor's playhouse for Billie Burke, the most adorable of comediennes, is appearing there for this day only in her first motion picture entitled, "Peggy," a photoplay feature that will go down in the annals of theatrical history as one of the greatest productions ever made for presentation on the screen. "Peggy" is presented at the regular scale of prices, and today will prove to be one of the biggest bargain days in this city. Tomorrow and Saturday another pretentious spectacle will greet the patrons of Proctor's for it is then that the latest and greatest of vital patriotic spectacles appears on the screen. It is "Defense or Tribute?" the production that enjoyed such a remarkable run at the Park Theatre, New York, and which has the whole country in a furore. A more timely feature could not have been secured, and it speaks well of the ever alert management of Proctor's to secure features which are most pleasing to their patrons. "Defense or Tribute?" is no ordinary production and cost over half a million dollars before it was completed. This picture is shown under the auspices of the Plainfield Daily Press for the benefit of Majorie's Battleship fund, and has attracted an enormous amount of attention in this vicinity. On Friday in addition to the above the 12th episode of "The Red Circle" will be presented, while on Saturday Charlie Chaplin will appear in one of his most popular comedies, "A Night In the Show," and Harry Watson, of the famous team of Bickel and Watson, will be seen in "Mishaps of Musty Suffer," a comedy that is one grand carnival of hilarity. The latter series of comedies will be seen every Saturday at Proctor's. A treat for the little ones.

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME--

∴ Plainfield Theatre ∴

Princess Luba Meroff, with "Tip-Top Girls," Plainfield Theatre, Monday, March 27, matinee and night.

Although Howe's pictures will hold the boards at the Plainfield Theatre tomorrow and Saturday, a photoplay program will be offered this afternoon and tonight. Manager Shannon has secured six first-class acts covering a wide variety of entertainments, and, in addition, the current episode of "The Iron Claw" will be shown. The vaudeville numbers will be led off by McKeegan and Davidson in one of the newest and most original twenty minute productions ever shown in this city. They will be ably seconded by five other feature numbers.

The Plainfield Theatre is now showing one and two-reel comedy and dramatic pictures at every performance. The sensational serial, "The Strange Case of Mary Page," is shown every Friday, and the Pathe semi-weekly is presented each Tuesday and Saturday. Howe's pictures, which are now enjoying their forty-third semi-aannual tour, need no introduction to Plainfielders, and it is safe to say that the series to be shown here tomorrow and Saturday will eclipse all previous subjects, although some of these predecessors had been masterpieces of animated photography.

A rare literary gem descriptive of the glories of Glacier National Park appeared a short time ago in an official report issued by the Interior Department at Washington, D. C. It is so unusual to find such eloquence in a nofficial document that Lyman H. Howe, the exhibitor, concluded it could have been inspired only by an extraordinary gem of scenic grandeur. Prompted by this belief he despatched his camera men to Glacier National Park, and they returned with what is also a perfect gem—and this one photographic—of the wonders of our newest national playground in Northwestern Montana, along the line of the Great Northern Railroad. It will be presented by Lyman H. Howe at the Plainfield Theatre, Friday inght, and Saturday, matinee and night, March 24 and 25. True to expectations, there will be a great diversity of other subjects, among which are views of one of the strangest of all big bridges—that crossing the Firth of Forth, Scotland, which required the labor of nearly 5,000 men continuously for seven years to construct. The chemist's laboratory contributes some beautiful examples of the crystallization of metals. Of pictorial trips abroad, there is a series showing Switzerland robed in snow, entirely new scenes in the colors of nature from ever-picturesque Holland, Madeira and the rivers of France.

The cast of the "Tip-Top Girls" that plays at the Plainfield Theatre next Monday, matinee and night, includes the Princess Luba Meroff, Frank Harcourt, Niblo and Spencer, Mabel Lynest, George L. Wagner, John D. Bohlman and several other folks of note. The production is headed by the Princess Luba Meroff and Frank Harcourt. Princess Meroff comes direct from her sensational transcontinental vaudeville tour. Frank Harcourt is known all over the world as the producing comedian - author. Niblo and Spencer are the best - bets in the burlesque field this season, and for classy singing and dancing they are in a class by themselves. And with a chorus of twenty-four young and pretty girls for the chorus that can sing and dance a little better than the average chorus, why the "Tip-Top Girls" will come first under the wire this season.

Victor Herbert, the composer of "The Princess Pat," to be heard at the Plainfield Theatre, March 29, tells this story of two famous musicians: De Pachman and Goldmark once met in front of the latter's Vienna home. Goldmark was the most estimable old chap, and, as everybody knows, a writer of exceptionally brilliant and melodious music, but his one great fault was his overwhelming conceit. As de Pachman and Goldmark walked away from the composer's house the pianist pointed backward and said: "That modest little edifice will be signally distinguished some day after you are dead.."

"Indeed," said Goldmark.

"Yes," continued de Pachman, "they will decorate it with a tablet."

"And what do you suppose they will say on the tablet?" asked the composer eagerly.

"To let," replied de Pachman.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—— The Tale of The Elves and The Cobbler.

There Stood the Shoes, Beautifully Made.

(Adapted from Grimm's Fairy Tales.)

WHEN the children begged for a story daddy said: "About a hundred and thirty years ago two brothers by the name of Grimm were born in Germany. They wrote some of the nicest fairy tales ever told. Would you children like to hear one tonight?"

Jack and Evelyn wriggled with joy, and so daddy began: "Once upon a time there lived an old cobbler who worked very hard mending children's shoes. But he could not earn enough money to live on, and at last all he had in the world was gone except just enough leather to make one more pair of shoes. So he cut this leather out, all ready to make up the next morning, and, without knowing where tomorrow's food was coming from, went to bed with peace in his heart and slept well. The next morning when he went down to his shop try to imagine his surprise when there on his table stood the shoes!"

"Fairies, fairies, daddy!" shouted the children.

"The old cobbler could not imagine how such an odd thing had happened. But there stood the shoes without a false stitch. Soon in came a customer, who liked the way the shoes were made so well that he paid a high price for them. So the old cobbler bought enough leather to make two pairs of shoes, cut them out, went to bed early and slept peacefully. When he woke up there on the table sat two pairs of beautifully made shoes, which during the day he sold for enough money to buy leather for four pairs. So he cut the four pairs out and went to bed with no worry on his mind. And somebody always made his shoes during the night, so that soon he became well off again.

"One night he said to his wife, 'I want to sit up tonight and see who does my work for me.' So he and his wife made a nice fire and turned down the light and hid in a corner of the shop, watching for what would happen. Soon after midnight two little dwarfs came and, catching up the shoes, made their nimble fingers fly till the job was all done. Soon as daybreak came the dwarfs dashed out of sight, and the old couple went to bed.

"Then his wife said to the cobbler: 'These dwarfs have made us rich. They have no clothes to keep them warm. I'll make them some, and do you make them each a little pair of shoes.' So she made two coats and two tiny pairs of pants and two shirts, while her husband made the shoes. Then they watched again to see what the dwarfs would do. At midnight into the shop they skipped, and, seeing clothes instead of cut out shoes, they put on the garments, delighted with their fit, and danced out of the door. And the cobbler and his wife never saw them again, but all went well with them forever afterward," daddy finished.

"LAZY LUCY" LUNCHEON.

This is a novel luncheon which the hospitable housewife who keeps no maid can prepare and then enjoy with her guests, as it eliminates much of the serving and also the dishwashing which inevitably awaits her when her friends have left for their homes.

Set table with napkin, large plate, knife, fork, spoons, glass, cup and saucer at each plate. Fill cups and glasses before guests are seated. On the table a plate of thin bread and butter sandwiches and a very large chop plate with the luncheon arranged as follows:

In the center of chop plate place a hot, covered dish to hold hot peas. Stand lettuce leaves around this to hide the dish. In a circle close to his place the salad—a lettuce leaf holding tomato with its center scooped out and replaced by chopped cabbage, celery and green peppers mixed with salad dressing. In circles close to this place slices of meat (cold boiled ham, roast beef or roast veal) with a browned potato on top. For outer circle use radishes, green onions or pickles and parsley.

Should more hot things be preferred, use stuffed green peppers in place of salad and small boiled buttered carrots instead of the relishes.

A large fork and spoon are passed so that each guest may take a portion, or, in old-fashioned words, "they may help themselves."

The dessert should be previously prepared and placed on a buffet or side table where it may be served easily when plates are removed. Berries with cream and cake, gelatin with sliced fruit and cake, or prune whip and cake, would be appropriate.

Stuffed Peppers—Wash and remove seeds from peppers. Into each put one teaspoon washed rice, pinch of salt, a little butter; fill each with raw tomatoes cut up or with canned tomatoes. Stand upright in a pan which has water about two inches deep in it. Cover and bake in moderate oven about three-fourths hour. Remove from water when ready to serve.

THE TABLE.

Beef Loaf for Slicing Cold—Mix well all together half pound chopped beef, half pound chopped veal, about a cupful of chopped ham and a little chopped suet or salt pork. Add some chopped parsley, green peppers and onion (about a tablespoon of each) and salt and pepper to taste. Place four hard-boiled eggs in a row in a loaf pan, press mixture thoroughly around and to cover eggs. Bake slowly one hour, then serve, sliced cold, with chili sauce or catsup.

Dampkraut (a complete meal)—Chop cabbage very fine and boil till tender, then drain dry. Cut an apple into small pieces and chop enough onion to give a slight taste to the cabbage. Mix well, season to taste, then roast a few minutes over the fire in a little butter. Meanwhile, cut several slices of bacon into tiny dice and fry till nearly crisp; stir this, with a little vinegar and one teaspoon of sugar, into the cabbage, then put it in the oven and bake thoroughly. This, with bread and butter and coffee, should make a complete meal, and it is good.

Leftover Dish—If meat and gravy are left over (any kind), parboil one cup rice, mix with diced meat, gravy, one quart can Spanish tomatoes. Put in well-greased casserole, bake in slow oven one hour.

Mint Jelly (to be served instead of mint sauce with lamb)— Boil one pint water with two sprigs fresh mint or one-half teaspoon dry mint. Then strain. Dissolve one envelope gelatin in one-half cup cold water three minutes, add one-half cup granulated sugar, juice of one lemon and one-fourth cup mint cut fine or chopped. Mix all with the hot water and set in mold to cool. I sometimes add a little green coloring to the jelly. To make it fancy, when set beat the white of one egg very stiff into half of the jelly and pile it on top of the plain jelly. It is a beautiful mound of light green jelly with a foamy top, and many people like it who do not care for the old-fashioned mint sauce.

Mock Roast Pork Sandwich—Peel and slice egg plant one-quarter inch thick, sprinkle with salt and let stand a few minutes. Roll in flour and fry in butter or lard. When cold, place between bread (one slice buttered) and you have a delicious sandwich that can scarcely be detected from roast pork.

Marrying for Money

—BY MRS EVA LEONARD—

Has Ortrude Townsend's Awakening Come Too Late?

As Dudley came down the stairs from his father's sick room, Ortrude rose from her chair by the open fire and came forward to meet him, her hands nervously clasped in front of her.

"How is he?" she asked anxiously

Dudley gave her such a look that she shrank back toward the fireplace. He followed her, keeping his eyes full upon her.

"He is dead, or as good as dead. You have harrassed him with your debts. You have paid his life's blood for clothes." He reached out and took hold of a film of lace that fell from her wrist. "Was it worth it?" She shrank away from him trembling.

"He was too kind to deal with one like you. He was used to women with hearts that could be touched with pity. He was baffled and stunned to find he was tied to one who cared for nothing but money, to whom every sense of honor and common decency were strangers. You broke his heart and ruined his life and we, his children——" Dudley's voice broke.

"Oh," breathed Ortrude. "I did not know. I thought——"

"You thought!" exclaimed Dudley. "You never thought of anyone but yourself and your petty aims and desires. You have robbed us of the kindest father that ever lived and we can never forgive you.

"Oh, don't! don't!" pleaded Ortrude, holding her hands out in front of her as if to fend off a blow. "I never would have spent so much money had I not thought him rich. People always said he was. Oh! Dudley, believe me when I say I never realized that I was making things very hard for him. I thought——"

"Again let me tell you that you never knew what it was to think of anyone but yourself. Keep out of his room; out of his sight, and ours." Dudley turned and left the room.

Ortrude sank into a low rocker by the fire and buried her face in her hands.

She heard Dudley go back upstairs and she listened for sounds of different steps in the sick room overhead. Marian's steps were light and quick, and Dudley's slow and quiet. Over and over the terrible scorching words repeated themselves in her brain. Over and over she quailed at the thought of the looks he had cast upon her. She felt as if her soul were panting and hot in a terrible heat of shame and despair. Late at night she heard the doctor come down the stairs and stop at the open door, but she could not look up, could not move. He waited a moment for her to speak, and passed on into the frosty night. The light wood fire crumbled and died out on the hearth, but she did not know that the room was cold, though alternate waves of cold and fierce heat swept over her. In the gray dawn Mrs. Tupper came down the stairs and was surprised to find her sitting under the blazing light in the cold room, her head bowed on her knees She touched her on the shoulder. Ortrude started violently.

"You go to bed. You will get cold here in this chilly room," commanded the housekeeper.

"Is he——" Ortrude's voice trailed off into silence.

"He is resting well. There is nothing you can do. You go to bed."

Ortrude rose and crept up the stairs to the spare bedroom and, wrapping a blanket around her, threw herself onto the bed.

JONAS LIE BRINGS SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Former Plainfielder and Well Known Artist Institutes Proceedings in Brooklyn.

By the filing of a deposition in the office of County Clerk William E. Kelly in Brooklyn, yesterday, it was learned that a suit for absolute divorce had been instituted by Jonas Lie, the artist, formerly of Plainfield, against his wife, Charlotte Egede Nissen Lie. Mr. Lie names as corespondent William Faye Hansen, of Christiania, Norway. The suit is being tried before Referee Paul A. Schmitt, of 87 Nassau street, New York city.

The deposition filed yesterday was that of Captain Lars Holst, of the steamship Hellig Olav of the Scandinavian-American Line. Permission for the taking of the deposition was granted by Justice Scudder, of the Supreme Court. Captain Holst declared that he knew Mrs. Lie, and identified a photograph of her. He declared that he met her in Christiania six weeks ago, and that she introduced Mr. Hansen to him as her husband. The captain said that Mrs. Lie told him that she was living with Mr. Hansen at 17 Mariadels street, Christiania.

Service in the action was made on Mrs. Lie in Christiania, and she designated August Reynert, lawyer of 17 State street, to take any further papers admitting service of the summons and complaint, Mrs. Lie signed herself "Mrs. Charlotte Egede Lie, now Mrs. William Faye Hansen."

Mr. Lie is widely-known as an artist and during his residence in Plainfield, he gave several exhibitions of his work. At one time he had a studio in the Babcock building and he also had a large class of students.

Destiny.

We are what we imagine, and our deeds
Are born of dreaming. Europe acts today
Epics that little children in their play
Conjured, and statesmen murmured in their creeds;
In barrack, court and school were sown those seeds,
Like Dragon's teeth, which ripen to affray
Their sowers. Dreams of slaughter rise to slay,
And fate itself is stuff that fancy breeds.
Mock, then, no more at dreaming, lest your own
Create for us a like reality!
Let not imagination's soil be sown
With armed men but justice, so that we May for a world of tyranny atone
And dream from that despair—democracy.

—PERCY MACKAY.

Suggestion.

"You must know what to let lie around your home. Leave those things in sight which will open the inquiring young mind. For the sake of your little girls bake in your own homes. The best way to accomplish things is by indirection and example, never by punishment. We only punish when we do not know what else to do. Discipline must come from the inside rather than the outside."—(Dr. Fouse.)

Use Laxative Foods.

To overcome constipation the nursing mother should lead a simple, regular life, with plenty of food, water, exercise and sleep. If under these conditions the baby remains constipated give it water before its feedings or pure olive oil or cream three times a day after the feedings The cream best suited to a baby is that which rises on milk naturally Begin with a small dose of oil or cream and increase to one teaspoonful as required.

About the age of seven months the juice of orange or prunes may be given, beginning with a teaspoonful necessary. Well cooked oatmeal, strained, may be all the laxative required.

For the older child raw scrapped apple is often of more value as a laxative than any other fruit. Graham bread, oatmeal and green vegetables are all laxative, as is also whey, made by heating milk slowly. Laxative foods should be used all the time, and the results must not at the beginning be expected as soon as when medicines are used.

A Sample Laxative Menu for a 17 or 18-Months-Old Child.

7 a. m.—One slice of bread and butter and a cupful of milk.

9 a. m.—One or two tablespoonfuls orange or prune juice and a drink of water.

9:30 a. m.—One cupful of oat jelly and top milk, half and half.

12:30 p. m.—One cupful chicken broth, bread and butter, and a baked potato, salted, and with a tablespoonful of sweet cream poured over it.

3.30 p. m.—One cupful of oat jelly and top milk, half and half.

6:30 p. m.—Eight ounces of milk and oatmeal water, two thirds milk and one-third oatmeal water, if the child is used to that proportion of dilution. In this sample menu the laxative foods are represented, and the age requirements are met. Follow this plan in adapting present diets for corrective measures when laxative foods are necessary.

The Best in Preparedness.

The modern soldier must know how to estimate and make a mental map, a naked-eye survey of his country, so as to find his way about in it and take advantage of its natural features for attack or defense. He must know the capacities and difficulties and advantages of different kinds of country. He must know just where the bad spots in a particular sweep of country will come; just where an enemy could lie in wait; just where a valley could be crossed readily, or would be almost impassable, and what kind of going would probably be found under each particular type of timber. This means that he must come to know the open country for miles all about his home town and as much farther off as is necessary to give every different variety of lie possible.

This can be acquired only by constant and habitual tramping and hiking and exploring in all sorts of weather, at all season of the year, at every hour of the day and night. And if a day or even a day and a half each week of the regular school routine were to be devoted to scouting and camping and sham-battle explorations of this description, it would be time well spent. As a practical basis for the study of geography, agriculture, pioneer history, zoology, botany—indeed, of nearly everything that goes into school books—these exploring and surveys would be invaluable.

Another point at which intelligent modern military training would greatly strengthen and enrich the present curricula is on the side of hygiene, physiology and sanitation.

The deadliest enemies of armies in the field are not bullets, but bugs; not battle-wounds, but camp diseases—typhoid, pneumonia, dysentery, rheumatism, cholera. Granted a fair amount of courage and intelligence (and the average in both these basic qualities runs pretty much the same in all nations), the man who can take care of and defend his health under all circumstances, so as to be fit at all times, and capable of prolonged endurance in forced marches, long sieges, and week-long battles, will make the best soldier.

DR. TRUESDELL ARRESTED.

Two Montclair Physicians Charged With Manslaughter.

Montclair, March 23. — Following their indictment by the grand jury on charges of manslaughter and performing an illegal operation, Dr. Paul E. Truesdell of 71 Valley road and Dr. John H. Young of 37 North Fullerton avenue, both of this city, have been arrested on capias by Prosecutor's Detective Thomas P. Meyer.

As soon as the capiases had been served the party entered an automobile, accompanied by Edward H. Holmes of 70 Park street, cashier of the Bank of Montclair, and were driven to the prosecutor's office in Newark, where bail was furnished.

The men were arraigned before Judge William P. Martin, who fixed bail for Dr. Young at $7,500 and for Truesdell at $5,000. Both entered pleas of not guilty.

The indictments were found as the result of the grand inquest's investigation into the death of Mrs. Truesdell in Montclair on Feb. 15 last during an operation being performed by Dr. Young.

Mrs. Truesdell had expected to become a mother about May 15. The operation was performed in her home.

YANKEE CATCHERS ARE RATHER WEAK.

The New York Americans are conceded to be one of the strongest clubs in the American circuit and given just a little the edge for winning a pennant, by a majority of critics. The addition of Frank Baker to the infield gives the necessary punch. For several years the Yanks have had an excellent pitching staff, but never had the attacking quality. Now, with Frank Baker hammering in anywhere near his old-time form, it will stir up the opposition and also add the necessary life to his own crew. The Yank infield is good on attack, as well as defense. Pipp, Peckinpaugh, Gedeon and Baker make up the regular list, from preliminary camp news. Several youngsters are trying for jobs, but there is not much chance of getting away from the four named. In the outfield, Magee, Maisel and Gilhooley will work. Moving Maisel from third base to the garden will place him in a more advantageous position as it will give him the opportunity of developing his hitting more and also to boost along his speed. Outside of Ty Cobb, Maisel is the best base-runner in the American League. His speed will cut down many a safe hit, too. Lee Magee's transfer to the garden will help him in batting, too, as Lee is exceptionally good on the sacks. Gilhooley, a speedy youngster, has made several tries for big league berths, but he has come around in dandy style now and will fit well with Maisel and Magee. The Yank outfield will be the fastest in either circuit. Where Donovan's crew is exceptionally weak, however, is behind the bat. Nunamaker will be the chief catcher this year, but he never made much of an impression with the fans. He is one of those consistent fellows, but does not get the life into a game and takes things too seriously. Does not look as though any strength can be added to the backstop department, however, from the string of men Donovan has at camp, as his list, besides Nunamaker, includes Alexander, Schwert, Smith and Walters. The second string man looks like Alexander—in fact, reports from the Yanks' camp look as though it will be an even split between him and Nunamaker for the first place job. The hitting power is not in the catching department, either, while no speed of any kind is there worth special notice. The Yanks have been helped out in the pitching, infield and outfield departments, as Nick Cullop will put a punch to the mound corps, but where the one big item has been overlooked sems to be behind the bat.

W. M. G. A. SEASON PRIZE.

The new idea of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association awarding a season prize to the player who is the gross leader the greatest number of times during the season will make the prize for low net score the chief award at every tournament, which is as it should be, for more competitors have a chance to win the net trophy. The season contest for the gross prize will still be confined to the select few, but will undoubtedly be harder fought for than has been the case at many one-day events that have been held with only one or two of the best players entered. The winner of the season prize will be the possessor of an honor hardly less laudable that the W. M. G. A. championship title itself.

WORK OF N. P. H. S. SIX.

An unusually creditable record was made this winter by the girls' basketball team of North Plainfield High School. The team lost only two games, and in both cases defeated their conquerors later in the season. One defeat came from Plainfield High, a team that was beaten twice, and the other came by a three-point margin from Newark Normal School. Such victories as 47 to 4 and 29 to 1 over New Brunswick H. S., 27 to 4 over Cranford, 36 to 4 over Nutley, 28 to 3 over Westfield, 19 to 10 over the Pegs, and 28 to 9 over the Alumni are achievements that speak for themselves.

TO THE LOSERS BELONG SOME SPOILS.

Watchung Council Columbians have annexed the local Catholic basketball title, winning over the Tabs and St. Joseph's, but taking the size of the respective aggregations, it is hard to give the champions any more credit than belongs to the boroughites. The St Joseph's boys, undaunted by the knowledge that they were playing against odds, made things more than interesting for their bigger, older opponents.

Wins Match in Newark With 259, 245, 257, 258, 246, 247 and 225 Counts.

Eddie Feihl piled up another string of big scores on the Jackie Clark alleys in Branford place, Newark, last night. Last night Feihl not only made up the 118-pin deficit, but he finished 175 pins to the good, Hellman rolling 183, 185, 242, 228, 182, 199 and 212.

For the fourteen games Feihl totaled 3,015 pins, and Hellman 2,840. Feihl is a member of the Elizabeth team of the Elks' Senior League, and is well-known in local bowling circles.

Camden, S. C., March 23.—The eighteen-hole handicap tournament for cups given by Charles S. Dean, of Detroit, was run off on the Camden Country Club course yesterday. There were fifty-four entries. D. B. Buffum, of New York, made 82—10—72; David G. Carter, Jr., of Detroit, had 90—13—73, and Barnes Newberry, of Detroit, 92—15—73. The thirty-six hole professional match to be played on Saturday on the Camden Country Club course promises to be a big event. "Gil" Nicholls, of Great Neck; Edward W. Loos, of Charlotte, N. C., and Wilfred E. Reid, of Wilmington, Del., have arrived, and Carl Anderson, Patrick Doyle, Tom Kerrigan, Tom McNamara, Michael Brady, James Norton and W. C. Skelly are entered.

K. OF C. BOWLERS SHOOT IN NEW YORK TOURNAMENTS

Bayley Council pinners, last year's champions of the Knights of Columbus League, went to New York yesterday and took second place in the Eastern championships of the Knights of Columbus, and stepped into the lead in the World head-pin tournament.

In the K. of C. championships, the Bayleys rolled 2573, with totals of 881, 859 and 833. Xavier Council is leading, with 2687. Neither mark is likely to stand very long.

In the head-pin tournament, the Bayley men put up the creditable total of 487. Max Schenck won a fob with a score of 106, while Dave Sables fell four pins short. He had 101.

ILDERAN WINS CRUCIAL ATHLETIC LEAGUE MATCH

Ilderan Outing Club bowlers, of Rahway, won two games of an important athletic league series with Roseville at Rahway last night. They are now leading the "Millionaires' League" with a record of 35 victories and 16 defeats. The New York Athletic Club is second, with 33 wins and 15 losses, and will have to win two games at East Orange tonight to tie for first place. The race will end next week.

NEWARK ELKS LEAVE TONIGHT.

Headed by Captain William Weingarth, the Newark Elks, champions of the Senior Elks' League, will leave tonight for Toledo, where they are to roll tomorrow night in the American Bowling Congress tournament. On Saturday they will shoot in the doubles and individual events. Efforts are being made to have the champions remain in Toledo, Saturday night, and shoot a special match against the Toledo Elks.

EX-P. H. S, BOYS WILL ORGANIZE

Meeting Has Been Called for Next Thursday Night, in Ninth Street School.

MANY CLASSES INVITED

Objects of Body to Promote Sports and Socials, and to Regulate Affairs in Which Ex-P. H. S. Students Are Interested.

Alumni and former boys of Plainfield High School will organize a club at a meeting to be held in the school next Thursday night. Announcements were sent out yesterday to members of many classes, especially those that have been graduated in the last few years.

The club will promote athletics and socials, and will be a valuable auxiliary to the regular Alumni Association. The new body is the outgrowth of a group of some fifteen former students who have been meeting in the school gymnasium every Thursday night for the last three or four weeks. Included in the coterie are the basketball players who represented the Alumni in the annual games with the school representatives this winter. Daniel McNamee, who was president of last year's graduating class and captain of last year's P. H. S. basketball team, is one of the leaders of the movement.

The club will fill a long felt want by taking into the fold former students who were not graduated, and who, therefore, cannot be members of the Alumni Association. As it is in this class that by far the greatest number of ex-students are found, the new club bids fair to become a power among the organizations of young men in Plainfield.

To what degree the new association will interest itself in sport remains to be decided. The fact that most of its proposed members are at present not actively identified with any other club strengthens the probability that its participation in athletics will be considerable. In its ranks are some of the best athletes that ever represented the school, and players who have starred on various teams about the city.

HOPE CHAPEL FIVE ON K. OF C. COURT

Players of Hope Chapel will line up against the representatives of the Columbus Club on the West Front street court tonight.

The teams will line up as follows:

Knights of Columbus—forwards, George Linke and Billy Coyle; center, Daniel McAfee; guards, Joseph Carty, Gerald Linke, Al. Brynlarski and Jack Wilson.

Hope Chapel—forwards, Marsh and Porter; center, T. Snyder; guards, Randolph, Hunter and Bradford.

Bowling will be the chief pastime following the basketball, as well as pool playing, in the basement of the club.

ATHENIANS WILL PLAY ANY QUINTET FOR CITY TITLE

The Athenians, the local colored basketball champions, today issued a challenge to any team that disputes their claims to the city title. The team stands ready to meet any quintet in Plainfield in a home-and-home series. Their home court is the Plainfield High School gymnasium. Benny Rosenson, former P. H. S. star, is coach of the team.

HUHN MEETS JAY GOULD.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 23.—T. H. Huhn advanced to meet Jay Gould in the final round for the Racquet Club's court tennis singles championship, by defeating D. L. Hutchinson, 3d, yesterday, in one of the hardest and best-played tennis matches of the year, the score being 6—4, 5—6, 5—6, 6—4 and 6—2.

In the Class A singles handicap, Dr. C. D. Hart reached the final round by defeating C. S. Bromley, who received 15, in two sets, at 8—7, 8—2.

A. J. CORDIER RETAINS TITLE.

Augustus J. Cordier retained his title of Yale Club squash tennis champion yesterday, but had to play at top speed all the way to beat Stewart H. Johnson three games out of four. The latter gave a splendid exhibition of spectacular "getting," but Cordier's experience proved a little too much for him. Every game was decided by a narrow margin, the score being 18—13, 15—13, 13—15, 15—12.

LAKEWOOD TOURNEY IN APRIL.

The spring tourney of the Country Club of Lakewood will be held April 27, 28 and 29, a week before the event at the Country Club at Atlantic City.

The qualifying round for the tournament will consist of eighteen holes, as it was found that handling a big field over the thirty-six hole circuit was too much of a job.

NEWARK P. S. GIRLS WILL APPEAR HERE

To Play St. Mary's Girls—Plainfield A. A. Will Meet the Tabs.

The St. Mary's Social Club team will meet the strong Public Service girls' team from Newark on the T. A. B. S. court in the first game of a double headers tomorrow night. In the other half of the bill, the Plainfield A. A. will line up against the T. A. B. S. team. The games will start at 9 o'clock.

The Newark Public Service girls, who are well known in this city, appeared on the Columbus Club court last winter, being defeated by the Plainfield Five.

The Plainfield A. A. clan had decided to quit basketball in favor of baseball, but the continued winter weather evidently revived the fever of the Jonesmen. The team is evenly matched with the Tabs.

RECREATIONS WILL ORGANIZE A CLUB

Young Men Who Have Had Basketball Team This Year to Meet Next Week.

Two dozen young men of Plainfield and Westfield, who have been known in local basketball circles this winter as the Plainfield Recreation Five, have decided to formally organize a club, and for this purpose a meeting will be held in the Plainfield High School next Tuesday night.

The recreation group was formed last fall to represent the Public Recreation Committee, of Plainfield, on the basketball court. The success of the team, which is the leading claimant for the court championship of the city, has engendered a desire of its members and followers to effect a permanent organization, and the necessary election of officers and drafting of a constitution and by-laws will occupy the attention of the members Tuesday night.

"LEAP OF DEATH" WILL FEATURE Y. M. C. A. CIRCUS

A feature number on the program for the Y. M. C. A. circus will be the act of Bert Hanson, a local gymnastic contortionist of ability. His bending and hand-balancing are all original movements well executed. They include the "leap of death." In this "stunt" Mr. Hanson while standing on his hands on top of a chair which is place on a table, he leaps to the floor landing on his hands.

Engler, Sundstrom and VanNorden will also appear in a hand balancing act. The circus will be given at the association on March 30-31 and a "full tent" is anticipated.

BOWLING MATCH POSTPONED.

The bowling match scheduled for tonight on Gates' alleys, between the Westfield club and the Imperials, has been postponed until next Thursday night. The match of the Pond Tool Works pinners, dated for last night, was deferred until next Wednesday night.

U. S. SAILORS AT TRAPS.

The first annual registered tournament for the clay pigeon championship of the United States Atlantic fleet will be held on Saturday, in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, the events being open to all officers and men of the United States Navy. The tournament is held under the auspices of the Red Cross Gun Club, U. S. Solace.

CARTER GOLFS WITH LANSING.

Pinehurst, N. C., March 23.—Robert Lansing, Secretary of State, ended his visit yesterday. He spent the afternoon playing golf over the No. 2 course paired with P. V. G. Carter, the junior metropolitan champion. They were defeated in a four-ball match by Jesse Guilford, Intervale, and W. E. Truesdale, Fox Hills.

FLYNN TO FIGHT REICH.

As a result of Jim Savage's inability to accept the offer, Billy Gibson has secured "Dan Porky" Flynn of Boston to swap blows with Al Reich at the opening show of the Stadium A. C. in the Manhattan Opera House tonight.

O'ROURKE GOES SOUTH.

Frank O'Rourke, former Central New Jersey League player, is on his way to Birmingham, with which club he has signed for the coming season. He played at WilkesBarre last year.

EAGLES BEST ELKS.

The Rahway Eagles won a series of three games from the Rahway Elks Tuesday night. Dobbins and Koops did the best work.

Copy of New Law Allowing Boxing; Local Men Active

That the passage of the bill legalizing amateur boxing in this State has excited local lovers of the game over the prospects of staging bouts in this city is shown by the numerous requests for information that have come to the Daily Press. A copy of the bill has been secured from Assemblyman William N. Runyon, of this city, and gives more details about the law than has been printed before.

One Plainfielder who is most enthusiastic had a long conference yesterday with an A. A. U. official in New York, and was somewhat abashed to learn that the Union wants $10 for each contest that it sanctions.

Some of the local men thought they could form a club merely to hold bouts, but the law allows permits to be given only to clubs that have been incorporated at least three years. Permits to hold the shows must be procured from the police. Whether any local ordinances shall be passed to govern the sport is optional with each community.

The bill was passed principally to permit the amateur boxing championships, in which Alfred Widoson, of this city, will make his ring debut, to be held in Newark, and the A. A. U. does not intend to let the new law be used as a cloak for professionalism. One Harrison man, who announced the day the bill was passed that he would conduct bouts at his club, has been rebuked by the A. A. U., which body takes the stand that no application blanks for the tourney should have been issued until a sanction had been secured.

The clauses of the law are as follows:

"Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

"1. It shall be lawful for any incorporated organization or association of at least three years' standing to conduct friendly contests of skill with gloves in the art of boxing under the supervision of the municipal police authorities and in conformity with the provisions of this act; provided, all such contests shall be regularly sanctioned by the governing body of the Amateur Athletic Union or the Intercollegiate Athletic Association.

"2. Such exhibitions shall be conducted with gloves of not less than eight ounces in weight, and shall be continued for not more than four rounds of three minutes duration each.

"3. Such contests shall be conducted purely as amateur exhibitions of skill to show the art of self-defense.

"4. Such contests shall be under the supervision of the local municipal police or other authorities, who shall issue permits to hold the same to such persons only as they deem to be proper persons to conduct them, and shall prevent all disorder, brutality, or abuse of the permission conferred.

"5. The governing body of any municipality may pass ordinances prescribing terms, conditions and regulations not inconsistent with this act under which such exhibitions may be given.

"6. This act shall take effect immediately."

FROM BIG LEAGUE CAMPS

Yankee Stars, Baker and Caldwell, Nurse Sore Fingers.

Macon, Ga., March 23.—It was just a month ago yesterday that the Yankees held their first practice, and Donovan celebrated by exhibiting his full batting strength for the first time. True to his promise, Frank Baker went to third base for the regulars, and he assisted the first team in batting out a close victory over the Yannigans, the score being 3 to 2. Baker still was favoring his injured fingers, and his throws were lobbed over to first. On the offense, in four times up, he hit a double, reached base on Mullen's error, stole a base, and scored two of the three regular runs.

Ray Caldwell reported with the index finger of his pitching hand tied up, and it may be a week before he is able to resume pitching. While cutting initials in his bat his knife slipped and cut a gash in the finger.

Homers Aid Giants' Win.

Waco, Texas, March 23.—The Giants won a nip-and-tuck game from Waco yesterday, 3 to 2. Both teams played fast ball all the way through and home runs figured prominently in the scoring. George Kelley again came through with a circuit smash over the right field wall, while Fred Merkle shot one over the left field barrier a couple of innings later.

Kauff failed to get a hit in three times at bat, for which he was well guyed by the crowd. The game was umpired by Louis Drucke, once a member of the Giants' pitching staff.

Four Straight for Phils.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 23.—Outhit two to one, the Philadelphia Nationals yesterday offset the superior attack of the Chicago Nationals by fast fielding and won their fourth straight exhibition game from Tinker's men, 4 to 3. Three fast double plays stopped the Cubs at critical moments.

Speaker Will Report.

Boston, March 23.—"Tris" Speaker, crack centrefielder of the world champion Red Sox, who had refused to join the team because of objections to a salary reduction, wrote yesterday that he would go to the training camp at Hot Springs, Ark., at once. Speaker will go through the practice season and take up the salary question when the Red Sox return to Boston.

SHOEMAKER vs. RAYNOLDS.

As in his three previous matches J. Howard Shoemaker, titleholder, won almost as he pleased from H. S. Osborne, of Bridgeport, in the national amateur pocket billiard championship at the New York Athletic Club yesterday. The victory moved Shoemaker up to even terms with Edward F. Raynolds at the top of the standing, and made it almost certain that the title will be decided when they meet in the last match of the tournament tomorrow night.

CHINA ABANDONS MONARCHY SCHEME

Revolution Is Given as Principal Reason.

Peking, March 23.—A state department mandate announces the abandonment of the monarchy and resumption of the republic.

The mandate says the revolution shows that the demand for a monarchial form of government is not unanimous and that therefore Yuan Shih Kai rejects the emperorship and resumes the presidency.

The imperial documents, the mandate adds, will be returned by Yuan Shih Kai to the state council, which will reconvene as the senate, preparatory to the resumption of the republic.

Hsu Shin Chang, who left the cabinet because of the monarchial movement, signed the mandate as secretary of state, having re-entered the cabinet.

Yuan had expected to proclaim the monarchy and ascend the throne before the beginning of the new year. When the time came, however, it was announced that the proclamation had been postponed indefinitely, and unofficially it was state that there would be no change in the government until the war was ended. It was understood that the prospect of having China barred by the allies from the peace negotiations, in which the final disposition of Kiaochau will be determined, was an important factor in influencing the postponement.

Since Yuan dissolved the assembly he virtually has been exercising the powers of a monarch, but in its relations with the outside world China has not ceased to be a republic. The legation here is still accredited from the republic of China, and the minister, Dr. Koo, acts in the name of the republic.

The United States government has played no part in the diplomatic exchanges at Peking regarding the proposed change. Great Britain, Japan and Russia sought American co-operation in their opposition, but the Washington administration declined to express either approval or disapproval of Yuan's plans.

YOUTH WEDS WIDOW, 59.

Ceremony Carried Out, Despite His Mother's Protests.

New Brunswick, N. J., March 23.—Despite the efforts of his mother to stop the ceremony and after the local police had been appealed to in vain, Fred De Hart, eighteen, was finally married here to Mrs. Marie Miller, a widow of fifty-nine years.

De Hart's mother, who lives in Milltown, got word of the marriage and as the couple were about to be united burst into the Miller home and forbade the ceremony.

The minister, the Rev. Clarence Parrish, hesitated, and Mrs. De Hart appealed to the police, but they said they were unable to help her. The clergyman then completed the ceremony.

PROBE DEATH OF WEALTHY COUPLE

Arsenic Found In Stomach of John Peck.

New York, March 23.—Information supplied by friends and members of the family of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Peck of Grand Rapids, Mich., has impelled District Attorney Swann to investigate the circumstances of the death of Mrs. Peck on Jan. 30 and of Mr. Peck on March 12 in the apartment occupied by their son-in-law, Dr. Arthur Warren Waite, at 435 Riverside drive, the Coliseum apartments.

Percy S. Peck, a son of the elderly couple, who is now in Grand Rapids, received a mysterious telegram, while making arrangements for the funeral of his father in Grand Rapids, advising him to have an autopsy performed on the body without fail. Mr. Peck summoned the family pastor, the Rev. Dr. A. W. Wishart, and Dr. Perry Schurz. The postmortem showed that the condition of the heart and lungs did not indicate death from other than natural causes, but an examination of the stomach made by Dr. Victor C. Vaughn, dean of the medical department of the University of Michigan, disclosed the presence of arsenic.

This information was promptly conveyed to District Attorney Swann, and last Saturday he began an inquiry into the circumstances of the death of both Mr. Peck and Mrs. Peck. On Monday the Rev. Dr. Wishart and Dr. Schurz came to this city, but they were not able to supply Judge Swann with any considerable material.

Judge Swann then sent Assistant District Attorney Mancuso and Dr. Otto H. Schultz, pathologist of the district attorney's staff, to Grand Rapids to take charge of a second and more thorough autopsy on the body of Mr. Peck. Judge Swann has now received a telegram from Assistant District Attorney Mancuso saying:

"Perfect case on present matter. Professor Vaughn reports plenty of arsenic."

The telegram from Mr. Mancuso did not materially advance the investigation, since it pointed only to the fact that Mr. Peck had died from poison and furnished no useful new clews as to the manner in which the poison entered the body.

CHANCE FOR PRESS ADVERTISERS TO ATTRACT THE ATTENTION OF THE ENTIRE COUNTY.

As the result of an agreement between the Plainfield Daily Press and the Elizabeth Evening Times any advertiser placing a classified ad in the Press may have that same ad inserted in the Elizabeth Evening Times upon the payment of one-half more than is charged for the Daily Press insertion alone. Thus, if an advertisement in the Daily Press costs forty cents, the same advertisement may be placed in the Elizabeth paper for an additional twenty cents.

The Elizabeth Evening Times has a circulation of 9,000 and is widely distributed throughout Union County. Thus if an advertiser places his advertisement in the Plainfield Daily Press and Elizabeth Evening Times he places it before the eyes of thousands of readers at a very small cost.

Most advertisers welcome the opportunity to attract the attention of the whole county to their offerings and with the co-operation of the Elizabeth Evening Times the Plainfield Daily Press is now able to make this possible. The Elizabeth Evening Times has earned a reputation for itself as an advertising medium, especially along the classified line, and it is a well known fact that its influence extends into other counties besides Union.

WILSON VEXED WITH CONGRESS

Dilatory Methods Have Taxed His Patience, Says Miss Richards.

MEXICAN "TREACHERY"

Speaker Touches on Government's Effort to Capture Villa—Resume of Philippine Measure for Independence and Rural Credit's Bill.

"The Mexican situation is spelled with the one word 'treachery,'" said Miss Janet E. Richards, in the last of her series of "Current Events" talks in the Hartridge Auditorium, yesterday afternoon. "Observers of the progress of events in the revolting country offer many conjectures of the ultimate duplicity of the present defacto government's men and their final joining with Villa." Upon her appearance yesterday Miss Richards was accorded much applause by the large audience of women who gathered to hear the final talk. A general review of foreign and domestic questions occupied the attention of the gathering, preceding which Miss Richards resumed the various measures brought before Congress since it convened. Although nothing of national significance has passed, the President is sanguine for the passage of a number of his "pet issues" before the summer vacation of Congress. Although many measures have passed one house they are yet to come up before the next and this dilatory progress of the Congress has taxed the President's hopes to a degree of impatience. He sincerely believes that if Congress speeds up all of the program's issues will go through.

The various measures which the President has outlined in his program and which he wishes to go through before the summer adjournment were briefly resumed as follows:

"The Philippino Independence bill has already passed the Senate and the chief executive is anxious that it should become a law and provide for the self government of the Philippino four years from now. Persons well up in international affairs are keen that such a proposition would mean the shirking of our duty to the people. This idea is not only uppermost in the minds of many of our own people but the better class of Philippinos do not want their independence yet and have so petitioned Congress. The class which does want freedom are the professionals and agitators. It was through this difference with the President's policy that Garrison resigned. His other reason was the Federalization of the National Guard issue, which he claimed was absolutely unconstitutional.

"Other measures are the Porto Rico reorganization bill, the tariff commission and the rural credits bill, the latter being especially significant in stimulating farm trades and encouraging the extension of agriculture. The principal feaure of this bill is to allow the farmer to borrow money from the government and give his land in security until he was able to pay off the loan."

At this point, Miss Richards spoke warmly of the stupidity of many legislators and their absolute lack of vision. In many instances they do not trouble themselves at all to find out the value of a bill before it is brought to the voting issue and thereafter follows a period of much wrangling. In speaking to a prominent legislator recently, Miss Richards asked him if he thought Congress was composed of able men. He replied that he considered ten per cent. of them in that class. One who has probably done more to bring this rural credits bill before Congress is David Lubin, of California. As all great reforms take years before they are recognized by the legislators, so this has taken years of personal research and work. Fourteen years ago, Mr. Lubin went to Italy and was granted a personal interview with the Italian king. The latter's keen interest immediately brought about Mr. Lubin's retention in Italy to organize an agricultural institute for the furtherment of agriculture in that kingdom.

"The Ship Purchase bill," providing for an increased merchandise carrying marine is another measure. Miss Richards pointed out that because of the huge cost of ship-building, and the high salaries expected by American sailors, the larger portion of American commerce has been conducted on foreign ships.

Miss Richards concluded her talk with a short summing up of the more recent activities in the European theatre of war.

ROOSEVELT LANDS IN NEW YORK TODAY

New York, March 24.—Col. Roosevelt and Mrs. Roosevelt are to return from the West Indies today. Word was received yesterday that the steamship Matura, on which they are, will dock at Amity street, Brooklyn, some time this afternoon. The ship was delayed about twenty-four hours by head winds.

TURKS STARVING; MAY QUIT WAR

National Party Willing to Give Dardanelles to Allied Powers.

GERMANS LOSE POWER

Berlin Still Confident as Preparations for Final Assault Are Underway—Roumania Ready to Fight Against Kaiser.

Germany's Peace Terms.

Paris, March 24.—It is reported here today that Herr von Bleischroeder, a Berlin banker, has informed German-American bankers that the Kaiser is prepared to discuss peace on these terms:

The cession of Alsace-Lorraine to France in exchange for one of her colonies, such as Madagascar; Russia to have Constantinople, with a protectorate over Turkey, in exchange for Poland, which Germany and Austria would divide.

No war indemnity is mentioned in the alleged proposals.

England Fears Naval Raid.

London, March 24.—Germany's destruction of neutral ships—her latest reported victims including the Norwegian bark Lindfield, besides the wegian bark Lindfield, becides the British steamer Sea Serpent and the French bark Bougainville—is believed here to be inspired by the desire to frighten neutral shipping off the North Sea to clear the way for the unobserved organization of a raid against England on a large scale.

This scheme is spoken of as an invasion, but the British authorities regard it as nothing more than a raid, as a landing in the face of England's land and sea defenses is considered impossible. It is recalled that before the Scarborough raid the Germans swooped down upon the British fishing fleet with the same object in view.

Athens, March 24.—A private letter from Constantinople says that the anti-German feeling is fast growing there, and that the National party is seeking to make peace on the basis of the opening of the Dardanelles.

Turkey is on the verge of famine as the result of the war. Coal, coke, coffee, sugar and salt are almost unobtainable Many families are absolutely without bread. Teh cost of tea has risen one hundred per cent.

Allies Retake Mayadale.

Saloniki, March 24.—The Allied troops have reoccupied Mayadale, on the west bank of the Vardar and close to the frontier, 35 miles north of Saloniki. In recapturing the village they drove out the Germans there and took nine of them prisoners.

Germans Are Confident.

Berlin, March 24.—Yesterday's lull in the terrific fighting before Verdun, it was said here in military circles today, was due to the necessity for making new dispositions of troops and preparing new advanced emplocements for big guns before another assault upon the fortress city can be made.

Slowly, but steadily, it is said at headquarters here, the Crown Prince's army is closing in on the fortress. The latest and most dangerous drive of the Germans toward the two remaining railroad lines to Paris was when the German troops stormed the extensive French works in the woods northeast of Avocourt, about twelve miles west of Verdun, with 2,500 prisoners and numerous field and machine guns.

Roumanian Grain to Germany.

Berlin, March 24 (by wireless via Sayville).—Official announcement was made today through the Oversees News Agency, that 400,000 tons of corn, wheat and peas had been bought in Roumania for consuming in Germany and Austria-Hungary. The Roumanian Government has promised to expedite the shipments of the grain.

Roumania to Enter War.

Rome, March 24.—The Tribuna learns from a high diplomatic source that Roumania has consented to enter the war on the side of the Allies as soon as the Anglo-French forces in the Balkans open their offensive against the Germans and Bulgarians.

TO TALK ON WAR AND GERMAN MISSION WORK

The Rev. Dr. Daeuble, pastor of the German Lutheran church, will be the speaker at the evening services of the German Reformed church on Sunday. His subject will be "Effects of the War Upon German Mission Work in Africa." The pastor will have charge of the morning service.

MEMORIAL DETAIL.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., has named the following Memorial Day committee: I. L. McVoy, chairman; William C. Smith, H. Craig Smith, T. O. Doane, Alexander Sergeant, Josiah Unangst, Edward Vanderweg, N. C. Pennington and William N. Pangborn.

MRS. LOIS M. SPERRY 95 YEARS OLD TODAY

Well Known Borough Woman Observes the Anniversary of Her Birthday.

Mrs. Lois M. Sperry, one of the best known residents of the borough, is today celebrating the ninety-fifth anniversary of her natal day at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. P. Stevens, on Grandview avenue. Cards, letters and telegrams were received at the Grandview avenue residence throughout the day, all bearing congratulatory messages while friends personally called to wish Mrs. Sperry many happy returns of the day. She was also the recipient of a number of handsome floral bouquets in honor of the occasion.

While no formal celebration will take place, a small family dinner will be held tonight, which will be attended by the immediate relatives of Mrs. Sperry. Rev. and Mrs. J. S. Burton, of Suffern, N. Y., son-in-law and daughter of Mrs. Stevens, will not be among those attendant at the gathering this evening. It has been their custom each year to attend this family reunion, making the affair of double significance, inasmuch as today is Mr. Burton's birthday also.

Mrs. Sperry was born at Annsville, Oneida county, N. Y., March 24, 1821. Her husband died a number of years ago and of thirteen children, she is the sole survivor. Mrs. Stevens is her only surviving child, four others having died in infancy. Mrs. Sperry is perhaps the oldest and best known of the borough residents, having made her home on Grandview avenue for the past thirty years. She is in full possession of her faculties and chats happily with all who call on her. She is a member of the Grace Methodist Episcopal church and attends services there regular when the weather permits.

PRESS PICTURE COST A MILLION DOLLARS

"Defense or Tribute" Being Shown at Proctor's Theatre Today and Tomorrow.

"Defense or Tribute?" a million dollar motion picture film, will be shown at Proctor's Theatre this afternoon, tonight and tomorrow afternoon and night, under the auspices of the Plainfield Daily Press, the proceeds being devoted to the Marjorie Sterrett battleship fund being raised by this newspaper. The theme of the wonderful screen production is "Preparedness" and every red-blooded American should accept the opportunity to see the spectacular five-reel picture.

Coming at this time when the country's defensive powers are on the verge of being put to a serious test the production is a vitally interesting one and describes the situation better than words.

The production has been staged with the utmost magnificence; battle after battle is rendered with impressive effect and some of the most dramatic happenings of history are illustrated. Prosperous America is brought to the eyes of the audiences, who are asked if they are willing to lose their country through unpreparedness.

Besides being a powerful plea on behalf of self-preservation the picture enlightens and entertains as well. For, read aright, what is more dramatic and interesting than authentic history, of which this picture is mainly composed?

"Defense or Tribute?" will surely please and convince the millions who are to see it, and probably will do much to arouse the American public to a sense of its danger.

GUARD EL PASO BRIDGE.

Government Watches Border Closely For Signs of Mexican Trouble.

So grave was the border situation regarded in El Paso, Tex., that the American military authorities planned drastic steps to relieve all Mexicans in El Paso of any arms they might have concealed in their homes and enforce what would be practically martial law in "Little Chihuahua," the heart of El Paso's Mexican section. The picture shows a soldier guarding the international bridge between El Paso, Tex., and Juarez, Mexico.

PUBLIC LIBRARY TO BRING WEALTH BEFORE PEOPLE

The supplementary education which most men will get after leaving school must come from individual study of books and other printed matter.

It is almost impossible to keep abreast of the printed matter pouring forth in the form of books; and, indeed, it is quite unnecessary to purchase many when a Public Library, by a wise selection, is endeavoring to collect the best.

This is what our own Library is doing, and to inform the public on its purchases of new books or collections on a given subject, it is securing advertising space each Saturday on the editorial page of the Daily Press, where valuable and interesting information will appear.

SAYS MARTIN COULD HOLD BOTH OFFICES

Attorney English Advises Excise Commissioner He Need Not Resign.

In connection with the recent announcement by Colonel William B. Martin, of Elizabeth, that he was a candidate for county clerk on the Republican ticket, the question has been raised by some of his opponents that in the event of his election he could not serve for the reason that he is an excise commissioner in Elizabeth. Col. Martin sought a legal opinion on the subject, and Attorney John K. English, of Elizabeth, has advised the former that, if elected county clerk, he could legally hold his present office, that of excise commissioner of Elizabeth.

Mr. English states that there exists no New Jersey statute upon the subject, and, in the absence of such a statute, the common law prevails, and such law provides that one person may hold at the same time two offices, provided that such offices are not incompatible or inconsistent. Mr. English says that, tried by the common tests, these offices in question are not incompatable or inconsistent, and holds that Col. Martin could legally hold both at the same time.

In announcing his candidacy, Col. Martin says that, if elected county clerk, he will continue to serve as excise commissioner until his term as such expires.

Col. Martin says that his opponents are using the argument that having been elected an excise commissioner, his leaving that board would be inimical to the best interests of Elizabeth, and makes the above statement accompanied by the legal opinion of Mr. English to set at rest any unfavorable comment as to his position.

WALTER H. TAVENER HELD IN $200 BAIL

Recorder Sheelen Fixes April 3 as Time for Hearing in Auto Accident Case.

Walter H. Tavener, of Westfield, was arraigned before Recorder Charles Sheelen, of Fanwood, last night, on the complaint of Louis Sutterlein, of North Plainfield, and was held in $200 bail for a hearing on Monday night, April 3. The action against Mr. Tavener is the result of an accident in Fanwood recently, when the latter, driving an automobile, is alleged to have struck a wagon in which the complainant was riding, wrecking it and throwing Mr. Sutterlein out and injuring him.

According to the complainant, Mr. Tavener did not stop, but continued on his way, but the number of the automobile was obtained and the action against Mr. Tavener started. There is also a civil suit pending against Mr. Tavener, and his case has been brought before William Dill, State Commissioner of Motor Vehicles. Robert Newton Crane represents the complainant, while Augustus Nash, of this city, is counsel for Mr. Tavener.

MAYOR "BILL" SMALLEY TO FLASH DAILY WEATHER REPORT TO ALL CONSTITUENTS

If you see a shaft of white light suddenly shoot out from atop a high building in North Plainfield some night next week, as though searching the heavens for a death-carrying Zeppelin, do not be alarmed and seek a cyclone cellar, for Zeppelins cannot travel thus far from their base, and the Germans have plenty to do without dropping bombs on the peaceful residents of the borough.

The feeling ray of light will be reaching out for publicity—for new citizens, new ideas and new capital for North Plainfield—and if it doesn't bring them in, Mayor "Bill" Smalley is going to admit that as a press agent he is a pretty fair Mayor and a successful dealer in meats.

Mayor "Bill" has a new idea for advertising the borough, and he is going to put it into execution, provided all his constituents do not get frightened the first night and leave him with nothing to Mayor over. "There are some things almost as bad as Zeppelin raids," he has figured out, "and I believe one and the same remedy can be used. I would as soon see North Plainfield destroyed by incendiary bombs from a big German dirigible as to see it wither and die from lack of publicity. Of course, there is no fear of this, because the citizens there are too wideawake, but we want more of this kind. Everybody loves a spotlight. I am going to put the borough in the glare of the spotlight, and to do it I am going to put a spotlight in the borough."

All a boroughite or a Plainfielder has to do now to know what is coming in the way of weather is to carry a pocket compass or pick out some kind of a landmark in each part of the city by which he can locate where Doc Cook spent his last summer vacation. When Mayor "Bill" gets his big searchlight to working on top of the Somerset School soon a ray of light to the north means that it is going to get colder, a light to the south means warmer, one to the west means fair, one to the east means storm coming, and one straight up, like a prayer, means no change for 24 hours.

"Simple, isn't it?" the Mayor asked, but the prudent reporter refused to say that it was. He warned the Mayor, however, to get a sober man for the job.

MEXICAN SITUATION BETTER; CARRANZA STILL DOMINATES STATES ALONG THE BORDER

GENERAL HERRERA AND COL. CANO STILL LOYAL TO DE FACTO GOVERNMENT—REPORT VILLA SURROUNDED.

RING DRAWN AROUND THE BANDITS AT EL OSO

Consul Letcher at Chihuahua Safe—Reports Conditions There Reassuring—Cabinet Hears Reports of Lansing and Baker—Will Not Call for Volunteers Unless Situation Becomes More Serious.

Washington, March 24.—At today's meeting of the Cabinet opinions seemed to agree that Gen. Carranza dominates the situation south of the Rio Grande. Secretaries Lansing and Baker reported to the President that the general situation in Mexico has somewhat improved. The denial from Consul Letcher at Chihuahua City that Herrera deserted has been reassuring. According to despatches from representatives of the State and War Departments at the border Carranza and Obregon are fully co-operating and that so long as this condition prevails no disturbing desertion of Carranzista leaders is probable. There has been no official news of actual fighting by the United States troops in Mexico. At the Cabinet meeting it is understood the proposed Sherman resolution calling for 50,000 volunteers was discussed with the result that no action will be taken which might be premature.

Consul Letcher is Safe.

General Luis Herrera, Carranza's commander in the State of Chihuahua, has not deserted the first chief to lead his men under Villa, according to a telegram to the State Department today from the United States consul, Marion Letcher, at Chihuahua City. Consul Letcher stated that General Herrera is now at Chihuahua City, that he has not left there with his men as reported, and that he and his garrison are loyal to the Constitutionalist cause.

Douglas is Alarmed.

Senator Ashurt, of Arizona, today received a telegram signed by D. A. Richardson, an attorney of Douglas, indicating that the people of that city were troubled by the presence of Mexican troops in the vicinity. The telegram suggested action by the government.

Villa Surrounded, is Report.

El Paso, March 24.—Persistent reports that Villa is surrounded at El Oso, a ranch five miles east of Namiquipa, continue to come into this city and despite the strict censorship of despatches from American troops in Mexico it is said that General Pershing's men are drawing a circle around the bandit and his aides preparatory to a battle of extermination.

Col. Francisco Bertani, in command of the Carranza foces that are nearest Villa in Southern Chihuahua State, has reported to General Gavira, commandant at Jaurez, that his men, together with United States troops, have formed a ring around Villa that cannot be broken and that "Villa, dead or alive" will be a reality before the end of the week.

It has been definitely established that reports of the desertion of Genereal Herrera, Colonel Cano and other Carranza leaders were not founded on fact, but were sent out by enemies of the de facto government who sought to bring about strained relations between the United States and Carranza, although there is still a strong possibility of anti-American uprisings in any part of Northern Mexico.

Herrera Still Loyal.

General Gavira today gave out the following telegram which he had received from Herrera:

"Your telegram of yesterday received. Deny in my name emphatically the rumor that the reactionaries have circulated in San Antonio, Tex., that I have gone over to Villa. On the contrary, I am ready to fight him as energetically as possible.

(Signed) "HERRERA."

No Need for Militia.

Washington, March 24.—It was definitely decided at the Cabinet meeting today not to call out any of the State militia at the present time. Secretary of War Baker said it was found that such a step was not necessary. The reports from consular and other sources, it was said, gave no cause for alarm.

Twenty-First Infantry to Border.

Washington, March 24.—Major-General Bell, commanding the Western Department of the Army, today was authorized to move one battalion of the Twenty-First Infantry from Vancouver barracks to El Contro, Cal., to guard the border there.

NAVY LEAGUE NAMES LOCAL COMMITTEE

Strong List of Leaders to Take up Preparedness Work Here.

Washington, D. C., March 24.—A strong section of the membership committee has been appointed to take charge of the campaign of the Navy League in Plainfield, New Jersey. Those who have been appointed to the committee are E. Y. Allen, F. C. Ard, H. R. Moyer, John J. O'Donohue, F. C. Sherrell, John E. Sloane, Harry E. Titus and John M. Whiton. They will help to represent that organization in their district in the active, aggressive campaign which it is carrying on in all parts of the country in behalf of adequate preparedness against invasion and disaster. They will co-operate with the members of the Navy League's State committee for New Jersey and will lend their energetic and enthusiastic support to the work undertaken to consolidate and organize the overwhelming sentiment of thinking people of that State in behalf of measures of adequate preparedness. A special letter has been forwarded these gentlemen by the Navy League, notifying them of their appointments. The letters are signed by Colonel Robert M. Thompson, president of the League, and read as follows:

"Dear Sir:

"In accordance with the instructions of the Board of Directors of the Navy League, I am hereby appointing you a member of the membership committee of that organization.

"In the present days of international strife and hysteria, we believe that it is one of the first duties of every good citizen to work with all his might to insure the provision of such naval defenses for this country as shall render our country strong enough to avoid being drawn into the maelstrom of war, or shall render it certain that no hostile army shall ever set foot on our soil should the worst come and our nation be unavoidably drawn into the strife.

"We believe that the best organized and most potent of the forces working for adequate national defenses is the Navy League and therefore do not hesitate to urge you as a citizen and a patriot, to lend us your fullest and most enthusiastic aid and co-operation in our work to insure our country absolutely against the possibility of invasion by a foreign foe.

"The secretary of the committee to which you have been assigned will communicate with you shortly in regard to the particular manner in which your assistance will be of most value. May we not count upon you to the fullest extent in this great patriotic work?

"(Signed) ROBERT M. THOMPSON,
"President of the Navy League of the U. S."

GOLF TRANSGRESSIONS WILL NOT BE ON U. S. G. A. LIST

Having decided to abandon the annual handicap list and instead call upon the sectional associations to furnish the names of the players in their several districts they considered should be allowed to participate in the annual national championship tournament it was thought that the United States Golf Association had practically killed all interest in the annual "Who's who" of golf. This impression is entirely erroneous, however, as it now comes from excellent authority that the national rating list this year will be of more absorbing interest than ever, inasmuch as it will be the only index to those players who have been dropped by the governing body for what has been regarded as an infraction of the clause in the bylaws defining an amateur.

The United States Golf Association has notified those players who have so transgressed their ruling that they no longer are to masquerade in the guise of amateurs and that their active interest in the national amateur championship tournament shall be considered to have ceased upon receipt of the official communication. In no part of the letter has use been made of the word professional, nor is it bluntly stated that the player in question has been professionalized. He has simply ceased to be an amateur, and it rests with himself entirely whether he shall retire from participation in tournament play or decide to enter open events.

MORE THAN HUNDRED WATCH TRI-CHURCH EUCHRE GAMES

More than a hundred interested spectators watched the progress of the first sitting in the euchre contest in which St. John's church of Dunellen, St. Joseph's of North Plainfield, and St. Mary's of this city are engaged, in St. Mary's Social Hall last evening. At the conclusion of the night's play, the St. Joseph's players were four games in the lead, with St. Mary's, the team that won the championship last year, in second place.

Eight games were played. The second round will be played next Thursday night at St. Joseph's church, and the third will be played the following week. A silver cup will go to the victorious team.

A "45" tournament will be started after the euchre play is over.

HOPES TROUBLE THE KNIGHTS AT START

Short Passes Aid Chapelites for Awhile, But They Are Routed, 49 to 24.

The Knights of Columbus basketeers added another victory to their long list last night, when they defeated the Hope Chapel boys in Columbus Hall by a score of 49 to 24. It took the West Front street players fully eight minutes to overcome the rapid-fire passing which the Hopes displayed at the start of the game. While the Knights frequently took long-distance shots, which resulted in lucky throws, the short passing of the Hopes was a pretty feature. Joe Carty again came to the fore with another of his dribble shots, while Dan McAfee broke his own record and caged two baskets. Coyle and Linke each were credited with nine field goals apiece.

For the Hopes, every man worked with clocklike precision, but the big lead obtained by the Knights in the first half was too big an obstacle to overcome. Porter and Snyder scored the largest number of tallies for the Hope chapel team.

The score:

The business meeting of the Jr. O. U. A. M. attracted a large attendance last night. Plans for a patriotic observance of Decoration Day are already under way.

WORKING FOR BELGIANS.

At the meeting of the Relief Workers, held at the home of the Misses Kyte, yesterday afternoon, the first box of articles for the Belgian babies was nearly filled, and it is expected will be sent to Europe following the next meeting. All together, four boxes have been sent this year, and as was the case last winter, a number of letters have been received either from the distributing points or directly from those who were benefited.

"WORLD-WIDE GUILD."

At a meeting of the members of the Sunshine Weavers, held in the lecture roof of the Baptist church last night, it was unanimously decided to change the name of the organization to "The World Wide Guild." Since the organizing of the society, it has come to embrace the majority of the local young women, and as practically all of the work was for the world-wide field of endeavor, the change of name was decided on. A number of letters were read at the meeting, including one from Miss Cressman, a field worker of the Guild, and one from Miss Anna Nelson, an Indian missionary of the Guild. At present, the local branch of the Guild is working for Miss Nelson.

Mrs. William Miller, of the township, is on a pleasure trip of several months through the Southern States.

The basketball attraction scheduled for the Parish House tomorrow night will be between the Hanson place church five and Parish House first team.

PLAINFIELD FIVE DEFEATED.

The Parish House seconds walloped a team of Plainfield High School boys on the local court last night, 65 to 45. The details are on the sporting page.

RENGO BELT

REDUCING CORSETS

Will Positively Hold THEIR Shape and YOUR Shape.

The RENGO BELT abdominal reducing feature is an integral part o fevery Rengo Belt Corset, without which these corsets would lack much of the strength for which they have gained fame.

This feature puts strength into the corset wihout adding weight. The discovery of this reducing and strengthening principle made RENGO BELT corsets the strongest ever offered for medium and stout women, and made it possible for us to announce these garments as positively unbreakable.

RENGO BELT Corsets are pre-eminently suited to the woman who wants strong support, or who wishes to put unusually heavy stress upon the garment. They are boned throughout with double watch spring steels, guaranteed not to rust.

There are models with and without "Steelastic" webbing which will be found to possess superior strength and wearing quality when extroflexibility and added support is desired.

Marjore's Battleship Picture

It is not necessary to see the five-reel drama "Defense or Tribute?" to realize that the story of the film is the timeliest and most popular that could have been selected for this or any kind of production. Just glance at a file of the newspapers, chosen at random or, for that matter, deliberately. What do you read about most? Preparedness. What are people mostly talking about these days? Preparedness. Who started the topic? President Wilson. And what moved the chief magistrate of the country to set the word preparedness into literacy and calloguial currency. Events in Europe, of course.

The inspiration for the scenario of this picture came from bloodstained battlefields. The fate of Belgium, of Servia, of Northern France, has made many people in these United States think seriously of what might happen to them. Experts tell you that the Eastern seaboard of the United States is vulnerable to attack. Hudson Maxim the other night pointed out that 90 per cent. of the munitions made in this country came from the North Atlantic States, which, he cheerfully said, could be easily taken in a fortnight by 250,000 men. And 250,000 men could be easily shipped across the ocean these times.

Untravelled Americans find it hard to realize the imminence of these dangers. But they are real; and far from chimerac they were at once regarded. Destructive science progresses very rapidly, as current records attest.

This picture, "Defense or Tribute?" may be compared to a doctor whom you go to consult when you are sick. He diagnoses your complaint; prescribes a remedy; and, perhaps, cures you. Then he hands you some advice, telling you to be more careful in the future; to cut out this or the other thing or you'll fall sick again. He preaches preparedness, in fact.

Same thing in "Defense or Tribute?" The deadly parallel; the awful examples are cast on the screen. Nations that once were great were wiped out by the tyranny of might, simply because they did'nt arm themselves for the inevitable—the inevitable that is before our very eyes this moment. It is the inevitable that happens.

Colladay.

Minuet, a quaint old-fashioned dance by the director, Hartley Mellick; "Sail On to Ceylon," a Japanese song and dance number, 24 participants; "That Hula Hula," chorus number; "Geisha Gay," a Japanese song, soloist, Miss Helen Besler; specialty, "Gems" fox trot, an exhibition dance, Miss Marian Marsh and Robert Bellows; "In the Eden of My Heart," words and music by Edna E. Colladay, duet and chorus of 10 led by Miss Elsie Goddard and W. L. Righter; "Katie Rooney," a tuneful Irish chorus and dance number with 12 participants; "The Little Damozel," Miss Helen Besler and Messrs. John Britton, Burnett and Clyde Doane; Mendelssohn's "Spring Song," a beautiful aesthetic dance number, with 25 graceful and artistically-costumed girls as participants; specialty, "Auf Wiedersein" and "June Love," words and music by Edna E. Colladay, solo by Mrs. W. L. Wright; "The Girl on the Magazine," Mrs. Morris Dumont and Leonard Lewis in a duet and dance with 12 couples as chorus, each of the six girls representing a girl on some magazine. A most attractive and picturesque number; "The Triple Alliance of Love," an ensemble number by entire cast of 300 people. Acompanist, Bernard A. Behen.

GAS RATE FIGHT.

Wheeling, W. Va., March 24.—A hearing is being held today by the West Virginia Public Service Commission, on the application of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Gas Company for permission to increase its rates. The minimum industrial rate on the old schedule was 6¾ cents per thousand feet, while the lowest rate under the new schedule is 10 cents per thousand. The rates were to have gone into effect April 1, but the Commission has suspended the new schedule.

ELISEO ARREDONDO.

Representative in Washington of Carranza Government of Mexico.

Although the Congressional directory, the official authority, says Mexico's representative in Washington is "absent," Eliseo Arredondo is recognized as Carranza's envoy to the United States. An alarmist report said he would be withdrawn as a result of the sending of American soldiers into Mexico to catch Villa. This would probably mean a break with Carranza.

CHORUS CHOIR OF 1,000 IS ASSURED

Great Things Are Expected of These Singers in Evangelistic Campaign.

Great things are to be expected from the great choir which will play such an important part in the evangelistic campaign which will begin here in about two weeks. The rehearsals have been increasing gradually and it is expected that the one thousand mark will be reached, and all will be in fine shape when the evangelist, Dr. Biederwolf, arrives April 9.

Mr. Braider is working very hard getting the choir in trim, and expects a large turn-out next Monday evening, when all the units will get together for a rehearsal in the Plainfield High School Auditorium. All who are members, or any who expect to join, are requested to be present at 8 o'clock.

Those who are going into this important faction, the chorus choir, are backed by the praying people of this city as has been manifested by the number of those who have called upon God, petitioning Him for this department, in the cottage prayer meetings.

Rev. Dr. Birney S. Hudson, chairman of the personal workers' committee, has announced that John G. McLaughlin will be chief usher, Rev. E. C. Conover assistant chief usher, and J. W. Gavett will be chief door-keeper.

FIELDER'S VETO OF TITLE FEE MEASURE

Bill Was Opposed by Tax Collectors in All Parts of the State.

Among the thirty-nine bills vetoed by Governor Fielder this week was one that fixed a flat rate of $10 for ascertaining the owners, mortgagees and persons having lien on property sold for taxes. The measure was opposed by tax collectors in all parts of the State and there was some activity locally in having it disapproved. The message of the Governor on this bill follows:

"The fees and expenses now allowed by law for ascertaining the owners, mortgagees, and persons having a lien on property sold for taxes is now fixed at a low rate and based on the size of the property sold. This bill would make a flat rate of ten dollars no matter what the size of the plot or tract. I fear this will limit the number of purchasers at tax sales and force the municipality to buy in. It is to the interest of the municipality to get property on which owners will not pay taxes in the hands of those who will, but no one will buy at a tax sale and attempt to perfect a title if the owner may step forward and redeem by paying the tax and interest and ten dollars for a title search, when the actual expense has been twenty-five dollars or more."

EVANGELISTIC ASSOCIATION ELECTS ITS OFFICERS

The incorporators of the Plainfield Evangelistic Association met last evening in the Biederwolf headquarters at the Y. M. C. A. and completed the organization, adopted a constitution and by-laws and elected the following officers: W. D. Murray, president; George M. Rittenhouse and J. W. Gavett, vice presidents; J. H. Manning, secretary; A. V. Heely, treasurer, and DeWitt Hubbell, assistant treasurer.

SEN. FRELINGHUYSEN AT BOUND BROOK

Board of Trade Hears Him Tell of Activities of Municipality.

At the annual dinner of the Board of Trade of Bound Brook last night, Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, former State Senator, in his speech said in part:

"I have not come to this dinner tonight with the intention of making any extended remarks; I simply wanted to be with my neighbors and friends—to enjoy a social evening with you. It is not hard to say complimentary things of Bound Brook. The growing activities of this municipality and its wonderful development in recent years speak well for the activity of the Board of Trade and its enterprising citizens. That you have a patriotic citizenship is shown by the important part some of your prominent townsmen are now playing in affairs of State. The distinguished Senator of Somerset now hails from Bound Brook. His wonderful work in behalf of the government of the State deserves the approbation of all public-spirited men—of all those who have the welfare of the State at heart. For the past two years he has headed the appropriation committee, which appropriates and limits all of the money expended by the State. This year Senator Smalley has been assisted by an experienced secretary, Mr. Mason, from your town. The general inspector of the Commission for Tuberculosis in Animals, which does a humane and faithful work for the State, Inspector McNabb, is also one of your townsmen; and the present condition of that department, the stamping out from and protection of the herds of the State against this dread disease has been accomplished by his energy and efficiency. To him and to him alone is due the splendid work in exterminating the hoof and mouth disease from the State. Had it not been for him the property loss to the farmers would have been so extensive that it would have been a serious blow to the dairy industry. You also have furnished for the past six years the Commissioner of Banking and Insurance, George M. La Monte, and so capable and efficient has he been in his office that the Governor has again reappointed him for another term. Bound Brook, with its splendid railroad facilities, its manufacturing industries, its commercial activities bids fair to become one of the most industrious centers in New Jersey—a town of exceptional beauty and one that compels your admiration, in fact the finest town in the State, if you happen never to have seen Raritan."

PROMISES NEVER TO COME BACK TO THIS CITY AGAIN

Thomas Vanness, of Somerville, wandered far from home to get drunk yesterday and found himself before a strange judge this morning. After his story had been told Judge De Meza asked him how he liked Plainfield. "If you'll turn me loose Judge, I'll never come back to this town again." If he does he will fail to fulfill his part of the contract.

ROOSEVELT HELPS SHIP FUND ALONG

Sends Ten Dimes to Marjorie Sterrett for Battleship "U. S. S. America."

NEW NAMES ADDED

Eight Other Plainfield Children Enroll as Contributors—Four in One Family Want to be Boosters—Fund Growing Fast.

Has your name been placed on the list of stockholders in the "U. S. S. America" battleship, which will be built with the dimes of American school children? If not, now is the time to get busy and earn that dime so you can claim your part in the big undertaking. Eight more contributions were received by the Plainfield Daily Press for Marjorie Sterrett's fund this morning, one little mite writing as follows:

"My name is Irma Disborough. I am nearly seven years old. I am sending ten cents to help build the U. S. S. America. I hope it will be a good one."

Similar letters have been received in large quantities by the Daily Press, and scores of red-blooded young Americans are anxiously watching the fund swell. One family was represented in today's mail by four contributors. Anne May, Esther M., Elizabeth H. and DeWitt D. Barlow sent in ten cents each. Others whose names were added to the list of previously acknowledged ten-cent pieces today were R. Barton Morgan, William Earl Wyman and Miss Elsie Koch.

Theodore Roosevelt, in the name of his ten grandchildren, six of whom are not yet born, has enlisted in the campaign. He sent Marjorie Sterrett on dollar enclosed in a grandfathery letter in which he told her his views on preparedness, race suicide and mollycoddles.

The fund started by Marjorie now totals many thousands of dimes. She has already christened her battleship "America," and wants to see it "lick all creation like John Paul Jones did."

Colonel Roosevelt's letter follows:

Sagamore Hill, Feb. 3, 1916.
Dear Little Miss Marjorie:

On behalf of my four grandchildren I join in the effort to help you and your school fellows put our country in shape to "fear God and take her own part."

I enclose a dollar. Forty cents—a dime apiece—are for: Gracie Roosevelt, Richard Derby II., Theodore Roosevelt III. and Cornelius Van Schaak Roosevelt.

Cornelius is the youngest. He is only about two months old. He isn't as long as his name. But he will grow up to it. He is named after his great-great-grandfather, who, when I was very small, over fifty years ago, helped teach me a Dutch baby song.

Little Richard is the eighth Richard Derby, from father to son, born here in America.

He loves the bulldog—a nice, friendly, almost toothless bulldog.

Little Ted is really Theodore Fourth; for my father was Theodore Roosevelt. He was the best man I ever knew; strong, fearless, gentle. He feared God and took his own part.

Gracie is four. The other day her mother was giving her one of her first Bible lessons.

Her mother said: "Now, Gracie, remember that God made everything."

Gracie, much impressed, "Did He make EVERYTHING?"

Her mother, with emphasis, "Yes; everything."

Gracie, after a pause, "Well, He didn't make my leggings fit very well; but I'm sure he meant to, so I wouldn't say anything about it."

The other sixty cents are for my other six grandchildren. They are not born yet. If they are girls I think some of them will be named Edith, Adele, Ethel, Eleanor and Belle. If they are boys some of them will be named Kermit, Archie, Quentin and Jonathan Edwards. Your friend,

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Little Marjorie lives at 369 St. John's place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

NO APOLOGIES ARE NEEDED.

Communications to the columns of the Daily Press, to be printed over the signature of the writer are always welcome, whether or not we agree with what is said therein. That rule has always been lived up to by the present publishers, and anything that is not libellous will be used. It is in pursuance of this policy, and not because we agree with what he says that we have published, and will continue to use letters from F. W. Bird and others who may be opposed to the location which has been selected for the new city hall. Mr. Bird's letter of Tuesday night, to which was appended a statement from County Tax Commissioner William A. Coddington concerning the assessed valuation of the site which the city has purchased, calls for a further definite word of comment.

There seems to be no one that disputes the fact that Plainfield is in need of a municipal building. Different mayors have asked for it for years in their annual messages. Nobody familiar with city affairs, and with the entirely inadequate accommodations and equipment now provided for municipal offices, can present a single, sound reason against the project. It is a matter about which there can be no basis for debate; it is an improvement which should have been made years ago and which has failed solely because of a maximum of fatuous discussion and a minimum of energy, push and accomplishment.

Mayor Calkins and the Common Council members have fully sensed the situation, and have determined to end an intolerable condition. They have the hearty approval and support of nearly every citizen who knows Plainfield and is disinterestedly concerned for its welfare.

The Daily Press has all the facts before it and is in a position to commend everything which has been done in this matter. Mayor Calkins and the members of the 1915 Council who worked with him with unusual and exceptional harmony, devoted nearly the whole of last year to a careful survey of available sites. They fully recognized that people may well differ in their preferences as to precise location. But they knew that as chosen officials, the administrators of the affairs of the city, the decision was theirs to make and they were willing to assume full responsibility for their acts. Instead of backing and filling, talking and listening, they went out on the job and finished it. It was their belief that the site should, for a city like Plainfield, be one which would provide a town-hall setting with attractive grounds. They chose a street at a point where it opens up into the most attractive thoroughfare in the city. They acquired a property which by a further acquisition, if hereafter needed for another municipal building, will give the city an entire block. It is as nearly the geographical centre of the community as can be, and as centrally located with reference to other public buildings as if it were on Front street. No better site could have been chosen.

As to its cost, it may be said that the Council and Mayor acted with their eyes open and with full knowledge of the assessment valuations. Everyone knows that an assessment valuation is no test of the price for which property can be purchased. Commissioners in a recent street widening proceedings were forced to listen to a claim that property on Front street which was affected should be figured at from $800 to $1,000 a foot, considering its possibilities, as against an assessment valuation of about $400. The owners of the Brooks property refused a bona fide offer of over $25,000 within a year or two. Other property on Watchung avenue in the neighborhood was held at $200 a foot long before the city bought the tract. There is nothing unusual about this, or inconsistent with an owner's application for a reduction of a much lower assessment.

The Council for 1916 has unanimously approved the judgment of the Mayor and the Council for 1915, and there is not the slightest justification for criticism of any sort from the people of the community. Somebody had to choose a site, and as the Mayor has said, you cannot choose a site by public hearing. It was the business of the city officials to assume the responsibility and make the selection. Nobody expected them to satisfy everybody; and they frankly admit that there are arguments which may properly be advanced for other locations. But their consideration of the problem was painstaking and thorough-going, and they were in a better position to decide wisely that others can possibly be. They had to pay a good price, but it was not a hold-up or exorbitant considering the future and not just the present. We have no hesitation in applauding a decision firmly and promptly taken, and which deserves the hearty approval of all who believe that improvements should be made with reference to the future growth and welfare of the community.

IT WILL DELIGHT THE GRAFTERS.

Under the caption "deluding the taxpayers" the Trenton Times says that when the voters get an opportunity to study the Egan $7,000,000 road bond bill, they will probably discover that, as usual, the big counties are to gain the greatest benefit from the scheme, which, if it goes through, will delight the hearts of the contractors and grafters. Think of the opportunities for crookedness in such a princely sum!

It is no secret that the eleven main highways that are to be built with the automobile receipts, were laid out in such a way as to get the most votes, and already the scramble for advantage has begun. The one redeeming feature of the Egan bill is the referendum, and even with that many honest and good-intentioned voters may be deceived by the plausible story that it will cost the taxpayers nothing to get seven million dollars' worth of new roads because the money is to be taken from the license fees paid by the automobilists.

As well take the $2,781,348.50 that was collected by the State last year under the transfer inheritance tax law, and spend it on the roads, on the plea that in that way new roads can be built without expense to the taxpayers. But the same amount of money would need to be raised in another way to help maintain the State government. That is exactly what must be done if the Egan bond bill is passed—the State and counties will be forced to raise $780,000 a year in another way.

• • • • • •

Developments of the last twenty-four hours lead to the belief that before the matter is entirely settled the United States will have to go into Mexico and clean things up as was done in Cuba and the Philippines. No dependence can be placed upon the word of any of the leaders in that country, and the sooner they are brought to realize that the United States will not stand for any more fooling the better will it be for all concerned. It will only be a matter of a few weeks before the entire nation realizes that a great mistake was made in not finishing the job when it was started two years ago next month. "Watchful waiting" has been a failure.

On the Spur of the Moment

by Roy K. Moulton

In a Play.

When husky heroes risk their lives,
The playwrights see that help arrives.

I have a friend who says he's seen
It come by horse and submarine.

He's seen help come by engines, boats,
And everything that runs or floats.

He's seen help come, he flatly says,
In fifty-seven sorts of ways.

And yet he claims, 'mid ways galore,
There is one way that they ignore.

He'd like to see a play, he states,
Where help arrives on roller skates.

Uncle Abner

Ren Hanks, who has been in the West for some years, has returned. He says he don't see very much change in the town, and he is right. There ain't much. A book agent came through here last week and got it all.

Simplified spelling in Poland would end one of the horrors of the war, all right.

Hank Tumms says if he swore off all the habits that he ought to swear off, life would hardly be worth the livin'.

It generally takes two to start a quarrel, but not when a feller is married.

Old man Hicks stepped on his whiskers the other day and fell and broke three or four of the commandments all to pieces.

What has become of the old-fashioned gal who used to help her mother with the dishes?

Any city feller who plays poker with a guy from a small town ought to lose his money. Poker was invented in a back room of a country livery stable office.

Wearin' silk hats ain't no more sign that a feller is in the 400 than wearin' a leather cap is a sign that a feller owns an oatmobile.

A feller can't get into good society now unless h's got a six-cylinder car and kin dance and then, sometimes, the society he gets into ain't none too good.

Politically Speaking.

The blazing sun will cease to shine;
The planets will fall out of line;
The moon will cease to shed her beams;
The poet cease to dream his dreams;
The seven seas will all be dry;
The stars be missing from the sky;
The warring nations will shake hands,
And peace will reign in foreign lands;
The busy mills will cease to grind,
And palsy strike all human kind;
All nature will be upside down;
The king trade places with the clown;
The blackbirds they will all be white;
All will be wrong and nothing right: right;
The whole world will be up the spout,
Long ere T. R. is down and out.

Preparedness.

Hon. Gardner says that we
Are unarmed and he can see
How any European nation
E'en of secondary station,
May come over here, mayhap,
And expunge us from the map.
Guess he doesn't read the papers
Which print stories of the capers
Of the gunmen of New York
Who size human life with pork.
Toting guns is now a labor
Every man, also his neighbour,
Undertakes these parlous days
Of the big street shooting frays.
Every burglar, every stick-up
Carries all that he can pick up
In the way of shooting irons,
And the cities and environs
Are brim full of decent guys
Who tote guns against surprise.
We look tame, but underneath
We are armed, and to the teeth.

Ten Words.

A man had recently men an elderly maiden lady in a nearby town. On his return home he wrote, asking her to marry him and requesting an answer by telegraph. On receiving the letter the lady rushed to the telegraph office. "How much does it cost to send a telegram?" she demanded. "Twenty-five cents for ten word," answered the operator, and this was the telegram her suitor received: "Yes, Yes, Yes, Yes, Yes, Yes, Yes, Yes, Yes, Yes.'"

At Proctor's Theatre, Monday.

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME--

RUSHING THE SEASON.

∴ Plainfield Theatre ∴

Earl Benham and Effie Foy, in the New Victor Herbert operatic success, "The Princess Pat," Plainfield Theatre, Wednesday, March 29, matinee and night.

Lyman H. Howe's Travel Festival which comes to the Plainfield Theatre tomorrow night and Saturday, matinee and night, March 24-25, pays bigger dividends to every patron for the small investment of 25 cents, 35 cents and 50 cents than any company, corporation or attraction in existence. That may seem like a broad statement, but nevertheless it is very true; and not only does it pay several hundred per cent. in dividends to every spectator, but it pays them in a way that is far more enduring and permanent than dividends paid in dollars. The dividends imparted by Howe's Travel Festival are mental. They illuminate the intellect, heart and mind. They broaden our mental outlook, impart knowledge and, therefore, perform a real service that is immeasurably more valuable than hard cash, nor is it fleeting. It cannot be taken from you. One of such dividends which spectators of Mr. Howe's new production will receive comes in form of a trip to that tremendous mountainland known as Glacier National Park on the Continental Divide in the Rocky Mountains. Here a veritable army of peaks from 3,000 to 10,000 feet above sea level are grouped in a region which is aptly called the "Roof of America." Atop these mountains are sixty living glaciers that are every bit as inspiring as those ice fields Americans have been crossing to Switzerland to see.

The attraction at the Plainfield Theatre next Monday (matinee and night) will be the "Tip-Top" Girls. It has been proven that the theatre-going public want results, and they recognize real merit and will liberally patronize an offering that will give value received. Ever since the initial performance, crowded houses have greeted this attraction and its path has been marked by successions of triumphs, both from an artistic and monetary standpoint. The patrons want results and they know full well when they are getting it. The company is composed of real artists and each individual member is admirably fitted to the part he or she portrays and here lies the success of the play. The following go to make up an all-star cast: Princess Luba Meroff, Mabel Lynest, Niolo and Spencer, John D. Boalman and Geo. L. Wagner, together with a chorus of twenty-four.

In John Cort's production of Henry Blossom's and Victor Herbert's latest comic opera success, which will be heard at the Plainfield Theatre, Wednesday (matinee and night), March 29, will be found a book that is much more sane and pretentious than is usually obtained for such productions. It contains many bright lines which call for and receive hearty laughs. Mr. Herbert has not lost his love for waltz rhythms. The music throughout is light and gay, and there are many choruses which are admirably written and sung. Among the best of the numbers are duets and trios in the characteristic Herbert vein. The cast has been chosen with unusual care. Prominent among the singers and players will be Ruth Welch, Paul Nicholson, Effie Toye, Philip H. Ryley, Ben Hendricks, Earl Benham, Edward Metcalf, Georgio Sregario, Herbert Salinger, Tots Marks and Francis Bryan. The enjoyment of the occasion will be enhanced by an augmented Victor Herbert orchestra.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Today and tomorrow, one of the most vital of photoplay spectacles is presented at Proctor's, namely, "Defense or Tribute?" a fitting production at this particular time when the whole of Europe is shaken and struggling in the throes of war, and we are but entering into a conflict with one of the most daring desperadoes that ever insulted the Stars and Stripes. "Defense or Tribute?" puts the peace at any price advocates to shame and shows in a clear and concise manner what happened to nations that were unprepared. What the "Battle Cry of Peace" started in this line, "Defense or Tribute?" enlarges upon and treats more interestingly, covering a broader scope in its application on the subject. This is a production that no true American can afford to miss, and it is shown at Proctor's today and tomorrow under the auspices of the Plainfield Daily Press, for the benefit of little Marjorie's Battleship Fund, a little Miss whose efforts in behalf of our preservation has set the whole country talking. "Defense or Tribute?" has been secured at enormous expense, but nevertheless the usual prices will prevail, thus proving the contention that nothing is too good for the patrons of Proctor's. In addition, today, among other features, the twelfth episode of "The Red Circle" is shown, while tomorrow Charlie Chaplin will be with us again in what is considered his best comedy creation, entitled "A Night in the Show." As an added feature, tomorrow and every Saturday thereafter, Harry Watson, of the famous team of Bickel and Watson, the sensation of the New York Winter Garden, will appear in "Mishaps of Musty Suffer," a veritable whirlwind of laughter that will fairly have the spectators jumping out of their seats with merriment and joy. A pretentious list of photoplays greets the patrons for next week, the program on Monday being topped by George Beban, the most famous of character delineators, in "The Pawn of Fate," a feature that will fairly rock the audiences by means of its sheer dramatic intensity. On Tuesday, DeWolf Hopper makes his debut in motion pictures in "Don Quixote," a world-famous story that is bound to create a sensation as big as did Billie Burke in "Peggy." Tuesday will also see Ford Sterling in "His Pride and Shame," the latest of Keystones, and Henry Walthall and Edna Mayo in the fourth episode of "Mary Page."

SMUGGLING PLOT FAILED.

Ship Carrying Arms to Villa Reported Wrecked Off Coast.

New York, March 24.—A message received by Juan T. Burns, consul general here for the Carranza administration, from the Mexican ministry of war and marine told of an alleged attempt on the part of the schooner La Providencia to smuggle arms and ammunition to the Villa forces in Mexico.

The La Providencia was reported to have gone ashore recently on the coast of Mexico twenty-five miles south of the mouth of the Rio Grande. According to the message to the consul general, Alfredo Ricot, the supposed owner of the schooner, and several other persons on board were arrested by the Constitutional authorities.

More Lands Thrown Ope...

Washington, March 24.—The interior department has classed as nonirrigable and open to settlement 750,000 acres of land in the former Pine Ridge Indian reservation of South Dakota. Much of the land already has been entered by homesteaders. The remainder will be opened May 10.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — How the Fox And the Horse Became Friends.

"Here he is, master," he told the farmer.

(Adapted from Grimm's Fairy Tales.)

"OH, daddy, please tell us a fairy story by Mr. Grimm!" cried Jack and Evelyn.

So daddy sat down in his big chair, and this is what he told them: "Once upon a time a farmer had a horse that had been a good friend and helper to him. When the horse grew too old to work the farmer told him: 'I can't feed you any longer. You do no work. So leave my stable. I will not take you back again till you are stronger than a lion.'

"The poor horse was very sad and wandered up and down the woods, seeking shelter from the cold wind and rain. Finally he met a fox and told him his sad fate. 'Cheer up,' said the fox, 'and I will help you. Even if your owner did turn you out when you were too old to work there is still justice in the world. Lie down here, stretch yourself out quite stiff and pretend to be dead.'

"So the poor old horse did as the fox told him, and the fox dashed off to his friend the lion, who lived in a cave near by. Said the fox: 'A little way from here lies a dead horse. Come with me and you can make an excellent meal of him.' The lion was very hungry, so what the fox said pleased him, and he ran to the horse gladly. Then the fox said: 'You can't eat him comfortably here. Let me tie you fast to his tail. Then you can drag him to your cave and eat him at your leisure.' This idea pleased the lion, and he lay down and let the fox tie him fast to the horse's tail. But the fox managed to tie his legs together and bound him so fast that he could not set himself free. Then the fox clapped the horse on the shoulder and cried, 'Get up, Dobbin; get up!'"

"Are they going to have a race, daddy?" asked Jack.

"We shall see!" cried daddy.

"So up sprang the dead horse and up sprang the tied lion. Each pulled and pulled, but the fox had tied the lion so hard that he could not loosen his feet. The poor old horse tugged and tugged, dragging the lion behind him. The lion raged and roared and bellowed till the woods echoed with his noise, and the birds became so frightened that they all flew away. But the poor old horse kept on tugging and made his way quietly back to his master's farmhouse.

"'Here he is, master,' he told the farmer who had turned him away. 'I got the best of him.' And when the farmer saw the bound lion his heart was touched, and he said, 'From now on you shall stay in my stable and have all the good hay and care you need.' And so the faithful old horse had plenty to eat and lived—till he died," daddy ended, with two good night kisses.

"Thank you, daddy!" the children cried.

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

Peach stains will yield readily to a treatment with spirits of camphor. Soak for a while in camphor, then wash in pure water.

A little butter in apple, cherry or peach pie improves the flavor.

When cushion covers become faded, if they are of strong material they may be used for bags for holding dusters and cleaning rags. Tack onto inside of the cellar door or in any convenient place.

To quickly cut sweet corn to dry or can, use the slaw cutter, as it can be made to cut fine or coarse.

Make a silence cloth of cheesecloth with several layers of paper between, and you never will be troubled with fuzz on your polished table, caused by hot dishes.

NOBODY KNOWS BUT MOTHER.

Nobody knows the work it takes
To keep the home together;
Nobody knows the steps it takes,
Nobody knows but mother.

Keep a small basket handy. In it place the things to be taken up stairs when you are going up, and when you are making the beds and dusting, the things which are to be brought down. "Make your head save your heels."

Think, in making trips to the pantry, cellar or ice box, if you cannot both take things and bring others on the same trip.

Keep a chair or revolving stool in the kitchen and, wherever possible, sit down to work. Vegetable paring, cake beating and many other tasks may be done sitting.

Have a method in your work. Occasionally take time to sit down and think over the day's work, and remember how many unnecessary steps you took yesterday.

Have your kitchen shelves arranged to suit your own height, so that there is no unnecessary straining to reach up or bending over to reach one set too low.

Two maxims that will help housekeepers simplify their work are: "A place for everything, and everything in its place," and "Plan your work, then work your plan."

THE TABLE.

Little Turkeys—Four pork chops cut thick, two cups bread crumbs, one medium-sized onion, small piece of any kind of liver (beef, lamb or pork, or one or two oysters cut up small, seasoning). Make pocket in each chop, have the stuffing ready; bread crumbs, onion chopped fine and liver or oysters, all well seasoned with salt and pepper. Bake an hour in moderate oven. Now the cold days are coming this is a delicious way to serve pork chops when something different is needed.

Nasturtium Salad—Prepare freshly boiled potatoes as for ordinary potato salad. Mix with them, in a bowl previously well rubbed with an onion, tender nasturtium seeds, little dice of cucumber and shreds of sweet green peppers. Salt the whole well. Make a dressing of cream, salt, white pepper and lemon juice stirred in carefully till the cream thickens sufficiently. Mix with the potatoes and place the salad on a platter garnished with nasturtium leaves and blossoms.

Apple Dumpling Peanut Butter Crust—Sift together one pint flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon salt. Rub in lightly one-half cup peanut butter, then moisten with ice water as for pie crust; roll out and cut in large squares; lay on each square one pared and cored apple over which sugar and cinnamon have been sprinkled. Wet edges of crust and press together over the apple. Bake as usual.

Lemon Pie—One cup milk, one cup sugar, two eggs, one lemon and two teaspoons flour. Put milk in pan and stir in sugar. Beat yolks, add lemon juice, one teaspoon sugar and two teaspoons flour. Beat this all together and stir into the hot milk. Cook until thick. Have pie crust ready (baked), pour in the hot custard, spread the meringue and brown in hot oven.

For crust take one cup sifted flour, one tablespoon butter and one of lard; mix all with spoon and add enough water to hold together; add little salt if desired.

Marrying for Money

BY MRS EVA LEONARD

Ortrude Townsend Admits Her Heartlessness to Dr. Ellson.

"Doctor, is there any hope?" Ortrude had followed Dr. Elison to the gate and was looking into his face with anxious inquiry. The doctor looked down at her in surprise.

"Does she care for him after all," he thought, "or is this a pose?"

Perhaps she read the thought in his face, for she said:

"You are perhaps surprised that I am anxious about him; that I can show a human side. I do not wonder. I have deserved all that you can possibly think of me. But save him. Oh, save him till I can show him that I am not all bad. He has been so wonderfully patient and kind in spite of my heartlessness and cold neglect. Is there any hope of his getting well?"

"My dear Mrs. Townsend, there is very little hope that your husband will ever be well again, but that does not mean that he is sure to die soon. Paralysis is caused by a clot on the brain. The danger is that conditions that caused the clot in the first place may cause another before that has had time to be absorbed. People rarely live through the third stroke. If, however, there is no second stroke for some time the forces rally and the clot is absorbed. The patient slowly rallies and sometimes it is years before another stroke comes." He looked pityingly at the girlish figure before him.

"Will he ever talk again?" she asked.

"That is hard to tell, but I think there is no question that he understands what is said now. I tell by the expression of the eyes. I am sure the brain is clear."

"Thank God for that. I can at least tell him how bitterly sorry I am for the past, even though I can never hear him say he forgives me. Thank you, doctor." She turned and went into the house.

For the first day or two of her husband's sickness she kept to her room constantly. She felt that she could not meet Dudley since he had rent the veil of her selfish conceit with his scathing rebuke the night his father was taken sick. Marian and Mrs. Tupper relieved each other in caring for the sick man, and George and Dudley took turns helping with the night care. The third day after the stroke Ortrude appeared in the kitchen in a simple house dress and apron, and said to the astonished housekeeper:

"I can help here. You are of use in the sick room. Leave the kitchen work to me." Tupper stared. "I know how to work, and can cook a little. You can direct things and it surely will relieve you to have the dishes washed and the house kept in order."

"Well, thank you," said Mrs. Tupper. "There is plenty that needs doing if you are willing to help."

"I am. Please tell me of anything I can do to make things easier." She rolled up her sleeves and began on the sink full of dishes.

"What do you think?" whispered the woman to Marian." She is washing dishes in the kitchen."

"It is the first dish she has ever washed in this house," said Marian, tartly, "and it is the first sensible thing I ever knew her to do. The kitchen is the only place I know of where she is harmless."

VILLA AND MEN HOLD UP TRAIN

Searches Cars For Americans to Kill.

MEXICANS NOT MOLESTED

Rebel Chieftain Defeated Twice Near Namiquipa, Say Reports—Herrera's Status Remains In Doubt—Calling Out of Entire National Guard Is Talked Of.

El Paso, Tex., March 24.—It was reported here by a reliable Spanish merchant that Francisco Villa had held up a train at Moctezuma, eighty-five miles northeast of Namiquipa, where the Carranzistas insist that he is located. The bearer of the report is Garcia Flores, well known in this city.

"We were traveling north from Chihuahua City," he said, "and were nearing Moctezuma on Wednesday afternoon, when we encountered a large force of men, mounted and on foot. According to my best estimate, there must have been 1,500 in all.

"When we reached the station we were amazed to see Pancho Villa himself enter the train. We had supposed he was many miles to the west. He walked through every carriage, declaring that he was searching for Americans and that he would kill any he found. 'I am not fighting Mexicans,' he announced, 'except the first chief and those traitors with him who have turned Mexico over to the Americans.'

Villa Chatted on Train.

"Villa stopped to chat with some friends of his who were on the train. He told them that General Herrera had joined him three days since with 2,000 men, fully equipped and armed, who had followed him from Chihuahua City. He finally left the train without molesting any one, but he took some supplies which he said he needed badly."

Villa suffered a severe defeat at La Colorada, a short distance from Namiquipa, Monday afternoon, military messages received by General Gabriel Gavira from Casas Grandes stated.

Another battle between Carranza forces and Villa's men was fought at Santa Clara, near Namiquipa, according to a message from General Pablo Bertani to General Gavira.

Andreas Garcia, Mexican consul here, made public a telegram which he said he had received from General Gavira announcing that the Carranza forces had defeated Villa at Santa Gertrudes, near Namiquipa. According to the announcement, Villa, after leaving several dead and wounded in the field, abandoned 100 horses and fled to El Oso.

Contradictory reports were received here concerning General Luis Herrera, who was said to have deserted Carranza with 2,000 troops at Chihuahua City. It was asserted and denied that he had turned against the first chief.

Border Towns Uneasy.

Washington, March 24.—Although state department officials claim to have nothing to substantiate it, the report persisted in administration circles that the United States had made inquiries of General Carranza as to the purposes of the reported concentration of Mexican forces at various points along the border.

The assembling of these troops has caused considerable uneasiness in American towns along the international boundary, and particularly at El Paso, Tex.

While appeals have been made to the war department from these towns for larger forces to protect them from possible attack, officers of the army frankly state that with the exception of about 5,000 troops practically the entire mobile force of the regular army is already on the border.

It is understood the situation was thoroughly discussed at the meeting of the cabinet with a view to determining how additional troops can be raised. At the rate at which enlistments are coming in under the joint resolution passed last week permitting the president to recruit the regular army up to war strength it will take from six to nine months to get the 20,000 additional men required.

May Call National Guard.

For that reason it is believed the cabinet gave serious thought to the advisability of calling out at least a portion of the national guard should the situation in Mexico prove more menacing.

Army officers declare at the present time the most needed troops are cavalry and are suggesting the wisdom of calling to the colors the crack cavalry regiments of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois. Subsequently it is said the entire national guard would have to be called out if the Mexican situation grew more serious than it now is.

Missing Aviator Located.

Columbus, N. M., March 24.—Lieutenant Edgar S. Correll, the missing army aviator, has been located. He was found by Lieutenant J. L. Parkinson, Twentieth infantry, uninjured, but badly in need of food. His gasoline supply had given out, and he was forced to alight off the road. He made his way in the direction he thought the American forces might be located and met Lieutenant Parkinson hunting for him.

Would Sell Appam's Cargo.

Norfolk, Va., March 24.—Immediate sale of the cargo of the British liner Appam, a German prize here, because of depreciation was recommended in a report to Federal Judge Waddill by surveyors appointed by the court. The cargo consists principally of cocoa, oil, butter and maize.

Tells How To Open Clogged Nostrils and End Head-Colds.

You feel fine in a few moments. Your cold in head or catarrh will be gone. Your clogged nostrils will open. The air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more dullness, headache; no hawking, snuffing, mucous discharges or dryness; no struggling for breath at night.

DRESS WARM AND KEEP FEET DRY

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Take Salts and Get Rid of Uric Acid.

sex, color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions, it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat less meat, dress as warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure, and, above all, drink lots of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid. Rheumatism is no respecter of age, which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which overcomes uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

How Champion Jess Willard and Challenger Frank Moran Will Appear In Ring Tomorrow

The accompanying picture gives a splendid idea of how Frank Moran, shown on the left, and Jess Willard, on the right, will appear in the ring in Madison Square Garden, New York, on Saturday night. Willard tops Moran in height, weight and reach. They are nearly of equal age, Moran having been born on March 18, 1887, and Willard on December 29 of the same year. Willard, when he enters the ring, will tower full five inches over his opponent, who measures 6 feet 1 inch, and as to weight Moran will have to concede at least forty pounds. He generally enters the ring weighing a couple of pounds over the 200 mark, while Willard in all likelihood will not be very much under 250 pounds. Willard's enormous reach of eighty-three and one-half inches, as compared with Moran's seventy-eight is a handicap which the Pittsburgher will have to overcome in order to have a chance of outpointing his adversary. That Moran is the possessor of courage, stamina and a punch sufficiently effective for a knockout has been demonstrated in several of his ring battles. Moran has been anxious to meet Willard ever since the latter won the championship from Jack Johnson, nearly a year ago, and, basing his chances on the showing he made against Johnson at Paris in 1914, Moran believes he has the ability and force to wear down Willard, even in a limited bout of ten rounds. Moran is a stockier man than Willard, and he is regarded as being the better boxer. Moran is several inches larger around the chest, his arms are bigger. The measurements of the men follow:

| WILLARD. | | MORAN. |
|---|---|---|
| 29 years | age | 28 years |
| 6 feet 7 inches | height | 6 feet 1 inch |

It took thirty-eight girls to decide two games in the P. H. S. Interclass Basketball League yesterday afternoon, but after it was all over the Juniors found themselves in first place, trimming the Sophomores 16 to 10, and the Seniors were shoved farther in the cellar by letting the Freshmen defeat them, 9 to 8.

The Junior victory, as before, was mainly due to the work of Florence Alpaugh, who did nearly all the scoring. Amy Richards did the major portion of the Sophomore point-making.

The game between the first and fourth year teams was close all the way through, and shortly after the start of the second half, switched in favor of the Seniors, but they could not keep the advantage and were nosed out by one point. Ruth Voorhees was half the Senior line-up, while Ethel Ball's points got the game for the Freshmen.

Local Sport News, Views, Reviews and Interviews

SHORT-ENDER HAS WON HEAVYWEIGHT TITLE FIVE TIMES.

It took Corbett 21 rounds to batter down the game John L., who finally succumbed, not from any one punch, but from the continual battering he received.

It took Bob Fitzsimmons fourteen rounds to flatten Jim Corbett with his famous solar plexus punch at Carson City nineteen years ago.

It took Jeffries eleven rounds to strip Fitzsimmons of the title two years later at Coney Island.

Even Jeffries, tottering as he was when he defended the championship against Johnson, stood up before the negro for fifteen rounds in that memorable battle at Reno in 1910.

It took twenty-six rounds for youth and stamina to triumph over age when Jess Willard ascended the throne over the prostrate Johnson at Havana last April.

Accepting these five fights as the outstanding examples, it is found that a total of 87 rounds of fighting have been consumed for the heavyweight crown to change hands five times. This makes an average of over seventeen rounds per fight.

From these figures, and averages have been found to be a pretty good thing to go by, the fight followers cannot foresee a definite decision for the ring battle at New York tomorrow night, when Willard defends his title against Frank Moran. The fight is limited to ten rounds. Only through the unexpected can a decision come earlier. There is at all times the chance for the lucky blow or the total fizzle of one or the other of the contenders. But the dope points to a no-decision scrap.

Apart from this speculation, the figures show another interesting fact, namely, that an "outsider" has in each instance plucked the coveted title. It is also observed by the betting fraternity that the short-ender has come through in each of these battles.

When trim Jim Corbett, the California bank clerk, was stacked up against Sullivan, it was generally believed that the big Boston fighter was invincible, and that he would dispose of Corbett without much effort. Odds of 3 to 1 were quoted, and Sullivan money went begging.

When Fitzsimmons essayed to grab the prize from Corbett, the latter was rated a 10 to 6 favorite in the betting. Again the short-ender won.

And when Jeffries, with nothing but his ability to take punishment and a powerful wallop, came forth to do battle with Fitz, there were few who could see more than a long chance, and the odds were 2 to 1. For the third time the outsider punched his way to the top.

Even though he had worn the cloak of retirement for several years and none knew whether he was the Jeffries of old or a fattened replica of his former self, Jeff stepped into the ring a favorite against Jack Johnson, liberally supported at 10 to 4. The dusky boy from Galveston came through and crimped many a wad throughout the land.

Willard's case was somewhat of an exception, for it was known that Johnson was not himself after his gay life on the Paris boulevards. The husky Kansan had his backers, and he was generally accorded an even chance. But the dope ran true and the "outsider" brought home the bacon.

This dope has been read to Frank Moran, and the Pittsburgher finds the stars set in his favor. Moran has had a long, up-hill struggle in the fight game, and tomorrow night's battle is the climax of his hopes.

Will the "outsider" again win?

STAGE ALL SET FOR WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP CONTEST BETWEEN BIG BATTLERS IN NEW YORK TOMORROW NIGHT

New York, March 24.—Unless some unforeseen hitch occurs today, over the financial end of the big championship battle, nothing can prevent the staging tomorrow night of the ten-round bout between Jess Willard and Frank Moran. Both men are extra careful in their training, and there is little likelihood of an accident that would interfere with the contest.

The big battle is to be staged under the wing of the State Boxing Commission, which is meeting its first big test as the defense of the public against fake fights. Everything must be on the level or there will be no fight. The big pile of money that has been collected through sale of tickets at fancy prices is held intact, and it will go right back to the ticket holders if anything breaks.

Both the boxers are reported to be in the pink of condition. Some of the experts do not agree on this point. There are rumors that Moran is over-trained, and persistent stories that Willard has loafed on the training job. But the bout is for only ten rounds, and it is generally conceded that both men are sufficiently trained to go that distance without distress unless they are interrupted, one or the other, by a haymaker.

Moran has completed his heavy work, and is taking it easy, and Willard is taking only light exercise.

PLAINFIELD A. A. TO PLAY IN BORO

Team Will Represent North Plainfield in City Ball League.

HYDE OVAL SECURED

Mayor Smalley's Club Will Change Its Name to "North Plainfield A. A."—Will Be Composed of Former Players of N. P. H. S.

According to the present plans of two prominent North Plainfield residents and Gifford Jones, manager of the Plainfield A. A., the club will be reorganized and renamed the North Plainfield A. A., and will represent the borough in the City Baseball League, playing its home games on Hyde Oval after June 15.

The players who will compose the team will be borough boys, most of them former North Plainfield High School players. The team cannot use Hyde Oval until after the N. P. H. S. nine closes its season the middle of June, except on Saturday, when the Maroon and Black is scheduled to play away from home.

Such a move will be the first step of extending the City League circuit outside of the city limits, and may pave the way for the admittance of Dunellen. The latter town will apply for a franchise at the next league meeting.

The announcement that the Jones' nine will use Hyde Oval ends the speculation of where that team will play its home games this summer. Inasmuch as league sentiment has been in favor of having only three fields for league games, and as Hope Chapel and Clinton Avenue have agreed to share the Soccer Field diamond, while the Tabs and First Baptists use the West End avenue field, it was thought that Manager Jones' club would alternate with Netherwood in the use of the Emerson avenue diamond.

The Plainfield A. A. played independently last year, and made an excellent showing against some of the best semi-pro clubs outside of Plainfield. The team was composed of young players, several high school School boys being in the line-up, but the aggregation put up as snappy an article of ball as any combination in the city. It is not likely that the club will have to secure permission from the league to play in North Plainfield, but even if this is necessary, it is not expected that there will be any objection voiced by the other teams.

HOPE BOYS' CLUB IS SWAMPED BY P. G. S.

Churchboys No Match for Bigger and Better Opponents.

Superior size and strength gave the Plainfield Grammar School five a rather easy victory on the Plainfield High School court yesterday afternoon over the Hope Chapel Boys' Club five by a 50 to 15 score.

The first half was fairly close, although it gave the public school boys a comfortable lead, but the second half was a runaway. Angerbauer, playing forward in the second half, made seven baskets, while Van Winkle made two less. Only one man on the Grammar School did not break into the scoring column. Snyder made nearly all the losers' points, and was the only man that could get loose.

TO BE STRICT, SAY A. A. U. BOXING MEN

Referee and Athletes Must Be Registered for Club to Hold Any Bouts.

Attempts to abuse the privileges of the new State boxing law with professional bouts under the protection of an A. A. U. sanction will be nipped in the bud quickly by the officials of that organization. This was the promise sent forth yesterday from the New York headquarters, where the officials have become thoroughly aroused over the possibilities for subterfuge to evade the strict line set down by the new law.

Every application for membership will be investigated, it is said. The A. A. U. men will look into the records of the applicant organization, the men at the head and the local authorities to determine its standing in the community. The A. A. U. does not require that the club be in existence for a certain length of time before it can become a member, but a provision in the law states that the club holding amateur bouts must have been in existence for at least three years.

The law leaves no loophole for even the semblance of a professional bout, it was said, provision being made plainly for four-round bouts sanctioned by either the A. A. U. or Intercollegiate rules.

Reference will be given the clubs now in the fold in the way of sanctions. In becoming a member of the A. A. U. the officers of the new club must sign to abide by all the rules. These provide that an A. A. U. referee officiate at all the shows, and that the bouts must not go farther than three rounds, with four rounds, in the discretion of the referee, when a decision is at stake. To become a member, the club must be located in permanent quarters and have a certain number of registered athletes.

FARMER A. C. NINE TO BE KNOWN AS FRANKLIN A. C.

The Farmer A. C. has decided to change the name of the club to the Franklin A. C., of Plainfield, and Manager Campbell wishes to announce that he will be glad to receive dates for Saturday or Sunday games from any team in this city or nearby towns. Address, A. C. Campbell, 221 Grant avenue, city.

The Farmer A. C. made a fairly good record last season, playing 25 game and losing only three of them, and winning 17 straight games without a defeat.

GIRLS USE COLLEGE RULES FOR CONTEST

Plainfield Five Wins Match in Which No Lines Are Used Score 21-8.

Through some misunderstanding, the Plainfield Five-Hope Chapel girls' game was not played on the Columbus Club court last night, as it was first announced. Quick management on the part of the Plainfield Five resulted in the securing of the T. A. M. aggregation. Playing in the preliminary to the Knights of Columbus-Hope boys' game, the Plainfield Five came away with another victory, the final score being 21 to 8 in their favor. The game was of more than passing interest, in that it was played under the collegiate code of rules, without lines.

The score:

FIERCE BATTLE ON RIGA FRONT

Russians Still Continue Violent Offensive.

RAILWAYS AS OBJECTIVE.

Millions of Czar's Men Are Hurled Against Teuton Lines—Berlin Says Teutonic Front Is Holding Firm. French Attack In Vosges, Taking German Positions.

London, March 24.—The Russians are making heavy assaults on Von Hindenburg's positions along a front extending nearly 200 miles southeast from Riga.

The German war office reported heavy Russian assaults in the region of Jacobstadt and along the Mitau-Jacobstadt railway, north of Widsy and in the region of Lakes Narocz and Wisniew, south of Dvinsk. General Kuropatkin is rolling up heavy forces to the attack against the German railway positions, but the German war office asserts that the attacks have been repulsed.

German Official Bulletin.

The official statement said:

The Russians yesterday showed their principal aggressive activity at night time. They advanced several times with strong forces against the German positions at the bridgehead at Jacobstadt and on both sides of the railway between Mitau and Jacobstadt and four times against the German lines north of Widsy.

On the front northwest of Postavy the number of prisoners reached fourteen officers and 889 men. The Russians on this front undertook no more important attacks, probably on account of the heavy losses they have suffered.

The enemy advanced several times with renewed violence between Narocz and Wisniew lakes. Great sacrifices of men and munitions brought to the Russians in these attacks and in several local enterprises at other points not the slightest advantage against the unshaken German defense.

Russians Claim Big Gains.

Petrograd, March 24.—The Russian troops on the Dvinsk front have advanced from two to four miles in their new offensive, it is stated here, driving the Germans from positions which they had been fortifying ever since the completion of the big Teutonic drive last summer. Fighting is going on over the greater portion of the 700 mile front.

The Russians have 3,000,000 men massed on this long front, supported by nearly 10,000 guns of various calibers.

Little Change at Verdun.

London, March 24.—The French are still disputing the slopes of Haucourt hill, between Malincourt and Avocourt, with the Germans who got a foothold there, according to the Paris war office.

The Berlin statement claims the capture of the "ridge southwest of Haucourt," which, it says, is a strongly fortified French pivotal position. In the fighting in this sector Berlin claims the capture of 450 prisoners.

The Paris official announcement says that the French maintain their position on the slopes of Haucourt hill and that no new attempt to enlarge their positions at this point have been made by the enemy.

Near Fey-en-Hayl, about fifty miles southeast of Verdun, French troops attacked the German trenches, taking a number of prisoners, Paris states.

Paris Official Statement.

The Paris war office statement follows:

To the west of the River Meuse the bombardment diminished. The enemy did not renew his attacks on the little hill of Haucourt (about one kilometer southwest of Malincourt), part of which we hold.

To the east of the Meuse the bombardment has continued with violence at several points on our front.

In the Woevre there has been no important development to report, with the exception of an intermittent cannonading.

To the west of Pont-a-Mousson a surprise attack upon a trench of the enemy in the vicinity of Fey-en-Hayl resulted in our taking several prisoners.

HOUSE ARMY BILL PASSED, 402 TO 2

Measure Provides For Force of 140,000.

Washington, March 24.—The Hay bill for the reorganization and increase of the army was passed by the house by a vote of 402 to 2. Fred A. Britten, Republican, of Illinois, and Meyer London, Socialist, of New York, cast the opposing votes. Mr. Britten explained that he did not regard the bill, which provides an army of 140,000 men, as a real preparedness measure.

That the house may be persuaded eventually to accept a bill from the senate providing for a larger standing army was demonstrated by a record vote on the Kahn amendment proposing an army of 220,000. This amendment was defeated, 213 to 191, a majority of 22. The "big army" strength in the house was a surprise to the author of the amendment. The amendment had been defeated in committee on the whole, but the house agreed by unanimous consent to have a roll call on the proposal before taking the final vote on the passage of the bill.

The large vote for the Kahn amendment strengthens the belief that when senate and house send their respective army bills to conference the compromise bill may provide for an army of 160,000 or more. On the Kahn amendment thirty-four Republicans voted against the big army plan and thirty-three Democrats for it. Party lines were not closely followed on the several roll calls taken on the bill, although the majority of Democrats stood by the committee bill as framed by Chairman Hay of the military affairs committee, and the Republicans gave the greater amount of support to proposed amendments.

DR. ARTHUR W. WAITE.
Son-in-law of Pecks, Whose Deaths Are Being Investigated.

New York's district attorney, investigating the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Peck at the Riverside drive apartment of their son-in-law, Dr. Andrew Warren Waite, sent a detective to question the young man. Dr. Waite was taken suddenly ill, and the detective said he had "taken something." Dr. Waite is a prominent indoor tennis player. The Pecks were very wealthy.

DR. WAITE ARRESTED AS PECK'S POISONER

Maid Says Soup Was Tampered With.

New York, March 24.—Dr. Arthur Warren Waite was made a prisoner in his own apartment at 435 Riverside drive charged with the murder by poison of his father-in-law and mother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Peck of Grand Rapids, Mich.

He will be arraigned in the Tombs police court as soon as his condition permits. When the police arrived at his apartment he lay in bed stupefied from heavy doses of trional, sulphonal and veronal sodium, powerful sedatives, which he had taken in an intense craving for the sleep his nerves had denied him.

Much information involving the dentist came to the ears of the district attorney.

Dora Hellier, servant in the Waite home, told William Dean Embree, assistant district attorney, that two days before the aged millionaire died Dr. Waite poured into the soup intended for the old man a fluid he described as medicine.

Afterward he poured some of the same concoction into a cup of tea he poured for Peck, the woman said. These mixtures were made in the kitchen, out of the sight of Mrs. Waite and her father, the servant related.

In searching about the rooms in the home the district attorney found in the library a collection of medical and chemical books, several of which had been marked in places where they treated of arsenic. Certain passages indicated by these book marks described in almost exact detail the phases of the illness suffered by Peck.

NOVEL PROGRAM AT "DIRECTORS' SOCIAL"

Allen S. Williams Illustrates "Taming of Wild Animals" at Y. M. C. A. Affair.

All sorts of wild animals, together with several varieties of snakes, occupied the center of the stage at the "Directors' Social" in the Young Men's Christian Association last evening, Allen S. Williams, naturalist, of New York, being on hand to see that none of these became unmanageable.

The social was a very pleasant affair and well attended by the members of the senior department and their women friends. The board of directors was well represented, and, with their wives, acted as hosts for the occasion. The program began with a basketball game in the gymnasium between the business men's group and a team known as the Seniors. The playing was fast furious and close (to the Seniors), the score is still being figured and it is hoped will be ready for publication within the next few days.

At the conclusion of the game, the activities were transferred to the auditorium, where Mr. Williams exhibited a number of well-selected stereopticon slides illustrating his lecture on "Taming and Training of Wild Animals," prefacing this with a very vivid representation of how trainers become acquainted with lions before attempting to train them. Before finishing, Mr. Williams exhibited some live specimens of snakes and explained their habits and characteristics.

The festivities were concluded with light refreshments served by the social committee of the Ladies' Auxiliary, while the whole program was in charge of F. O. Dunning, chairman of the social committee of the Association.

RENVILLE LEAKE WINS TEST CASE

Awarded $150 in His Suit for Damages Against James Lindsey, of Kearney.

Jersey City, March 24.—Renville Leake, of Bound Brook, was the defendant in a test case brought before Judge Charles Carrick, in the First District Court, here yesterday, the action being brought to recover damages from James Lindsey, of Kearny, for injuries received in an automobile accident on South avenue, Westfield, October 16 last. Mr. Leake was given a verdict for $150. He was represented by Martin B. Stutsman, attorney, of this city. Mr. Leake's injuries consisted of a cut on his right hand.

At the time of the accident a number of automobiles were taking part in a manufacturers' parade. Mr. Leake was in a car owned by Leo Hauser, of Brooklyn, the other passengers being Mrs. Kropke and Mrs. Bertha Hauser, also of Brooklyn.

According to the testimony of the plaintiff in court, Mr. Lindsey left his position in the parade to run ahead, and in so doing collided with Mr. Hauser's auto. The other passengers of the Hauser car were injured, and they will bring suit against Mr. Lindsey.

FARRELL HELD ON EXTORTION CHARGE

In Default of $1,000 Bail He Will Await Action of the Grand Jury.

New York, March 24.—Cornelius Farrell, alias John Smith, alias Harvey, alias Alexander Jessup, alias Charles F. Steele, under arrest here for attempting to extort $100 from Hiram O. Hance, of Watchung, to suppress from newspaper publication four of the lawyer's letters stolen from the latter's office at 206 Broadway, New York, in default of $1,000 bail is a prisoner in the Tombs awaiting the action of the grand jury.

Farrell, who alleges that his right name is "John Smith" and is held under that name in the court papers drawn up against him, failing to secure an adjournment of thirty days from City Magistrate Marsh, before whom he was arraigned, waived examination and consented to let the matter go before the grand jury.

This was satisfactory to Mr. Hance, Detective Gorevan and two mysterious women who were in court ready to appear against the prisoner. According to the police the prisoner is only a tool in the hands of his confederates whom he is attempting to shield, and it is expected he will expose them if they fail to help him in his defense.

TUBERCULOSIS DEATH RATE SHOWS DECREASE

Activities of Society Fighting Disease Credited With Improvement.

While the latest report of the bureau of the census shows that in 1914 tuberculosis caused more than 10.5 per cent of all deaths in the registration area of the United States, the National Association For the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis points out that the death rate from this disease is steadily decreasing. It had declined from 200.7 per 100,000 population in 1904 to 146.8 in 1914. This would indicate, the association claims, that the anti-tuberculosis movement organized in the last ten years is having a marked effect on the mortality of tuberculosis, especially since the death rate from this disease seems to be declining more rapidly than the general death rate from all causes.

Commenting on this decrease in the rate from tuberculosis, the bureau of the census says:

"As a result of a more general understanding of the laws of health, the importance of fresh air, etc., due in part, no doubt, to the efforts of the various societies for the prevention of tuberculosis, there has been a most marked and gratifying decrease during recent years in the mortality from this disease. In only a decade—from 1904 to 1914—the death rate from tuberculosis in all its forms fell from 200.7 to 146.8 per 100,000, the decline being continuous from year to year. This is a drop of more than 25 per cent."

OUR SEA LAW VIEWS ARE TO BE DEFINED

Lansing Drafting Pronouncement For Nations.

Washington, March 24.—The United States soon will make for the information of the nations of the world a complete statement of its position in regard to the conduct of submarine warfare and the arming of merchant ships for defensive purposes. It has not been definitely determined just what form the announcement will take, but it is considered not unlikely that a circular memorandum may be addressed to the powers.

Whatever the form of declaration, prepared after careful consideration of all the claims made by both sets of European belligerents, it will serve to guide the course of this government in future negotiations. The United States will stand unalterably upon the principles already laid down.

Coming from the most powerful of the neutral nations, at a time when all the other great world powers are at war, the pronouncement may form the groundwork for a new international law, to be developed after the war, which will provide for the use of submarines in naval warfare. The law now does not take into consideration the activities of submarines or the possibilities of their use.

Only a few minor points, it is understood, now remain to be determined upon, and a decision in regard to these probably will be reached in the near future. The conclusions reached by the secretary will be carefully discussed by him with President Wilson before they are put into the form in which they will reach foreign governments.

It is considered improbable in official diplomatic circles that the announcement will be made before the political situation in Germany resulting from the retirement of Admiral von Tirpitz has been clarified. It is not believed that the administration would be willing to issue a statement defining its position at a time when such an action might be used in a political way by factions in a nation with which it is negotiating.

SALANDRA TO VISIT KING.

Seeks Sovereign's Views on Conference of Entente at Paris.

On their way they will visit King Victor Emmanuel at the front to discuss the attitude to be taken on questions raised at the conference which affect Italy.

LITERARY

You will get a first-hand impression of what poor old Salonika has gone through in Richard Harding Davis' article in the April Scribner, "With the Allies in Salonika." She has had a hard time, and her history has not been made but "thrust" upon her.

"If it is true that happy are the people without a history, then Salonika should be thoroughly miserable. Some people make history; others have history thrust upon them. Ever since the world began Salonika has had history thrust upon her. She aspired only to be a great trading seaport. She was content to be the place where the caravans from the Balkans met the ships from the shores of the Mediterranean, Egypt, and Asia Minor. Her wharfs were counters across which they could swap merchandise. All she asked was to be allowed to change their money. Instead of which, when any two nations of the Near East went to the mat to settle their troubles, Salonika was the mat—if any country within a thousand-mile radius declared war on any other country in any direction whatsoever, the armies of both belligerents clashed at Salonika."

CHOOSING A VOCATION INTELLIGENT EFFORT

D. Fred Aungst Gives Borough Parents Excellent Advice Concerning Children.

Supervising Principal D. Fred Ungst, of the Borough Schools, delivered an interesting address on "Choosing a Vocation," before the regular monthly meeting of the Borough Parent-Teacher Association, held last evening in the Harrison avenue school. There were about ninety present at the meeting, a number of whom were men. During the evening, H. C. White spoke on "Civic Center Work." Mr. Aungst spoke in part as follows:

"There are people of considerable intelligence who scoff at giving counsel to young men and young women about the choice of a vocation, trade, profession or occupation. They hold that young people should enter the battle of life with a good foundation in the elements of knowledge, and then seek means for a livelihood as one goes into a jungle or a forest in search of game. The absurdity of such a stand is at once seen in the sportsman who arms himself to shoot quail and is attacked by a grizzly bear, or an elephant; for surely tree climbing is not a part of the school curriculum. It is obviously a fact that there are certain simple truths to be held in mind in selecting one's life work. Choosing a vocation is intelligently-directed effort; "hunting a job" is haphazard action that leads into blind alleys. The occasional lucky strikes in fertile fields are but glittering exceptions that prove the rule for wisely-directed effort.

"Examples of this human trait bob up serenely every day. I may mention the case of a North Plainfield father whose ambition was to have his son become a clergyman. The boy had absolutely no ability in language, literature or history. He hated people, especially women. His language was soiled with slang. His appearance and manner were against his entering the ministry. But he had an unquestionable fondness and ability for mechanics. He knew motorcycles up to the careful timing of the engine with the spark. He took on a new life when he was about machinery; yet that father took exceeding umbrage when told his son should change courses in the High School. In fact, the boy never did change courses. The father took him out to discipline him and give him a thirst for classical education. From last reports we have concluded the boy is like the camel that can go without water for many days.

"In the wise selection of a vocation there are three factors that must be used: The boy or girl must have a clear understanding of himself, of his aptitudes, his abilities, interests, limitations, resources, ambitions and their causes.

"The boy or girl must have a knowledge of the requirements and conditions of success that surround a given line of work. He must know of its advantages and disadvantages. He must inquire into the opportunities, prospects and compensation.

"True and careful reasoning is required in relating the facts of the foregoing factors.

"Every young person needs help on all three of these points. He needs all the information and assistance he can get. He needs counsel that is carefully and systematically given. The more light he can bring to bear on the problem from his observation, reading, and experience, the better it will be for the clearness and strength of the conclusions arrived at, and the permanent value of the results attained.

"Obviously the first step, then, is self-study. The young person must investigate himself in order to determine his capacities, interests, resources, limitations and their causes, so that he may compare his aptitudes, abilities and ambitions with the conditions of success in different industries.

"Parents will find that their children will fall into one of two main classes:

"Either the boy or girl has well-defined aptitudes and interests which form a practical basis for a reasonable conclusion in choosing a vocation; or the boy or girl has so little experience and manifests so few aptitudes and interests that there is no basis for a wide decision."

FIRST EXECUTION IN GUAM.

Washington, D. C., March 24.—Word regarding the firs execution in Guam under American occupation has come to a retired officer in Washington in a letter from a friend in the marine brigade. A young Filipino, who several years ago was brought to Sumay, the cable station, by a captain in the marine brigade, from Manila, and has since served succeeding officers, fell in love with the wife of a Japanese merchant. Failing to win her, he sneaked a revolver from the captain by whom he was employed and shot the woman and himself. She died and he recovered. The letter concludes: "The gallows is erected, the coffin built and the execution takes place in the morning."

William Newcorn, of this city, chairman of the Union county Republican committee, will soon arrange for a special meeting to be held prior to the Presidential primaries on April 25, to which will be invited the delegates, delegates-at-large and alternates to the National Convention. This meeting will be held for conference purposes.

PORTRAY PAINTINGS OF FAMOUS ARTISTS

"Living Pictures" Enjoyed by Large Audience at First Presbyterian Church.

"Living Pictures," portrayals of famous paintings, given under the auspices of the Westminster Guild of the First Presbyterian church in the church chapel last night, was a success from every point of view, a large audience giving much credit to the participants. Miss Ruth Dunning Sadler, the president of the guild, was chairman of the arrangements. Each picture was given in a large gilded frame and was posed true to the picture it represented, with an appropriate musical accompaniment. The latter was rendered by H. J. Harold, the church organist. While the picture was shown, Miss Hazel Selby read a short history of it.

The pictures portraying child study were particularly pleasing, the youthful participants carrying out the meditation to perfection. Among the children taking part were Marion Northrup, in The Age of Innocence, by Sir Joshua Reynolds; Betty Price, in Simplicity, by Sir Joshua Reynolds; Adele Texier, in Van Dyck's Baby Stuart; Elizabeth Palmer, in The Infant Samuel, by Sir Joshua Reynolds; Kenneth Hinman, in The Boy with the Rabbit, by Sir Joshua Reynolds; and Margaret De Meza, Mme. Le Brun and Her Daughter, by Le Brun. The lighting of the various pictures was done by A. V. Searing, Jr.

Other pictures and participants were as follows: The Fates, P. Thumann, Jennie Peacock, Linda Cave, Mrs. W. H. Sadler; The Pot of Basil, Alexander, Leontine Huntsman; Queen Louise of Prussia, Richter, Ruth Sadler; Vestalin, Kauffmann, Cosette Bratton; Maude Muller, Anonymous, Doris Sattels; soprano duet, "Spring Is In the Air," Mrs. Donald Pearsall, Miss Ruth D. Sadler; The Skylark's Song, Jules Breton, Ruth Wean; Fabriola, J. J. Henner, Mary Alexander; La Madelaine, Reni, Helen George; Mignon, G. Horn, Eleanor Searing; Whistler's Mother, Whistler, Clara Van Fleet; The Lady With the Fan, Abel Faivre, Edna Hyatt; Madonnina, Robert Ferruzzi, Clara Karney; The Lady With the Muff, Le Brun, Abel May Dickinson; The Broken Pitcher, Granze, Lois Diman; Carmen, J. Koppay, Doris Sattels.

MINA NELSON GOES WEST FOR SUFFRAGISTS

Miss Helene Nelson, of Trenton, has joined the Congressional Union's organization force and will leave in a few days for Topeka, Kansas, to assist Miss Mabel Vernon, national organizer, in extending the ramifications of the Union into each of the political divisions of that State.

Since graduating from Dickinson College, Miss Nelson has been engaged in settlement work in Chicago. For some time she has also been active in suffrage work.

With eight other organizers of the Union already in the voting States, she will make arrangements for the invasion of the "Suffrage Special," carrying thirty-six eastern envoys into the enfranchised territory to form a Woman Voters' Party. The trip through the West will begin Sunday evening, April 9, following a conference of Advisory Council members at Cameron House, national headquarters of the organization, in Washington.

Among the prominent women who will be included in the delegation are: Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, Mrs. Harriot Stanton Blatch, Mrs. John Rogers, Miss Anna Constable and others of New York; Mrs. Mina Van Winkle, of New Jersey; Miss Ella Reigel, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Florence Bayard Hilles, of Wilmington, Del.; and Mrs. Abby Scott Baker, of Washington, D. C.

WESTCOTT, AT WHITE HOUSE, SAYS HE'LL DECIDE SOON

Washington, March 24.—Within a week or two Attorney General John W. Wescott, of New Jersey, is going to make up his mind as to making himself a candidate for the Democratic Senatorial nomination in opposition to Senator Martine. Mr. Wescott vouchsafed this much on Jersey politics when he called at the White House.

Mr. Wescott is turning matters Senatorial over in his mind right now. He does not know just what way he will decide, but if his becoming a candidate will ease the path of the President, the chances are that he will get into the primary tussle. That is the sum and substance of his sentiments at this time.

The attorney general declared that the Republicans were not helping tmselves much by the legislative record at Trenton and he had no doubt the Democrats would be correspondingly benefited. Like most other Jersey pilgrims to Washington, Mr. Wescott believes that Otto Wittpenn has the inside track on the Democratic Gubernatorial nomination.

SHACKLETON BACK FROM ANTARCTIC--KEEPS SILENT

Sydney, New South Wales, March 24.—Lieut. Sir Ernest H. Shackleton has returned from his Antarctic expedition. News of the achievements of the expedition is withheld for the present.

YANKEE PUTS PEKING ON MAP

By a new arrangement made hrough C. E. Benjamin, known to very railway man in the United States as "Ben," between the Canadian Pacific and six Oriental railways, namely, the Imperial Government Railways of Japan, the Railway Bureau of the Government General of Chosen, the South Manchuria Railway Company, the Peking-Mukden Line, the Tientsin Pukow Line, and the Shanghai-Nanking Line, it is now possible for the ordinary traveler to include in his tour Peking and other cities of Eastern China, which have hitherto been extremely difficult of access. The conflicting interests of these railways have been reconciled so that one through ticket covers the whole journey from Yokohoma through Japan and Korea to Mukden, thence to Peking, Nanking, and Shanghai. The Forbidden City is now no longer concealed from the gaze of the foreigner, and its truly imperial splendor of marble palaces make it one of the sights of the world. While Europe is practically closed to the tourist, the Orient is open, and the Orientals, principally the Japanese, are taking full advantage to put Peking and other cities of China, Korea and Japan on the line for tourist travel to the flower festivals and fairylike scenery of the Far East. The Empresses, until recently released by the British Admiralty, were used to good advantage as fast auxiliary cruisers and commerce destroyers, having four 6-inch guns and six 4.7-inch guns mounted fore and aft and manned by Royal Naval Reserve men. They have a sea-going speed of 20 knots and are the fastest liners on the Pacific. Vancouver, British Columbia, is their western port.

"BAD" NEGRO GETS LIMIT IN COURT

Ernest Trent Says He Will Kill Next Policeman Who Arrests Him.

"I am sorry I cannot make it ten years," said Judge De Meza earnestly this morning when he sentenced Ernest L. Trent, a negro, to pay a fine of $100 and serve a term of 59 days in the county jail. Needless to say that was the maximum sentence for his offense.

"I have been arrested eight times, and the next policeman that tries it is going to get killed," was one of the remarks of the negro that led to his being given the limit. He was arrested for stealing a raincoat from William Hill. When before the judge the negro was asked if he had ever been arrested before in Plainfield. He said no, and a card with his record on it was shown him. He told Judge De Meza to "mind his own business," and if he wanted any information to get it off the card. The negro refused to answer any questions and impudently told the officers to let him alone. When sentence was pronounced Judge De Meza told him to stay away from Plainfield. "I'll be back as soon as I get out of jail, and all the policemen in Plainfield can't run me away," he declared.

Trent is one of the most desperate characters that has been arrested by the local police in years. He was arrested by Captain Flynn Wednesday evening and offered no resistance, but it is feared that he will come back as soon as he gets out of jail at Elizabeth and begin violating the law again, which may lead to serious trouble.

HARRY BARBER HAS A FREE RIDE IN ELEVATOR

Harry Barber, of 220 Somerset street, had a free ride at the Sloane-Day Aeroplane Works yesterday afternoon. The apparatus which took him up, however, was not an aeroplane but an elevator. Barber works for the Boice, Runyon Company and he was assigned to take a load of lumber to the aeroplane factory. He arrived "O. K." and transferred the load from the wagon to the lift in the factory. The lift is located so that material which is brought to the factory can be readily loaded on it from the outside. Entrance is gained to it by a door which moves up and down like a shutter. This door is operated by a motor which is set in motion by a rope. The elevator is operated in the same manner.

The ropes which operate the two are in close proximity to one another. Barber, after transferring the lumber from the wagon to the lift, stepped on the lift and pulled a rope which he thought would let the shutter-like door down behind him. After letting down this door it was Barber's intention to go out by the way of the office, leaving a bill there. Minutes which seemed like years elapsed before he could do this because the rope which he grabbed operated the elevator which quickly shot upward.

When it went up as high as it could Barber pulled the rope to let it down. He pulled it too hard, however, and it went to the cellar with a bang. After going up and down in this fashion several times Barber finally managed to stop the elevator at the main floor and found his way to the office.

PAVING IMPORTANT IN SANITARY CONQUEST OF CANAL ZONE

LAYING BRICK STREET in CITY of PANAMA

Panama and Colon now have modern pavements on every important thoroughfare, laid by United States engineers. The question of material gave some concern, as the surface must withstand extremes of temperature and must never be soft enough to permit the adhesion of filth. Sanitary conditions must, above everything else be maintained. Choice in most cases fell upon vitirfied brick, laid on a concrete base with a cement grout filler.

An entirely new view of the potentialities of the tropics has been afforded by the success of Surgeon General William C. Gorgas in making Panama a healthy place to live. There is no reason, he says, why the Congo and Amazon valleys must remain comparatively unused by civilized men. It is a simple matter of money and energy to make both of these trackless regions perfectly safe for human habitation and the results would immensely more than repay the outlay. From these two regions, says Dr. Gorgas, more foodstuff could be secured than is now produced in the entire world and with less effort.

SILK STRIKE IS NOW IMMINENT

Paterson Workers and Owners In Deadlock.

CONCESSION IS REJECTED

Employees Insist Demands For Nine Hour Day Must Be Met at Once If Strike Is to Be Averted—Manufacturers Offer Nine and a Half Hours and Further Reduction Later.

Paterson, March 24.—Whether or not there will be another silk strike in Paterson the next week will probably decide. The situation now stands in a state of deadlock, the ribbon weavers' arbitration committee of the Brotherhood of American Silk Workers having rejected the proposition made by the Silk Manufacturers' association. This action was taken at a conference with the ribbon manufacturers' arbitration committee. The proposition consisted of a partial concession on the part of the manufacturers, in which they offered to give the workers a nine and a half hour day beginning May 1 and a nine hour day beginning Nov. 1.

The brotherhood insists that a nine hour day be granted starting April 3, but after a two hour argument, in which each side presented its case, no agreement was reached. The result was that the workers' representatives retired, leaving on the table their counter proposition to the manufacturers. The bosses say they will make their final answer as quickly as possible.

There is a decided variance of opinion as to what this will be. Persons known to be in touch with the manufacturers say they will concede rather than withstand a strike at this time, the most prosperous in the history of Paterson silk making. Others, said to be equally well informed, declare the bosses would welcome a strike, thinking they might obtain their raw silk at much lower prices a few weeks or months hence.

Louis Magnet, secretary of the Brotherhood of American Silk Weavers, declared he had no statement to make other than that given out by the brotherhood—namely, that the manufacturers' proposition was rejected and a counter proposition submitted. "I am still hopeful," said Mr. Magnet, "that a peaceful and satisfactory solution of the question may be reached."

In the statement issued by the brotherhood the assertion is made that the workers realize that the manufacturers have made concessions in offering to institute a nine and a half hour day May 1 and a nine hour day Nov. 1. "However," the statement continues, "we feel that they do not meet the conditions that exist."

Most of the workers take the position that inasmuch as the manufacturers have not granted any general concessions either in wages or hours since the last strike in 1913, notwithstanding that many of the bosses are said to have agreed to do so, they cannot see their way at this time to take the manufacturers' promise of nine hours after Nov. 1. They believe that now is the time to insist on the nine hours, and they say the general public of Paterson is with them.

TRUESDELL TRIAL MAY 8.

Physicians Arraigned on Manslaughter Charge.

Newark, March 24. — Dr. John H. Young and Dr. Paul E. Truesdell, the Montclair physician and dentist charged with performing an illegal operation, which resulted in the death on Feb. 15 of the latter's wife, Mrs. Emma Wolf Truesdell, will be tried May 8 on the indictments to which they pleaded not guilty. This was announced when the pair were formally arraigned before Judge William P. Martin.

The two men were actually in custody less than two hours. Brought from their respective offices in Montclair on a capias, they were accompanied by Edward H. Holmes, cashier of the Bank of Montclair, who furnished Dr. Young's bond of $7,500. The $5,000 bond of Dr. Truesdell was provided by John B. Gardner of 6 Vincent place, Montclair.

The girls who enter the millinery contest will occupy separate booths, where they may be seen by the audience without being distracted by the operations of the various contenders.

WILSON IN PHILADELPHIA.

President's Wife Accompanies Him to Oculist's.

Philadelphia, March 24.—The heaviest police guard ever ordered for President Wilson in this city met him when he arrived in Broad street station forty minutes late because of an accident to the locomotive drawing his special train.

At Perryville, Md., the locomotive developed a hotbox. The president's train was backed to a siding and a long wait ensued while another locomotive was being brought from Havre de Grace.

The president, who was accompanied by his wife, came here to consult his oculist, Dr. C. G. Deschweinitz. After a brief stay in the oculist's office Mr and Mrs. Wilson motored to the home of the president's sister, Mrs. Anne Howe, and had luncheon.

Hopes Women Will Adopt This Habit As Well As Men

Glass of hot water each morning helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Happy, bright, alert—vigorous and vivacious—a good clear skin; a natural, rosy complexion and freedom from illness are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nerve wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking, each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds; and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood, while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.—Adv.

When Milady Takes her Ease

by Hester Winthrop

A Velvet-Striped Scarf in Splendid American Beauty Shade, is Cunningly Draped on this Teagown of Oriental Lace

The New Peasant Cap with Lace and Pearl Fringes

A Formal Teagown in Daffodil Yellow with Flecks of Creamy Lace and Unusual Sleeves

A Teagown of Jade Green Brocade and White Lace Artfully Draped

A Teagown of Flesh Pink and Silver with a Multitude of Tiny Tucks and a Charming Sash

Teagowns of Unsubstantial Fabric But Substantial Cost – Loose Peignoirs of Splendid Hue and Cobwebby Airiness – Sumptuous Models of Chiffon.

MILADY takes her ease most luxuriously these days, and the boudoir is the loveliest frame for beauty, after all, with its pale, satin hung walls, its ivory toned furniture and its chaise-longue heaped with fairy cushions selected artfully to form the most harmonious background for her negligees.

This entrancing frame for beauty costs a small fortune all in itself; indeed the furnishings of a modern boudoir, the wage of the accomplished maid who presides over it and its accompaniment of exquisite negligees, peignoirs, fascinating sacques and caps; and these luxurious wearables in themselves represent a sum that would dress an average woman richly and well for an entire year.

Perhaps the loveliest of all the lovely teagowns pictured, is the trailing model of brocaded crepe and Oriental lace, the two fabrics blending into each other in a classic harmony of line. The crepe is faint jade green in tone and the lace cream-colored. The tasseled scarf of tulle which outlines the neck and falls in a straight end at the back is a mixture of jade green and orchid tints and the tassels are silver. These heavy silver tassels, pulling down the tulle scarf in straight lines, help to give the negligee its wonderful classic grace. The cream lace drapery which forms the upper part of the garment is appliqued to the jade brocade and the heavier fabric drags down the filmy lace in the sweeping lines pictured. Under the cream lace is a lining of cream net.

Negligees Are Longer Than Frocks.

There are a few saucy boudoir gowns with flaring, abbreviated skirts—but not many. The unwritten law of the boudoir gown is that it shall be long and sweeping and graceful rather than short and saucy, and most of the teagowns and peignoirs conform to this unwritten law. Only one of the pictured negligees escapes the floor and this one falls well over the ankle. It is a coat and skirt combination of accordion pleated chiffon in the palest yellow shade, trimmed with a particularly dainty French lace showing little rose clusters on a fine net ground. Rather unusual in a negligee are the long, plain chiffon sleeves finished with lace frills at the wrist; these give a suggestion of formality to the garment not altogether consistent with its character as a lounging gown; but the long sleeves are unusual and chic—and one must have novelty!

The chiffon coat is pleated only at front and back, the material being plain under the arms where the coat slopes sharply upward to the hip. An invisible belt of ribbon at the hip, is caught to the coat on each side, holding it in against the figure while pleated front and back hang perfectly straight from the shoulder. Silk stockings and slippers match the pale yellow negligee and the cap is a fetching cloche shape trimmed with little rosettes of pale lavender ribbon.

In Pale Pink or Blue.

The pretty teagown trimmed with silver lace and draped most gracefully with a wide ribbon sash, was designed for a spring trousseau and in the original was shell pink in color. The model would be equally charming in pale blue, and the woman who means to make for herself a fetching week-end negligee will find this tea gown a simple and easy one to follow. First, there is an underslip of accordion pleated liberty silk which is mounted on a yoke of flesh pink net that extends below the armpits. Over this pleated slip—which you will note sweeps the floor—goes the dainty coat of chiffon or Georgette crepe. This is pintucked by hand entirely across front and back, the tucks at the back being twice as long as those in the front so that the line at the back of the coat may be flat while at the front there is plenty of fullness across the bust. Four groups of pintucks are set in, lower down on the coat and beneath these groups of tucks passes the sash, of wide liberty ribbon. Note that the pintucks at the front are only a little below the natural waistline while at the back they are quite below the hip line. This gives the sash its graceful, dragging line from front to back, and the big bow at the back helps in the drag. At the lower edge the coat is sloped up toward the front and is bordered with wide silver lace.

A Scarf Teagown From Paris.

Also for a spring bride is the French teagown to which a velvet-striped scarf gives a most unusual note. This scarf drapery is practical as well as artistic, for it may be drawn up around the shoulders if Milady feels shivery. Essentially French is this charming negligee and the Frenchiest touch is the pleating of narrow lace which edges the trailing foundation skirt of accordion pleated chiffon. This pleated frill peeps under the flounce of embroidered net in most coquettish manner. The skirt has two deep flounces of net embroidered in a charming festoon effect in cream, pale blue and faint pink silks. Each flounce is pleated and the pleating is held in by a frill of narrow lace at the edge. At the back is a straight panel of the embroidered net from shoulder to floor. The coat portion, as the mirrored reflection shows, is absolutely simple, falling in straight, loose lines over a slip of flesh colored chiffon. Coat and skirt are joined loosely at a low waistline by a band of embroidered net insertion. The sleeves are merely broad strips of embroidered net flung over the arm and caught at wrist and shoulder. Upon this filmy negligee the scarf of velvet brocaded crepe in a vivid, rich hue, drapes itself in lines of peculiar grace. The scarf is weighted by bead tassels at its lower corners and its upper corners are caught to the sleeve drapery. The upper edge is attached to the negligee along the back of the shoulder also.

Peacock Blue With Chinese Embroidery.

An unusual peignoir, filmy in texture and with the glinting colors of the humming-bird, was shown at a New York opening this month. The material is peacock blue silk marquisette, green and blue threads crossing to make the shimmering, changeable weave. Two breadths of the material are used and are shirred to strips of gold and blue Chinese embroidery which extend from the neck to a point several inches below the shoulder over each arm. The decolletage is cut out in a deep oval in front but is high at the back and all around it runs a fine gold cord with tassels hanging at the front, below the deep oval. The peacock blue breadths are seamed up at either side as far as the hip, where the fullness of the material is caught in, under gold and green ornaments. This peignoir would be admirable also, in rose-colored liberty silk with trimmings of silver cord and ornaments and heavy cream Venise lace instead of the Chinese embroidered epaulets on the shoulders.

Caps New and Alluring.

There is always something new in boudoir caps; a fresh idea appears every day. But always the round mob cap style with a frill at the edge remains the favorite. A new variation of this becoming mob cap is shown in the model of all-over lace which is made in rather a new fashion. The selvedge edge of the lace forms the frill around the face and the scalloped edge is drawn up to make a frilly lace pompon at the top of the head. Over the elastic which draws up the cap is a cartridge pleating of pink ribbon, the ends of the ribbon trailing over the shoulders at the back.

A more impressive model is the peasant cap of silk and venise lace which has a fringe of pearl beads at the front and quantities of satin ribbon arranged in bows at sides and back.

Black Underwear a Fad of the Moment.

Considerations of boudoir wear would be incomplete without a word about the dainty garments that go underneath. The short petticoat has come in again with wide skirts; it had to be abandoned of course when skirts had clinging lines, but it is such an attractive little garment that women are glad to have it back again. Of dotted point d'esprit is one of these little petticoats, the gathered lower portion attached to a yoke that fits smoothly over the hips. A frill of lace finishes the edge and the edge falls two inches short of the knee. Another petticoat is of pleated pink batiste with lines of real cluny insertion above the hem. This one also escapes the knee by two inches. Under the billowy skirts of the spring frock—most of them interlined with a stiffening at the hem to increase the bouffant effect—there is plenty of room for a dainty little short-petticoat if one elects to wear it. The longer petticoat goes over it, but the fabrics of both are so soft that there is no danger of bulk over the hips. Even if there were it would scarcely matter, with hips distended as they are now with puffs, draperies and gathers.

Black negligees and petticoats are a fad just now. There are black crepe de chine nighties, and black chiffon peignoirs—for wear in smart black and white boudoirs of course. There are chemises of black chantilly, too, with a tiny embroidered red rose on one shoulder. For wear beneath black evening gowns there are princess slips of black tulle, the bodice a puff held up by ruchings of the tulle over the shoulders and the skirt a series of puffs held together with tiny ruchings, these of crisp black ribbon.

A Cosy Knitted Cap for Baby

IF you are tired of knitting mufflers, afghans and sweaters, try this dainty cap for somebody's baby. Use fine split zephyr or shetland wool and white is the prettiest for it makes baby's head look like a little round snowball when the cap is on. For a six-months old baby you will need to cast on about fifty stitches, using ordinary amber needles about number five size. Knit straight across, back and forth in a rather loose stitch until you have a strip of about forty rows. Double the strip in half lengthwise—for the cap is to be double, giving soft, cosy warmth to the little head. The folded edge of the strip makes the front of the cap and the back edges are to be sewed up, over and over, with a needleful of the yarn. Let the seams come inside so that the back of the cap will be smooth, both on the outside and against the little head. Now roll back the front edge twice on the outside, as though you were rolling over an inch deep hem. Tack here and there so that the roll will keep its position and make a frame around the baby face. Strings of white satin ribbon sewed on under small rosettes, will complete the snowball cap.

Make Your Own Sport Hat

THIS year sport hats of fabric are to be very fashionable and various materials are used, silk, satin, striped and plain linen, tucked batiste, cretonne, and so on. If your velvet sailor this winter has been so becoming that you hated to give it up; rip off the velvet and cover the buckram frame with linen, and achieve an equally becoming sport hat. The velvet sections, if you have ripped carefully, will supply a correct pattern for the new covering and silk cord will disguise your inexpert stitches where the brim covering meets at the edge. Suppose you cover the crown and face the brim with pink linen; then put striped linen over the brim and a band of the stripes, running vertically around the crown. Or cover the whole hat with green linen to which you have appliqued leaves cut from figured tapestry cretonne, buttonholing the edges of the leaves with green worsted.

To the Becoming Mob-Cap Shape is Added Medallions, Gay Rosettes and Streamers of Pale Ribbon

In Behalf of the Smile Alluring

"OUR eyes express what we are; our mouths show what we have made ourselves." So goes the familiar saying. And there is a good deal of truth in it, too. A false and studied expression, carefully held by the lips, is often belied by the eyes which reveal the real sentiments. Many a laugh is given with the lips which finds no echo in the eyes; and he or she who seeks to convey a false impression, even, sometimes, to help or to comfort another, instinctively hides the telltale eyes and makes the mouth—more trustworthy servant—tell the story of sympathy, encouragement, light-heartedness, disapproval, anger—or whatever idea is to be conveyed.

"We make our own mouths"—and alas, how badly we succeed in most cases! Rare is the mouth that is beautiful after the soft curves, the pliancy and the rosiness of first youth have departed. Temper, uncontrolled desire, repressed nerves, discontent, envy, melancholy, worry—how they set their mark on the mouth, moulding it gradually but surely into the shape and the lines that will give the face its unmistakable character at middle age! At forty, the mouth is a sure indication of the life that has been lived, of the thoughts, the habits, the aspirations—or lack of aspirations—and even the undiscerning can read the story of self-conquered or self-indulged in the line of the lips.

Here again the mouth is different from the eyes. When a face is in repose, it is the mouth that betrays the inner self—the eyes may be on guard; but the moment the play of expression begins, the eyes must hide themselves if they wish to hold their secrets and the facile mouth may express what it wills.

So after all is said and done, beauty of the mouth depends first of all upon character and alluring as full, rosy lips may be, the woman who possesses them cannot hope to have a charming mouth at forty, or fifty, or sixty if selfishness, malice, bitterness and meanness take the place of sweetness, self-sacrifice, generosity and kindliness in her life.

She may keep her mouth wash in as dainty a flask as she pleases, but she should use it three times a day.

Natural beauty of the mouth depends not so much upon the actual formation of the lips as upon the formation of the jaw and the teeth under them. It is most important to have the child's teeth looked after all through the years preceding adolescence. Not only must they be kept thoroughly clean and free from tartar, and every cavity filled as soon as it appears, but the teeth themselves should be coaxed or made to grow aright—which means regularly and evenly in the jaw as nature intended them to for the proper mastication of food, without crowding or overlapping each other. During the years of childhood the bones are very plastic and a good dentist finds little difficulty in straightening a youngster's teeth without pain and with but small discomfort to the patient. After the age of adolescence the task becomes much more difficult, though there have been cases when badly crowded and overlapped teeth were straightened and the jaw brought into correct shape as late as the age of nineteen or twenty.

Never have a child's tooth pulled without first consulting a reliable dentist. The six-year molars are apt to show signs of decay early—say at the age of ten or twelve years, and sometimes they are pulled out under the parental impression that they are "first teeth" and not needed in the mouth. The large molars back of them push forward into the empty places; the plastic little jaw becomes foreshortened and presently the face takes on that distressing overshot line, with receding chin.

Everybody is not blessed with Cupid's bow lips; but, given no absolute deformity, most people can have attractive mouths provided they keep their tempers sweet, practice self-control, put themselves in charge of a good dentist, and use their tooth-brushes regularly three times a day. Tooth-powder or tooth-paste should be used at night and in the morning; and a good mouth-wash following the tooth-brush will give such a fresh, wholesome sensation that once inured to its use, you will never be willing to do without it. Orange-juice, it is said, helps to keep the teeth white and a few drops of orange juice squeezed on the toothbrush now and then will make an agreeable variety from the toothpaste.

If the teeth are of the strong yellowish sort—which by the way are much more of a comfort to their possessor than the pearly white teeth which constantly require dentistry—a little powdered pumice now and then will help to keep them more presentable; but the pumice should not be applied oftener than once a month. Twice each year, at least, the teeth should be thoroughly cleaned by a dentist, for tartar collecting around the roots may make a great deal of trouble. Smoking makes the teeth yellow and dull looking—the woman who dotes on cigarettes should remember this!

A smile that reveals a glittering array of gold-filled teeth is repelling rather than engaging. Good dentists fill the front teeth now with enamel which does not show against the enamel of the tooth when carefully matched. Do not bite hard candy, crack nuts or snip off thread with your teeth, especially if you have spent considerable money to have them filled.

Keep the lips soft with cold cream if they are inclined to become dry and harsh, and cultivate the habit of keeping them just together which will make your expression sweeter. Hard-pressed lips give the face a stern and resolute look not becoming to a woman.

An occasional application of powdered pumice will keep the teeth free of tartar.

What lemon juice is to the skin, orange juice is to the teeth, and it may be used without fear of injury.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Victor Moore, the clever Lasky Company comedy star, has been engaged for a term of years and will appear in a series of his famous Chimmie Fadden characterization. The next one, which will be at the Astor Theatre today and tomorrow, is entitled "Chimmie Fadden Out West." In the production of this picture, it was demonstrated that the public enjoyed clean comedy far more than that of the slapstick variety. So popular was this first picture of the "Chimmie Fadden" series in which Victor Moore plays the title role, that there has been a series of photodramas founded on this famous character.

For the production of this picture the Jesse L. Lasky Company rented the entire town of Newhall, California, for two days. This included the city hall, jail, police station, depot and all the principal buildings needed for the filming of this comedy. The picturing on the screen of the "Better Babies" is one of the most unique pieces of motion picture photography that has ever been accomplished. This will be one of the large attractions on Monday and Tuesday. This work is being done in co-operation with the National Federation of Womens' Clubs of the United States, and the Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor at Washington will be seen in Paramount Pictographs.

Evona chapel will hold its annual meeting on Thursday evening, March 30, when officers will be elected for the year and reports will be presented.

CHANCE FOR PRESS ADVERTISERS TO ATTRACT THE ATTENTION OF THE ENTIRE COUNTY.

As the result of an agreement between the Plainfield Daily Press and the Elizabeth Evening Times any advertiser placing a classified ad in the Press may have that same ad inserted in the Elizabeth Evening Times upon the payment of one-half more than is charged for the Daily Press insertion alone. Thus, if an advertisement in the Daily Press costs forty cents, the same advertisement may be placed in the Elizabeth paper for an additional twenty cents.

The Elizabeth Evening Times has a circulation of 9,000 and is widely distributed throughout Union County. Thus if an advertiser places his advertisement in the Plainfield Daily Press and Elizabeth Evening Times he places it before the eyes of thousands of readers at a very small cost.

Most advertisers welcome the opportunity to attract the attention of the whole county to their offerings and with the co-operation of the Elizabeth Evening Times the Plainfield Daily Press is now able to make this possible. The Elizabeth Evening Times has earned a reputation for itself as an advertising medium, especially along the classified line, and it is a well known fact that its influence extends into other counties besides Union.

LIBRARY SHOWS HEALTHY GROWTH

Third Printed Report Gives Interesting Statistics on Work Being Done.

89,000 ARE VISITORS

Year of 1914-15 Was Greatest in History—Almost 100,000 Books in Circulation—Penny-a-day Plan Popular.

The third printed report of the Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room, covering work done and improvements made during the thirty-four years of the history of that institution, has just been made public. It shows remarkable advancement in popularity and equipment since the last report, which was circulated in 1907. The library now has a total property value of more than $100,000, and a total circulation of almost 100,000 books a year. More than 89,000 visitors called at the building during the last year. The expenditures for the year 1914-1915 were $781.49 and receipts were $832.

Officers of the library are: President, Alexander Gilbert; vice president, Lewis V. F. Randolph; treasurer, J. Herbert Case; secretary, William M. Stillman.

Directors: J. Herbert Case, Alexander Gilbert, Charles E. Herring, Frank L. Holt, William F. Merrill, Lewis V. F. Randolph, William M. Stillman, Cornelius Boardman Tyler, Leonard Waldo; librarian, Florence M. Bowman.

Included in the report are the following facts concerning the library work:

"The Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room is thirty-four years old. It has each year made its report as required by law to the Common Council; but during these thirty-four years, a printed report, giving a general summary of history, work and condition, has only twice been made. The institution has experienced increasing need of money to buy books and to pay for its enlarging work, and it has sought to avoid expense except as to what has been absolutely necessary. The time seems to have come when a further general resume of its affairs and history should be sent to the public. The last printed report was made in the summer of 1907.

"The accompanying detailed statistics from the earliest days of the Plainfield Library possess interest as showing the steadily increasing usefulness of the institution. For example, it appears that in 1883 and 1884, the total number of visitors to the library was 2,391; in 1887, the visitors numbered 19,993; in 1892, they numbered 29,594; in 1896, they numbered 42,940; in 1900, the number was 51,754; in 1910, it was 86,614, and in 1914, the number was 89,363.

"The figures of circulation will be found equally interesting. As far back as 1887, the total circulation was 17,528. By 1893 it had advanced to 25,016; in 1900, the circulation had reached 46,873; in 1910, it was 77,863, and last year it was 99,607. Patrons are now allowed to draw books from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., and on Sundays and holidays from 2 to 6 p. m. This library is one of a very few which circulates books on Sundays.

"The penny-a-day plan for selected fiction has proved a profitable departure, accommodating more fully patrons of the library without cost to the library itself.

"The most notable and substantial increase has been in the total volumes contained in the library; beginning at 175 volumes in 1883, increasing to upwards of 10,000 volumes in 1890 and to upwards of 18,000 in 1900, reaching to more than 37,000 in 1910 and to about 46,000 at the present time, after allowing for 'withdrawals;' that is, books worn out or discarded.

"The Plainfield Library is especially well provided with periodicals, in which may be found, not only the news of the day, but also the thought and science of the day.

"The greatly increased work of the library has rendered necessary the employment of additional help; but the efficiency per individual of the library force is far greater than it was or could be in earlier years. The whole number of library employes is nine, and the whole cost or compensation of these, including librarian and janitor, was last year $5,025.

"Plainfield is a beautiful, salubrious city. Within the memory of at least one of the members of its Library Board it has grown from a village with a population of one thousand persons. The settlement, including North Plainfield, comprises now about thirty thousand, and its future growth is assured. It has a population noted for refinement and intellectual progress and its educational advantages are of a high order. It is entitled to a superior library; and toward this we are permitted constantly to aim and strive."

AMERICANS ON TORPEDOED LINER

Channel Boat Sussex May Have Carried Many to Death.

CRISIS IN GERMANY

London Hears Reports of Rupture Between Kaiser and Cabinet—U Boats Get Many Victims—Verdun Set On Fire.

Paris, March 25.—The Channel steamer Sussex arrived at Boulogne today, listing heavily to starboard. A message to the Ministry of Marine states that the ship was torpedoed without warning yesterday. There were a number of Americans on board. Some of the passengers rescued from the Sussex arrived at Dover, England, from Boulogne. Among the Americans on the Sussex were Tingle Culbertson, of Sewickley, Pa., a suburb of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Dorothy Hilton and Miss Edna Hilton, of New York, and Mrs. Gertrude Warren, of St. Louis.

The vessel was under the command of Captain Mouffet, while the crew numbered forty, mostly French.

"I think it possible that there were a number of Americans among the passengers of the Sussex," said Robert P. Skinner, the American consul general, "because in the last few days my office has vised passports for many Americans going to Europe."

At both the American embassy and the consulate general there were rumors that the Sussex had been torpedoed, but neither had received any details.

The Sussex left Folkestone flying the French flag and met with mishap somewhere off Dieppe. When the alarm signal was sent out a number of vessels in the vicinity hurried to her assistance, while others rushed under full steam from Dieppe harbor.

Washington Awaits Facts.

Washington, March 25.—Possibilities of a recurrence of the submarine controversy in acute form were foreseen here today as a result of the reported torpedoing of the Channel steamer Sussex. Early reports were meagre and conflicting and officials anxiously awaited accurate information from official sources as to whether the vessel was attacked by a submarine, how many American lives were put in jeopardy, and, if the case was clearly one of torpedoing, whether there were any extenuating circumstances.

Another U-Boat Disaster.

Washington, March 25.—The State Department was today informed of the sinking of the Englishman, the time and place of the torpedoing are not given. The information came from the American Consul at Bristol, England. There were a number of Americans on board, none of their names being among the thirty-three survivors. There were sixty in all who were saved. The Englishman sailed from Avonmouth, England, for Portland, Me., on March 21. Among the Americans believed to be lost are Peter McDonald, of Boston, P. Buckley and N. A. Burke, whose residences are not given, and George McDonald.

Cruisers Battle to Destruction.

London, March 25.—It was officially announced by the Admiralty that a German raiding cruiser, the Greis, disguised as a Norwegian trading vessel, fought an engagement in the North Sea, on February 29, with the British auxiliary cruiser Alcantara, and that both were sunk. There were rescued and taken prisoners, however, 120 Germans. The British lost 74 men.

Cabinet Crisis in Berlin.

London, March 25.—A German cabinet crisis is probable, according to advices received in well-informed quarters here. Prince Von Buelow, it is reported, has been selected as successor to Dr. Von Bethmann Hollweg, the German Chancellor.

Steamer Salybia Sunk.

London, March 25.—The British ship Salybia has been sunk by a submarine, the crew being saved. The Salybia plied between Barbadoes and Cardiff.

Guns Set Verdun on Fire.

Berlin, March 25.—Verdun has been set on fire by the German artillery, it was announced today by the war office. Elsewhere on the front there were no events of unusual importance. Many shells have been thrown into Verdun by the big guns of the Germans to prevent transportation of troops and ammunition to the firing line.

Quiet Night at Verdun.

Paris, March 25.—According to a statement given out by the French war office this afternoon, the night was quiet in the Verdun region, both east and west of the Meuse. There were artillery duels in the Woevre region.

Chile to Take German Ships.

Rome, March 25.—The Idea Nazionale says Chile is about to requisition the German steamships that have remained in Chilean ports since the beginning of the war, as security for $2,000,000 detained in Germany for the same period.

CROWDS GREET DEFENSE FILM

Plainfield Daily Press Picture Makes a Big Hit at Proctor's Theatre.

GRAPHIC THROUGHOUT

Two More Shows This Afternoon and Evening—Picture Cost a Million Dollars to Produce and Has a Remarkable Underlying Theme.

Two large houses greeted the initial showing of the five reel motion picture production, "Defense or Tribute?" given in Proctor's Theatre yesterday afternoon and evening under the auspices of the Plainfield Daily Press. The audience included many school children and older persons who saw it were profound in endorsing the theme as educational and interesting.

Of the external attributes of "Defense or Tribute?" the most wonderful is its symmetry. From the slaughter of the innocents to the Charge of the Light Brigade, every incident, every situation receives its own peculiar development, but at the same time is made to contribute its exact share to the total effect. At the end of each reel are great culminating points, for which we have been insensibly prepared by a series of gradations whose structure reveals itself only after some nation has gone down in the slough of ruin, a victim to Heaven's wrath for wallowing in the mire of unpreparedness.

Nor do the pictures concern themselves alone with the grandiose scenes of martial pomp and circumstance—through the story runs a tale of love, peace, and contentment—forever being marred. Practically it is plotless; but it is so full of action, incident, excitement, tragedy and dramatic contrasts that it occupies a class by itself.

The producer, again and again, takes a nation; the Jews, the Gauls, the North American Indians, and others, shows then in a condition of unpreparedness and then permits a better armed foe to fall upon and exterminate them. Prosperous modern America is revealed to the spectator who is asked whether he would like his country's safety to be jeopardized by unpreparedness.

All the Presidents of the United States are characterized. Battleships, submarines, soldiers, are seen in the picture. Supposedly a council of men prominent today in this country meet and discuss the burning question of the day—Preparedness. Purely as a production the picture has been carried out on a grandiose scale—it is spectacular to the limit; armies in battle, great and sweeping scenes, beautiful views, and striking incidents alternating to keep the interest of the spectator from end to end of the film.

EIGHT MORE DIMES FOR THE BATTLESHIP

Marjorie Sterrett's Idea Now Well on the Road to Success.

Four dimes were received from one family, two from another and one each from two others this morning by the Plainfield Daily Press for its Marjorie Sterrett battleship fund, bringing the total up eighty cents more. One letter which accompanied the four contributions from John J., Margaret H., Lorette F. and Gertrude V. Stebor reads:

"We are enclosing four dimes for the great battleship 'U. S. S. America' and we all know and hope it will be the biggest and best battleship made."

Another from Elinor Coward, of 941 Union street, says:

"Enclosed please find ten cents to be added to the fund for the building of the battleship 'U. S. S. America.' Hope the children will be successful in raising enough funds to build it."

Elizabeth and Mary Louise McGee, of 103 Sycamore street, have each sent in ten cents and Edward D. Sullivan, a little fellow claiming residence at 808 Park avenue has added his dime.

The Daily Press will publish another complete list of contributors Monday and those children who want their names on this list should have their dimes at the Daily Press office by Monday morning.

TO TEACH AVIATION.

The L. W. F. Flying School, formed for the purpose of making and operating aircraft for carrying passengers, mails and freight, and primarily for the teaching of aviation, was incorporated in Trenton yesterday with a capital of $5,000. Robert J. Fowler and Charles F. Willard, of New York; L. Douglas Tompkins, of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Charles E. Corbin, of Rahway, N. J., are the incorporators.

TO FIGHT FOR APPROPRIATION.

Senator Charles O'Connor Hennessy and Assemblymen Winne, Bailey and Ackerman plan to fight next week in Trenton for the full appropriation of $100,000 for the Palisades Interstate Park, on which the Appropriations Committee has reported a reduction to $75,000.

MAY NOT RENEW LEASE FOR HOTEL

Peter Floersch, it is Reported, Plans Removing Back to Perth Amboy.

Peter Floesch, who has conducted the Queen City Hotel on Park avenue for the past five years, it is reported will not renew his lease for the hostelry when it expires next March. It is rumored that Mr. Floersch contemplates returning to Perth Amboy, where he conducted the Packer House prior to coming to Plainfield.

The Packer House, which is an old structure, is to be razed and in its place a modern seventy-room hotel is to be built. It is understood that Mr. Floersch may take over the management of the new hotel when completed.

Mr. Floesch came to this city following the remodelling of the Queen City Hotel, and under his management it has become one of the most popular hostelries in the State. Reports that he intends leaving here have been received with regret.

FIFTY MEETINGS IN CITY AND BOROUGH

Increased Attendance and Interest Reported in Revival Preparatory Services.

Some fifty cottage prayer meetings were held in the city and borough last night, and a splendid attendance recorded from each district. Aside from the influence of so many people getting together in the various home of the community, one of the benefits of these meetings is seen in the large number of laymen, both men and women, taking part in leadership.

Again the atmosphere of friendliness and lack of formality which is characteristic of the meetings appeal to many people who have been lax in their church attendance. In one case last night all present in a large meeting were people who attended no church whatever, while some of the homes where prayer meeting are being held are occupied by those who have no church affiliations.

Cases have been reported where people hesitate to go to the different meetings because no invitation had been received; but it is earnestly hoped everyone will feel free to step in wherever the white flag is displayed, or beter still, consult the papers for the meeting in your neighborhood and attend without specific invitation, for the invitation has been extended broadcast.

LOCAL SOLDIERS ARE READY FOR ACTION

New Jersey Can Equip Five Regiments if Country Calls for Them.

Both Company K and Troop D, Plainfield's two militia organizations, are ready for a call to arms from the United States Government, although there now seems to be no immediate possibility of such an order being issued by President Wilson, as conditions in Mexico have improved greatly within the past two days. Company K recently underwent a rigid inspection from an officer of the United States regular army, and came out with flying colors.

In case militiamen should be called into service to aid General Pershing's column in Mexico or to guard border against anti-American outbreaks, the two Plainfield organizations would make up an important part of New Jersey's contribution to the defense of the country.

According to a statement made by Colonel John M. Rogers, of Adjutant-General Wilbur A. Sadler's department, New Jersey is prepared to equip completely five regiments of companies, each company to have sixty-five men, in case of need. This is the peace strength of the guard. In addition the State could also equip one squadron of cavalry, two field batteries, one signal corps, one field hospital corps and one ambulance corps.

The number of men that New Jersey could send would depend entirely upon the number called for by the President. If 400,000 volunteers should be asked the quota from this State would be about 11,000 or 12,000 men.

In the War Department the official "first call" for State troops, as listed in times of peace for use in whatever emergency arises, provides for the following: First, 17,000 officers and men; Pennsylvania, second, 10,000 officers and men; Indiana, third, 5,800 officers and men; Ohio, fourth, 5,500 officers and men; Massachusetts, fifth, 5,300 officers and men; New Jersey, sixth, 5,000 officers and men.

Musical Panorama Given at Plainfield High School is Well Received.

BENEFIT OF EXCHANGE

Local Amateur Thespians Give Creditable Performance Under the Direction of Miss Edna E. Colladay—Specialties Feature Program.

"Gems," the musical production given at the High School Auditorium last night for the benefit of the Women's Exchange, attracted a large audience, who frequently registered their approval of the acts by vociferous applause. It is probable that never before has an amateur production been atempted in Plainfield in which so many people of all ages have taken part. The entire production was given under the direction of Miss Edna E. Colladay, and consisted of a number of chorus parts and specialties by well known local amateur thespians.

Individual honors were carried off by Miss Elsie Goddard, who sang a number of selections; Mrs. Morris J. Dumont, whose skill and grace as a dancer was again illustrated, and won unstinted applause, and Miss Helen Besler. In addition to the numbers which the latter had originally planned to present, she was called upon late in the afternoon to substitute in several acts for Mrs. Clyde Doane, who was prevented from taking part by a severe cold. Miss Besler proved fully equal to the occasion, and few realized because of her finished handling of the parts that the change had been made. Not a little was added to the entertainment by the playing of Mr. Behan, who accompanied all the acts. Miss Colladay, the directress, pleased when she danced a gavotte with J. Hartley Mellick, of this city.

It was evidently a rule of the evening, because of the length of the program that no encores be given, as vigorous applause on the part of the spectators for some of the acts were answered only by bows. Although there were fifteen numbers and several specialties between them, the entire program was prsented with no delays between the acts.

The exact amount made for the Woman's Exchange was not known by the officers this morning.

The program and participants were as follows:

1. (a) "Kewpie Doll"—Agnes Heberman; soloist, Stella Butler.

(b). "The Dolls' Party"—Soloist, Helen Wotton; Elizabeth Donley, Lillian Rice, Vera Wright, Ruth Vail, Harvey Rosenbaum, Prudence Hussey, Margaret Thomas, Helen Paterson, Ruth Foster, Helen Voorhees, Lucy Otterson, Maude White, Elizabeth Cooke, Celia Bowman, Helen Rice, Rebecca Lipscomb, Margaret Rice, Kathryn Badger, Eunice Holman, Helen Titsworth, Christine Claybrook, Margaret Richardson, Marjorie Bird, Marie Sill, Louise Sill, Lena Williams, Beatrice Rhoades,

MRS. JANE B. PRATT DIES IN 62D YEAR

Passes Away Soon After Demise of Her Husband, Rev. Dr. W. W. Pratt.

Mrs. Jane B. Pratt, widow of Rev. Dr. William W. Pratt, died early this morning at her home on Putnam avenue, following a long illness. She suffered a paralytic stroke and since that time had been more or less an invalid. For the past month she had been unable to leave her bed and several days ago she began to sink steadily. The end came at 3:25 this morning.

Mrs. Pratt's death was the second bereavement the family has suffered in about six weeks, Dr. Pratt having passed away at the Putnam avenue home on February 10. He was prominent in the Baptist ministry in this section for many years but at the time of his demise was one of the secretaries at the New York office of the American Baptist Publication Society. He was pastor of the First Baptist church at Passaic for fourteen years, going from there to Philadelphia. The family removed from the latter place to this city five years ago. Mrs. Pratt was a native of New York city, where she was born sixty-two years ago. Her maiden name was Jane B. Van Nest.

The deceased is survived by one daughter, Miss Ruth Van Nest Pratt, and three sons, Dr. C. Howard Pratt, W. L. Pratt and Irving J. Pratt, all of Plainfield; also two brothers and one sister. These are George C. Johnson, of Fall River, Mass.; Joseph C. Johnson, of St. Regis Falls, N. Y.; and Mrs. Mamie Cornish, of Carmel, N. Y. The funeral will be held at the late home tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. Dr. Birney S. Hudson officiating. Burial will be Monday morning in the Cedarlawn cemetery, Passaic.

SPECIAL MUSICAL SERVICE.

The quartet choir of the Crescent Avenue church, assisted by an augmented choir, will sing selections from Stainer's oratorio, "The Crucifixion," at the service tomorrow afternoon at 4:455. Dr. E. Metler Davis, organist and choirmaster, will preside at the organ. The public is invited.

PYTHIANS HOLD ANNUAL BANQUET

Second Affair of Persevarance Lodge Attended by 125 Members.

RUNYON TOASTMASTER

Local Assemblyman Lauds Memory of Late Supreme Representative P. Frank Shanley—Several Excellent Addresses.

Beside warmly eulogizing the late Supreme Representative P. Frank Shanley, who passed away in Jersey City recently, prominent members of the Order of Knights of Pythias extolled the cardinal principles of the organization at the second annual banquet of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., last night. The affair was held in the Kandy Shope, on East Front street, and 125 diners sat down to the excellent menu provided by the Misses Geier. All the arrangements made by the committee were carried out successfully and the banquet will pass into the archives of Perseverance as one of the most satisfactory it has yet conducted in its existence of nearly forty years.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., who is a past chancellor commander of Perseverance Lodge, had been selected as toastmaster, but owing to an imperative business call to New York which came late yesterday afternoon he was unable to be present. The position was filled by Assemblyman William N. Runyon, also a past chancellor commander, in his customary able and dignified manner. It was while acting in this capacity that Assemblyman Runyon took occasion to pay the first tribute to the memory of P. Frank Shanley and it was worded so appropriately that it will linger in the minds of those present for many days to come. The toastmaster was a warm personal friend of Mr. Shanley and through their years of Pythian labor he was enabled to see that the supreme representative was a living example of what the order stands for "Friendship, Charity and Benevolence." He lived and breathed each of these principles and his summons to the Great Beyond removed one of the sincerest members the order has ever had.

Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring offered an invocation at the beginning of the program and in due course Assemblyman Runyon introduced the following speakers: Past Grand Chancellor Commander Rev. DeWitt C. Cobb, of Trenton, who had been assigned the subject of "Pythianism;" Hon. Frederick A. Pope, of Somerville, "Brotherhood;" Supreme Representative William D. Quick, of Somerville, "Friendship," and Deputy Grand Chancellor Frank Carey, of Somerville, whose remarks were of a general nature. All the addresses were ably delivered, conveying new thoughts to the listeners relative to the aims and objects of the Order of Knights of Pythias and what it has done for mankind. Supreme Representative Quick, who now holds the position once held by P. Frank Shanley, also lauded the latter's memory and grasped the opportunity to tell the gathering what a great example had been set for the officials who followed in his footsteps. At the first banquet given by Perseverance Lodge, Mr. Shanley was present, as was always his custom when any Pythian affair was given locally, and there were many present last night who recalled the masterly speech he delivered. Music for the occasion was furnished by the Griffiths Piano Company and the excellent course dinner elicited numerous congratulations from the diners. The banquet room was tastefully decorated with national colors, Pythian banners and palms. The gathering included members of Perseverance and Unity lodges, of this city; Somerset Lodge, of Bound Brook, and Lodge of the Castle, of Somerville.

The committee which arranged and conducted the banquet was composed of Chancellor Commander Clarence B. Rittenhouse, Past Chancellor George Keen, Past Chancellor Fred Douglas, Past Chancellor Thomas Caleen, Inner Guard David Allen and Kenneth McCullough, all of Perseverance Lodge.

JUST AN INSTANCE WHERE PRESS ADVERTISING PAID

J. P. Costello, the North Plainfield man who makes a specialty of caring for trees, inserted a display advertisement in the Plainfield Daily Press several weeks ago and this morning reported that he knew of at least two good contracts he has since secured as the result of its appearance in this paper's advertising columns. How many more returns he has received from this ad Mr. Costello does not know but he is certain that these two contracts came through the Daily Press.

This is only one of the instances indicating that Daily Press advertising pays. Reports of this kind are received each day and each advertiser is willing to testify to the merits of the Daily Press as a publicity medium for business enterprises.

SPECIAL MESSAGE.

As the pastor, Rev. J. O. McKelvey, will have a message of special importance, all the members of Warren chapel are urged to be present at the morning service tomorrow.

VILLA WRECKS A TROOP TRAIN

U. S. Soldiers Continue Hunt for Bandit on Horseback, However.

ONLY A FEW HURT

Herrera Again Reported a Traitor to Carranza and America—Official Despatches Say Outlaw is Surrounded.

El Paso, March 25.—From Mexican sources it is reported here that a train bearing American troops southward from General Pershing's base, near Casas Grandes, has been wrecked near the tunnel at Cumbres, but that none of the soldiers were seriously hurt, though several of their horses had to be shot. The wreck is attributed among the natives to followers of Villa. The troops continued their march on horseback. There are also reports that Villa has escaped the encircling cavalry, and has entered the San Miguel district, further north, on the River de Santa Maria. Messages from General Bertani, commanding the Carranza cavalry, given out today by the Mexican Consul here, declare that Villa is surrounded by the Carranza troops and by the Americans. That the Mexican officials are concealing the truth about General Luis Herrera's reported defection was declared at Chihuahua City today by Charles R. Yeats, an America mining man. Yeats said that, despite official reports to the contrary, Herrera was not in Chihuahua when he left there, and that there was much concern in the city as to his movements.

Put Censor in Columbus.

Douglas, Ariz., March 25.—The story that two women and one man were killed by bandits near Columbus recently was denounced as a canard by U. S. army officers here today. Censorship is threatened in Douglas if the publication of such false reports is not stopped.

Border Guard Strengthened.

San Antonio, Texas, March 25.—Major-General Funston today ordered a general strengthening of the border patrol. This was regarded as necessary, owing to the appearance of many bands of Mexican marauders near the frontier. The American commander also took steps to strengthen the lines of communication of the expedition in Mexico. Two companies of the Twenty-fourth Infantry, a negro regiment, which had arrived at the border from Fort D. A. Russell, were sent to the New Mexican border. Other forces were sent to the four Texas towns of Presidio, Fabens, Marfa and Del Rio.

UTICA STILL TALKING ABOUT MISS AYRES

The piano recital by Miss Cecile Ayres, for the benefit of the Belgian Relief Fund, at the Hartridge Auditorium, on Friday night, April 7, is arousing much interest in musical circles here. Miss Ayres recently gave a concert at Utica, N. Y., and the following letter from one of her Utica managers, tells how favorable an impression she made in that city:

"Utica is still talking about you and your excellent work. You delighted everybody. We have had Paderewski and Schelling here this season, but your work, combined with a certain personality at the piano, seemed to afford the people greater pleasure and created a most favorable impression.

"I hope we can arrange for you to come to Utica again."

The tickets are now on sale at Miller's drug store, or may be obtained by telephoning Miss Corey, 1010.

A WOMAN'S BACK.

The Advice of This Plainfield Woman is of Certain Value.

Many a woman's back has many aches and pains.

Ofttimes 'tis the kidneys' fault.

That's why Doan's Kidney Pills are so effective.

Many Plainfield women know this.

Read what one has to say about it:

Mrs. O. C. Moore, 57 Manning avenue, Plainfield, says: "I endured much misery from backache, caused by my kidneys. Many nights I was unable to rest at all, and in the morning my limbs were so stiff and sore that I could hardly get out of bed. Whenever I caught the least cold, it settled on my kidneys, and any strain on my back made the aches and pains worse. I was treated by physicians, but their medicine didn't help me, and it was not until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's Drug Store that I had any hope of getting rid of the trouble. They made me feel like a different person, and I have never had any serious trouble since."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Moore had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y—Adv

PROMENADE des TOILLETTES AT GIMBEL BROTHERS

Here the jacket effect is favored for the one-piece afternoon frock of black taffeta.

Although old fashioned, it is yet ever new in design, and as it strikes a youthful note, claims a place high in feminine favor.

This striking novelty suit of brown silk faille is a Cheruit creation. Lovely indeed is the easily-fitting coat with its many ruffles forming a panel in the front and back, while the sides are gathered into folds which fall gracefully from the slightly fitted waist line.

The high collar is given a youthful touch by a white organdie collar and a smart black taffeta bow-knot tied under the chin.

The two ends of the tie are allowed to partly cover the front of the coat. The plain sleeves, having but a slight fullness at the cuffs, together with the girlish lines of the flare coat and full skirt, is a decided Cheruit, and will be an interesting part of the Easter dress parade.

With Agnes, Beer, Bernard, Bulloz, Cheruit, Callot, Soeurs, Chanel, Doeuillet, Doucet, Drecoll, Jeanne, Lanvin, Jenny, Martial et Armand, Premet and Weeks, represented in the most gorgeous and pretentious fashion parade that New York has probably ever witnessed, the Gimbel Brothers' store of New York dealt a severe blow to the fast fading Winter and welcomed Spring to Dame Fashion.

The charming costumes took the enthusiastic spectators back three generations to their grandmother's time, for 1830 strikes the keynote of the fashions that are to predominate 1916. The smartly dressed maid of today will wear gowns that resemble closely the frocks that delighted their mother's mother, years, years ago.

One of the best features of these Paris costumes are the full flaring lines that impart the appearance youthful. But voila, as they say in Paris.

DR. MITCHELL TO PREACH IN THIS CITY TOMORROW

In the afternoon at 3 o'clock he will address the Sunday-school of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church and in the evening he will preach at Grace M. E. church.

Dr. Mitchell has been a prominent figure in Methodism for several years, holding a charge in Cleveland before going to Chicago. He is now being mentioned for the appointment of bishop in the church. During his stay here he will be entertained by Dr. H. K. Carroll, of Westervelt avenue.

RUB RHEUMATISM PAIN FROM SORE, ACHING JOINTS

Rub pain away with small trial bottle of old, penetrating "St. Jacob's Oil."

What's Rheumatism? Pain only. Stop drugging! Not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil" directly upon the "tender spot" and relief comes instantly. "St. Jacobs Oil" is a harmless rheumatism and sciatica liniment, which never disappoints and can not burn the skin.

Limber up! Quit complaining! Get a small trial bottle from your druggist, and in just a moment you'll be free from rheumatic and sciatic pain, soreness, stiffness and swelling. Don't suffer! Relief awaits you. Old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" has cured millions of rheumatism sufferers in the last half century, and is just as good for sciatica, neuralgia, lumbago, backache, sprains and swellings.—Adv.

CAPT. YULE HEADS MARCH INTO MEXICO

His Field Artillery Sets a New Record in Chase After Villa.

At the head of General Pershing's "flying column" that has pressed into the heart of Mexico on the desperate mission of returning with Villa, dead or alive, there is marching Capt. Edgar H. Yule, well known in Plainfield. Capt. Yule married Miss Pauline Sandford here. He has visited here often and Mrs. Yule still makes her home here when not with her hsuband. If he is kept in Mexico long she will come back here to live with relatives.

In this column every man was mounted and the lumbering wagon trains were supplanted by army mules, which made the entire distance under heavy packs with the loss of only three of their number.

Battery B of the Sixth Field Artillery, commanded by Captain Edgar H. Yule and Lieutenant Charles P. George, former a unit of the flying column. While the cavalry traversed trails through bad country of the Sierra Madre Mountains, 6,000 to 8,000 feet high, the battery encumbered by ambulances and field wireless equipment, traveled the valley roads, longer by eighteen miles. Nevertheless, it reached camp only an hour and a half behind the cavalry, without the loss of a mule or horse, and not a sore back among any of the animals. Officers said this exploit would long stand as a record of speed and endurance.

To the Thirteenth Cavalry, because of its accomplishment in driving Villa's greatly superior numbers out of Columbus after a brief engagement, was given first place in the first column. Muster rolls of the Villa command, found here after he passed through, going southward, eight days ago, showed that he made the raid on Columbus with 583 men.

Raving in anger after his defeat, deserters reported that the bandit chieftain killed five of his officers and men as cowards. There were 293 in his command when he retreated through Colonia Dubian. The Thirteenth Cavalry accounted for the rest.

Major Frank Tompkins, who took fifty-nine men of his squadron and drove the bandits fifteen miles into Mexico after they had crossed the border, commanded the advance guard. The rest of the cavalry, under Major Elmer Lindsley, followed. Then came the mountain and field guns, next the "doughboys" of the infantry regiments, and, last, the wagon trains, field hospital, and sanitary equipment and the field wireless.

DISCUSS IMPROVEMENT OF BERNARDSVILLE ROAD

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders met at the Bernardsville Inn in Bernardsville yesterday and talked over the matter of repairing the Bernardsville road which runs from Glaser's corner through Bernardsville to Lindabury drive. This road is badly worn. The estimated cost of repairing it is $15,000. A vote on the matter will probably be taken at the next meeting of the Board.

MRS. MARY SHAY DIES IN EIGHTY-FIFTH YEAR

Following an illness with pneumonia, death came last night to Mrs. Mary Shay, one of the oldest residents of the Netherwood section of the city. The end came at the residence on Terrill road, in which she has lived for the past fifty years. Mrs. Shay was born in Ireland eighty-five years ago and came to this country when a young woman. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. John Brick; one son, George Shay, and a sister, Mrs. Julia Wallace, all living on Terrill road or vicinity. Mrs. Wallace is now in her eighty-first year.

The funeral will be held at the late home Monday morning at 8 o'clock and St. Mary's church, of which the deceased was a communicant, at 9 o'clock. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

WOULDN'T HAVE NON-UNION.

Prospects of further delay in the erection of the Federal postoffice on Watchung avenue ,became apparent this morning when sub-contractor Charles Nonemaker, laid off all the bricklayers employed on the job. The carpenters had previously been taken off because the work has been made "unfair" through the work of non-union plumbers. An attempt was made on the part of the main contractor to introduce non-union carpenters on the job, but Mr. Nonemakers flatly refused to have any but union men. The matter now awaits the disposition of the Trades' Council committee.

Seventy-five parents and friends were present last evening at the community social held in the Harrison Avenue School in connection with civic center work in the borough. The school auditorium was attractively decorated with flags and the word "welcome" in large letters was displayed on the stage. ## MARSHAL HERMANN STOPS RUNAWAY HORSE IN BORO

Officer John Hermann, of the borough police, stopped a runaway horse this morning in a manner which would have done credit to a member of the famous traffic squad of the New York police. The animal, belonging to John Wirth, the baker, had been left standing in front of a house on Somerset street, near Jackson avenue, where its driver was making his morning delivery of rolls. It became frightened in some manner and started on a dead rund down Somerset street, toward Front.

Standing near borough police headquarters Officer Hermann saw the runaway coming. He started to run ahead of the rapidly approaching steed. When the horse caught up to him he merely reached out his hand and grasped the bridle. The frightened horse was brougt to a halt.

NATIONAL GUARD NOTES

Local guardsmen are greatly pleased over the passage of a bill by the State Legislature providing for an appropriation of $20,000 for the maintenance of a State encampment, as they will once more be sent to Sea Girt next summer for instruction. This bill also provides for an appropriation for the transportation of the troops. Last year no money was appropriated for this purpose, and consequently the troops did not participate in a State encampment. This applied only to the enlisted men, with the exception of those who attended the school of musketry, and there was also a school for the non-commissioned officers.

It is likely that an election will be held within the next few weeks for a captain to succeed the late Captain Harry Kitchell, formerly of Plainfield, as commander of Company F. It is understood that there will be two candidates for the rank, and both are said to be competent and would make thoroughly satisfactory officers.

Lieutenant-Colonel William B. Martin will review a regiment of the New Jersey Scottish Highlanders in the New Auditorium, Orange and Broad streets, Newark, on Friday night, March 31. He will in all probability be accompanied by a number of the officers of the First Battalion, who will be on his staff.

ELEANORE R. CLAUSEN.

Eleanore R. Clausen, the four-months-old daughter of William C. and Anna S. Clausen, of 14 Sycamore avenue, died yesterday. The funeral will be held at the parents' home, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, and interment will be made in Hillside cemetery.

DR. HARRISON'S TOUR.

Dr. Paul W. Harrison, missionary from Trinity Reformed church to Arabia, will speak today and Wednesday, March 29, in Chicago; March 30-31 at the University of Iowa. His speaking tour is in the interest of foreign missions and he hopes to secure several persons who will engage in this work.

Norway Demands Explanation.

Copenhagen, March 25.—Christiania dispatches state that Norway has demanded that Germany investigate the sinking of the Lindfield and Kannik, both Norwegian ships.

SWIFT FIGURES PUT MEAT AS UNCLE SAM'S CHOICE

COLLEGE GIRLS

Figures concerning the meat appetite of the United States given in Swift & Company's year book show that we are a nation of meat eaters, and that the price of meat is the food problem which most concerns the American family.

Louis F. Swift, president of Swift & Company, discussed the wholesale price of beef during 1915 in his statement to the stockholders' meeting in Chicago recently. He said: "In 1915 we paid the stock raiser more for cattle, while selling beef to the retailers at a lower price. The wholesale selling price of beef sold in the principal cities during 1915 was $11.46 per hundredweight, and during 1914 $12.18 per hundred." From this it will be seen that the wholesale price of beef averaged less during 1915 than 1914.

Mr. Swift stated as a fundamental principle of success for this business: "I want to reiterate that the packer, more than anyone else, wants to see the producer succeed, and at the same time wants to see the consumer satisfied. The packer does not control either supply or demand, and must in the end be governed by these elements."

The real test of the economic efficiency of any business is the percentage of profit on each dollar of sales, and usually the larger the volume of business transacted, the smaller the rate of profit. In the case of Swift & Company the profit was 2.08 cents on each dollar, but the large volume of $500,000,000 worth of business enabled the company to make a fair return on the money invested, and paid dividends to their stockholders, of whom there are more than 21,000.

The results of the business for 1915 were more profitable than in previous years, because of the increased value of the by-products.

The modern packer makes all of his expenses and profit out of parts of the steer which under old methods were thrown away.

CONVENTION FUND NEEDS BIG BOOST

Committee Treasurer Makes First Report Enclosing List of Contributors.

MORE MONEY SOUGHT

At Least $1,500 Necessary to Complete Details of Program Proposed—Interest Increasing in Big Project.

Reports submitted by William M. Floersch, treasurer of the citizens' committee in charge of the raising of funds to finance the entertainments of delegates to the New Jersey State Letter Carriers' Association convention, which will be held here on May 30, indicate that $571.50 had been raised up to March 22, and that a similar amount will have to be contributed in the near future to insure the carrying out of details as proposed. Although the number of contributors who have aided in the movement to date has been gratifying, the committee still hopes to inspire enough interest to raise the necessary $1,500 in the immediate future, so that the plans can be definitely decided upon. The citizens' committee is made up of representative citizens who have been making a thorough canvass of the city, with a view to having all business houses and as many public-spirited individuals as possible, listed in the aides.

MOSQUITO CLUB MAN DOUBLES HIS DUES

Game Becoming More Scarce, Says Mr. Huntsman in Praising Work.

There is one hunting club in this county whose members are not complaining of a shortage of game. R. F. R. Huntsman has just written a letter to W. C. Hope, general passenger agent of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, asking that his taxes as a member of the club be doubled, and cheerfully calling attention to the fact that mosquitoes are becoming more scarce and of less brilliant plumage, due, doubtless, to the work of the hunting club. Mr. Huntsman's letter follows:

"Responding to the request of Mr. Richards, the secretary of the Union County Mosquito Hunting Club, I hasten to advise you that you are hereby authorized to double my taxes de culex.

"I have been for years an active member of the Plainfield Mosquito Hunting and Killing Club, and have noticed that since the year 1912 the game has become more scarce and of less brilliant plumage, due, doubtless to your organized efforts.

"I note that my mosquito bill for the year 1915 was but 13.9 cents. I never knew before that one could get so much for a short 14 cents. It is wonderful. I have been willing many a night to pay 14 dollars a mosquito—dead—and here you deliver several million dead mosquitoes for only 14 cents, and right at our door at that. I hope you will not allow the Screen Trust to hamper your good work, and wishing you a mosquitoless Fourth of July."

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

It was plainly demonstrated that the people of this vicinity are wide awake regarding the serious situation that is confronting this country, due to its lax methods in not assuming a condition of preparedness against war. Proctor's Theatre was the scene of an enormous gathering of public-spirited and true American citizens both yesterday afternoon and evening, when the colossal photoplay spectacle, "Defense or Tribute?" was presented, and which continues as the feature attraction today also. Many were the comments and praises bestowed upon this epoch-making creation, and the large attendance of yesterday bids fair to be exceeded today. In addition to "Defense or Tribute?" today, the management has provided variety in having Charlie Chaplin appear in what is considered his biggest laugh-provoking feature, entitled, "A Night in the Show," and Harry Watson, the famous comedian, who, teaming with Bickel, were the hit of the Winter Garden, makes his debut in "The Mishaps of Musty Suffer," a reel of uproarious mirth which is presented in a series of episodes, a comedy appearing at Proctor's every Saturday. The two latter features were booked especially for the little ones, and parents are urged to bring the kiddies so that they will enjoy the comic capers of these two famous funmakers. On Monday, a big double-feature program will be presented, which includes George Beban, acknowledged to be the leading delineator of character roles both upon the stage and screen, in a photoplay written especially to fit his wonderful talents, entitled, "The Pawn of Fate." In addition, the divine Sarah Bernhardt is seen in her greatest photoplay, entitled "Jeanne D'Ore." The presence of this peerless queen of emotional actresses, in a stirring feature, together with George Beban, one of the greatest of male emotional stars, forms a vivid combination indeed, and should attract hundreds of followers of these two famous proteges. Diversion will be furnished by the addition of several comedy reels to the program. On Tuesday, right on the heels of so wonderful a Triangle production as "Peggy," the management will present DeWolf Hopper in his initial motion picture, entitled "Don Quixote," a story known wherever books are read. Mr. Hopper's eccentricities and talents fit into this character admirably, and the result is a pleasing hour and a quarter's entertainment, indeed. "Mary Page," and Ford Sterling in a Keystone comedy, will also be shown on Tuesday.

NEWS OF INTEREST IN THE PLAINFIELD BUILDING WORLD

150,000 PEOPLE WILL HAVE SHARE IN WORLD'S LARGEST HOTEL IN NEW YORK

One of the largest co-operative associations in the world is to build in New York City the greatest hotel in the world. Charles H. Ingersoll, the "dollar watch" man, is the president of the Commonwealth Hotel Construction Corporation, which is the co-operative organization that is to erect and operate the Hotel Commonwealth. The hotel will have 2,500 rooms or more, nearly twice as many as the largest hotel now existing. The proposed hotel is to be erected in the Times Square district. It will be twenty-eight stories high, will cover an entire block front, and approximately 150,000 people are to have a share in the benefits that accrue from the undertaking.

The Commonwealth Hotel Construction Corporation is incorporated for $15,000,000. That sum is to represent the cost of the site and of the hotel and its equipment. It will also represent something more—the common purpose and interest of nearly 150,000 men and women who come to New York once or twice a year and who are uniting to provide their own hotel, built upon the most advanced plans and designed to meet the needs of all purses, whether they be lean, or plump to the point of oppressive opulence.

Only thirty of these people will be permitted to own more than one share of stock each. Those thirty will be the thirty eminent bankers, merchants and manufacturers who are to be selected as directors. They are required by the laws under which the concern is incorporated, to own three shares each. Otherwise each would own but one.

In general plan the building is to be in the form of an "E" above the mezzanine floor, so that the courts will afford the greatest possible amount of light and air for the guest rooms. The general design of the building is to be carried out in a refined Italian style; the lower stories to be of limestone above a polished pedestal course.

The main body of the building will be of light gray hydraulic-pressed brick, trimmed with limestone sills and terra cotta paneling. The upper stories will be trimmed with limestone and terra cotta and the pergola parapet around the upper stories will be built of copper.

STEEL SHORTAGE AFFECTS MARKET

Sharp Demand for Clay Products and Reinforced Concrete is the Result.

MONEY IS NOW EASY

However High Price of Materials is Not Retarding Construction to Any Appreciable Extent Because of the Demand.

New York, March 25.—Shortage of structural steel is forcing upon the building material market a sharp demand for clay products and reinforced concrete. The high price of materials is not retarding construction to any appreciable extent, because there is such a demand for new buildings that owners are practically forced to build, especially in the light of easy money conditions.

This demand for reinforced concrete construction is having its effect upon Portland cement. One company raised its price five cents a barrel this week, and other companies are expected to follow suit soon after the first of the month. The fact that the vast capacity of the Edison Portland Cement Company at New Village will be thrown in next week, has had no effect upon the mill capacities in other Lehigh district manufactories. Some of the plants have gone all winter without repairs and it is a question how long the equipment can continue under the present shortage of men. Current quotations of $1.67 are merely nominal. This is wholesale in New York. Some dealers have been embarrassed in getting supplies from mills over congested railroads and have been asking premiums in some sections of the metropolitan district.

There are some indications of a prompt advance in the price of window glass. Jobbers have been reluctant about making any changes in the market for the present until the volume of new building that is to come out in the New York zone can be judged. There are about 250 new buildings a week being projected in New York, and if the suburbs were included the total is nearer 700. Westchester and Long Island are especially active. Brooklyn has been showing a tremendous amount of new building construction because of the recent bay window law that went into effect there.

A change is looked for in lime prices by New York interests. The Southern manufacturers have recently advanced their prices, and the Northern manufacturers, suffering from higher cost of dynamite and similar commodities used in the manufacture of this product, have threatened to make a similar change upward.

At a meeting of the Building Material Exchange executive committee on Wednesday, several locations were discussed for moving the exchange rooms into the new building material zone in the Grand Central district of the city. The annual election takes place next month, with C. J. Curtin, of the Farnham Cheshire Lime Company, nominated for president, and Elliott Smith, of Candee, Smith & Howland, as vice-presidential nominee. The scope of this exchange now includes territory from White Plains, N. Y., to Perth Amboy, and from New Brunswick to Flushing.

There is a further change expected in the price of all grades of lumber, according to well-informed interests in the trade here. There have been sharp advances in the price of boat charters from points south to this city, and now that troop supplies are moving south to the Mexican border, many of the charters have been made even more valuable through the removal of craft from coastal trade.

Building sand in this market is without movement. The price per cubic yard for screened Cow Bay material is 40 and 45 cents, which is far below normal for this time of the year, especially when there is such a strong demand for reinforced concrete construction.

Mosaics and sanitary white tile are having a tremendous demand. There is a strong tendency at present to use colors which is pressing the manufacturers rather hard to find coloring material to meet the demand. In consequence, there is a strong movement toward monotones—that is, instead of all whites, with colored designs in them, to substitute browns, grays, blues, and to make the various designs in several shades of the same color. There developed this week a market here for approximately 1,900,000 square feet of tile to go into the two large hotel operations that are to be erected in Seventh avenue, one opposite the Pennsylvania station, costing $4,500,000, and the other costing $7,500,000 in the neighborhood of Seventh avenue and Fiftieth street. New Jersey tile plants will figure tile on these operations within the near future.

General building trend in all parts of the district is good. There is also developing a strong small-building demand in factory centers to take care of the great numbers of men being brought to these centers by the great activity of mills. The building season opened on Wednesday with greater prospects for profitable activity than at any time since 1912.

SEVERAL BUNGALOWS

New York and Jersey City Men to Erect Summer Homes—An Addition to one Summer Residence—Plans Are Out for Several Others.

Indications point to a building boom for the tradesmen in the Watchung Mountain district during the coming spring, a number of big contracts having already been let and a large number of others being in the course of preparation. Thousands of dollars will be expended in erecting new residences and making improvements to present ones. Builders are preparing for work now the indications of better weather during the past few days having stirred them to activity.

One of the notable pieces of work will be the erection of a $6,500 home for the Rev. Dr. George Hauser, in Warrenville. This will be located on the property formerly owned by Judge Isaac P. Runyon, which is ideally situated for residential purposes. It is on the south side of Mountainside boulevard and the cellar has already been dug and the foundation work is under way. Dr. Hauser willoccupy the house after its completion and he hopes to move in during the summer months.

Harry McQuade has awarded the contract for building his $3,500 house on Hillcrest road to Samuel Titus, of Dunellen. The structure will be 24x32 feet and will include every modern convenience and necessity.

Hugo Kelm is also building a house on Hillcrest road. This will cost $3,000, and Daniel Acker has the contract for the work. B. L. Most, of New York City, has awarded the contract for a new bungalow, to be located on Hillcrest road. It will be built at a cost of $2,500.

A Jersey City man, John Armbursler, will build a bungalow costing $1,800 on Central avenue in Upper Watchung. These two bungalows will be modern in every sense of the word and assures this district of at least two more summer residents. The bungalow colony in the mountain section has been growing steadily, and it is expected that more than a score of new ones will be constructed during the summer of 1916.

Fred Doeper, a summer resident who hails from New York, has planned a $2,000 addition to his summer home on Hillcrest road. This is also in Upper Watchung. Robert G. Rogers, of Berkeley Heights, will build a $3,000 house on Plainfield avenue, near Scotch Plains. This is being erected for speculation purposes.

NEW COMPANY K ARMORY LIKELY TO BE LOCATED IN VINICITY OF POSTOFFICE

With a view to co-operating with the State Military Board, a committee of Company K members, headed by Captain Charles Peterson, has been looking over prospective sites for the new armory during the past week, and have several choice spots under consideration. Although the power of determining the location does not rest with the local militiamen, the State Board will be guided largely by the opinion of the Plainfielders, who are familiar with conditions here and are judges of local land values. Included in the advantageous spots that are being investigated are several in the immediate vicinity of the new postoffice, lending credence to the general belief that the armory will be built in that locality.

When interviewed by a Daily Press reporter yesterday, Captain Peterson admitted that his committee was active at the present time, but hesitated in making any public report of its movements to date. He said that a number of fine sites had been looked over and prices obtained, but inasmuch as the power of selection is up to the State Board, he did not think it advisable to mention the exact location of the lots.

It is invariably the case that property owners boost land values when they learn that their holdings are being sought for public buildings, and Captain Peterson is anxious to eliminate any possibility of sudden jumps in figures.

Company K members are naturally anxious to have the building operations started as soon as possible and Captain Peterson hopes to begin work in midsummer. The appropriation from the State is not available until November 1, but it is the opinion of the local committee that this fact will not retard the work. The contractors will be asked to bid on plans in the near future and the successful bidders will be obliged to carry on their work until November 1 before receiving any remuneration.

Plans for the armory are drawn in the State department and will be controlled by the State Board. The local committee intends to offer a number of suggestions, and it is likely that the State body will be influenced to some degree by the ideas of the local men.

A representative of the State Board will visit Plainfield in the near future to inspect building sites and secure details for the drawing of tentative plans and specifications.

MR. HURLEY COMPLETES HIS LAST BELMONT AVE. HOUSE

James Hurley, Jr., is just completing his last new house on Belmont avenue, one of the finest sections for residential purposes in the borough. Mr. Hurley has been doing extensive building during the past year on that avenue, and the houses he has erected contain six rooms and bath, and a large reception hall. Part improvements are provided in some and all improvements in others. Each house is located on a large lot, giving ample room for gardens and chicken runs.

Although his building operations have been more extensive of late, Mr. Hurley has been developing the tract for the past two years while the market was dull and cost of material low. He is advertising in another column of this issue, claiming, among other things, that he can sell these houses cheaper than he can build others of the same type, with the market in its present condition.

WEST END REALTY FIRM WILL DEVELOP TRACT

Nathan Gerrishon, Jacob Cantor, Lewis Cohen and Benjamin Isralsky, four local real estate operators, have formed a company to develop and deal in real estate in the West End of the city in the vicinity of Halsey and Bergen streets.

Plans are under way to start a land selling and building boom in this vicinity, and the new concern will announce its plans in the near future.

IN THE SUBURBS

Former Postmaster Charles S. Day, and family, of Dunellen, will probably move early this spring from Valmere cottage to the house on Edwards avenue formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reif.

On Friday, workmen began tearing up the southern track of the Public Service Railway on North avenue, Dunellen, from the Huff property to the borough hall, to facilitate the work of the borough sewerage employes at that point.

Two lots of land fronting on Lincoln avenue, Dunellen, near the residence of Clarence T. Voorhees have been sold by Mrs. Hattie Apgar to George A. Herman, who it is understood, will build a house there.

LOW PROPERTY SOLD.

Acording to local real estate men Park avenue, midway between Ninth street and Thornton avenue, has been sold for a consideration said to be about $12,000. This piece of property has a 150-foot frontage on Park avenue and a similar fronting on Arlington avenue. The name of the purchaser and his plans for improving the tract have been withheld.

TRAIN KILLS WIFE SLAYER.

Port Jervis Woman's Trroat Cut by Husband's Razor.

Middletown, N. Y., March 25.—Mrs. Maude Brazington Newkirk of Port Jervis, formerly of Middletown, was murdered 500 feet from the lonely Summitville (Sullivan county) station of the Ontario and Western railroad.

An hour later the discovery was made of the mangled body of a man who had been killed in attempting to board a train. Cards on his person identified him as the husband of the murdered woman. In his pocket was found half of a case, and alongside the woman was found the other half of a razor with which she had been murdered. It had severed her throat from ear to ear.

Another Neutral Ship Sunk.

London, March 25.—Another Danish steamship has been sunk—the Christiansund, of 1,017 tons. Her entire crew of twenty-two were saved.

SHACKLETON SHIP HELPLESS

Relief Vessel Aurora Drifting In Antarctic Ice.

Melbourne, March 25.—The auxiliary ship Aurora of the Shackleton antarctic expedition has been damaged and is proceeding to New Zealand for repairs, according to a wireless dispatch from the vessel received by the navy department here.

Four members of the Aurora's party were left behind at the Ross sea base of the expedition.

It is evident from the Aurora's wireless dispatch that the fate of Lieutenant Sir Ernest Shackleton and the rest of the party which is attempting to cross the antarctic region is yet unknown. Probably nothing will be heard from them until next November, when the ice breaks.

AMERICAN AWAITS EXECUTION

Edward Milner Was Formerly Cavalry Officer In Villa's Army.

Hibbing, Minn., March 25.—Edward Milner, a former resident of Hibbing, is in jail at some point along the Mexican border awaiting execution by order of Carranza authorities, according to a letter received from him by J. B. Connors, postmaster here.

Milner, a former cavalry officer in Villa's army, had been given thirty days in which to arrange his affairs. The name of the town in which he is imprisoned was stricken from the letter, but he asked to be addressed as "Captain Hastings, in care of Attorney Hughes, Tucson, Ariz."

The entry of Governor Brumbaugh, of Pennsylvania, into the list of the Republican nomination for the presidency, is dissected in Washington as a move to divert finally the delegates captured by Brumbaugh to Roosevelt. That an alliance exists is admitted by a Progressive leader in Washington.

The Missouri Republicans are united in their fight to place former Supreme Court Judge Henry Lamm in the Governor's chair.

Governor John H. Morehead, of Nebraska, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Vice-Presidency. His name goes before the Nebraska primary on April 18.

Champ Clark has refused to be a candidate for delegate to the St. Louis convention, it is reported from Washington. The precedents of the Speaker's office do not allow his absence for more than a day at a time.

Hon. Philander C. Knox, former Secretary of State, has consented to be a candidate for the Republican Senatorial nomination in Pennsylvania, as successor of George T. Oliver. The veteran political leader is 63 years old.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, MARCH 25, 1916.

On Saturdays the editorial column of the Daily Press is conducted, at our request, by citizens who are free to express their own views. The contributing editor for today is William G. De Meza, City Judge.

That there is an imperative need for additional equipment to produce the greatest degree of efficiency in the local police department has been demonstrated on numerous occasions recently and the sooner the city provides these few but essential features the sooner our department will be placed on a plane of excellence that will rival that of any city of its size in the country. One thing that has time and again furnished food for thought is the need of an emergency automobile to be used by the chief and his assistants. Few departments in cities of Plainfield's class are without this asset and there is absolutely no reason why we should not have it. There has always been a tendency on the part of the City Council to co-operate in every way to produce departmental efficiency and why the suggestion for furnishing this facility has been allowed to lie dormant for so long a time is a puzzle to all concerned.

Emergency calls arrive at police headquarters every day in the year. Oftentimes it is necessary to despatch a squad of men to some remote section of the city and frequently it becomes necessary to hire a motor propelled vehicle in order to insure speed and certainty of getting to the spot in the shortest possible space of time. Delay sometimes means the loss of life and oftentimes means the escape of a criminal who will be a public menace while at large.

Then again, the police department is very often called upon to take individuals to Morris Plains for commitment and seldom does a day pass but what a trip to the county jail or courthouse proves necessary. The Morris Plains trip requires an automobile and under present conditions this has to be rented for several hours each time. An emergency auto could be used to transfer prisoners to the county jail whereas railroad fare for at least two has to be provided for every trip to Elizabeth.

The police chief has working with him today one of the best departments, as far as men are concerned, the city has ever been blessed with. It is no more than right that he should be accorded the support of the community and be given a share of the attention directed to departmental improvement. So much for this subject.

Although I have been quoted on many occasions as being decidedly in favor of a workhouse for Union county prisoners I want to again take advantage of the opportunity to present the case to the public. During the past week three of the worst cases have come under my jurisdiction, all of the offenders being wife deserters and non-support artists who would rather rot in jail than contribute to the maintenance of their families. The law allows me to send this type of man to jail, not for punishment, but for what he looks forward to as a vacation. He is relieved of worldly troubles. His sole interest rests in getting three square meals a day and a bed at night. This is provided in the county jail, so why should he worry about the family that becomes a public charge? If this man had to crack stone while serving his term or work on the county roads he would no doubt elect to live up to his marital vows rather than go to the jail. P. T. Barnum was right when he said that a sucker is born every day and in this case the dear public is the sucker. The county is being bled by the criminal and he in turn has his laugh at the city magistrate who sends him to jail and instructs the municipal poor department to provide for his family.

How long is this condition going to exist? How long is the public going to be the goat and allow these parasites to trample it? Make the wife deserter a hard laborer and turn at least a portion of his earnings over to those who would be dependent upon him if he was at liberty. In other words decrease the cost of maintaining the county jail by doing away with the low brow family deserter.

On the Spur of the Moment

by Roy K. Moulton

I Didn't Know That

I met a maiden passing fair,
Who had a wealth of golden hair.
Of course the hair was not her own,
But on another's head was grown,
But I didn't know that.

Had a complexion like a rose,
Which in the florist's garden grows,
It's like I'd never seen before,
Of course she bought it at a store,
But I didn't know that.

'Twas then I made a fervent plea.
I said, "Fair maid, let's wed," but she
Said, "I would like to, but, tee, hee,
My grandmother would not let me,"
But I didn't know that.

Visions of Bliss.

He had a dream, a joyous dream,
That thrilled him to the soul;
He stood with a receipted bill,
And watched a row of wagons fill
His cellar full of coal.

He dreamed again, a pleasant dream,
His smile was great to view;
His snoring struck a tuneful note,
Because he thought his overcoat
Was just as good as new.

He dreamed once more, a wondrous dream;
It brought a mental glow;
He dreamed that for a price dirt cheap
A neighbor had agreed to keep
His sidewalks free of snow.

Again he dreamed, a dreamy dream,
Then shook in violent glee;
A missive on the table lay
Which said his spouse had gone away
For a week, or two, maybe.

He dreamed a dream of pure delight,
He owned a limousine;
He dreamed kithout a single frown
That Rockefeller had cut down
The price of gasoline.

My Home Town.

The hammers are banging,
The riveters clanging,
And modern steel buildings are mounting sky high.
The noise is appalling,
But not at all galling;
It speaks of a gigantic town bye and bye.
The autos are tooting.
Pedestrians scooting,
And traffic is choking the streets all day long;
The motors are drumming,
And business humming.
They tell of a town that is now going strong.

The people are hurrying,
Flurrying, scurrying,
Hustling and bustling in search of the dough.
A large population
Has one inspiration,
And that is to help make their pet village grow.
Our merchandise lugging,
The trains are a-chugging,
The atmosphere's laden with factory smoke.
It all tells a story
Of business glory,
Not found in a city that's apt to go "broke."

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME—

∴ Plainfield Theatre ∴

Mabel Lynest, with "Tip-Top Girls," Plainfield Theatre, Monday, March 27, matinee and night.

Columbus discovered America in 1492—that is, a fringe of it. Ever since then it has been discovered by degrees as "Westward, the course of Empire takes its way." Periodically discoveries are made which are of surpassing importance even though they are not heralded as much as they deserve. Such a one was made about 25 years ago by officials of the Great Northern Railway while blazing a way through north-western Montana on the Continental Divide, but it took Congress just about twenty years to realize the importance of the discovery. For it was not until five years ago that Congress officially recognized the finest of all our national playgrounds—Glacier National Park—by enacting a law setting it aside as a heritage for all Americans for all time, and it is this superb heritage which, for the first time, will be adequately portrayed on films by Lyman H. Howe at the Plainfield Theatre this afternoon and tonight. This feature in itself comprises a vacation—a round trip to the roof of America and back. The picture follows the trail into the recesses of the everlasting hills. En route spectators will form pictorial acquaintances with the really noble red men—native Blackfeet Indians.

Throughout the new program is like a mine of veritable riches, which, intermingled with its veins of pure gold in an educational sense, also has its veins of sparkling comedy films, scintillating with wit and humor contributed by Howe's cartoonists.

One of the most elaborate productions ever seen on any burlesque stage appears in the garb of the all-new "Tip-Top" Girls at the Plainfield Theatre next Monday, matinee and night. Not only has much attention been paid to the equipment, but, above all, the management has succeeded in selecting an extraordinary good cast for the exploitation of the comedy emanating from two screamingly funny farces, and the vaudeville part of the entertainment, which combination forms the offering of the "Tip-Top Girls," with the Princess Luba Meroff, known as the "Princess Beautiful," who is a new comer in the burlesque field and is one of the season's best catches. The Princess has an unique specialty, consisting of a singing and dancing melange, and as a real entertainer she has no equal. Frank Harcourt is a decided favorite among the patrons of the burlesque houses; Niblo and Spencer are big favorites in the vaudeville field; John D. Bohlman and George L. Wagner are two unique funsters that will help to make the evening worth while, while little Mabel Lynest is a singing marvel.

No American composer has better knowledge of the art of color in orchestration; none has a greater ability in creating atmosphere in his music; none can shake such a wealth of delightful melodies out of his sleeve, and none can produce a more enjoyable operetta than Vicor Herbert at his best, and he was in his most delightful mood when he wrote "The Princess Pat," which will be presented at the Plainfield Theatre, Wednesday, March 29 (matinee and night).

Henry Blossom's book and lyrics are clever. He is never offensive or dull. The plot is clever. Grace Holbrook is going to marry Anthony Schmalz, an old German with a lot of money, to save her uncle from bankruptcy. Schmalz's scapegrace son, Tony, with his new-found friend, a sort of adventurer, Bob Darrow, appears on the scene and falls in love with Grace. Old Schmalz is rather a gay person, who becomes infatuated with Princess Pat, wife of Prince Toto, when on a visit to Grace. Toto has been neglecting his wife, and the two girls, added by Darrow, conclude to teach him and Scnmatz a lesson. Princess Pat enters into a wild flirtation with old Schmalz, driving her husband nearly wild with jealousy, and Grace succeeds in getting rid of old Schmalz in the exposure which naturally follows, elopes with Tony and is married.

LITERARY

The Artistic Qualities of Japanese Prints.

Late fruits though Japanese prints are of the great tradition of Asian art, they preserve, to an extent sufficiently striking for Western minds, the ancient Asian canon of ideality as distinguished from realism. One may even at first sight view them with an aggrieved feeling that no man should pretend to be an artist if he draws the human figure as inaccurately as do these designers. But eventually one realizes that to draw the human figure accurately was the very last thing these artists cared about. And gradually the wisdom of Asia may come to us, and we shall understand that it is the spiritual impact of reality on the artist's emotion, not his scientific observation of reality, that is his chosen and proper theme.

It is this unrealistic quality which relates Japanese prints not only to the primitives of Greece and Italy and Egypt, but also to even the most reckless modern adventurers in futuristic painting; in common, they aim at the production of forms which shall convey not the facts of life, but emotions awakened by life, and abstract conceptions that exist in a region a little apart from the main channel of ordinary living. The figure of a woman, as treated by any of these artists, is not merely the memory of a possible object of desire or devotion; it is also the embodiment of impersonal formal meanings—relations of line and mass, harmonies and rhythms, antitheses and echoes—that have no direct window opening upon incidents of human experience. As I have said elsewhere, the childish mind loves pictures that tell a story; but the more sophisticated intelligence goes to a work of art for those elements which lie far beyond the region of episodic narration—elements that are allied to the principles of geometry, the excursions of pure music, the visions of religious faith.—From "The Field of Art," by A. D. Ficke, in the April Scribner.

ASTOR THEATRE

Victor Moore, the clever Lasky Company star, has been engaged for a long term of years and will appear in a series of his famous Chimmie Fadden characterization. The one shown at the Astor Theatre today will be entitled "Chimmie Fadden out West."

For the production of this picture, the Lasky Company rented the entire town of Newhall, California, for two days. This included the city hall, jail, police station, depot and all the principal buildings needed for the filming of this comedy.

Victor Moore as "Chimmie Fadden," the Bowery boy, has many amusing adventures on his way to the wild and woolly West. There is a very pretty little romance all through the comedy. A Paramount picture at a Paramount Theatre. On Monday and Tuesday we will show at this theatre the world-famous pictographs, showing the different phases of the care and up-bringing of the child; also the subject of "Preparedness," contributed by many of the country's most eminent citizens; also a series of subjects on "Testing the Mind," by Hugo Munsterberg, intermingled with a number of other interesting visualized subjects. With the Pictographs as an added attraction, we will submit to your approval Theodore Roberts, in "Mr. Grex of Monte Carlo," a Paramount wonderplay.

"BETTER TIMES COMING" TO BE SUBJECT OF TALK

"Better Times Coming" will be the subject of the lecture at 204 West Front street, first floor, tomorrow afternoon, at 3 o'clock, by J. G. Kuehn, the New York merchant-philanthropist-preacher. He believes that the present basis of business with small and great, rich and poor, is loveless, crushing, selfish, that manufactured goods are sold at as high prices as the manufacturers and merchants can get for them; they are bought by the public at as low prices as will secure them.

Mr. Kuehn reasons from the standpoint of the Scriptures, and it is said he has no pet theories, ideas or schemes to advance, but will point out that there are clear promises of a big change in the world's affairs. The lecture is free and the public is invited.

RECEIVER STARTS SUIT.

Christopher L. Williams, receiver of the bankrupt First National Bank of Bayonne, has instituted suit against Mary A. Vreeland, a stockholder, to recover $6,594.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — What Happened to An Oil Steamer That Got on Fire.

Rather Than See It Burn, They Sank It.

"PLEASE tell us a story, daddy!" cried Jack and Evelyn the minute their father sat down in his big chair.

"I read a nice story about a sea child today. Would you like to have me tell it?" asked daddy. Then the children wiggled for joy, so daddy began: "Just now, when war makes the need for ships to carry food especially great, every ship that can sail seas is valuable. So this ship I'll tell about, Daylight, which was built to carry oil, is now one of the most useful in all the English merchant fleet. It was built in 1902, so she is now fourteen years old, just the age of the child I am going to tell you about. The Daylight can hold a cargo of 6,000 tons of oil, so you see she is rather big, but not nearly so big as the steamers that are built to carry people."

"Tell us about the child, daddy!" cried Evelyn.

"First of all, my dear, I want to tell you an adventure this good boat Daylight once had. A few years ago she was safely anchored in a Japanese harbor loaded with 20,000 cases of good oil. Mysteriously fire broke out, and, although all the men on board fought the flames with every kind of fire prevention they had on board, the blaze crept and crept nearer, nearer the oil, which burns faster than anything else, you know. Imagine how the captain felt—his beautiful, valuable ship, loaded with one of the most easily burned cargoes, flames licking over the boat and not enough men or hose to fight them! Then he did a heady thing. He ordered his boat sunk. 'Scuttle the ship!' is the sea order, and his men sunk what they loved rather than see it burn. So there the beautiful Daylight lay, ten fathoms below the top of the Japanese sea. Then a wonderful back to life happened."

"Oh, tell us, daddy!" cried both children, clapping their hands.

"Japan owns some wonderful wrecking steamers—steamers fitted out to dig up boats that have been wrecked. So the Daylight's captain telephoned to Kobe, a very interesting city in Japan, for a wrecking steamer to come, and soon the good ship Daylight was raised and made as good as new," said daddy.

"How, how?" cried the children.

"The Japanese steamer sent divers down to see how the Daylight lay on the sands. Then with cables and powerful machinery they tugged and pulled till they floated the Daylight. But how the Daylight became the home of a little girl will make another bedtime story," daddy finished, giving each child a big hug.

"Oh, daddy, please tell us now!" begged Jack.

But daddy only smiled.

Household Hints

THREE GOOD PIES

Boiled Cider Pie—For two pies, five tablespoons boiled cider, ten tablespoons cold water, two cups sugar, two eggs, one tablespoon cornstarch. Mix together and bake well with two crusts.

Pumpkin and Marshmallow Pie—One egg, three tablespoons sugar, one-fourth teaspoon salt; beat well, add one-half can pumpkin and one cup milk, ginger and cinnamon to taste. Mix well. Line deep tin with crust, fill and bake slowly three-quarters hour. Remove from oven, cover with halved marshmallows, return to oven and brown.

New Cranberry Pie—Chop one cup each of cranberries and raisins with one-half cup each of nuts and figs. Add scant cup sugar, one tablespoon flour, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-fourth cup water. Fill pies and bake until crust is brown.

To prevent pies from coming apart around outer crust, when pie is ready for oven press crust gently from the pan around the edge so that it is loose from the sides of pan; there will be no escape of juice from the pie and it also makes a nicer looking pie.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

Bread Which Is Baked Over is fine and better than when baked at first. Take a loaf of stale bread, plunge it in cold water, then out again, put in baking pan and cover. Bake about one-half hour in moderate oven till steamed through. Poor bread which has not thoroughly risen at first baking, will bt better and finer grained when rebaked. The bread should be wrapped in a cloth to steam, after bting taken from oven.

Easy Way to Cover Buttons—Select the size of button molds you wish. Double a piece of the goods with the right sides together, baste around the edges, then lay on a button and mark around as many times as you have buttons to cover, spacing them far enough apart to allow for a small seam around each. Stitch around outer edge of marks on sewing machine before cutting out. Cut a small slit in center of one side of each button cover cover and turn, now slip in the button and sew up, using the slit part for under side of button. This will look neat and wear well, as the seam is on the edge of button, where the wear comes. Can be done in half the time used in the usual way.

For Help On Cleaning Day, try gasoline. A cloth dampened with it and rubbed over marble washstand and bathtub will remove all stains and soil. A tablespoon of it in pail of water is much better than soap for woodwork and oiled floors or linoleum. If there is dirt in bottom of vase or bottle, pour in a bit of gasoline, then add soapsuds and shake well; dirt disappears at once.

Caution: Never open bottle or jug of gasoline in room where there is gas burning or a fire.

THE TABLE

Chili Con Carne—One pound steak cut fine and fried in butter with onion added, then cook till it's tender. Have cup or so of rice cooked, add a can of tomatoes and a can of red kidney beans, then cook all together. Cheap and appetizing dish.

Jambolaye—Fry a few slices bacon cut into inch pieces, with onion; add to a pint of cooked rice and a can of tomatoes.

Stuffed Onions—Scoop the heart out of onions so that cups are formed. With the pieces of onions that removed mix any kind of sausage meat or raw meat; chop all together with a very few pieces of raw potatoes. Stuff onion cups with mixture, put small lump of butter on top, sprinkle with salt and pepper, put into baking pan with one-half cup boiling water. Bake one hour.

Spanish Eggs—Mince two onions fine, also a piece of bacon; cut up a can of pimento fine; brown all in butter, add enough beaten eggs for family; salt and pepper. Stir till creamy. Serve at once.

Apricot Sauce—Drain juice from stewed apricots and rub them through a sieve. Use half cup powdered sugar to half cup apricot pulp. Beat sugar and pulp together. Whip half cup cream stiff, add it gradually to apricot mixture and serve at once. This is delicious. Peaches may be used instead of apricots, using less sugar.

Marrying for Money

BY MRS EVA LEONARD

A Turning Point in the Married Life of the Townsends.

Ortrude stole to the door of the sick room and looked in. Her husband was awake and no one was with him. She had been watching for an opportunity to see him alone, but in the two weeks that had passed since he was stricken with paralysis he had never been left alone before. Ortrude stole noiselessly to the bedside and knelt there.

"Jacob"—she had never called him Jacob before—"I have something to say to you. Can you hear me?" He made a slight motion of the hand to indicate that he heard. "All these dreadful two weeks since you have been sick I have wanted to tell you, but feared that my presence in the room would make you worse. If you can listen to me——"Jacob motioned with his hand for er to go on. She reached out and took the feeble hand in hers and softly chafed it as she spoke.

"It has seemed as if I could not rest till I had told you how ashamed I am of the way I have acted. I have been so heartless and cruel and you were so kind and forbearing. You tried to make me do the right thing, tried so patiently to make me see my selfishness.Can you forgive me that I ruined your life and brought you to death's door with my blind stupidity?" She bowed her head on the counterpane and sobs shook her shoulders. The hand stole from between her own and rested gently on the bowed head in benediction.

Ortrude knelt there until she had controlled her tears, then rose and kissed his forehead, saying: "I can never forgive myself, but it is a great comfort to know that you forgive me. If I do not make you worse I should like to help take care of you." There was a clear, lovely light in the sick man's eyes as he followed her retreating figure.

Just outside the door in the hall she met Marian. The girl gave her a challenging look.

"Were you in there? In the sick room?" asked the girl in surprise. "Don't you know that your presence will make him worse?"

"Marian." The girl started. The tone was absolutely different from any she had ever heard Ortrude use. "I went in there to ask your father to forgive me for all the trouble I have caused him. I had to tell him; and he forgave me," she added quietly. "He rested his hand on my head. Perhaps as long as that is so you will be willig to let me do some of the nursig and so relieve you and Tupper." She paused and a silence fell between them. Marian was too surprised to speak.

"I see that you would rather I stayed out and I cannot blame you." She spoke in a low tone and turned to go.

"Why, I——" Ortrude turned to look at her.

"I think Daddy will like to have you, perhaps, and it is what he wants that counts. You——" Her voice trailed off into silence.

"Thank you." Ortrude was gone, leaving Marian to digest her astonishment alone.

When she told Dudley of the interview he said:

"I am glad she has turned out to be human. By all means let her do all she wants to do for dear Daddy. It will be a comfort to him, perhaps, and it surely will be a help to her if she is trying to do the right thing at this late day."

Bathing The Baby

The daily bath for the baby is one of the important things easily mastered, but astonishingly neglected in some of its details. Every mother or nurse should have these details and the routne at her command. The bath should be easily accomplished and should be beneficial to the little royal highness. Here are some important features to be observed.

Temperature of Room and Water.

Have the room in which the baby is to be bathed of a temperature never less than 60 degrees Fahrenheit. The water should be tested by a thermometer, which should be in every bathroom. For a newborn baby the temperature should be 10 degrees Fahrenheit. A test without a thermometer can be made with the elbow in the water. This is more sensitive than the palm of the hand and therefore more safe. Remember that a baby's skin is very tender.

Another important thing is to allow the cold water to run into a bath first. Otherwise there is danger of plunging the baby into water that is all right on the top, but painfully hot below the surface. Stir the water to distribute the cold and warm currents evenly.

Avoid Draughts.

Have everything ready for the bath, so that you will not need to leave the room after beginning the bathing process, for expedition is an important thing. There should be no dawdling, for during delays a baby will be chilled and catch cold.

To prevent any draughts look the door. No one without can then open it unknowingly.

The soap used should be a mild one, unscented, uncolored and as pure as you can get. Castile soap has been tested for ages and has come out triumphant. Powder, also, should be of the finest quality, unscented and having a small portion of boracic powder in its mixture.

Be sure to dry thoroughly. This is one of the common cause of chafing. Soft towels, warmed in cold weather, should be used. Needless to say, they should be absolutely clean and used only for the baby.

Warm Bath Soothes.

If the water is hard, soften it by using a little bran. A bran bag is excellent for this purpose. It can be made of cheesecloth and bran, and the contents renewed every two weeks.

Baths should never be given immediately after a meal. This applies to all ages and to the breast-fed infant. A warm bath brings the blood to the surface of the body and away from the digestive organs where it is needed in the process of digestion. Allow one hour between a bath and a meal.

If a baby is inclined to be nervous and sleepless, give a bath at night. A warm bath is soothing and will frequently send the restless one to sleep.

Smart Table Covers

The hostess who would spread an inviting table should have a big supply of heavy white table linen—large dinner napkins with a square monogram or three small letters in a row, and heavy tablecloths, stiff because they are heavy and well ironed.

For the luncheon table, a cloth may be used, or else doilies. Lace doilies are in good taste, and so are plain white ones, with scalloped edges. Luncheon napkins are smaller than dinner napkins, and can be of white linen, hemstitched with an inch-wide hem and embroideries with monogram or initials.

The Tea Table.

As for the tea table, that, too, must be daintily set forth. Of course, the tea can be brought in on a big tray or on a tea wagon, and can be passed. Very often a table is spread with a cloth to receive the tea things, and the tea is passed from this table.

A dainty cover of pure white linen, hemstitched at the edge with a three-inch hem, with a large initial worked in one corner, and small tea napkins to match. Tea napkins are not always essential, but it is better to pass them when buttered toast or a pastry is served. They are always in good taste.

There are also some very pretty new cloths for the tea table with cross-stitched design of teapot and cups and saucers in the corner, in dull blue, green, or gold. Tea napkins are made to match.

Then there is the heavy linen or crash cover, which is finished with a crochet edge in color. The edges of the linen are rolled, and a couple of threads drawn at the head of the roll.

The crochet needle is put through these drawn threads to make the edge, which can be the simplest sort of picot or a more elaborate scallop.

Recipes For Serving Oysters

Several methods of serving oysters are suggested below.

Oyster Chowder.

Chop fifty good sized oysters. Prepare one cup of finely chopped celery and two cups of cold boiled rice. Put a layer of celery in the bottom of the saucepan, then a layer of rice and a layer of oysters. Season with salt and pepper. Repeat these layers until all the materials are used. Pour over one cup of boiling water. Cook slowly for twenty-five minutes. Beat up the yolks of two eggs with one cup of milk; add this to the chowder. Stir carefully for a few minutes and serve hot.

Maryland Stew.

Take one quart of oysters. Put one pint of water in a saucepan and let it simmer, then rub the yolks of three hard boiled eggs and one spoon of flour together and stir in. Put in also one-fourth pound butter in small pieces, one-half teaspoon whole allspice, the juice of a lemon, salt and pepper. Let simmer ten minutes, then add the oysters, and serve immediately.

Devilled Oysters.

Take one pint oysters and chop fine. Put into a saucepan with one teaspoon of melted butter and a gill of cream. Season with cayenne and salt, and add one-half cup of rolled cracker crumbs. Put on the stove and allow to simmer five minutes, stirring gently. Then put in a baking dish, sprinkle bread crumbs and bits of butter over top and bake until top is a rich golden brown.

Broiled Oysters on Toast.

Boil lightly one the gridiron one pint of oysters. Place them on thin slices of buttered toast and pour over them a sauce made of a gill of cream, a teaspoon of grated onion, a little lemon juice, salt and a dash of tabasco sauce. Serve hot and garnish with parsley.

INFLAMED EYES.

A simple remedy for inflamed and weak eyes is cold tea, carefully strained to remove dust and foreign substances. The eyelids should be bathed in this several times a day, winking a little of the tea up under the lids at times.

At night the cold tea leaves, which have been previously steeped, should be bound over the lids. This treatment, if followed up, is almost sure to bring relief, and in time to effect a permanent cure.

Care of Floor Coverings

Many otherwise careful housewives seem to think that a weekly sweeping or washing of their floor-coverings with, maybe, a lick and a promise every day or so, as the case may be, is quite enough to keep oilcloth or carpet clean and wholesome.

But, as a matter of fact, to beat a carpet once a year, and to sweep it once a week, is treating a valuable possession very badly indeed. Failing a carpet-sweeper or a vacuum cleaner (and these can now be bought for quite moderate sums), the pieces and dust which have accumulated during the past twenty-four hours must be swept up regularly every morning, while the floors of the dining-room and kitchen will require even more attention.

To Remove Stains.

Before the weekly sweeping, too, newspaper torn up and dampened, wet sawdust, or, in the case of a dark carpet, tea-leaves, should be strewn over so as to keep down the dust, while every fortnight or so the surface of the carpet should be rubbed with a damp cloth dipped in water to which a little ammonia has been added. A periodical washing with Chivers' carpet soap has also a splendidly rejuvenating effect.

Ink stains, if fresh, will yield to washing with milk and water, but a mark of long standing must be scrubbed with oxalic acid and water, the correct proportions being one teaspoonful of the former to half a teacupful of the latter.

Methods of Cleaning.

Fuller's earth is an excellent absorbative of any kind of grease, and will often take out stains that will yield to no other treatment. Make a stiff paste of the prepared earth with water and a few drops of ammonia, spread it thickly over the stain, leave for 24 hours, then brush off.

There is no better polish for stained floors than the old-fashioned beeswax and turpentine, though some of the disinfectant waxes used in hospitals and other large buildings can be highly recommended. It is a great mistake to constantly wash linoleums and cork carpets, for water rots the surfaces and makes them porous, thus providing homes for millions of undesirable microbes.

It is far, far better to rub briskly with a good wax-polish, which also acts as a disinfectant and preservative. At the same time, too, the wax fills up all the little holes in the surface, so that any dust or dirt that accumulates on the top can be easily swept away.

India matting may be successfully cleansed by scrubbing with boiling water in which a handful of bran and a tablespoonful of soap powder have been dissolved. Rinse the matting afterwards, and, if possible, hang it in the fresh air to dry. If, however, it is too firmly fastened to the floor, dry as thoroughly as possible with cloths.

Care of Tiled Floors.

Tiled floors are quite common nowadays, and they need careful treatment if they are to be kept in good condition. When washing them, use as little water as you can, for, if it is allowed to rest between the tiles, the cement in which they are set becomes loosened. Afterwards the floor should be wiped over with a cloth dipped in skimmed milk, and a monthly rubbing with boiled linseed-oil, very sparingly applied, will also greatly improve its appearance.

The Roses of Lyons

The fame of the rose-growers of Lyons, France, has spread the world over. The ground where the roses are chiefly cultivated is on the outskirts of the city. It is flat, devoid of trees, and protected only by high walls at the confines of the property. The rose plants are set out for commercial purposes in straight rows, sometimes 100 feet long. Nearly all the plants are out of doors.

The greenhouses for a rose-garden of 15 acres do not number more than two, averaging 30 feet in length. It is only in exceptional winters that the plants have to be covered.

Sometimes the tops of the older plants are rather loosely bound in straw.

Central Needle Sewing Machines for $32.50

Just arrived for the March Housewares Sale — 23 days late due to freight conditions—but worth waiting for, because it is the machine with a CENTRAL NEEDLE, a joy to a woman because it permits her to sit straight, in a comfortable, natural position, and to sew all day long without feeling the stress and strain caused by leaning to one side.

Most machines have the needle about five inches to the side, making one lean over in an unnatural attitude.

In this machine, also, is the rotary shuttle, which makes 175 stitches in the same time an old-fashioned machine makes 100. The mechanism can be changed instantly, without a bit of trouble, from a fast holding lock-stitch to an easily ripped chain-stitch.

The bulk of the family sewing will disappear like magic with this smooth light-running household helper—

Ringside Odds Will be 2 to 1 on Willard Tonight

New York, March 25.—When Jess Willard steps into the ring tonight at Madison Square Garden to flirt with athletic fate for a big purse, he will be a big favorite over Frank Moran, his opponent. The fight fans cannot see where the big Kansan can lose in a ten-round match. He will rely on his cleverness in blocking to avoid a knock-out, and it is conceded that he will take no chances in a wide-open slamming match at any time. There will be no decision rendered, outside the opinion of the newspapers and the spectators, unless one or the other of the boxers is put out of commission.

The betting is a little short of even that Willard will stop Moran before the ten rounds are up. The managers of the two fighters are said to have wagered a large sum at even money on this proposition. But if Willard goes after Moran in an extra effort to bring home an added wad to Jones, it may pave the way for Moran's long chance to get in a knock-out blow. Those who know the Willard program are not betting on a knock-out, except at odds.

MORAN TELLS HOW HE STARTED.

"It is my red hair that got me into the fighting game," says Frank Moran, the husky Pittsburgh Irishman. "It was this way. When I grew up to the tender age of ten, my hair was a flaming red. That gave the kids a chance to yell 'Red Head' at me, all of which peeved me considerably. There was only one way to stop it, and that way was to whale them into silence. It took me about two years to finish the job. Some were bigger than I was, and I had to tackle those fellows three or four times before I could blacken their eyes.

"My first fight was for a five cent purse. It was staged in a caboose. The trainmen arranged the affair, and told me the boy they had picked out had called me a red-head false alarm. The winner was to get a nickel. I won the fight. After that I used to scrap any kids that came to the caboose. Pretty soon I had eighteen nickels that I had won. Then I bet the eighty against the next fight on a bet. I won the fight, but the stake-holder had disappeared.

"I have been in the fight game ever since, and have been well fleeced by managers and promoters. But no loss ever hurt me so much as the loss of my eighty cents. I have been shorn closer than any lamb in my career, and I am right glad to get hold of today's purse. They have trimmed me for the last time."

WHAT WILLARD HAS DONE.

Jess Willard fought his first bout in February, 1911, at Sapulpa, Okla., and lost it on a foul in the tenth round to Louis Fink. The only remarkable thing about the cowboy fighter was his enormous physical bulk. He fought like an amateur, and lacked the boxing training so necessary in the ring. Three weeks after his first fight, he met Ed Burke and put over the knockout punch in the third round. In the same month he met Fink again and knocked him out in three rounds.

These victories encouraged Willard, and he fought regularly through that year and 1912, ending most of his bouts with a knock-out. His opponents were not fighters of the first rank, were generally smaller men, and were led to defeat by wide-open tactics. He fought Arthur Pelky and Luther McCarthy, but these were ten-round no-decision affairs. Sailor White and Soldier Kearns later went down for the count of ten under the impact of the cowboy's crushing blows.

In 1913, Willard fought eleven bouts and won them all, with the exception of a 20-round battle with Gunboat Smith in California, in which Smith got the referee's decision. During that year, Willard outpointed Carl Morris in New York. George Rodel and George Davis were both knocked out by the cowboy in December of that year.

In 1914, Willard outpointed Tom McMahon, knocked out Dan Dailey in nine rounds and Rodel in six rounds. Last year he was selected from the available "white hopes" to go against Jack Johnson. Curiously enough, it was Frank Moran's battle with Johnson in Paris that paved the way for this championship battle. It decided the point that Johnson could be beaten by a big, husky fighter. Willard, through fortune's favor, was selected to retrieve the championship, and he accomplished the job in the big bout at Havana.

Willard has been generously knocked and generously praised, and there is a wide difference of opinion as to his fighting abilities. Tonight's bout will settle his status as a fighter. For, though the bout is for only ten rounds, he will have to show his wares in that time, and there will be plenty of boxing experts on hand to pass judgment.

New Brunswick romped away with the first game because the homesters stopped at 864. The Elizabethans took the last two games with totals of 942 and 987. ## TABS WIN OVER THE HANDICAPPED P. A. A.

Both Sides Minus Regulars—Newark P. S. Girls Down Social Club Team.

The T. A. B. S. basketballists managed to slip over a win on Jones' Plainfield A. A. team last night in a big double-header on the T. A. B. S. court. The game was close throughout, and the result was always in doubt. Manager Jones was handicapped by the absence of two of his men, and he was compelled to insert two recruits into his line-up. The T. A. B. S. showed up better than usual, and Kyle, their mainstay, had a big night, garnering nine field goals.

In the second game of the double attraction, the Newark Public Service girls outscored the St. Mary's Social Club girls by five points to three. The game depended on the foul shooters, and the visitors proved their superiority by caging two more fouls than the local girls.

NORTH PLAINFIELD AND THE CITY BASEBALL LEAGUE.

The most important piece of news anent the City League that has floated in since Plainfield's baseball body closed accounts last fall was the announcement yesterday that North Plainfield would have representation in the league. Although across the book is legally no more a part of the city than is the borough of Dunellen, North Plainfield is practically Plainfield so much that no one ever thinks of this city without including that section north of Green brook, and the decision of the Plainfield A. A. to play its home games on Hyde Field should not meet with any objection.

The change will prove advantageous to the league in more ways than one. It will make North Plainfielders more interested in the City League, because the North Plainfield Athletic Association, as the new club will be known, will be the only league team composed entirely of borough players. The location of the N. P. A. A.'s home grounds will increase the league's gate receipts, because, being nearer to the center of town than any of the other league fields, it will draw many patrons who will not wander very far from the center of town to see a game. The change will give Manager Jones better players than he had last year, and therefore will raise the calibre of the league's games.

It will also give the sixth member of the league concrete identification. The Plainfield A. A. has been only a name, without a location or meaning, but the fact that the N. P. A. A. is representative of something will attach more significance to the title.

Basketball has been added to the club curriculum of the Plainfield Young Women's Hebrew Association. If their success as minstrels is any criterion of their versatility, the Y. W. H. A. members will be a success on the court.

The only thing it's safe to bet Eddie Feihl is that he can't average 301.

Plainfield may have a new club in baseball, and other sports, if the Recreation basketballers, who are to organize a club, decide to extend their athletic activities to other sports. The charter membership of the little group includes some of the best performers in the city, and teams for all sports could be chosen from those who are expected to be at the organization meeting Tuesday night.

VOORHEES' 298 COUNT.

Arthur Voorhees scratched his name in the local bowling Hall of Fame when he registered that 298 count Thursday night. It was not round bottom pins or grooved alleys that helped him, either, for he was shooting new wood on lanes that are among the hardest in town. Futhermore, the usual cry of a man who misses the prize 300 mark by a few pins that he had all perfect hits and deserved a triple century score isn't being heard from Voorhees. "A little too light" is the way the Dunellenite explains the two pins standing on his last hit. On a five-man team there may be local bowlers more valuable than Voorhees, who doesn't show at his best until he is thoroughly warmed up, but for individual matches, it is doubtful if there is any bowler in Plainfield who can give the City League champion a thing.

The editorial of the Yale Daily News that "Yale teams are for Yale, and not for the public" is likely to be severely criticised by the growing army of football spectators who favor the numbering of players. The public, by paying to see the games, make possible intercollegiate sport on the scale it is now played.

WILLIAMS AND WRIGHT IN FINALS OF TENNIS

Boston March 25.—R. Norris Williams, 2d, the former national lawn tennis champion, and Irving C. Wright, by strong play in the semi-finals of the singles yesterday won the right to contest today in the final round of the annual indoor tournament on the covered courts of the Longwood Cricket Club.

Williams, who captured the event last year, was in remarkable form yesterday, defeating H. C. Johnson at 6—2, 6—1. Most of his points were on aces.

G. P. Gardner, Jr., fell before the effective chop-stroking of Wright by the score of 7—5, 6—4.

BRICKLEY TO COACH BOSTON.

Boston, Mass., March 25.—Charles Brickley, who coached Johns Hopkins eleven last fall and also taught Pennsylvania State the fine points of drop kicking, yesterday signed a contract to be head coach at Boston College. He was under contract to coach Johns Hopkins again, but obtained a release. Brickley made the change, not only because of an increase in salary, but to be in Boston, where he is in the insurance business. He is also to assist in coaching Harvard.

CHANCE FOR PRESS ADVERTISERS TO ATTRACT THE ATTENTION OF THE ENTIRE COUNTY.

As the result of an agreement between the Plainfield Daily Press and the Elizabeth Evening Times any advertiser placing a classified ad in the Press may have that same ad inserted in the Elizabeth Evening Times upon the payment of one-half more than is charged for the Daily Press insertion alone. Thus, if an advertisement in the Daily Press costs forty cents, the same advertisement may be placed in the Elizabeth paper for an additional twenty cents.

The Elizabeth Evening Times has a circulation of 9,000 and is widely distributed throughout Union County. Thus if an advertiser places his advertisement in the Plainfield Daily Press and Elizabeth Evening Times he places it before the eyes of thousands of readers at a very small cost.

Most advertisers welcome the opportunity to attract the attention of the whole county to their offerings and with the co-operation of the Elizabeth Evening Times the Plainfield Daily Press is now able to make this possible. The Elizabeth Evening Times has earned a reputation for itself as an advertising medium, especially along the classified line, and it is a well known fact that its influence extends into other counties besides Union.

VILLA HAS AGAIN ELUDED TROOPERS

Gen. Pershing Reports Outlaw Escaped From Ring Drawn Around His Band.

250 MILES IN MEXICO

No Reference to Carranza Troops—Believed They Are Not Co-operating—Wilson in Full Control of Situation.

San Antonio, Tex., March 27.—Villa has again eluded his pursuers. This information is carried in an official report from Gen. Pershing, the contents of which were made public by Gen. Funston this morning. The American expedition into Mexico has been split into three forces, all driving for the Sierra Madres, where the outlaw hopes to hide in safety. Gen. Pershing announces that his men have penetrated more than 250 miles into Mexico, and his forces are being weakened hourly by the necessary chopping off of troops to guard communicating lines. Gen. Pershing's report was not cheerful in tone, and while he made no reference to Carranza troops, it is believed that they are not co-operating with him.

War Boats Are Changed.

Washington, March 27.—The United States gunboat Marietta today was ordered to proceed from Vera Cruz to Tampico, where it will replace the battleship Kentucky. The Kentucky will go back to Vera Cruz. Officials of the navy explained the change was made because the Kentucky's size prevented her going up the narrow Panuco River, on which Tampico proper is located, seven miles from the shore.

More Aeroplanes Needed.

Washington, March 27.—Secretary of War Baker announced today that he had ordered motor auto trucks sent to the border at once for use by the American military expedition in Mexico. This makes 162 trucks purchased since the pursuit of Villa began. Secretary Baker stated that Gen. Funston's request for more aeroplanes, made several days ago, is still being considered. The Department, it is said, has no more available machines.

SOPHOMORE CLASS PRESENT TWO PLAYS

"Miss Civilization" and "The Mouse Trap" Attract Large Audience to High School.

Making the first attempt of a Sophomore class in amateur theatricals in nearly ten years, the second year class of the Plainfield High School presented two sketches, "Miss Civilization" and "The Mouse Trap" before a large audience, Saturday night.

"Miss Civilization" was given as a curtain raiser. The cast was as follows: Alice Gardner, Dorothy Coburn; "Gentleman Joe," Mac Fullerton; "Reddy the Kid," Frank MacQuire; "Grand Stand" Harry, Harold Loizeaux; Chief of Police, Martin McDonough; policemen, brakemen, and engineers, Yeandle, Tomlinson, Heron, Apgar, Marder, Brower, Mogenson, McKay, Greenwood, Peterson, Brownlee and Wean.

Miss Katherine Ball, who coached the cast, did much to make the affair a success, and was ably assisted by Miss West and Miss Lounsbury, faculty members. The property managers were Helen Luery and Martin McDonough.

The second sketch, "The Mouse Trap," proved to be amusing from beginning to end, and all the members of the cast had their parts well in hand. The scene was supposed to represent a fashionable drawing room of the early '80's.

The various characters in the cast were taken by the following: Mrs. Somers, Marion Van Zandt; Campbell, Monroe O'Donnell; Jane, the servant, Margaret Stout; Mrs. Curwen, Constance Durant; Mrs. Miller, Miny Taylor; Mrs. Bermis, Hope Angleman, and Mrs. Roberts (Campbell's sister), Beatrice Cottrell. Miss Brooks coached the cast, assisted by Miss West and Miss Lounsbury.

The business manager was Harold Loizeaux; assistant, Howard Stelle; stage manager, C. R. Shubert, and electrician, R. W. Lord. Edith Peacock and Kenneth Miller were property managers of "The Mouse Trap."

SUDDEN DEATH OF JAMES C. POPE

Prominent Banker and Promoter Victim of Heart Attack Saturday Night.

WAS A SELF-MADE MAN

Entered Plainfield Savings Institution as Clerk and Retired as Treasurer After Forty-one Years of Service.

In much the same manner as several of his near relatives were stricken, death came suddenly Saturday night to James C. Pope, one of Plainfield's best known residents and prominent in its business life for nearly forty years. He was taken ill last Friday, but though he had been more or less indisposed for the past two years the attack was not considered serious. He felt sufficiently well shortly before nine o'clock Saturday evening to sit on the edge of his bed at his home on West Fourth street, and before any of his family realized it he was in the throes of a fatal heart attack. The end came before a physician could reach him.

James C. Pope was the son of John Pope, a resident of Dunellen, where the former and his several brothers were born. The family has been prominent throughout this section for more than half a century. Another of the sons of John Pope was the late Elias R. Pope, a natural born business man, who stood in the front rank of promoters in Plainfield from early age until his sudden death in 1896. It was he who founded the Dime Savings Bank shortly after the Civil War, the sound financial institution now known as the Plainfield Savings Bank. When nineteen years old James C. Pope entered the employ of the old Dime Savings concern as a clerk and from this position he rose step by step until he became the treasurer, resigning from it to lead a retired life in May, 1914. He had not been actively engaged at the bank for a year previous to his retirement as he began a year's vacation in January, 1913, to recuperate his health, after forty-one years of faithful service.

After entering the bank in 1897, Mr. Pope showed an aptitude for the business that earned the commendation of his employers and rapid advancement. From clerk he was made assistant secretary, then assistant treasurer and finally treasurer in 1896, succeeding his brother, Elias R. Pope. He saw the building up of the Plainfield Savings Bank from a small institution to one of the leading savings banks in the State, occupying its own modern home and handling many hundreds of thousands of dollars of Plainfield money. His life was entirely a business one and he seldom took time off for recreation.

In connection with his work at the bank, Mr. Pope also became a factor in the insurance business locally and shortly after his retirement turned this branch of his work in its entirety over to Frederick A. Martin who now conducts it. When the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company was organized, Mr. Pope was one of its first stockholders, remaining with it until its franchises and holdings were taken over by the Public Service Corporation. He was also a stockholder in the Plainfield Water Supply Company, the Crystal Ice and Coal Company and was one of the organizers of the Mono Storage Company, in which concern he has always held an official position. Much of the success of the Mono Company has been due to Mr. Pope's readiness to perceive what Plainfield wanted in a business way. While he never sought public office he took an active interest for a long time in the original Plainfield Board of Trade, attending its meetings regularly and introducing ideas that aided in the betterment of local business after they had been followed up. He was a member of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., Jerusalem Chapter, No. 24, R. A. M., and Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E.

Mr. Pope's wife, who was a Miss King, daughter of the late John King, died about ten years ago. His only surviving relatives are a son, William H. Pope, the electrical contractor, whoe home is on Sandford avenue, and one brother, Howard A. Pope, of East Fifth street. The latter is the only remaining son of John Pope and has been one of the group of Pope brothers whose names have always been connected with Plainfield enterprises. Prosecutor Frederick A. Pope, of Somerville; George W. Pope, of New street; James Pope, of Grant avenue, and John Pope, of Park avenue, are all nephews of James C. Pope.

The funeral will be held at the late residence, 115 West Fourth street, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 and will be in charge of Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

RASORES TO MEET.

The Rasores will meet tomorrow morning, with Mrs. William Myers, of Watchung avenue.

EXTEMPORANEOUS SPEECH CONTEST

Unique Competition to Be Held Here Under Auspices of Colgate University.

16 SCHOOLS ENTERED

Interscholastic Representatives Will Strive for Handsome Prizes—Battin High School Orchestra to Furnish Music.

An interscholastic contest in extemporaneous speech, promoted by the Department of Public Speaking of Colgate University, open to the high schools in this vicinity, will be held in the Plainfield High School auditorium, on Friday evening, March 31, at 8 o'clock. Sixteen high schools of Eastern New Jersey have entered contestants. The list includes Asbury Park, Bound Brook, East Orange, Elizabeth (Battin High), Englewood, Keyport, Leonia, Newark (South Side), New Brunswick, North Plainfield, Palmyra, Paterson, Plainfield, Rahway, Roselle Park and Woodbridge. Last year, nine schools participated, of which Rahway, East Orange and Newark (South Side) were the winners, in the order named.

The prizes consist of a fine trophy plaque, which will be awarded to the school whose representative wins first place, and medals of gold, silver and bronze to the individuals winning the first three places. As a further inducement, it is announced that the young man who wins first place shall be entitled to represent the school of New Jersey in an Interstate contest to be held at Colgate University, May 19. For this contest the prizes will be scholarships of $60 and $30 each. Each school in New Jersey is entitled to one, and only one, representative. Any male student whose regular standing is attested to by the principal, may compete.

The plan of the contest is unique. One month before the contest is held, a general subject is sent to the schools signifying their intention to send a contestant, upon which the speakers are to secure as much information as possible. The topic this year has been announced as "National Defense." One nour before the contest, a special topic, drawn from the general subject, will be announced to competitors, and each speaker will be furnished a quiet room where, without further consultation of authorities, he shall arrange his material for presentation.

The contest is to be in the form of a debate, and each speaker will be expected to defend either the affirmative or the negative. The side to be defended, as well as the order on the program, shall be determined by lot at the time the special topic is announced, one hour before the contest. Each contestant will be allowed six minutes in which to present his argument.

Thus it is a contest that places a premium on mental alertness and originality, as well as on the powers to think before an audience and the ability to effectively present one's thoughts. The prizes shall be awarded to the extent and accuracy of information, its bearing upon the specific topic, and skill in organizing and presenting the material.

Music for the evening will be furnished by the Battin High School orchestra of Elizabeth. Colonel Austen Colgate, of Orange, will preside. Admission to the contest is free. It promises to be an interesting and instructive competition.

BIEDERWOLF COMING HERE'S A FINE BIBLE

Daily Press Has Arranged to Supply Splendid Editions For Ready Reference.

A very striking announcement appears in the advertising columns of the Daily Press today, offering to its readers the famous Big Print Red Letter Edition of the Bible, bound in limp leather, and containing many pages of helps, maps, beautiful illustrations in colors and half-tones reproduced from photographs, and informative maps of Bible lands, also in colors. The special feature, however, is the printing of all the words and sayings of Christ in red, so that the eye, in glancing over the pages in search of the Master's own words, can find at once the quotation it is in search of. The usual price of Bibles of the character described is from three to four dollars—so that this offering is practically in the nature of a gift—it asking only a small distribution expense in addition to the cost. Nor could this be effected without the active co-operation of hundreds of newspapers throughout the United States and Canada, which are engaged just now in the worthy purpose of distributing the Red Letter Edition of the Bible among the great masses of the people. We urge every one of our readers to avail themselves of a very unusual opportunity, and to clip the coupons which will appear daily on page 2, until further notice.

MISS MOODEY BRIDE OF WILSON T. MOOG

Ceremony Performed by Rev. L. Clarke Seelye, Former Pres't of Smith College.

Miss Helen Chapin Moodey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lyman Moodey, of Watchung avenue and Sixth street, became the bride of Wilson Townsend Moog, of Northampton, Mass., at a wedding performed at the home of the bride's parents, Saturday afternoon, at three o'clock. Rev. L. Clarke Seelye, president emeritus of Smith College, an uncle of the bride, officiated at the ceremony in the presence of a gathering of seventy-five relatives and friends of the couple.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of countess satin, with a tulle veil, caught up with orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Antoinette P. Moodey, a sister of the bride, acted as maid of honor. The latter was gowned in dress of turquoise blue and carried an arm bouquet of sunburst roses. The flower girls, Miss Harran Chapin Moodey, a sister of the bride, and Miss Hannah Chapin Lyman, of Brooklyn, wore white frocks and carried baskets of spring flowers. Fay H. Eaton, of Andover, Mass., was the best man.

Following the wedding a reception tion was given the bridal party, after which Mr. and Mrs. Moog left for a short wedding trip. They will reside later at Northampton, where Mr. Moog is professor of music at Smith College. The decorations at the home were carried out in yellow and green.

$147.61 RAISED FOR BATTLESHIP AMERICA

Daily Press Fund Grows With Dimes in Every Mail.

One hundred and twenty-five people of the Washington Park section of North Plainfield attended a tea at the home of Mrs. T. C. Overton at 31 Rockview avenue from 3 until 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon, for the benefit of the Marjorie Sterrett Battleship Fund, $42.36 being realized. The children in charge of the affair included Ruth and Catherine Foulkes, Penelope Overton, Jane Worth, Beatrice Rhoades, Helen Faber, Isabel Rushmore, Edith Eddy, Harriett Milne, Louise and Pauline Browne and Doris Wadley. The guests were dressed in middy blouses and sailor hats trimmed with gold battleships. Tea was served by Mrs. Overton, Mrs. Crane, Mrs. Fawcett, Miss Monica Sharretts and Miss Lillian Fawcett. Home-made cake and candy and favor in a lucky bag brought the receipts up to $42.36.

Allen E. Beals, commissioner for the Boy Scouts of America, sent three dimes for his children, with the following letter:

"Believing it to be a distinct honor for any boy or girl to have a part in the construction of Marjorie Sterrett's battleship 'America,' I have pleasure in sending ten cents each for Allen Wright Beals, Richard Leslie Beals and Jeannette Elizabeth Beals. Neither of my boys nor my little girl are old enough to be scouts or a camp-fire girl, but I want them to be recorded with the other patriotic future American citizens who are giving their dimes by way of emphasizing the nation-wide demand for that kind of preparedness that will make unnecessary in years to come the human sacrifices in this country that have made and are making Europe reek and reel today."

Joseph, Elizabeth and Eleanor Smith each added a dime to the fund today with the following letter:

"We would like to help Marjorie's Battleship Fund, and are enclosing our dimes. We hope it will be the biggest and best battleship ever built."

About $100 was raised by the Press through the "Defense or Tribute?" picture shown at Proctor's Theatre, Friday and Saturday. The list to date follows:

OWNER TO TAKE OVER QUEEN CITY

J. A. Staats Will Assume Management of Popular Hotel When Floersch Retires.

NO DEFINITE DATE SET

Additions to Present Structure Will Greatly Increase Capacity, Making Hostelry One of Finest in This Section of the State.

Announcement was made this morning by John A. Staats, owner of the Queen City Hotel property, at Park avenue and Second street, that with the withdrawal of Peter Floersch, as proprietor and manager within the coming year, he would re-enter the hotel game and conduct the establishment himself. Mr. Staats' decision came at the behest of his many local friends after it became known last week that Mr. Floersch would not renew his lease when it expired next March, but proposed to leave Plainfield possibly the coming September, to take over the Packer House at Perth Amboy, where he was located previously to coming here. Mr. Staats has been a hotel man since he was seventeen years old, following in the footsteps of his father, John H. Staats, who resides with him on Mountain avenue. The son understands every phase of the game, and his determination to personally conduct the Queen City is assurance to Plainfielders that they will continue to have one of the finest hostelries in this part of the State

In his public announcement today, Mr. Staats also made it known that plans are now under way to further improve the hotel by an addition to the front part and a new structural portion on its east side, covering a part of the vacant ground between the present building and the old Crescent Club house. The details are being worked out by the architectural firm of Oakley & Son, of Elizabeth, and will be related in full as soon as the drawings are completed. The idea at present is to continue the one-story projection directly on the corner of Second street and Park avenue up to the full height of the original building and then extend an "L" to the east side. The hotel at present has forty rooms, a number that frequently overtaxed With the additions completed, the total room capacity will be seventy, and beside the sleeping apartments, there is to be a barber shop, a pool and billiard room and many other features that make up the modern hotel. Mr. Floersch has done wonders in making the Queen City known throughout the State, and with the plans of Mr. Staats carried to full completion, Plainfield will have a hostelry of which the citizens might well be proud.

John A. Staats is a native of Hunton county, but is known throughout New Jersey and nearby States, enjoying an enviable reputation as a caretaker of transients. His father enjoyed the same reputation before him, and is still named by admirers as an example of a successful hotel man. At the age of seventeen John A., or "Al" as everybody knows him, branched out in business for himself. Since that time he has been proprietor of various well-known houses in this section, among them being the Burnett House, at Stroudsburg, Pa.; the American House and the Clarendon Hotel, at Hackettstown; the Clark Hotel, now the Burkeley, and the Sheridan House, at Elizabeth. He was located in Elizabeth for twenty years, and came from that city to Plainfield to take over the old Grenada Hotel, which he renamed the Kensington. That was nineteen years ago, and, after building the business up to a high standard, disposed of it in 1907 to J. A. Poulson. Since then Mr. Staats has devoted most of his time to the promotion of the Watchung Spring Water Company, but this was in the nature of a side issue, as during the nine years he has been out of the hotel life, he has spent much of his time in Canada and Florida on hunting and fishing trips, pastimes of which he is an ardent enthusiast. Mr. Staats possesses the genial personality that draws people to him, and his mixture in other fields since leaving the Kensington has served to broaden it out. It is safe to say at this time that if anything he has become more democratic than ever, and when he takes up the hotel reins again the Queen City will develop a country-wide reputation for its possession of the genuine "Meine Host" of other days.

(By Staff Correspondent)

More than 2,100 men and women of Norristown, Pennsylvania, mostly bad men and bad women, have walked down the sawdust path to shake the hand of Dr. William E. Biederwolf, and publicly confess to him their penitence and their desire to lead a better life, during the five weeks he has been conducting revival services there, and more are to be added to the list before Dr. Biederwolf and his party come to Plainfield to undertake the awakening of this city.

Dr. Biederwolf finished his five weeks in Norristown last night, but Norristown refused to release him. He will stay another week. For several days those who have made up the thousands in his tabernacle every afternoon and evening have been sending in requests that the meetings continue, and last night, pastors of the city held a meeting in the ushers' room of the tabernacle. They urged that Dr. Biederwolf give up a week of his planned rest, and the evangelist consented. When he announced that the services were to continue, the frail frame structure almost shook with the vibration as the happy audience riotously voiced its joy.

In making this announcement, Dr. Biederwolf called attention to the fact that he was due in Plainfield on April 9. He said that members of his party had planned a two weeks' rest, but that they would give up half of this. However, they will have one week's vacation between Norristown and Plainfield, and the evangelist promised that all would be "fit" when they reach here.

The success of the Biederwolf campaign in Norristown can best be told in figures. During the five weeks he has held two meetings each day, except Mondays, with three meetings on two different Sundays. More than 150,000 people have attended, and this number does not include the attendance at cottage prayer meetings, special women's and children's meetings or shop meetings. The converts, including those of last night, total more than 2,100, and he was told before he went to Norristown that he could not persuade 100 to walk the sawdust path.

Norristown evidenced its approval of Biederwolf yesterday when it presented him with $3,600 as a free-will offering. Dr. Biederwolf takes only the money given him by the congregation. He sets aside the last day as that on which the offering shall come to him, and at the services of yesterday a little more than $3,000 was poured into the collection plates in expression of appreciation for his wonderful work.

Norristown has given freely since the services were started. Expenses of the iBederwolf campaign have totaled almost $7,000, and on the third Sunday is was announced that this amount had been received.

A. C. Estes, secretary of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A., and in charge of the coming Biederwolf campaign here next month, went to Norristown yesterday to be present at what had been intended as the final service, and he returned enthusiastic over the prospects for a gripping revival here. The big tabernacle was filled almost to capacity last night, and men and women sat, and even stood, in the aisles. One corner, several feet below other parts of the house, because of a hole on the lot, contained the only empty seats in the building. Mr. Estes was so impressed with the beauty of the big chorus choir that he will go to work today to impress upon Plainfielders that they have a serious task before them in striving to surpass Norristown in this; but he is confident that even the music here will be better than at any other Biederwolf meeting. Under the efficient leadership of William McEwan, "The World's Sweetest Gospel Singer," more than 600 men and women of Norristown have been drilled together until their singing is wonderful in tone and volume. In addition to the chorus, Mr. McEwan, or "Mac," adds to the program by rendering a solo at each meeting, and Dr. Biederwolf carries in his party the National Male Quartette, which is made up of four male voices, all soloists in their own range.

An idea of how Norristown views Dr. Biederwolf, after five weeks of intimacy, can be secured from the following vivid picture of the man by the Rev. S. W. Traum:

"Like Athena, one of the greater Olympian deities who was said to have sprung full-grown from the head of Jove, Dr. W. E. Biederwolf came to the people of Norristown

SELLER OF WHISKEY THE REAL OFFENDER

Judge DeMeza Releases Two Prisoners and Denounces Man Who Sold Them.

Oscar Waldron and Barney Tracey, both old offenders against the law prohibiting drunkenness in Plainfield, were arraigned in police court this morning. These men have been on the black list for some time and Judge De Meza, impressed with the pathetic features of the cases, forced them to tell where they bought whisky. Both men said that they had bought whisky from Latzo's place on Somerset street in the borough and that the fluid they drank cost fifty cents a quart. "I am sorry I haven't got Latzo here instead of you," said Judge De Meza in reviewing the case. "He is a menace to the morals of the community and is the real offender." The two men took a pledge for a year and it is believed that they will be able to keep it through assistance of police authorities. The Judge announced after court that he would personally protest against the granting of a new license to Latzo and would appear in court in Somerville whenever application for a renewal was made.

Dieterlen, a daughter, and $2,000 and one-third each to his two other children, Charles H. Porcher and Mrs. Ella L. Smith, the latter being the mother of Herbert Porcher Smith.

Mrs. Porcher, the widow, died on May 13, 1915, and the testator's estate, after her death amounted to exactly $9,512.87, which has been distributed.

BOTTLE CHARGE IS DISMISSED ON REQUEST

Frank Linke, local bottler, was arraigned in police court this morning as a result of a complaint made against him March 13 by an agent for the Feigenspan brewery, which charged that he had in possession several cases of bottles belonging to the Feigenspan Company. The brewery agent asked that the case be dismissed, as Mr. Linke has made restitution, returning several cases of bottles. Judge DeMeza dismissed the complaint, but warned Mr. Linke that if it was ever proven that he or any other bottlers in this city were using property of other people they would be dealt with severely.

SAY S. S. SUSSEX HAD NO WARNING

Sinking of French Vessel Causes Grave Concern.

FEAR FELT FOR AMERICANS

Several United States Citizens Are Among Missing and May Have Been Killed — Witnesses Claim to Have Seen Wake of Torpedo — May Hold Germany Responsible.

Washington, March 27.—Official reports to the state department showing that the French steamer Sussex, with twenty-five Americans aboard, was torpedoed without warning in the English channel have brought the United States to the verge of a rupture with Germany.

An official report from the United States ambassador, Mr. Page, at London, said that three Americans were severely wounded. They are Miss Elizabeth Baldwin of Baltimore, Wilder G. Penfield of Hudson, Wis.; a Rhodes scholar at Oxford, and George Herbert Crocker, Jr., of Fitchburg, Mass.

While there is not sufficient proof to establish that it was a German submarine that destroyed the Sussex, it is believed that Germany will be held accountable because her submarines have been operating in the English war zone.

Situation Critical.

All officials gravely admitted the crisis raised by this new submarine case to be the most acute since the Lusitania went down. A number of Americans have not been accounted for. There are grave fears that some of them were among the number killed when one of the six lifeboats capsized.

An extended report was received by the state department from Mr. Page at London. The Page report said the explosion occurred without warning. An earlier report from Mr. Page said the vessel was "reported torpedoed."

Mr. Sharp, the United States ambassador at Paris, transmitted the report of the American consul at Dieppe, which said the vessel was torpedoed. The ambassador said that one of the Americans, Samuel Bemis, a Harvard graduate, declared he had seen several persons killed by the explosion.

Saw Wake of Torpedo.

Mr. Bemis gave out a statement in Paris saying he had seen the wake of a torpedo. The state department would make no reference to this. This testimony of Mr. Bemis and other passengers to the same effect has gone far to establish proof that the Sussex was torpedoed.

Mr. Page sent to the state department affidavits by Francis E. Drake and Edward S. Huxley of New York giving complete details of the Sussex explosion.

Mr. Sharp said the American consular agent at Dieppe reported that there were 386 passengers and fifty-five of the crew on the Sussex. The consular agent telegraphed Mr. Sharpe later that 250 passengers had been landed and that he understood that sixty or eighty passengers had been killed by the explosion.

The state department had no additional advices on the sinking of the Dominion line steamship Englishman, which was reported torpedoed off the British coast with the probable loss of four American lives.

All dispatches from the embassies in Paris and London bearing on the Sussex case were sent immediately to the White House and to Mr. Lansing's home.

Sure It Was Torpedo.

Paris March 27.—The great majority of the survivors of the Sussex, both Americans and those of other nationalities, who have reached France assert that the vessel was torpedoed and that there is no question of any warning having been given. None of them saw a mine or any indications of one, whereas the greater part of those whose stories have been obtained assert that they saw the wake of a torpedo.

Count B., a Belgian officer, who was on the Sussex, says that the reason a periscope was not observed was that near the Sussex was a merchantman which bore on her hull the name Nieuport XIX. He said this vessel approached the Sussex and screened the submarine as soon as the explosion occurred. According to this account, the Nieuport XIX., a Belgian steamer seized by the Germans, sailed away without lending aid.

The total number of victims is still unknown. It is estimated variously at fifty to eighty.

Seek Professor Baldwin.

Donald Harper, an American lawyer in Paris and a member of the firm of Boardman & Platt of New York, who has represented Professor J. Mark Baldwin as legal counsel, has sent a man to Boulogne to establish the fate if possible of Professor Baldwin and the members of his family or to identify the bodies eventually.

No news has been received from either Professor Baldwin, his wife or daughter at the Baldwin home here, where the maid in charge had received many inquiries, but was not able to give any information as to what had happened to them.

Marius de Brabant, general agent of the San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railway company at New York, who is now in Paris, says that Joshua D. Armitage of the firm of Taylor, Armitage & Co., of New York, was surely on the Sussex. No word has been received of Mr. Armitage, but it is considered possible that he may be among the injured.

Embassy Continues Inquiry.

The American ambassador, Mr. Sharp, and the attaches of the embassy were busy directing the search for the missing Americans, getting evidence from the consular agents at Dieppe, Folkestone and Boulogne and taking the depositions of survivors who have arrived in Paris. The facts gathered officially thus far are chiefly from Americans, but it is understood that the inquiry will go further. Naval Lieutenant Smith and Captain Boyd, attaches of the embassy, are in Boulogne investigating the case and giving needed relief to the American survivors, who are still there.

Ambassador Sharp is going into the case thoroughly and systematically and will put the state department at Washington in possession of all material facts as soon as possible. It is expected that all the depositions, reports and other evidence will be in shape to go forward by the first outgoing steamer.

DEDICATE REREDOS AND CHURCH ALTAR

Impressive Services in Recognition of Memorials Given by Mr. and Mrs. A. Cox.

St. Stephen's church, Netherwood, was filled yesterday morning for the special service of dedication of the reredos and completed altar that was given by Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Cox, in memory of their infant daughter, and marks the third notable gift to the parish within a year. The first was the purchasing of the outstanding stock of the old corporation that owned the church, so that St. Stephen's could become at last a church and parish, followed by the wonderful Tiffany window of the Sea of Galilee, and now another Tiffany masterpiece to complete the sanctuary to a unique and perfect setting of dignity and worth.

The designer, after many competitive plans and sketches were submitted by the notable church designers of Manhattan, has very carefully worked out a Gothic motive and suggestion, yet blended and combined with the design of the rest of the church. It is of heavy oak all hand tooled and carved with a solid retable and complete tabernacle, so proportioned to give new emphasis both to the altar and the window above.

After the choir entry, and a suitable Psalm read by the rector and the congregation, the curtain before the sanctuary fell to reveal the altar and the reredos, with its lights and lilies and the new festal altar cloth, made by St. Hilda's Guild, of New York, the special gift of Mrs. Charles L. Petze. With special prayers and collects, the altar, reredos and the altar hangings were dedicated with reverent and impressive ceremony.

The sermon by the rector was from the 84th Psalm, "Who going through the vale of misery use it for a well," on the mystery of pain and sadness, and how to be met and used for the service of others, the enrichment and growth of our own spiritual life, and for the glory of God.

A contralto solo by Mrs. Robert L. Hecht completed an impressive service that all who heard will long remember as marking a further step forward in the development and growth of this unique parish.

RUSSIA WINS, BUT NOT IN FAIR FIGHT

Argument Over War Ends in Recorder's Court of Dunellen.

A dispute over which group of the contending European powers is going to win the war culminated in Harry Grosick, of 212 Plainfield avenue, Plainfield, being arraigned before Recorder David S. Campbell in the Dunellen court, Saturday afternoon, on a charge of assault and battery preferred by Frank Gurskiy, an Austrian, of Terrell road, Fanwood township. The court found Grosick guilty and sent him to New Brunswick in default of $500 bail, to await action by the Grand Jury.

Grosick and Gurskiy both work at the Hall Press Works. All day Friday the two had been arguing at intervals upon the aforesaid subject. Gurskiy drew his conclusions better than Grosick, and after the final verbal clash at the close of the day, he was pronounced the winner by those who had been attentive listeners. This angered Grosick, and as he was leaving the shop he put a blunt steel instrument in his pocket.

Gurskiy, who was the first to leave the shop, was standing at the corner of Chestnut street and Bound Brook road, waiting for the 7:30 trolley, when Grosick stalked up behind him and struck him on top of the head with the blunt instrument, and as Gurskiy turned, Grosick struck him another blow in the ribs.

Gurskiy staggered and would have fallen if John Crampe, another employe of the Hall concern, who resides at 840 East Second street, Plainfield, had not caught him. He assisted the wounded man to the borough jail, where a warrant was sworn out for the arrest of the assailant.

With Crampe to identify the man, Marshals Mohan and Tarpey left the hall just in time to catch the 7:30 car. To guard against the escape of the man in the event of his being on the car, Marshal Tarpey boarded the front platform and Marshal Mohan and Crampe the rear. He was arrested.

Upon his assailant being locked up, Gurskiy, whose wounded head was bleeding profusely, was assisted to the office of Dr. Longbothum, where the wound was dressed. Later he was able to proceed home alone.

TELLS OF SUSPICIONS IN PECK MURDER CASE

Arthur Swinton, a nephew of Dr. Jacob B. Cornell, of Somerville, in discussing the case of Dr. Arthur W. Waite, who is being held on a charge of causing the death of his father-in-law, John E. Peck, told of his suspicions of the dentist after Mrs. Waite had died. He said that he knew Dr. Waite and met him on several occasions.

"I am positive that Mr. Peck did not kill himself," said Mr. Swinton. "The idea is absurd. He had everything to live for. He loved his daughter and had plenty of money and for an old man, his health was good.

"In my opinion Mr. Peck was murdered in cold blood and it seems to me that the evidence points very clearly to the man who murdered him."

KANSAS HAS "DRESS UP" WEEK.

Topeka, Kan., March 27.—Kansas people are always ready for the big new idea. The very latest is the decree that this week is to be "Dress Up" week throughout the state, during which time whiskers are to be trimmed of their winter's growth, bright spring neckties are to flash forth and brand new suits of clothes, with razor-edge trousers, are to supplant the vintage of 1915. The new idea was wished onto Kansas by the retail clothing dealers, who met in February and planned to hold a "Dress Up" week once a year. The clothiers promise to have all Kansans in brand new raiment before the week is over, regardless of politics and the worry over gasoline prices.

THREW A LIGHTED LAMP AT KELLY

Peter Didn't Take a Good Look, and Hard Luck Overtook Him.

Peter Schmansky failed to take a good look at the man who came into his house Saturday night when Peter's wife was screaming for help, and he threw a lighted lamp at the intruder on his domestic rehearsal of the European struggle. As a result Peter suddenly met with a sudden streak of hard luck, for it was Patrolman John Kelly who had answered the woman's call. Peter is just an ordinary man and when he attacked big John Kelly there followed—deleted by censor—after which a humble and penitent Peter was taken to the police station. This morning he admitted to Judge De Meza that he was guilty of being drunk but denied that he had whipped his wife Saturday night. The wife begged that he be released. Judge De Meza put Peter on the black list in both Plainfield and North Plainfield, hung a fine of $100 and a sentence of 59 days in the county jail to guarantee decent treatment to his wife, warned him what would happen in case he was guilty of the offense again, and sent him home to ponder on the strength of the law.

DAILY PRESS SERVICE BEST IN THIS SECTION

Thousands of Plainfielders and many out-of-town visitors took advantage of the Plainfield Daily Press' service in reporting in detail the Willard-Moran fight at Madison Square Garden, Saturday night. Nearly two thousand people crowded North avenue from curb to curb in the vicinity of the Daily Press office, this number being greater than any ever brought together for an athletic event in this section before. This throng was only a minor portion of the total that enjoyed the Daily Press service, however, for this newspaper ran a direct wire to the Elks' home on Watchung avenue, where several hundred more enthusiastic fans heard the details by megaphone. Similar service was supplied by the Daily Press to the Columbus Club, Hotel Kensington and the Washington School, the activities of the Recreation Committee being in progress at the latter place.

For more than two hours after the last blow had been delivered, telephone calls continued to stream into the Press office, over 200 inquiries being answered. These came from all parts of the city and all surrounding suburbs.

The ticker in the Daily Press office reported the fight in detail, describing every punch delivered by the two fighters during the ten rounds. These were in turn megaphoned to the huge street crowd.

EXECUTOR GETS $40,000 FEE IN TWO MILLION DILLON ESTATE

Somerville, March 27.—What is said to be the largest fee ever allowed an executive in the Somerset Orphan's Court was that of $40,000 ordered paid by Judge Daniel H. Beekman to George S. Clay, of Plainfield, executor of the $2,000,000 personal estate of the late Judge John F. Dillon, of Far Hills. The fee was only half of the amount to which Mr. Clay was entitled by law. He had been associated with Judge Dillon in law practice for many years, and would not consent to take the full fee.

Hiram D. Dillon, the only surviving son of the testator, put in a claim of $2,000 for his part in settling the estate. After disposing of numerous bequests there still remains of the personal property a trust account of $1,355,186.06.

The fine estate, with its forty-room mansion, which Judge Dillon maintained at Far Hills for more than a quarter of a century, and on which he is reported to have spent $500,000, remains unsold and did not enter into the accounting made before the court Friday.

SEPTUAGENARIANS IN DOUBLE CELEBRATION

Rev. Dr. J. C. Buchanan and William H. Bishop Observing 75th Natal Day.

According to their annual custom Rev. Dr. J. C. Buchanan, father of Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, of the borough, and William H. Bishop, of Pemberton, are today quietly celebrating the seventy-fifth anniversary of their respective birthdays. Each one was born on March 27, 1841 and since they learned the fact they have always spent the natal event together, passing the hours in reminescent conversation. Both celebrants will be the guests of honor at a family dinner given by Dr. and Mrs. J. Hervey Buchanan tonight, Mrs. J. C. Buchanan being one of the gathering. Neighbors and friends of the two septuagenarians have remembered them with floral tokens, and messages of congratulation.

The Rev. Dr. Buchanan is well known and highly respected in this section of the State. He was born at Ringoes, near Flemington, and when eight years of age moved with his parents to the old homestead of his mother's folks, near Clinton, which his father purchased. He attended the public school in the Sidney district and was teacher of the same school when he was but fifteen years old. The Rev. Dr. Buchanan's wife, who was Miss Hannah Rae, of Quaker parentage, attended the same school and their marriage September 18, 1856, was the culmination of a school day romance.

The Rev. Dr. Buchanan graduated from Colgate University at Hamilton, N. Y. His first charge was the Scotch Plains Baptist church, of which he became pastor in 1867, where he continued until 1878. In 1878 he assumed the pulpit of the Baptist church at Pemberton, where he remained until he retired in 1906. It was while in charge of the church at Pemberton that Dr. Buchanan became acquainted with his friend, who is his guest today.

The Rev. Dr. Buchanan was pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church when the present handsome church edifice was built, and it was largely due to his planning and efforts that the new building became a reality. He was pastor of the church for four years before the new structure was erected.

During his ministry Dr. Buchanan was for many years secretary of the Baptist State Convention, and remembers many of the old Baptist pastors prominent throughout the State. He was at one time first vice-president of the corporation of Peddie Institute.

William H. Bishop, who is celebrating his natal day with Dr. Buchanan today, is a well known and respected citizen and business man of Pemberton. He is proprietor of a large general merchandise store, and is also president of the Union Bank of Mt. Holly.

The Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Buchanan have only one child, Dr. J Hervey Buchanan, with whom they live

GERMAN MISSIONARY GIVEN AN INTERESTING LECTURE

Rev. Gottlieb Daueble, pastor of St. Peter's Evangelical church, delivered a lecture in the German Reformed church last night, describing the wonderful religious and physical development of Totoland under German rule since 1884. He expressed his regrets that much of that work is going to be retarded by the war, which has largely undermined the faith of the natives.

Mr. Daueble was a missionary in Africa for twenty years. He has been in this country since 1894, in August of which year the boat on which he was returning from Africa to Germany was ordered to put into the nearest port. The boat made for Brazil. After reaching this country he decided to remain here until after the war.

U. S. GOVERNMENT HEARING ON C. R. R. SPAN SET FOR APRIL 19

Jersey City, March 27.—Corporation Counsel John Milton will represent this city at a hearing to be held in the custom house, New York, on April 19, about the proposed reconstruction of the Central Railroad bridge over Newark Bay, between Bayonne and Elizabeth. The City Commissioners received a notice of the hearing from the War Department today.

At present the local officials will probably favor whatever recommendation is made by the State Department of Commerce and Navigation. The old New Jersey Harbor Commission last summer filed a report showing that the present bridge should be removed because it dams the ice in winter and retards bay traffic.

Before declaring an official attitude the State Department of Commerce and Navigation will hear the report of its committee on rivers and navigation. Richard C. Jenkinson, William L. Saunders and Allen K. White, members of this committee, are now preparing a report to be submitted at a meeting in Trenton on April 19, two days before the government hearing.

MR. AND MRS. REED RETURN.

Corporation Counsel and Mrs. Charles A. Reed, of Woodland avenue, returned Saturday from Aiken, South Carolina, where they have been spending the past two months.

Do You Want a "Guest-Tenant?"

When you rent a room of your home to someone, you secure a "guest-tenant." Your "roomer" is a guest of your house, on a business basis—but still a guest, somewhat in touch with your home, and this makes it highly important that the person should be of the right sort.

In advertising a furnished room it is a simple matter to indicate that the tenant-to-be must have reasonably convincing credentials as to character. You will thus have applications from a desirable class of people while a door sign or window card would merely bring to you the chance passer-by.

RECORD ATTACKS PUBLIC UTILITIES

Declares That They Will Charge a Million Too Much for Gas.

SEEKS INVESTIGATION

Gubernatorial Aspirant Says That Control of New Jersey Politics by Utility Corporations Costs People Millions.

George L. Record, Candidate for Republican Nomination for Governor of New Jersey.

George L. Record, who has announced himself as a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination on the Republican ticket, in a statement today attacks the public utility corporations, declaring that he proposes to show how the control of New Jersey politics by them maintains a bipartisan boss system costing the people of the State millions of dollars annually.

He says that, in spite of the reduction of gas to 90 cents, which was secured by him in his two-year legal battle as special counsel for the city of Passaic, the Public Service Gas Company still collect from Northern New Jersey gas consumers $1,000,000 annually in excess of a proper earning on actual investment.

Mr. Record gives the figures in the gas case as a clear indication to him that regulation of privately-owned electric light, gas and trolley companies is a failure. He asserts that it was proven during his conduct of the cheaper gas campaign that, while the Public Service Corporation had invested $3,200,000 in gas plants and equipment, that corporation had issued securities to the amount of $9,000,000—or $5,800,000 of water. The best that could be done under present laws and by regulation was to get a reduction of 10 cents per thousand feet in the gas rate.

Mr. Record says that few people realize the enormous stake of public utility corporations in controlling politics so that their power to exact excessive rates may not be disturbed. He declares that the only way to drive them out of politics and break the hold of the public utility-brewery interests on the State is to elect a Governor and a Legislature pledged to enact a law that will give New Jersey complete self-government; that will give to every municipality local option on public ownership of gas and electric light plants, on questions of taxation and on saloons.

Mr. Record's statement follows:

"In my previous statement I showed how the local option bills in New Jersey are defeated in our Legislature each winter by the influence of the political bosses, who are the direct representatives of the public utility corporations, as well as the brewers; that the two interests work together, and to beat either we must beat both.

"I now propose to show how the control of New Jersey politics by the public utility corporations maintains our bi-partisan Boss System and costs our people millions of dollars annually in excessive rates for trolley, gas, electric and telephone service; that all attempts at regulation have completely failed, and that the only cure for these evils is public ownership.

"These public utility and brewing interests are our real government—they are the 'man behind the boss'—the 'invisible government'—the 'man higher up'—the Republican 'Board of Guardians'—the Democratic 'overlords.'

"This system threatens the very existence of the Republic. It is a political cancer which, if not cut out, will eat into the very vitals of free government. It can only be cured by removing through public ownership and local option the incentive which keeps these utility corporations and brewers in politics.

"If I am elected Governor of New Jersey I will do my utmost to destroy this system and drive the public service corporations and the brewers out of the politics of this State.

"But a still bigger task remains to be done in this State. That task is to actually reduce the cost of living, to increase the number of jobs, to furnish employment to the unemployed, to take the unjust burdens off of industry and business, and make it easier to do business and get a home in New Jersey. I propose to tell how this can be accomplished in another statement."

LARGE CONGREGATIONS GREET DR. MITCHELL

Former Local Pastor Preaches in Local M. E. Churches on Visit to City.

Rev. Dr. Charles L. Mitchell, former pastor of the First M. E. church, this city, but now with St. James' M. E. church, Chicago, one of the largest in the Western city, visited Plainfield yesterday, where he preached three times and was greeted by large congregations at each service. He occupied the pulpit of the First church in the morning, addressed the Sunday-school of Monroe avenue church in the afternoon and in the evening, preached at Grace church, in the borough.

Dr. Mitchell's sermon in the morning was based on the Scripture text, "I came not to send peace, but a sword." In the course of his remarks he made reference to the European conflict, which he declared was a wicked war. He said a half-dozen men whom he could name were responsible for the awful slaughter, and they could have just as easily prevented the war. In the application of his text, he said that the man who does wrong usually gets the sword.

Addressing the Sunday-school of Monroe avenue church in the afternoon, Dr. Mitchell exhorted the boys and men to have a definite aim and purpose in life and not allow themselves to drift about any old way. He presented a number of timely illustrations which impressed his large audience.

In his discourse at Grace church last night, Dr. Mitchell emphasized the importance of a person working out their own salvation and not depend on heredity and environment. "Every man must be responsible for his own actions and he cannot depend upon someone else for his salvation or future welfare." Throughout his sermon, Dr. Mitchell gave a number of apt illustrations.

Where Gannets Swarm.

One of the most remarkable sights in the world is Bird Island, in South Africa, for the reason that during some months of the year it is literally covered with gannets. Not a foot of ground is to be seen anywhere. Day after day thousands of gannets strut around, and they are so close to each other that the whole island seems actually alive. Those who have seen this sight say that it is one which can never be forgotten.

BAUER CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY CLERK

Makes Formal Announcement Today Setting Forth His Qualifications for Office.

Edward C. Bauer, of Elizabeth, today formally announced himself as a candidate for county clerk on the Republican ticket. His statement follows:

E. L. Bauer.

"In order to make my position clear, and in answer to the inquiries of my friends, I wish to announce through the columns of your paper that I have decided to be a candidate for the nomination of county clerk at the primary election in September. And if I am successful in securing the nomination and election, I feel that the experience and training I have received as clerk of the District Court and deputy register will enable me to render the kind of service to the people of this county which they have a right to expect from public officials."

With the entry of Edward Bauer, the deputy register of Union county in the list of those who aspire for the Republication nomination for county clerk, there appears a very formidable factor in this contest. Mr. Bauer brings into the arena the advantage of long experience and particular training in the work which is called for in the office of county clerk, and wide circle of friends and acquaintances.

The deputy register was born in the city of Elizabeth in 1874. He was graduated from Public School No. 1, of that city, attended Battin High School and took a course in Coleman's Business College. Here he gathered a knowledge of bookkeeping and accounting which will serve him in good stead if his ambition to become the next county clerk meets with success. He served an apprenticeship in the Singer Sewing Machine Factory, where he was employed for ten years.

In 1904 Mr. Bauer was appointed clerk of the Elizabeth District Court by Judge Edward S. Atwater. He remained in this office for five years, being then appointed deputy register of Union county, which post he has held since 1909. In politics he has always been a Republican. For sixteen years he was a member of the Union County Republican Committee and also a member of the Republican City Central Committee. He was secretary of this committee for four years, succeeding the late J. Smylie Tucker.

He is identified with a number of societies, being a member of Tyrian Lodge, No. 134, F. and A. M.; Elizabeth Council, No. 184, Jr. O. U. A. M.; Elizabeth Lodge, No 284, Benevolent Protective Order of Elks; the Elizabeth Young Men's Christian Association, Tall Cedars of Lebanon, is a director in the Excelsior Building and Loan Association and an auditor of the Rail and Harbor Building and Loan Association, and a member of the El Mora Improvement Association. The experience of Mr. Bauer, as a former clerk in the Elizabeth District Court, and as present deputy register, both combine to give him an equipment of knowledge which is needed in the new office which he seeks.

The register's office of Union county, in which Mr. Bauer has been deputy for about seven years, is looked upon by lawyers, whose work brings them there as a model of its kind. It is regarded as inferior to none in the State of New Jersey. It has included in its service the latest and most approved methods of keeping up the records of deeds; mortgages, conveyances of various kinds and their indices, and in the installation of these Mr. Bauer has been identified.

BIG GUNS BUSY AT VERDUN.

French Await Infantry Attack After Steady Bombardment.

Paris, March 27.—The intensely violent German bombardment of the French lines on the west bank of the Meuse, particularly in the vicinity of the village and wood of Malancourt, continued, but no infantry attack has yet been made, although the bombardment of this sector has been kept up two days without cessation.

Esnes and Hill 304 were included in the zone of especially heavy fire. So sustained has been the cannonade directed against the French positions in this sector that it is assumed that another infantry attack is contemplated.

WOMEN FIGURE IN PECK POISON CASE

Two Friends of Waite Are Put on Grill.

New York, March 27.—Despite repeated assurances from the district attorney's office that the case against Dr. Arthur Warren Waite, charged with killing his father-in-law, John E. Peck, by poisoning, is practically ready to present to the grand jury, Assistant District Attorney Dooling and others working on the case are spending hour after hour hammering questions at one or the other or both of the two women whose names have been drawn into the case.

Mrs. Harry W. Horton, the "Mrs. Warren Walters" who visited the room at the Plaza hotel rented by Waite for a studio, was subjected to a lengthy grilling. Mrs. Dorothy May Palmenberg underwent the same ordeal. The latter is a close friend of Mrs. Horton. It was to her home in West Seventy-second street that Waite telephoned when, shadowed by detectives, he arrived in New York from Grand Rapids a week ago.

What the significance of this unusual activity on the part of the state really is no one can learn. District Attorney Swann said that it was merely "to make assurance doubly sure." His assistants confess that they have "heard of everything Waite did since the day of his marriage," yet detectives and witnesses come to the district attorney's office for long sessions.

Mr. Sayre, the father, arrived and was permitted to see the little stranger and her mother.

The president and Mrs. Wilson wired their congratulations. It is expected that Mr. Wilson will make a visit here this week to see his daughter and his granddaughter. The child has been named Eleanor Axson, in honor of President Wilson's first wife.

URGES EVERYONE TO QUICKLY GET ON WATER WAGON

Drink glass of hot water before breakfast to wash out poisons.

To see the tinge of healthy bloom in your face, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, to wake up without a headache, backache, coated tongue or a nasty breath, in fact to feel your best, day in and day out, just try inside-bathing every morning for one week. Before breakfast each day, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it as a harmless means of washing from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast.

A quarter pound limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the blood and internal organs. Those who are subject to constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, rheumatic twinges, also those whose skin is sallow and complexion pallid, are assured that one week of inside bathing will have them both looking and feeling better in every way.—Adv.

This Book of Books

This Bible—this miraculous Bible—this Book of All Books—luminous with the light that dwelleth not on land or sea—this noblest and most beautiful Thing in all the world—what is it—whence cometh it—what means it?

It has made and unmade Nations. It has uprooted Kingdoms and Empires. It has diverted the mighty tides of History. It has crumpled ancient Faiths and Superstitions. Because of it fell Pagan Rome. The antique Systems of India and the Far East have bowed their heads to its enlightened sway.

China and the Orient now first awaken from their sleep of thrice a thousand years, and follow their sister nations of the Occident—whose feet are guided by one sole lamp—the sacred flame of which was kindled by the inspired Hebrew Prophets, and fed for all time by the Lord and Master of the Golden Rule.

Only ignorance scoffs at the Bible! The greatest rulers—the greatest statesmen—the greatest scholars—writers—orators—scientists—soldiers—and the untold millions of the Common People, whose collective genius outweighs them all—have thrilled to its Divine Wisdom.

Its lyrics of unfathomable tenderness—its orations of compelling potency—its contemplative prose of preternatural grandeur—have never been equalled. Its emotional depths and its intellectual heights make it the one and only Book of Books, vouchsafed for the guidance of mankind throughout the ages.

YOUTH AND THE FLAG.

Perhaps the greatest travesty on American justice of the past decade is reported from Des Moines, where a municipal judge sentenced a eleven-year-old boy to nine years' imprisonment in a reformatory because he refused to salute the American flag. The boy was American by birth, his parents having been descendants of a race of people brought to this country forcibly and sold as slaves under laws then existing. He did not love the flag, he said, and did not respect it. Of course his reasons were childish. They are not even reported, but no juvenile brain could be expected to find a logical reason for refusing to salute the flag of his country. But the learned judge should have cited some example before the boy to foster patriotism. He was not lacking in independence. That much is shown in his refusal to obey a demand to salute what to him was a myth, and the spectacle of a mere babe being severely punished for an act of independence in a country that boasts this as the cornerstone of its building is one that would cause older and more thoughtful persons to lay themselves liable for similar punishment if the Des Moines judge could be taken as a fair representative of our law. Where is the American youth to learn respect for his flag? Not from a crowd of his elders who sit lazily in their seats at a public gathering when the "Star Spangled Banner" is being played or sung; not from those who jeer at a uniformed soldier of the government when he salutes the Red, White and Blue that means country, honor and all else to him, as he passes it waving over a Federal building. This judge had better have sentenced teachers of the boy who had failed to make him understand all that the flag stood for. It would have been more in keeping with his oath of office and the principles for which other men have died that the flag may wave.

COLONEL CAN QUOTE HIMSELF.

In speaking of the return of Colonel Roosevelt the Paterson Call points out that policies of the Colonel toward Mexico are in a fair way to be vindicated by events transpiring during his absence. The Call says:

"If, however, he is still regarded as too energetic, he remains consistent, and is able to quote himself in regard to Mexican affairs, at least. To be quotable by others is a great honor; to be able to quote oneself is a rarer gift."

Many New Jersey youths will attend this year's training camp for prospective officers at Plattsburg or at Chattanooga, Tenn. Henry P. Fry, a Newark attorney, who is receiving applications for the Chattanooga camp, has received almost a hundred already and most of them are from young men representing the best families in the State. These training camps undertake to give in four months sufficient military knowledge to qualify a green man for a commission in case of volunteer service and the month spent will prove a wonderful investment for all who attend. The plan carries preparedness to the individual, which is the proper solution in a democratic country.

According to the most reliable correspondents at the front Villa's "army" is down to a force of less than 300 half-starved, ragged, mutinous men, and instead of showing fight the Mexican bandit is racing for his mountain hiding place. This should make all America breathe easier, but the threatened revolt of Carranza troops has brought home to every citizen the inability of our "pathetic little army" to protect even a small part of the country. Will we prepare now, or wait for another invasion?

Mayor "Bill" Smalley's plan to advertise the borough by flashing weather signals to all residents there and in Plainfield through a big searchlight on top of the Somerset School is worthy of success. This is a publicity proposition that is founded on service, as all advertising that wins should and must be, and the project is one that should not be treated too lightly by boroughites or Plainfielders.

NATIONAL GUARD NOTES

It was rumored among the local guardsmen this week that the First Field Hospital Company, Major Harold Corbusier commanding, was liable to be called out for service in Mexico in a short time. Major Corbusier, when questioned about the matter, stated that he had no intimation of such action. The rumor, it is believed, started over a visit of Lieutenant-Colonel William G. Schauffler, surgeon-general of the Medical Corps, to the armory on Tuesday. At this time he made an inspection of the equipment of the organization, but nothing was said concerning the hospital company being ordered out for service. In case the situation becomes more serious in Mexico there is every possibility that the company will be called out. There are but seven such organizations in the Regular Army. The First Field Hospital Company is in excellent shape, and has practically all the equipment necessary for immediate service.

QUITS STAGE TO TRY HAND AT POLITICS

Love of justice has triumphed over love of art in the case of Grace Isabel Colbron, who has given up the theater to lecture for single tax.

Miss Colbron made a name for herself as a member of Donald Robertson's company and of the Ben Greet players. She is even better known as a play writer and the translator of foreign plays.

"Some people tell me I am turning back on a brilliant career," says Miss Colbron, "but I doubt it. I believe that we 'just can't help doing' the thing that we do best. I can't help talking about the boundless opportunities, the potential greatness, happiness and equality of our country that, at present, are locked up in a monopolistic land system, which makes millionaires and paupers."

Born of a wealthy New York family, Miss Colbron's early life gave her no sympathy with the struggle of downtrodden classes. Later a reverse in the family fortunes threw her on her own resources. As a member of Berlin's Bohemia, she saw what it meant to be compelled to earn one's living "under a system where the industrious must support both themselves and the idle."

On her return to America she established a reputation as a speaker on economic questions, being chosen to debate Prof. S. R. A. Seligman of Columbia university on the merits of the Herrick-Schaap bill, a modified single tax measure.

MUST COOL MILK BEFORE DELIVERY

State Department of Health Adopts New Rule Which is Effective on May 1.

Trenton, March 27.—According to information obtained from the State Department of Health, the Department adopted a rule at its meeting last week to the effect that all milk delivered by producers at creameries or milk shipping stations shall have been cooled before delivery to a temperature of 60° F. or below. This rule is to take effect on May 1, 1916.

It was also determined by the Department that notice regarding said rule be sent to all creamerymen and other handlers of milk, that they be further notified that this matter will be covered by the new State sanitary code, and that ultimately a lower temperature may be required. Circulars giving the necessary information concerning this point are to be printed and will be available for anyone interested.

This action is an attempt to regulate one of the most difficult phases of milk handling. It is essential in order to keep milk in good condition that a low temperature be maintained to prevent bacterial growth. No matter how much care is exercised in the production of milk, unless it is kept at a low temperature it deteriorates rapidly.

While the present rule applies only to the temperature of milk at the time of its delivery to the creameries or milk shipping stations, it is expected that a standard for the temperature of milk at the time of delivery to consumers will be adopted as soon as the State Department of Health can complete its arrangements for enforcing such rule.

ASTOR THEATRE

The star attraction at the Astor Theatre today and tomorrow will be Theodore Roberts in "Mr. Grex of Monte Carlo," a Paramount feature picture in five big acts, showing the wonderful scenes in and around the world-famous gambling resort, Monte Carlo. In this wonderful Paramount production, Theodore Roberts is seen to good effect, the picture being taken from the book of E. Phillips Oppenheim. The added attraction for these two days will be the picturing on the screen of the "Better Babies." This is one of the most unique pieces of motion picture photography that has ever been accomplished. In the earliest release where the subject of "Bathing the Child" is treated, the child, but four months old, is the center of attraction. The babe wakes in the morning and cries to the nurse, "I want my bath"; and the maid makes ready necessities. As the nurse is about to take the child from the crib it appears to cry "Don't take me by the arms," and she lifts it with care. When they reach the tub, the child seems to say, "The water should be 78 degrees warm." The different phases of the care and up-bringing of the child are pictured in succeeding releases, including the feeding and dressing of the child and mental tests for children. There is always a good instructive program shown here for young and old.

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME—

- Proctor's Theatre -

At Proctor's Today.

A glance at the galaxy of stars and attractions appearing at Proctor's this week will convince even the most skeptical that nowhere in this vicinity can one find such a wonderful array of talented artists appearing on one week's program. For instance, today two of the most prominent emotional stars, George Beban and Sarah Bernhardt, appear in two separate dramatic productions, the former in "The Pawn of Fate," a story that is intensely convincing and gives Mr. Beban plenty of scope to utilize his remarkable emotional talents. The fame of Sarah Bernhardt as an emotional actress is so world-wide that it would be but folly to emphasize her talents here. The feature in which she appears as the star is "Jeanne D'Ore," one of the best-known dramatic novelizations that fairly abounds in vital situations. Other prominent stars who will be seen this week at Proctor's are DeWolf Hopper, Nance O'Neil, Francis X. Bushman, Audrey Munson, Henry Walthall, Pearl White, Beverly Bayne, Harry Watson, Ford Sterling and Bessie Barriscale, an eminent array, indeed, all of whom occupy prominent niches in the Hall of Fame. Tomorrow, De Wolf Hopper, a star who is supreme in comedy-drama, will appear for the first time in a screen production. After a zealous search, the Triangle Company selected "Don Quixote," one of the world-famous classics that has amused and entertained for generations, as the vehicle for Mr. Hopper to make his debut in on the silent stage. In connection with "Don Quixote" tomorrow, Ford Sterling, the inimitable Keystone comedian, will appear in a hilarious carnival of fun, called "His Pride and Shame," while Henry Walthall and Edna Mayo will also be seen in the fourth episode of "Mary Page." On Friday an extraordinary attraction will be the appearance of Audrey Munson, the world's most famous art model, upon the screen in "Inspiration," one of the greatest classics ever presented upon the screen.

∴ Plainfield Theatre ∴

"The Princess Pat," Henry Blossom's and Victor Herbert's latest decisive musical success, is to be presented at the Plainfield Theatre, Wednesday, matinee and night.

All through the operetta there is a pungent atmosphere of holiday, melody and fun, the love interest including a flirtation between a pretty young wife, "The Princess Pat," and a gay old boy, Anthony Schmalz, the intrigue being a condonable effort on the part of the Princess Pat to prevent her friend Grace Holbrook from being married to the "old boy," and at the same time to bring her husband to her feet again by arousing his jealousy. Out of this situation the comedy runs through the entire operetta in polite and characteristic humor, which belongs to the environment, and the story evolved by Henry Blossom. Two of the scenes in "The Princess Pat" take place in a fashionable country home on Long Island, and the third in the smoking room of the Westmoreland Hunt Club. Mr. Herbert has provided a score of pleasant melodies, the real lyrics being "Love is Best of All," "Make Him Guess," "For Better or For Worse," and "Two Laughing Eyes." The operetta which will be presented here under the direction of John Cort, will have the following excellent cast: Ruth Welsh, Georgio Sregario, Effie Toye, Philip H. Ryley, Earl Benham, Paul Nicholson, Tote Marke, Edward Metcalf, Francis Bryan, Ben Hendricks and Henry Vincent. There will be a beauty chorus that can sing, and an augmented Herbert orchestra.

One of the fashion plate ensembles in the new Victor Herbert comic opera success, "The Princess Pat," coming to the Plainfield Theatre, Wednesday, March 29, matinee and night.

Often Got In the Path of Ocean Steamers.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How Icebergs Drift Into the Path of Ships.

"THIS is such a freezing cold night," daddy began the bedtime story for Jack and Evelyn, "that I feel just like telling you about icebergs."

"Oh, daddy, what fun you are!" cried the children.

"The point that all children should always remember about icebergs is that they form on land. Way far up in the north country, where Mother Nature snows and freezes most all the time, great pieces of ice break off from mountain sides and go creeping along down till they pick up chunks of earth, sticks and other dirt. When they get huge enough these bodies of creeping ice are called glaciers. Then fogs settle on them and freeze. Rains and snows settle on them and freeze till by and by spring thaws come and wash along the glacier till it finally tumbles off into the sea. Then the waves and the tides take it and have great sport with it.

"Out in the ocean it takes only a few hours for Jack Frost to put half an inch of ice coating on the spars and rigging of a ship. So, drifting about in the freezing northern oceans, it takes only a few years for this broken off bit of ice to become a berg 1,000 feet thick and always about eight times deeper than it looks on top of the water. Even in northlands the sun shines a few hours in good weather. So the top of an iceberg is quite often apt to be flat like a table, but some of them are peaked because the sun has worn them.

"Well, as the tides bring these huge monsters of the northland down, down toward the south they melt, break up into huge pieces and drift along like pirates in the mists that rise from their reeking sides. They are pirates of the most dangerous kind, because, while like the foam and spray of the ocean, almost concealed in bulk under the waves, they often get in the path of ocean steamers. Even a good captain has to be very skillful in order to see these enemies, especially at night, when they look like white clouds. Before he knows it sometimes his ship, full of men and women, little children and valuable cargoes, is right upon an iceberg. Then the cruel corners of ice jam holes right through the ship's bottom, and many wonderful vessels have lost their lives by these sea mountains that drift along so slyly and so fatally."

"Are there any icebergs out bumping into ships tonight, daddy?" Jack wanted to know.

"Later in the year, when they begin to melt and break up and drift south, is the most dangerous time for steamers. Now, icebergs are mostly large enough to be seen and are more apt to drift in ice islands, which a good captain can steer around. But always remember that icebergs are one of the most dangerous creatures the sea has," daddy told the children.

Household Hints

NEW MARMALADE

This is the best marmalade "that ever was on land or sea." It takes two grapefruit, one pineapple, sugar.

Wash fruit thoroughly. Remove rind and eye from pineapple, and with a sharp knife slice crosswise in chips about the size of a half dollar.

Cut one grapefruit into halves, remove seeds and core, slice into chips; add to pineapple. Chip the thin yellow rind from the other grapefruit; add to above. Cut the fruit in halves, scoop out the pulp; add, rejecting the white inner skin, as too much of this makes the marmalade bitter.

Weigh fruit, cover with an equal weight of sugar; let stand several hours. Simmer over a slow fire till syrup is about as thick as strained honey. Put into glasses, and when cold cover with paraffine, being careful that there are no air holes.

Should fill eight to twelve glasses, according to size of fruit and glasses.

APPLE DESSERT

Apple Porcupine—Six medium-sized apples, 1½ cups sugar, 2½ cups water, one tablespoon butter, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, blanched almonds. Cook sugar and water together three minutes, core and pare apples and cook them in the syrup till tender, but not broken. Turn them once or twice during cooking. Drain, place in baking dish, add butter and cinnamon to the syrup and cook till quite thick. Fill cores and surrounding space with sauce, putting it in the box with the blanched almonds lengthwise. Place in oven just long enough to brown nut tips. Cool and serve with cream.

THE TABLE

Tartar Sauce (easily and quickly made)—One cup cream or rich milk, one tablespoon butter, one egg, one-half lemon, flour, salt and pepper. Make a cream sauce, heating the cream and thickening with butter and flour well blended. When hot add to same juice of one-half lemon with a small portion of the grated rind. Pour the egg and cut very fine and stir through the sauce. Season to taste and serve with fish hot.

Date Pudding, With Brandy Sauce—One egg, two tablespoons brown sugar, one-half cup milk, one-fourth cup butter, one cup flour, two level teaspoons baking powder, one cup of chopped dates, one-half cup or fewer nuts. Cream butter and sugar and add egg (beaten) and milk. Stir in flour sifted with baking powder and add nuts and dates. Steam in cups for for twenty to thirty minutes. This makes four or five individual puddings. Serve with the following sauce: Three-fourths cup brown sugar, one-fourth cup butter, one large tablespoon flour 1½ cups boiling water, three tablespoons of brandy or less, to taste. Mix flour sugar and butter well. Stir in the boiling water gradually until quite smooth. Thicken over fire, and when ready to use add brandy.

Leftover Fish—Flaked and used as a salad combined with celery and served on crisp lettuce makes an excellent lunch dish. Also may be used in cream sause and served on toast.

Salad Dressing (made to keep indefinitely)—One dozen eggs, twelve tablespoons vinegar, twelve tablespoons cold water, one teaspoon corn starch, one cup olive oil, two large teaspoons salt, one teaspoon dry mustard, one-quarter teaspoon cayenne pepper. Beat eggs very light add vinegar and water with corn starch. Mix well and cook in double boiler until thickened, stirring constantly. When removed from heat beat until cooled and when entirely cold add oil and salt, pepper and mustard. Beat again until very smooth and light. This makes about a quart and a half and kept in a cool place will last for weeks—as it can be used with cream or without when ready to use, as you like. A very excellent dressing for all salads.

Eggless Gingerbread (origiral)—One cup molasses (baking), one cup sugar, two tablespoons shortening one tablespoon ginger, one tablespoon soda (scant) dissolved in 2 cups sour milk; 2½ cups flour, one teaspoon cinnamon, pinch salt. Bake in three large pie pans. This will serve eighteen people.

Marrying for Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Jacob Townsend Puts to Test His Wife's Newly Professed Loyalty.

Ortrude sat reading to her husband. She had spent hours in the sick room since the day she stole in to ask forgiveness for her cold selfishness, and she seemed very anxious to help in the care of the sick man. Jacob was getting slowly better, though one side was wholly paralyzed and he could not speak. Hearing a peculiar sound, she glanced up from her book. Jacob motioned to her to come nearer the bed, and when she approached he began writing with his finger on the counterpane.

"Do you want paper and pencil?" she asked.

He nodded in assent. She brought a tablet and pencil and arranged a smooth place to lay it under his hand. She watched while the feeble fingers scrawled with effort the words, "Sign the paper?" Ortrude could not read them at first, and while she was puzzling over the crooked characters Jacob kept his eyes on her, watching her eagerly.

"'Sign the paper?' Is that it?" she asked.

Jacob nodded, pointing his finger at her.

"You want me to sign some paper?" she asked, watching him carefully. Again he nodded and reached for the tablet. This time he wrote, "You refused." Ortrude flushed.

"The paper you asked me to sign before we were married?" she asked.

Again Jacob nodded eagerly. Ortrude stood looking down for a moment, then raising her eyes she said quietly.

"It will make you less anxious. I will sign it. Can you tell me where to find it?"

He reached again for the tablet and wrote, "Dudley."

"Dudley will find it?" she asked. He smiled a contented smile and lay back and closed his eyes. She soon realized that he had gone to sleep, tired from the exertion of the writing.

When Dudley came into the room at noon he found his father brightly smiling. Jacob turned to Ortrude and motioned to her to ask Dudley for the paper he so longed to get hold of.

Ortrude turned very red as she said to Dudley:

"Your father wishes to have you get a paper that he wants me to sign regarding the disposition of the property." Dudley looked in surprise at his father. The sick man's face was radiant.

"I think I can find it," he said quietly.

"Thank you; it will put his mind at rest." Ortrude looked gratefully at the young man and left the room.

Dudley sat down by the beed, and seeing the tablet and pencil, realized how Jacob had made his wishes known to Ortrude.

"'You are so much better, and now that this worry is off your mind I have greater hopes than ever of your speedy recovery."

Jacob shook his head, but a smile lit up his face as he stretched his hand out to his son.

"I think I have found a place where I can borrow some money to tide us over the tight place in our business, Daddy," said the son gayly.

The feeble hand softly patted his to indicate his pleasure at the news.

LONE BANDIT ROBS TRAIN.

Forces Engineer to Cut Off Mail Car and Rifles Contents.

Ogden, Utah, March 27.—Passenger train No. 1 on the Oregon Short Line was held up near Roy, a small station south of here. A single robber made the holdup.

The highwayman first boarded the locomotive, where he threatened the engineer and fireman with his pistol and forced them to cut the engine and mail car from the train. After taking the mail car some distance down the track the robber forced the mail clerk to turn over thirty-one bags of registered mail to him, which he rifled of their contents.

In Want Ads Do Not Use An Unnecessary Word, Nor Omit a Necessary One

A want ad may be too short as well as too long. There ought to be, always, a rational brevity—but this should not preclude a touch of "human interest"—the statement of such facts as will give the advertisements a certain DEFINITENESS instead of vagueness.

TRAINMEN MAKE THREAT TO STRIKE

Demands Almost Certain to Be Rejected.

New York, March 27.—On Thursday every railroad of the United States will receive simultaneously the new demands of their union trainmen employees.

The railroads are given until April 29 to present an answer. They have already announced their intention to refuse these demands, and labor leaders threaten to reject arbitration and call a general strike.

The unions presenting the demands are the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Order of Railway Conductors and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, totaling a membership of 350,000 to 400,000, less than one-fifth the total employees of the railroads.

The strike plan involves tying up freight and passenger transportation on every railroad of the United States and on a total steam railroad mileage of 250,000.

CHARGED WITH FLAG INSULT.

New York, March 27.—As he prepared to deliver a lecture in Bryant hall Bouck White, head of the Church of the Social Revolution, at 165 West Twenty-third street, was served with a summons to appear in Jefferson Market court April 3.

The summons was issued by Magistrate Koenig on behalf of Frank Urban of the International Peace Forum, who alleged that White had insulted the American flag through circulars.

The circular in question showed the American flag lying on the ground near a bag on money, with a serpent entwining them. Across the top in capital letters was the word "War."

TO STAY ANOTHER WEEK

from some place out of the past, and on the night of February 20, 1916, stood full-grown before them. Athena, furthermore, was represented as fully armed with spear and shield, and sometimes with distaff in hand. Biederwolf, too, came armed with the 'sword of the spirit,' was protected by 'the shield of faith, and was clad in the panopy of righteousness. When he spoke he put to flight ten thousand of his foes, and won ten thousand others to his great surging heart.

"For the purpose of this sketch he belongs to 'the order of Melchizedek,' having 'neither beginning of day nor end of life.' That is to say, he is here considered apart from his lineage, however ignoble or noble it is, and prophecy concerning his is equally neglected. The picture here drawn is composed of the lights and shadows that played about him in the eventful weeks of his sojourn in Norristown.

"Early in the meeting it was discovered that there are two Biederwolfs—the Biederwolf in repose, and the Biederwolf in action. Both of these are unvarnished, ungilded, unadorned, without gilt braid or brass buttons, and they combine to form a plain, blunt man, who, like Mark Anthony, 'talks right on,' but in utterance so articulate and intelligent as to make it unnecessary, as he says, to appoint a committee to follow him around and explain to the people his meaning.

"Whatever other changes in him are detected, here is the one mark of identity, the one constant and unalterable element ever present. He is not stilted, no affection of dress or person spoils him. He is genuine, real, sincere and earnest. He is just the ordinary, everyday-alike Biederwolf. That is good enough for most people who know him.

"His slightly stooping form, his expansive smile, his placid countenance, when the wrinkles are ironed out, render him, when in repose so gentle that one might almost touch him, taking care, however, not to rub the fur the wrong way.

"But the moment that he arises to a speaking posture, and begins to unravel the contortions of that expressive and luminous face, the face which, to use his own expression, he has to sleep with, the transformation is wrought, and in such a moment a fellow wouldn't touch him with a ten-foot pole, particularly when he is on the war-path.

"In one of his jocular moments, of which he has plenty for himself and enough to pass around among his friends, and occasionally 'hand one' to some who are not dead in love with him, he made some humorous remarks about the allopath, the homeopath and the osteopath, and then facetiously added, 'all paths lead to the grave.' There remain, however, two other parts not in his catalogue, 'that celebrated saw-dust aisle,' and the war path. Over the former he leads people by the score, by the hundreds and by the thousands, but he holds as his own preserve the 'celebrated' war path. He travels the latter and urges converts over the other because these paths lead, not to the grave, but to the Father's home.

"When Biederwolf goes on the war path the paint he uses is sweat—not perspiration, for that exudes from the pores but slowly. With him it is just sweat, sweat. It takes some imagination, to be sure, to think of him as having feathers on his head, for he has no hair worth mentioning, except a little lambrequin which he wears just above his collar and which he loops up over his ear to keep it from sliding down his back. But the little he has is his.

"Now, with this mental reservation it is not so very difficult to think of him as putting on feathers and the war paint. Just now he belongs to the church militant, and he fights every evil in sight. Just as sure as some unholy thing raises its head, he swats it. He has the prescience of a clairvoyant in discovering some things that no one else has suspected of being near. When he swats away it looks like a lick amiss, but the howl of the smitten shows that Biederwolf knew the fellow was there. His advantage appears from his knowing where and who his enemy is, and by doing him first.

"Mr. Biederwolf's success is not only in his sermons. It is the man. He holds you fascinated. As he stands up before you, you are instantly convinced that he believes himself, every word he asks you to believe. Dr. Biederwolf is a native of Indiana, born at Monticello, of German parentage. He is a graduate of Princeton College and of Princeton Theological Seminary, having finished his course in the latter institution in 1895. From the Princeton School of Theology he received the New Testament Fellowship, which supplied funds enabling him to spend two years in Germany. He had finished this work and traveled in the Holy Land, when he became pastor of the Broadway Presbyterian church, in Logansport, Ind. At the second call for volunteers during the Spanish-American War, he offered his services as chaplain of the One Hundred and Sixty-first Indiana Regiment. While with this regiment he wrote its history, simply because, so far as I can find out, the more or less arduous duties of chaplain of an American regiment in a foreign land were not enough to keep him busy. He is also the author of several books on religious topics.

"In this sketch no attempt has been made to account for the man. One sentence, I think, will suffice: the immensity of his power is in direct ratio to the intensity of his faith. His soul is afire for God, his heart aflame for man. He knows no higher authority than the Lord Jesus Christ. No conflicting emotions tempt him to swerve from his loyalty to that Lord. The equation as it now stands is this. Plain Biederwolf plus God Almighty, equals a cyclone that will shake any city to its foundation. We have had all three. God be praised!"

Two Score Years of Telephony

FORTY years ago, Alexander Graham Bell spoke over the feeble instrument he had invented, to Thomas A. Watson—only two telephones in the world and a hundred feet of wire.

Recently the same men spoke to each other from the Atlantic to the Pacific over the Transcontinental Line—more than fifteen million telephones in the world and nine million in the Bell System. Twenty-one million miles of telephone wire connect every state in the union, and the wireless telephone has extended speech across our ocean boundaries.

A chorus of twenty-eight million Americans is brought into perfect unison daily by the Bell System, that unifier of the nation and harmonizer of distant peoples, which bridges distances, outraces time and makes a whole nation one community.

WILKESBARRE IS ALARMED BY RIOTS

Striking Trolley Men Smash Ten Cars.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 27.—Wilkesbarre and the Wyoming valley were the scenes of wild and riotous disorders, in which property was destroyed and many persons injured, a few seriously, as a result of six outbreaks by striking carmen on the lines of the Wilkesbarre Railway company.

Ten trolley cars were destroyed, six strike breakers were seriously hurt, and onlookers and participants had their heads battered in fights with police. Five cars were wrecked at Ashley. One was wrecked at Hanover, another at Forty Fort and one each in North Wilkesbarre and the heights section of the city. The disturbers, numbering several thousand in some cases, were armed with stones, bricks and clubs, and they defied the police to check the disorders.

Municipal authorities were unable to cope with the situation. The mobs invaded the central part of the city and within the shadow of the city hall defied the municipal authorities. Steps may be taken to appeal to the state for aid. No arrests were made.

SOAP 60 CENTS IN MEXICO.

Haircut Costs a Dollar, Writes the Rev. W. E. Vanderbilt.

Auburn, N. Y., March 27.—That the price of a cake of soap in Mexico today is 60 cents and that the lack of it among the natives is causing the epidemic of typhus fever is the information contained in a letter which has just been received here from the Rev. W. E. Vanderbilt, a graduate of Auburn Theological seminary, who is doing missionary work in the state of Michoacan, Mexico.

Mr. Vanderbilt is stationed with his wife at Zitacuraro, and his communication was sent a few days before the American troops entered Mexico. The letter states that in his own town, with a population of 8,000, at least ten die every day from the disease.

NETHERWOOD TO USE STALLINGS

Former Pet Will Play on the Team, and Will Be Asked to Act as Manager.

CHAMPS LOSE BATTERY

Catcher Moran and Pitcher Slocum Are Sought by Other Clubs—City Champs May Travel Sundays—Will Open Middle of Next Month.

Eddie Stallings, one of the fastest ball players that ever disported in this city, will play with the Netherwood club in the City League this year, and will most likely be asked to manage the city champions. Stallings, who will again coach North Plainfield High School this spring, has promised to play with the Netherwoods if his weak leg, which he broke in New Brunswick two seasons ago, does not give him any trouble.

Stallings lives in the Netherwood section of this city, near where the Netherwood crew plays its home games. He has been interested in the East End boys, and as John Coughlan, who managed the club last year, will be unable to handle the reins, a majority of the members and followers of the team are in favor of having the former Pet take charge, inasmuch as he is expected to play on the team. As there are no prospects of Plainfield having any nine faster that the City League teams, some of the best ball players in town will be in the league.

The Netherwoods will have pretty much the same bunch of players that carried off the pennant last year, and they will start practicing soon after the first of the month.

One contemplated change is using Bill Dodd behind the bat. Earl Moran, who caught last year, has not decided whether he will play this year or not. The St. Joseph's Club of North Plainfield is after Moran, as the boroughites need a catcher more than anything else.

Lou Slocum will pitch for the "Nacs" again—at least, for the first few games. Louis has several offers, two of them from around Trenton, where he is working, and another from the Bound Brook Bees, who will be managed by George Efinger this year. Slocum may also work for Dave Driscoll, either in Jersey City or for some other of Dave's many clubs.

Stallings who has been one of the leading lights in semi-pro. ball for a number of years, would be sure to be a star in the City League. Eddie formerly covered left field for the Plainfield and New Brunswick clubs, and was a very fast base-runner, a fine outfielder and a good hitter. He did not play last year because of the injury to his leg, suffered in a game at New Brunswick in the fall of 1914. He coached Holy Cross football club, of this city, last fall.

Matty Coughlan, who covered shortstop for the Netherwoods last year, is acting as manager for the team at the present time. He hopes to open the season on April 15, so that his team can play a few practice games before the league season begins. Clark, the Westfielder, and Russ Stewart, the former Sunday School League star, will do most of the pitching. Eddie Coughlan, one of the greatest ball players in Plainfield, will again hold down third base.

There is some talk of the Netherwoods playing Sunday ball on the road. As a traveling attraction the team would undoubtedly be a strong one, and with the additional prestize of being the league champions, would have no trouble in securing suitable guarantees.

WILLARD BACK TO CHICAGO; MORAN NURSES HIS BRUISES

Jess Willard yesterday afternoon left New York for Chicago, where he will remain home a month with his wife and "kiddies." Frank Moran, showing the effects of the battering he received Saturday night, kept to his hotel yesterday.

Willard had his right hand bandaged, the index finger, which he broke in the fight, bing in splints. He praised Moran for his gameness, but said he would have knocked him out had he not injured his right hand.

FOUND LOTS OF GAME.

Edward Jackson, of 297 Somerset street, has returned from West Virginia, where he spent six months hunting in the vicinity of Harrisonburg, located in the Shenandaoh Valley. He bagged a large number of turkeys and wounded a bear. Before leaving for home he had an opportunity of purchasing a 2,800-pound steer for his father, Stonewall Jackson, for whom he is purchasing agent. The steer was purchased and is on his way to NewYork by boat.

GIANTS LICK DETROITS.

Benny Kauff's drive over the left field fence gave the Giants their first two runs at Dallas yesterday, and the big leaguers won a well-played game from the Detroit Tigers, 5 to 2, before one of the largest crowds that ever witnessed a game in Texas. Sam Crawford whiffed three times. Fred Anderson pitched cleverly.

LOCAL PLAYERS ON WASHINGTON

Cliff Randolph, Tommy Mullin, Nibs Hand and Red Grimes All Sign.

AT AMBOY ON SUNDAYS

Billy Pfau Team Will Play in Schawb League Saturdays, and at Home on Sundays—Will Open at Home on April 23.

Cliff Randolph, Frank Hand, Tommy Mullin, Red Grimes, Charley Meara and Cliff Applegate will all play with the Washington, N. J., Club of the new league that has been formed of towns along the Pennsylvania and Jersey sides of the Delaware river. This news settles questions that have been heard on every hand for the last two or three months. The local boys will play in Perth Amboy Sundays, the team that will represent Washington in the Schwab League being the Pacer aggregation, owned by Billy Pfau.

Tommy Mullin was expected to return to Rahway, where he played last year. Jimmy Emery will probably be the only Plainfielder on the team. He will pay second base. The Jungletown club is looking for a catcher to hold up Freddy Olde, the Elizabeth youngster, who will do the pitching.

The Washington Club will be composed entirely of the players who were with the Perth Amboy Pacers last year, with the single exception of Red Grimes, the Somerville outfielder, who played with the team in the Tri-County League last year.

Randolph was never in better shape than he is right now, and when Plainfield's best pitcher is right, there isn't any heaver who has more on the ball. Cliff will probably do the Saturday pitching, with Applegate working Sundays. The Pacers will start their Sunday games at home April 23, and have the Lincoln Giants billed for May 7. Meara is the slugging outfielder, who was formerly with the Yankees.

The players will make the Saturday trip by automobile. The cars will start from Amboy, and will pick up Hand in Scotch Plains, Randolph and Mullin in this city, and Grimes in Somerville.

The towns in the new circuit are Washington, Phillipsburg, and the following Pennsylvania towns: Bethlehem, South Bethlehem, Stroudsburg and Bangor.

GOLF CHAMPIONSHIPS NOW BEING WON BY YOUNGSTERS, WHERE A FEW YEARS AGO THEY WERE SHARED BY VETERANS

One remarkable feature in the history of American golf has been the number of youthful champions that have come to the fore. In the last twenty years the average age of the British open amateur champions has been well over thirty, and almost all the American open championships up to 1911 were captured by imported talent of the same average age. Since the first victory by McDermott, the open title has been won by young Aemricans, and the average age of the home-bred amateur champions has been much below that of the British titleholders.

The youngest national champion of modern golf is Robert A. Gardner, Hinsdale Country Club, the present national amateur champion, who won the same title in 1909, when he was a Yale freshman and only eighteen years old. At the time of that tournament he was practically unknown, and in a list of prominent entrants for the championships his name was never even mentioned. He fought his way up through the match rounds, after facing almost certain defeat on many occasions against more experienced players. In the finals he met H. Chandler Egan, twice a winner of the amateur championship, and the natural skill and confidence of the youngster triumphed over the seasoned player.

Jerome Dunstan Travers, present open champion, and Francis Ouimet, who held the same title in 1913, are next on the list of young champions, for Travers was only twenty-one years old when he won the amateur title in 1907, at the Euclid Club, Cleveland, and Ouimet was the same age when he triumphed in his play-off of the famous tie with Vardon and Ray at Brookline. The victory of Travers was not such a surprise, youngster though he was, because he had already annexed the metropolitan amateur title at that time and he had also wrestled the New Jersey championship from Archie Graham in the earlier part of the same season. Graham was his opponent in the finals of the national championship, and Travers won by a wide margin.

Findlay S. Douglas was the first of the younger players to win the amateur title, being 23 years old when he won the annual tournament for the championship at the Morris County Country Club in 1898; but he learned his golf at the St. Andrew's links in Scotland, and had been in this country only two years at the time of his victory. While his triumph cannot be accredited to the development of American golf, it was a young Aemrican of twenty years who pushed him hard in the finals—Walter B. Smith of Chicago.

H. Chandler Egan was the first homebred to emphasize the fact that the American youths were precociously proficient at the Scotch game. He was a Harvard student, 21 years old, when he won his first national amateur championship at Baltusrol in 1904, and his opponent in the finals was Fred Herreshoff, who was three years his junior and a preparatory student at the time. These two young players disposed of C. B. MacDonald, H. J. Whigham and Walter Travis, all former holders of the title and experienced players, and started the long line of victories of the younger element which extends almost without interruption down to the last championship at Detroit, which was captured by Gardner.

Ouimet was 20 years old when he won the national open championship, and 21 when he captured the amateur title, but the assault on the famous Scotch professionals who had won every open championship in succession up to 1912, was led by J. J. McDermott, the brilliant young Chicago homebred, who broke the long string of foreign victories by defeating Alec Smith, two times winner of the title, at Wheaton in 1911. McDermott was 21 years old at the time, and the previous year he had tied with Alec and McDonald Smith for the championship at Philadelphia, but the older player won the play-off. Since McDermott's first victory in this event, the open championship has been won four successive times by young Americans. McDermott won again in 1912 at Buffalo; Ouimet won in 1913 at Brookline; Hagen won at Midlothian, Chicago, in 1914, and Jerry Travers won at Baltusrol last year.

Walter Hagen was 21 and had been only a short while out of amateur ranks when he supplanted Ouimet and McDermott as the winner for the young American element. What is especially admirable about Hagen's game is the fact that it is sound all the way through, and with his physique and temperament, it is expected that he will remain one of the masters of American golf for many years.

WORLD'S RECORD FOR INDOOR 50-YARD HURDLES EQUALLED

St. Louis, March 27.—A new Western intercollegiate record for the fifty-yard dash was established, and the world's indoor record for the fifty-yard hurdles was equalled at the indoor carnival of the Missouri Athletic Association here Saturday night. Simpson, of the University of Missouri, equalled the world's indoor record in the 50-yard high hurdles of 6 1-5. The intercollegiate 50-yard dash mark of 5 2-5 seconds, made by Knight, of the University of Chicago, last March, was lowered by Joe G. Loomis, of Chicago, who cut one-fifth of a second from the time.

The University of Pennsyylvania defeated Cornell University in the medley relay race, distance, one and three-eighths miles.

TRAVERS WILL NOR FORFEIT STANDING AS GOLF AMATEUR

Jerome D. Travers, national open golf champion, is said to be in no danger of losing his amateur standing, despite rumors that his journalistic efforts make him a professional. It is explained that Travers' present writings are under a contract signed before the U. S. G. A. passed its amateur rule, and that when it runs out Jerry will cease to lend his name to stories.

UNCLE SAM, STORK KEEPER.

Physician Urges Government Representative at Every Birth.

"The day is coming when we shall want to use the scientific knowledge we are acquiring, so that every child coming into the world will have at birth the presence of a government physician to see that it is guaranteed life," declared Dr. Charles Zueblin of Boston in a lecture at Milwaukee.

"The mother may have as many private physicians and as many other people as are within the command of her pocketbook, but the government will guarantee a decent entrance into the world. This is a perfectly legitimate requisite on the basis of the scientific knowledge we have. Does that seem utopian?

"We already impose penalties for failure to report a death. Surely it is more of a crime not to get children into the world properly. Once in the world, the child is the offspring of the nation as well as of the mother and father. As we inspect the children coming from Europe, we must inspect those coming from nowhere."

GIVE WATER TO GUNS.

French Troops, Dying of Thirst, Refuse to Drink—Endurance Praised.

The endurance of the French troops at Verdun is beyond all praise. In utter fatigue on the third day when under the storm of the German shells the men fought doggedly without food or drink. An artillery captain said that the guns became so hot that it was impossible to fire any longer until they had been cooled.

There was no water except in the men's water bottles. The men were almost dying with thirst, yet of their own free will they refused to drink, reserving all the water in their flasks for cooling the guns which were defending the infantry a mile or two away.

SHAD FAST DISAPPEARING.

Redfield Warns Maryland and Virginia Congressmen of Situation.

Secretary Redfield has written letters to Virginia and Maryland congressmen warning them that he will take prompt measures to save the shad supply of Chesapeake bay and its tributaries. Decreasing catches, the secretary declares, are due largely to the presence of nets, which prevent the fish from going up the river to spawn.

The bureau of fisheries has found it hard to procure enough shad to maintain its hatcheries in Virginia and Maryland waters.

A CHAMPION VINDICATED.

Willard proved Saturday night that his size makes him one of the greatest heavyweight champions of all time. As most people expected, the fight went the limit, but Moran, gritty as he was, could not have been much more disappointing unless he had been knocked out. The challenger, of course, had to do most of the leading, and it was his failure to find Willard's range that gave the champion a chance to get in his stinging blows to the smaller man's face.

The bout was no electrical display of speed, and at no time did the 12,000 get worked up over the affair. The scrap showed that those who favored Moran underestimated the advantage Willard had by his great height. The way the ten rounds went, a longer fight would have terminated in Willard scoring a knockout. Willard proved at Havana that he can take much punishment. He showed Saturday night that his size and what defense he has developed are sufficient to protect him against any man six inches shorter and fifty pounds lighter than he is; and he gave further indication that scientifically he is a much improved boxer.

The interest that Plainfielders took in the bout was attested by the hundreds who congregated where the returns were received. Considering the time of the year and the fact that the event took place at night, the match provoked as much interest as the world's series baseball games.

FEIHL BARS NO ONE.

Eddie Feihl and Ray Eaton have come out with a challenge to meet any two bowlers in the State in a home-and-home series of twenty games, total pins to count. Ten of the games are to be bowled on Jackie Clark's Branford place alleys in Newark and ten on the opponents' drives. Jay Eaton is acting as the manager for Feihl and his son Ray, and is ready to talk business with any two bowlers who think they can take the measure of his team.

Reports from the Philadelphia National League camp state that Pat Moran is not resting on his laurels as pennant winner in the National League, but is going about his planning the same as if he had finished last in 1915 and now trying to bolster up his strength. The Phillies' five straight victories over the Cubs show that.

Moran is not given half the credit he deserves. Last year he was not considered seriously when he was made manager of the Phillies. It looked like he was picked to fill in where Charlie Dooin left off, picked because he was a cheaper man than Dooin. True, even with the big salary raise this year, he is not getting as much money as was Dooin, when the red headed leader left the Quaker crew as manager. Moran had a team at the beginning of last season that looked like a joke. He was obliged to develop Bancroft and Niehoff to fill places vacated by two stars, Doolan and Knabe. Pat changed the style of batting of Fred Luderus, causing him to hit to left field, instead of right. It worked successfully, as Luderus came within half a dozen points of copping the batting championship of the circuit. When the pennant race was tightest Bobby Byrne was hurt, but Pat had prepared for just such an emergency. All through the season could be seen the guiding hand of one of the craftiest managers in the game. The public was so interested in the wonderful work of Bancroft and Niehoff, the sensational performance of Alexander and the unexpected spurt of the Phils, that they did not go deeper than the surface to analyze the real brain power behind the organization, but to Pat Moran must be given the entire credit.

This season, with Moran doing very little strengthening, with Alexander and Killifer in doubt on account of injuries to their arms, the public is inclined to believe that the Phils will slip back into the second division. Other teams have strengthened, true enough, but it must be considered that Moran has a far better second defense this year, due to the signing of experienced veterans, and that his new material will be more developed. The entire situation is figured around Alexander. If the king of the National heavers is anywhere near his 1915 mark the Phils must be considered as real contenders for a repeat, right from the start. Moran is new as a National League manager, but other pilots realize he is one of the shrewdest pilots in the game. Fred Clarke paid him the tribute of being more crafty and knowing more baseball than John McGraw, Frank Crance, George Stallings or Connie Mack and predicted that the Phils would be dangerous as long as the brain power of Moran was back of the organization.

Lou Slocum, one of Plainfield's best pitchers, is looking forward to his best season on the mound. Slocum convinced himself that his arm is as good as ever when he twirled those sensational games last fall for the Netherwood club. He pitched a no-hit game, and had such creditable achievements as strikeouts over Jack Martin and the other stars he faced. Slocum hasn't signed with any club yet, but he will tie up with some Saturday team. He is thirty pounds heavier than he was last season, and as he always had heaps of steam and a fine assortment of curves, he should have the best season since his school-days, when he was hailed as the strikeout wonder of Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

SILK WORKERS WIN BIG FIGHT

Paterson Rejoices as Strike Is Averted.

NINE HOUR DAY GRANTED

Struggle For Shorter Hours Has Been on Since 1913—At the Eleventh Hour Ribbon Manufacturers Decide to Concede Everything Demanded by Employees.

Paterson, March 27.—The years' fight of the silk workers of Paterson was won when the manufacturers, following a long conference lasting several hours, agreed to give the nine hours a day working schedule and put it into effect on April 3. Throughout the city there is joy and happiness, not alone for the fact that the battle of long duration has ended, but that the strike has been averted. Newspapers had extras, the storekeepers placed bulletins upon the windows and in all the amusement resorts a slide was flashed telling of the victory.

"I cannot tell you how happy I am over this splendid victory," were the words of Henry Marshall, counsel for the strikers, when informed of the good news. "It means the fight of twenty years has come to an end, and it means that good fellowship will reign between the employer and the employee."

The decision also brings to memory the strike of 1913, when for many months the strikers remained away from their work, but when they did return finally they had failed to secure the asked for nine hours per day. This was one of the many demands that the employers would not give in to, and the present victory is naturally one that will be appreciated by every mill worker.

The Paterson Ribbon Manufacturers' association, in connection with the broad silk manufacturers and the hatband weavers, were the men who announced their decision at the eleventh hour following their meeting at the Textile school on Market street. At the first meeting no decision could be arrived at. They met again, and this time nothing again resulted. With a determination to come to an agreement the meeting was held once more. For a time there was a break between the ribbon manufacturers and the broad silk men, the news being given out that the ribbon men favored the granting of the nine hour day commencing April 3, while the broad silk men insisted they stand firm for a compromise offer.

CHANCE FOR PRESS ADVERTISERS TO ATTRACT THE ATTENTION OF THE ENTIRE COUNTY.

As the result of an agreement between the Plainfield Daily Press and the Elizabeth Evening Times any advertiser placing a classified ad in the Press may have that same ad inserted in the Elizabeth Evening Times upon the payment of one-half more than is charged for the Daily Press insertion alone. Thus, if an advertisement in the Daily Press costs forty cents, the same advertisement may be placed in the Elizabeth paper for an additional twenty cents.

The Elizabeth Evening Times has a circulation of 9,000 and is widely distributed throughout Union County. Thus if an advertiser places his advertisement in the Plainfield Daily Press and Elizabeth Evening Times he places it before the eyes of thousands of readers at a very small cost.

Most advertisers welcome the opportunity to attract the attention of the whole county to their offerings and with the co-operation of the Elizabeth Evening Times the Plainfield Daily Press is now able to make this possible. The Elizabeth Evening Times has earned a reputation for itself as an advertising medium, especially along the classified line, and it is a well known fact that its influence extends into other counties besides Union.

FAREWELL FOR FATHER SCIOLA

Popular Priest Given Check for $500 by Parishioners of St. Mary's Church

PREPAREDNESS DEBATE

Over 500 Friends of Priest Crowded School Hall Last Night—Musical Program a Feature of Entertainment—Affirmative Wins Debate.

Five hundred or more parishioners ers of St. Mary's church gathered in the School Hall on Liberty street last night to bid farewell to Father Vincent Sciola, and to hear a debate on whether or not military training should be taught in the public schools. Father Sciola leaves in a few days to become identified with a church at Elizabethtown, Kentucky, where he will be assistant rector. During the evening Father Bogan presented to him a check for $500, which had been given by the hundreds of friends the priest has made since he came to Plainfield ten years ago. In making the presentation Father Bogan expressed the deep regret which all of the people of the parish feel over his leaving, and said that he would not have let him go had it not been for his health. He paid a great tribute to the work which has been done by the departing priest, and wished him every success in his new field of endeavor. Father Sciola, in expressing his sorrow at being compelled to leave Plainfield because of an attack of rheumatism, said that he would remember every one with whom he had come in contact here every day of his life, and would always have some special memento for their welfare on the altar wherever he might be conducting services. He thanked them for the money gift, and said that the only reason he welcomed it was because of the spirit in which it was presented, and because of the good work he would be able to do with it, declaring that money meant nothing to him personally, except in so far as he could use it for others.

The debate was presided over by Paul H. Burns, and the affirmative side was taken by Joseph Gallagher, Edward Sullivan and John Powelson. Joseph McAvoy, Edward McCann and Fred Green upheld the negative, the first named on each side speaking in rebuttal. The affirmative based its argument upon the fact that military training in the schools would teach the pupils map reading, map making, hygiene, etc. They pointed out that the schools were the only logical places for such early training, and that it would not be inconsistent with American ideals, especially as it was by no means an untried experiment, several places being named where the plan is now adopted in this country. They declared that there was no danger of militarism from such teaching, because that was contrary to Americanism. Authorities were quoted in favor of the plan, who declared that military training for a few hours a week in the schools was the best form of preparedness, physically, mentally and morally.

On the negative side the principal argument used was the great expense to which the people would be put which money should be used for fighting disease and for social betterment. Boys should be prepared for business rather than to be fighters. It was shown that many of the great developments for warfare were made by men who had no military training. Vocational education, it was argued, would do more to uphold the nation by peaceful methods than would militarism.

The judges of the debate were A. B. Wilson, Police Chief Patrick S. Kiely and Leslie R. Fort, the latter acting as chairman.

During the intermissions a musical program was rendered, which included the singing by the church choir of "The Sun Shine Bright on Your New Kentucky Home," to the tune of the well-known and familiar air, the chorus being as follows:

Good-bye, Father Sciola, God speed you on your way;
We all wish you well in your new Kentucky home,
In your new Kentucky home, far away.

Daniel Creager played two violin solos, Misses Eleanor McCarthy and Mary Donnelly sang, and Albert F. LaRock sang "The End of a Perfect Day." The evening's program ended by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne," and an informal farewell reception for Father Sciola.

CHIMNEY SETS FIRE TO HOME OF H. S. FULLERTON

A defective chimney in the residence of Henry S. Fullerton, 520 West Seventh street, last night called out firemen from headquarters. The alarm was turned in by telephone at 6:08. In telephoning Mrs. Fullerton said that the chimney had fallen in, but when the firemen arrived flames were shooting up more than twenty feet in the air. The damage was not more than $500.

Forty-seven local merchants and individuals have signed the agreement to underwrite the expense of the Chautauqua, in case there should be a loss. ## 600 REHEARSE FOR BIG CHOIR

Young Men and Women Get Ready to Sing at Biederwolf Services.

"MAC" TO LEAD THEM

Tenor and Director is in Love With His Work, Which Helps to Make Him World's Greatest Gospel Singer.

More than 600 were present at the first rehearsal of the big chorus choir held last night in the High School Auditorium, and the list of those who have promised to sing during the Biederwolf campaign contains over 750 names. It is now certain that Plainfield will keep its promise to provide music second to no other city that has been visited by the famous evangelist and his party.

WILLIAM McEWAN,
The World's Greatest Gospel Tenor, Chorus Director and Soloist.

This chorus is to be directed by William McEwan, called "The World's Sweetest Gospel Singer." is extremely popular wherever the Biederwolf party visits, and is soon known as "Mac." He possesses a voice of quality and range and heart and mind in truest sympathy with the work in which he is engaged.

McEwan's solos thrill the hearts of the people, and the great secret of his power in song is the deep spiritual life behind it.

Dr. Biederwolf believes that the singing of gospel hymns can be conducted in a way that will impress the audience with the quality which is in the hymns. A large proportion of the gospel songs have been written by musicians of standing, and all of them by persons of marked power of appreciation.

Besides the choir in Plainfield, there will be the famous National Quartet and a big volunteer orchestra.

The response to the call for musicians for the Biederwolf campaign orchestra has been very generous, but the full number desired has not been quite up to the expectation of the committee. If you can play any instrument and want to enjoy the work of the orchestra and choir during this great campaign, send your name at once to the campaign headquarters in the Y. M. C. A.

INNOCENT YOUNG LETTER WENT ASTRAY SOMEWHERE.

That Plainfield is a big city, with lots of places for an innocent young letter to go astray, was proven yesterday when a North Plainfield man received a communication mailed to him in this city on January 9. The letter was received in the local postoffice on January 9, according to the postmark on the front, and it must have fallen in love there, for it did not leave until March 27, as indicated by the outgoing stamp and the delivery. The man to whom the communication was addressed is thinking of suing someone in the postoffice for alienation of his letter's affections. He says two months and seventeen days is too long for a letter to visit innocently in anybody's postoffice.

DR. W. M. SCHULTZ WEDS MISS CARTER

Attractive Ceremony is Performed by Bride's Father, Assisted by Brother.

Miss Emma D. Carter, daughter of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Carter, of 915 Hillside avenue, and Dr. William M. Schultz, of Philadelphia, were married at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of about sixty relatives and intimate friends. The ceremony was performed by the bride's father, Rev. Dr. S. T. Carter, assister by her brother, Rev. Robert E. Carter, of Washington, Conn.

The bride's attendants were two nephews, Samuel T. Carter, 3d, and Howard Carter, Jr., of this city; Ruth Baylis, of Huntington, L. I., a niece, and Katherine Cochran, a cousin. The four little folks were dressed in white and they carried Easter lilies. The best man was Edward Schultz, a brother of the bridegroom.

The bride was gowned in white satin, trimmed with point lace. She wore a tulle veil, caught up with orange blossoms and lilies-of-the-valley, and carried a shower bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and maidenhair fern.

The home was simply but very attractively decorated with Easter lilies, smilax and roses, the arrangement throughout the parlors, reception hall and dining room being greatly admired by all the guests. An orchestra played the wedding march and also furnished a pleasing program during the reception which followed the cermony.

A large collection of wedding gifts were received by the bride. Mrs. Schultz has a large circle of friends and acquaintances in this city. ## GREENBROOK COUNCIL IS GROWING IN MEMBERSHIP

Greenbrook Council, No. 1725, Royal Arcanum, at its regular meeting tonight, will have initiation. This will make seven new members within the last six weeks. The new officers, as well as the members, are hustling to increase the membership and interest in the council, the object being to make 1916 the banner year. Thus far, the meetings have been full of interest and excellent entertainments have been provided.

The principal speaker tonight will be John Beach, one of the grand officers, who is considered one of the best orators in the order. After the initiation, the committee on entertainment will provide a good time, with plenty of cigars and refreshments. Reports show that the Royal Arcanum throughout the country is showing marked gains in membership. There are now four additional applicants before Greenbrook Council, and it is hoped that at the next meeting there will be class initiation. All officers and members are urged to be present tonight.

HOSPITAL GARAGE IS NOW ASSURED

Mrs. Samuel Milliken Completes the Fund by Contribution of $1,500.

The physicians on the staff of Muhlenberg Hospital appealed to the Board of Governors last fall to provide suitable facilities for caring for their automobiles in the cold and stormy weather while they were making their professional visits at the hospital. It was pointed out that the physicians spend several hours at a time at the hospital for operations and other serious cases, and during these visits his machine must stand exposed to cold and wintry blasts or a driving rain.

The board realized the justice of the appeal and was disposed to do its utmost to provide the relief asked for, but funds were lacking. That "it pays to advertise" has always been demonstrated in Plainfield, so far as charitable needs are concerned, and this method was resorted to by the board.

Last fall the Plainfield Daily Press and Courier-News printed cartoons picturing the physicians in all kinds of distressing and uncomfortable situations occasioned by heavy snow storms. The printing of the first cartoon brought to the hospital the next day a check for $50 and this was followed by other subscriptions until the fund amounted to over $350.

The construction of a fine garage, with room to accommodate six cars, with proper sidewalks connecting the garage with the hospital, has been made possible by the generous gifts of Mrs. Samuel Milliken, of $1,500 to the fund already collected for the purpose. The board is deeply grateful for these generous and prompt donations from Mrs. Milliken to the hospital. The new motor ambulance, which fills a long-needed want in Plainfield, was the gift of Mrs. Milliken, and now her generosity and willing help makes possible the building of a suitable garage to conform in style and material with the other buildings of the hospital group, and which will afford shelter for six cars at a time.

The physicians feel grateful to Mrs. Milliken for relieving them of much inconvenience and trouble, and the board is also appreciative of the continued and generous recognition of the hospital's needs.

REVIEW RECREATION ACTIVITIES FOR YEAR

Larger Appropriation Will Be Sought to Carry on Work the Coming Year.

Recreation activities for the past year were reviewed in interesting reports presented at the meeting of the Public Recreation Committee at the Public Library last night. There was a large attendance of members and an animated discussion of the work followed. The committee expressed the need for additional funds owing to the fact that the work is growing rapidly. Last year the city council made an appropriation of $500, and the committee would like double that amount for next year.

Through John J. Carroll, the West End Community Center gave a report of unusual interest, showing the remarkable growth of the work in that section of the city. The center has taken over all recreation activities in the West End.

The committee decided to discontinue the dancing classes after April 1, to be resumed at a later date. Plans for the summer activities were discussed, particularly along the line of athletics, and it is expected that a baseball team will be organized to represent the committee. It was reported that the Dramatic Club had cleaned up a deficit of $20 and has a balance of $7 in the treasury. Mrs. Joseph Edgar, for the Choral Society, stated that the organization would be continued as long as an average attendance of thirty is maintained.

It was announced that the annual meeting will be held on April 20, when officers for the coming year will be elected. Champlain L. Riley, John J. Carroll and Samuel Rothberg were named as a nominating committee to present a list of officers at the annual meeting.

The committee regretted its inability to extend its work owing to a lack of funds, but it is hoped that the committee on ways and means will be able to secure the necessary funds to carry on the work as successfully in the future as in the past.

CHAS. TERRY'S NEW POSITION.

Charles Terry, who has been mechanician for Harry Huff for the past year, has tendered his resignation to accept one as driver with Suburban Transit Company, of Westfield. He will be driver of the big auto bus belonging to the concern which plies between Westfield, Mountainside and Springfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lippincott, of Manning avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Myra Bell, to Harold Hadley Starbuck, of Clifton.

SIX NATIONS JOINED

To Crush Germany by Middle of Summer, is Hope of Strategists—Another Boat Torpedoed Without Warning.

Paris, March 27.—All men, guns, and resources of six nations of Europe were thrown into a pool today, when war counsellors of England, France, Serbia, Russia, Montenegro and Belgium met to decide upon a plan for the crushing of Germany. Upon the outcome of the congress depends the fate of Europe and every man, woman and child of all the countries represented is willing to give his or her life to carry out the decision of the council.

One airman descended to a height of 200 feet and dispersed a detachment of Turkish infantry with machine gun fire. Several buildings and a reservoir were damaged.

Italy Has Forty Ships.

London, March 28.—Advices from Rome place the number of interned German ships taken by the Italian Government since the beginning of the war at forty. The Italian government makes the distinction that the vessels have been requisitioned, not seized.

Greece Still Protesting.

Athens, March 28.—Detachment of French marines landed at the Greek port of Patras on Sunday anr arrested the captains of an interned German and an interned Austrian ship. The Greek government has protested aaginst this action.

"THE DIVINE WORK" SUBJECT OF TALK

The Personal Workers' Class met at the Y. M. C. A. last evening under the direction of the leader, Rev. Dr. Birney S. Hudson, who gave an interesting address on "The Divine Word," and told in brief an interesting story of how the Bible has been passed down. Near the close of the meeting Dr. Hudson asked the men to sit on one side of the auditorium, and the women on the other. He then told the men that J. G. McLaughlin was the chief usher, and that he had charge of the men's duties which were specified later. The women were told that Rev. E. C. Conover had charge of their particular duties.

Rev. Dr. Raach, advance man for the Biederwolf party, was introduced. After saying a few encouraging words to the workers, he outlined just what would be expected of the men and women, naming their several duties. Assignments were made to those present signifying their places in the tabernacle. The last of these meetings of the Personal Workers' Class will be held Monday night, and Dr. Hudson is very anxious that all who possibly can will be present.

START WORK TODAY.

Work was started today on remodeling the borough firehouse into a municipal central building for all departments.

BAND OF WORKERS HOLD SUCCESSFUL DIME SOCIAL

The Band of Workers of Trinity Reformed Sunday-school held a dime social last night at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Higgins, of 826 Webster place. It was given by all members of the class under the direction of the social and financial committee, and proved very successful, both socially and financially, over one hundred persons being present. At 8:30 a musical and literary entertainment was given that lasted for two hours to the enjoyment of all present. Those taking part in the musical numbers were the Misses Marion Stryker, Harriet Higgins, Helen Lake, Wiletta Ord and Alma Hansen, and the Messrs. Albert Naylor, William Sowden, Ernest Naylor and Findley Lake. Miss Helen Thompson sang several vocal selections. The literary portion of the pragram was given by the Misses Jennie Sears, T. Mattox, Ariadne Bicknell, Frances Hendricks and Harry Messler and John Mehlenbeck. In conclusion, refreshments were served.

The band has been holding various entertainments during the past year to gain funds for the treasury so as to redeem the pledge of $100 toward the support of Trinity Reformed church, and at the end of the fiscal year that amount is now completed. They also held various socials during the past winter. The sole object of these socials was for the members to get acquainted and get new members. The annual meeting of the band will be held next month.

FUND'S BOOSTERS VISIT THE PRESS

Little Misses From North Plainfield Turn Over $42.36 for Big Battleship.

MARJORIE'S LETTER

Originator of Ship Building Idea Thanks Daily Press' Friends for Dime Contributions—Miss Overton's Communication Patriotic.

Eleven little misses of the Washington Park section of North Plainfield, chaperoned by Mrs. T. C. Overton, of Rockview avenue, yesterday called at the Plainfield Daily Press office, bringing with them their $42.36 donation to the Marjorie Sterrett Battleship Fund. The young ladies raised this neat sum at an afternoon tea given in Mrs. Overton's home Saturday, and each one of them is an enthusiastic admirer of Marjorie Sterrett, and they are all anxious to see the Plainfield Daily Press fund reach a big total. While at the Press office the little guests were conducted through the mechanical department by W. L. Coe, the circulation manager, and the various departments of newspaper making were described to them in detail.

Miss Penelope Overton was the originator of the afternoon tea idea and, in a letter written to the Daily Press, she says:

"I am very much interested in preparedness and I do hope we can have a new battleship. When I told my friends about having a tea for the Marjorie Sterrett fund, they thought it would be great. I think having a battleship called America is lovely. My brothers are both in the militia."

This nicely-worded letter indicates that Miss Overton is a true blue patriot, and if all young Americans were as sincere as she, little trouble would be experienced in accomplishing Miss Sterrett's object. Those who assisted Miss Overton in arranging for the tea are: The Misses Catherine Foulkes, Ruth Foulkes, Jane Worth, Pauline Browne, Isabell Rushmore, Doris Wadley, Harriet Milne, Louise Browne, Beatrice Rhoades, Helen Faber and Edith Eddy. About 105 little ones attended the function.

Edith Owen, another of Marjorie Sterrett's admirers, who lives at 73 Fairview avenue, sent her dime into the Press this morning with the following letter:

"Please accept my contribution to the great battleship fund, and I hope it will help to build the largest ship in the world."

That Miss Sterrett has been keeping her eye on the good work being done by the young friends of the Plainfield Daily Press has been proven by a letter she has sent to the Daily Press, thanking her helpers. It reads as follows:

To the Battleship Boys and Girls of Plainfield: Three cheers for the boys and girls of Plainfield. I have been watching the splendid work which you have been doing for our "America Fund." I am proud of you and I want to send you all a great big THANK YOU! I guess if the people who are always saying that patriotism is dead could see the long list of names from Plainfield and read the letters that come to me every day from every State in the Union they would just see that the spirit of our forefathers still lives in the children of the United States. We must keep that spirit alive, too, because some day we are going to govern this land and we want to do it the best ever. Besides, we don't want to take a back seat for the children of any other nation. What the children of Germany did, we can surely do. A million dollars means a lot of dimes, but there are a lot of sturdy little hearts in the United States who will say, with Lawrence, "Don't give up the ship." We can't get it all in one month or two months, but if we try hard and BELIEVE hard I know we can do it.

I don't want you to think of this as my fund or my battleship. It belongs to each and every one of us to work for and be proud of, and this will go down in history as a proof of the patriotism of the children of this generation and when our children and grandchildren read about the doings of the "America," we can each say, "Yes, I helped build her."

So don't let us get discouraged if the sum seems large, but just work and plan as hard as ever we can and our dreams will come true.

I wish I could meet and thank each one of you for your interest, but anyway, the launching of our ship will be a grand day for us boys and girls and I hope to meet you all then. I hope every one of you are wearing the "America" button to show the world that you are little patriots, fearing no one but God and "ready to take your own part."

Yours for America first,
MARJORIE STERRETT.
369 St. Johns Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.
February 26, 1916.

The Daily Press fund now totals $150.91, a surprisingly large amount in so short a space of time. This sum represents the contributions of scores of Plainfield children whose names will be forwarded to Marjorie Sterrett along with the dimes. Each child wants to have an interest in the big sea fighter that is to be built for Uncle Sam and the ten cent pieces have been coming in strong during the past week. The proceeds of the "Defense or Tribute?" picture, given in Proctor's Theatre for the benefit of the fund, amounted to $103.20.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Leadbitter, of 828 West Fifth street, are the parents of a boy born last Saturday.

MOODY IS REPORTED DYING IN THE WEST

Dunellen Man Said to Be in Critical Condition Following Assault.

According to a despatch from Cincinnati, Ohio, Daniel Moody, of Dunellen, was drugged and assaulted by highwaymen Friday night, and is in a hospital in that city in a condition which makes his recovery doubtful. When a reporter called at the home of the mother, Mrs. Bertha Moody, last evening, she had received no word of any mishap to her son and neither had the wife, who was present. A telegram was forwarded at once to the Cincinnati police by the family asking for information.

Moody left the borough about eleven months ago for Virginia. He obtained a position shortly after arriving there as brakeman in the Newport yards of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad. The last letter received by the family from Moody was addressed to his wife. In this letter he stated that he was in the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad hospital at Clifton Forge, Va., recovering from a relapse of the grip. Moody stated that he expected to leave the hospital by April 1.

He furthermore stated that upon the advice of his physician he had resigned his position with the railroad. There seems to be little doubt about the authenticity of the report. It is assumed that he recovered from his attack of grip sooner than he had anticipated and that he went to Cincinnati to seek work.

Somebody seeking information about Moody, it is believed, called up the Dunellen police Sunday morning over a long distance wire. Chief Mohan answered the 'phone and he understood the person to whom he was talking to ask about a "Daniel Mooney." The Chief replied that he knew no person by that name and the party put up the receiver.

JOSHUA P. THOMPSON DIES IN 77TH YEAR

Former Well Known Plainfielder and Civil War Veter Passes Away.

Joshua P. Thompson, a Civil War veteran and for several years a resident of Plainfield, died in Kearny, yesterday. He was a brother of Mrs. Ella T. Slape, of 413 East Second street, and was born in Salem, February 14, 1839. He first enlisted in the army during the summer of 1862 as a member of Company A, 24th Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers.

Mr. Thompson was wounded in the battle of Fredricksburg, and after recovery entered the Navy in 1864. He served on the U. S. S. Lehigh and later on the Princeton, receiving his discharge from the latter at the close of the war. He was unmarried and leaves beside Mrs. Slape, another sister, Mrs. W. B. Summers, of Fargo, North Dakota. Clarence D. Slape, of this city, is a nephew, and Mrs. W. S. Bullock, Mrs. H. W. Hull and Mrs. Howard Chandler Christy, wife of the artist, are nieces.

The funeral is private. Interment will be at Hillside cemetery, Wednesday at 2 p. m., in charge of members of the Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R.

WARREN CHAPEL WILL BECOME INDEPENDENT CHURCH

The following statement gives in detail the plan by which the Crescent Avenue church has offered the privileges of an independent church to Warren chapel. After April first the congregation of Warren chapel will raise, during the first year of its independence, $200 more toward its own support and the Crescent Avenue church will give $200 less. Thereafter Warren chapel will yearly increase its contributions by $100 and the home church will each year lessen its gifts by the same amount.

This plan pledges the Crescent Avenue church to stand behind the new church for a period of more than thirteen years, if such length of time should be necessary. In addition to this the home church assumes the whole of the mortgage of $6,000 remaining on Warren chapel and releases the chapel from any obligation toward that.

The title to the property remains in the hands of the home church until such time as Warren chapel shall reach entire financial independence and at that point the property will be deeded to the new church without any incumbrance. The newly constituted church will, however, on April 1 enter upon entire control of its own affairs through its own elected officers.

The installation ceremonies will take place on Monday night, April 10, and will include a general social time. Following last night's business the good and welfare committee served refreshments and the members enjoyed a smoker.

BUILDING LOAN HAD A SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Encouraging Reports Are Presented and Officers Elected for 1916-1917.

The Plainfield Building and Loan Association, the oldest organization of the kind in the city, held its thirty-second annual meeting in the offices on Park avenue last night, during which reports for the year were presented and officers elected. The review for the past twelve months shows that the association has maintained its high standard of efficiency while the outlook for the coming year is very promising. A new series was opened last night, and more than 660 shares were immediately applied for. Applications were also received for ten loans, amounting to $25,600, which were referred to the proper committees for investigation.

With one exception, all the officers were re-elected. The only change was the substitution of Clarence Brouard for Clarence Goss as a member of the auditing committee. Mr. Goss was compelled to quit the office bacause of his leaving the city. The full complement of officers is now as follows: President, Henry Liefke; vice-president, W. A. Woodruff; treasurer, W. R. Codington; secretary, B. F. Coriell; auditing committee, Clarence B. Vail, William McD. Coriell and Clarence Brouard; board of directors, Henry Liefke, W. R. Codington, Herman Schwed, Louis Klein, Charles M. Doliver, E. M. Laing, James P. Homan, W. A. Woodruff, Joseph C. Blimm, Peter J. McDonough, B. F. Coriell and George J. Finger.

The Plainfield Building and Loan Association was organized on March 24, 1884, and during the thirty-two years it has continued business it has accomplished a great deal for the aiding of worthy home-seekers and consequently building up the city. New series are opened at regular intervals, and all mature in the exceptional time of eleven years and five months—a record that displays, as nothing else, the excellent management that governs the concern. The annual financial statement distributed last night showed that the receipts for the past year were $139,039.10. The assets are now $350,429.03. During the fiscal year loans on bond and mortgage amounted to $556,505.00; loans on shares, $9,360; dues repaid by withdrawals, $12,522,650; paid on shares mateured, $38,400; borrowed money repaid, $11,000; profits repaid on withdrawals, $1,525.41. On August 23, 1915, the eleventh series, which had run eleven years and five months, having matured, was declared closed and the 192 shares, amounting to $38,400, was paid to the members.

Washington, March 28.—To facilitate the work of hunting down Villa a number of Indian guides from Arizona will be enlisted in the expedition. It is expected also that at least eight additional aeroplanes will be added to the number now in service. General Carranza sent no word to the State Department today regarding the protocol.

PARALYSIS FATAL TO MISS PALMER

Talented Musician Passes Away in This City After Long Illness.

Following an illness that began a year ago with a general breakdown, death came last night to Miss Sarah A. Palmer at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Lewis, of 639 Belvidere avenue. Two months ago she suffered a paralytic stroke, and since then she had been confined to her room. All that medical skill could devise was brought to bear in Miss Palmer's behalf when she first became an invalid, but it proved of no avail.

Miss Ualmer was a native of Painesville, O., and came to this city from Cleveland twenty years ago. She had unusual ability as a musician, and after being graduated from the American College of Musicians, adopted the teaching of music as her profession, making the piano and theory her special branches. She was considered one of the foremost theorists in the country, and her services were eagerly sought by ambitious students. For a time she taught in the Hartridge School, but most of her work had been devoted to private instruction. Miss Palmer had been a close personal friend of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis for many years, and when she gave up teaching a year ago, made her home with the family. She had a wide circle of friends throughout Plainfield, all of whom were drawn closer to her by the resignation with which she bore her illness.

Miss Palmer's only surviving relatives are a brother, Cassius Palmer, of New York, and a cousin, Mrs. Luke Parsons, of Rahway. The funeral is to be held at the Lewis residence tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock, and will be in charge of Rev. E. Vicars Stevens, rector of Grace Episcopal church, of which Miss Palmer was a member. Burial will be made later in the family plot at Painesville, O.

EDUCATION BOARD PAYS CURRENT BILLS

Routine Business and Reports Are Presented at Monthly Meeting in Borough.

The major portion of last evening's meeting of the Borough Board of Education was taken up in passing bills. The remaining claims on the Harrison Avenue School were ordered paid, as were current bills aggregating in the neighborhood of $5,000. The report of Supervising Principal D. Fred Aungst showed the enrollment of the schools to total 1,251 as against 1,189 at this time last year. Of this total of 1,251, 569 pupils are enrolled in the Somerset School, 239 in the Watchun, 222 in the High School and 221 in the Harrison Avenue.

The report further stated that the school nurse for February was on duty as per contract, and made 2,916 school inspections, 61 visits to homes, 32 treatments in schools and nine in the homes.

Fire drills were held in the schools as follows:

March 13, Watchung School, 1 minute 30 seconds; March 13, Harrison Avenue, 1 minute 30 seconds; March 27, Somerset School, 1 minute 40 seconds; March 27, Watchung School, 1 minute 30 seconds; March 27, Harrison School, 1 minute 58 seconds.

Mr. Aungst reported that he attended the following meetings during the month:

On Friday, March 19, New Jersey Council of Educators, at Rutgers; on Friday, March 17, Somerset County Boards of Education, at Bound Brook; on Thursday, March 23, Supervising Principals of Somerset county, at Somerville.

LAST RESPECTS PAID TO JAMES C. POPE

Relatives and friends in large numbers gathered at the late home of James C. Pope, on West Fourth street, this afternoon, when the funeral service over the body of the former banker and promoter was conducted. It was in charge of Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. John Y. Broek, of Trinity Reformed church. The former pastor read Scripture and delivered the address, while Mr. Broek offered prayer. The service was extremely simple, in keeping with the life of Mr. Pope, who, as a man, was devoid of ostentation, confining his time to his business and his family.

Many handsome floral tributes were in evidence, a number of the larger set pieces coming from organizations with which Mr. Pope was connected. These included Jerusalem Lodge, F. and A. M.; Jerusalem Chapter, R. A. M; Plainfield Lodge of Elks, the Plainfield Savings Bank, the Mono Storage Company and other local business enterprises. Burial was in Hillside cemetery, the pallbearers being six close personal friends and business associates: These were William F. Arnold, cashier of the City National Bank; former Sheriff B. Frank Coriell, former Postmaster Elias H. Bird; Lemuel B. Woolston, George Griffin and John P. Emmons.

INDICTMENTS AGAINST GARY WILL BE QUASHED

Youngstown, O., March 28.—Judge Anderson today quashed the indictments against five steel companies on charges of conspiracy to fix prices of labor and steel products. He characterized the charges as indefinite and uncertain. The indictments against the U. S. Steel and Judge Gary were not quashed because no service had been made in those cases. The same principle will apply, however, and the indictment will be quashed when service is made.

PRESS WANT ADS ARE PRODUCING BIG RESULTS

That classified advertisements inserted in the Plainfield Daily Press are bringing results is proven every day by the experiences of those who use these columns. As an aid in securing domestic help, the Press want ad. column has proven itself particularly valuable.

One woman who inserted a small advertisement in this paper last Friday for three insertions to run on consecutive dates had seven answers befire 6 o'clock in the evening and was forced to withdraw the ad. after one issue. The results obtained from one insertion were so gratifying that she did not need the other two. Similar testimony to the value of Press want ads. comes into this office every day.

Seldom it is that the initial insertion of a want ad. does not produce enough answers to fulfill the need. It is the aim of the advertising department of the Press to make the advertisements in the classified column concise and easily read. This insures the advertiser that his ad. will attract notice and this is bound to produce results.

PREPARE FOR BIEDERWOLF CAMPAIGN--GET A NEW BIBLE

The wonderful edition of the Bible now being distributed by the Daily Press should appeal to every reader with a family. There is no book that could better be given to boys and girls—since not to know the Bible is to confess an ignorance that in after life will be acknowledged with shame and sorrow. The Bible makes a good foundation for a library—in fact, should be its cornerstone. Start that library today for your boys and girls. You will never regret it. The coupon printed elsewhere in today's Press explains the generous terms by which the volume may be obtained at cost. Since our supply is limited, we can only urge our readers to be on the safe side and secure their copy as early as possible. We now have only what the publishers have allowed us as our proportion of the general distribution, and hope none of the coupon holders will be disappointed. 193 North avenue.—Adv.

TWO U. S. AEROS ARE DESTROYED

Funston Calls For More Aircraft.

ONLY TWO PLANES LEFT.

Report by Secretary of War Baker Conceals Whereabouts of Punitive Expedition — American Troops Are Moving Forward and Communications Are Difficult—Republicans Urge Bigger Force.

Washington, March 28. — Secretary Baker at the war department announced that two of the army aeroplanes with the Pershing expedition have been destroyed. The secretary was unable to say how the machines were destroyed or whether their pilots were injured. Department officers believe they must have fallen during a scouting flight, but that if their drivers had been hurt or if the machines had been brought down by snipers Pershing would have so reported.

Of the eight aeroplanes sent into Mexico the report shows that only two are now in working order, four of them being laid up for engine trouble. Secretary Baker announced that at the request of General Funston the department is negotiating for the purchase of additional aircraft. At present there are only eight other machines in the army. These are at the army aviation school at San Diego, but are alleged to be unsafe.

Conceals Troop Movements.

In purchasing the new aeroplanes the department will seek to get machines equipped with higher powered engines than those now in service. The Aero Club of America has offered to furnish the government with airships and pilots free of cost, but owing to legal obstacles they cannot be accepted.

The statement issued by Secretary Baker concealed all information as to the whereabouts of the Pershing expedition, but admitted that it was steadily increasing its distance from the border. The statement follows:

All the information the department has from the border shows the conditions to be quiet and the excitement of the last few days somewhat allayed. We have no dispatches indicating actual conflict between American soldiers and any forces of any kind in Mexico.

The expedition is, of course, moving forward, and so lengthening the line of communication. For that reason General Funston has requested and the department has purchased two additional auto truck equipments, comprising fifty-four cars in all. The special car was purchased because of the reports from General Funston of the good work done by them on the desert roads in Mexico, which he made the basis of his request, specifying that particular car.

Only Two Aeroplanes.

In addition to that General Funston tells us that additional aeroplanes will be of service both in reconnaissance work and in carrying messages from the advance column to the base at Columbus. Of the aeroplanes already there two have been destroyed. Others have need of replacing parts, but two of them are in actual continuous service. The department is now negotiating for the purchase of additional aeroplanes, but neither the number nor type has been yet determined.

The wireless communication is reported to be intermittent because of the static conditions in the electric field there. For this reason additional importance is given to the request for aeroplane facilities.

With the line of communication now said to be about 250 miles from the border, the additional automobile trucks, it was said, would enable General Pershing to divide the line into six divisions, with a transhipment station at the terminus of each section. General Funston is expected to send additional troops in from the border to guard this line.

Still Urge Volunteers.

Republican senators met at the adjourned session of their party conference and authorized Senator Gallinger to make a statement of their position. The Republicans disclaimed any intention to embarrass the president, but declared that his policy of military defense for the border was not adequate. They urged the sending of all available regular troops that can be spared, to be supplemented with volunteers if necessary.

Some Republican senators expressed the belief that the course followed was too pacific and needed a stronger declaration, but this element was in the minority. The speeches were pitched in a mild tone, and few senators cared to discuss the proceedings afterward.

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

I wish to call to your attention the misunderstanding which seems to exist in the minds of the consuming public that the passage of the Stevens bill will create monopolies and subject the consumer to other forms of imposition. Section A of this meritorious measure, however, says that a manufacturer shall not have any monopoly or control of the market for articles belonging to the same class of merchandise; nor shall a manufacturer be a party to any agreement, combination or understanding with any competitor in the production, manufacture or sale of any similar merchandise in regard to the price at which the same shall be sold either to dealers at wholesale or retail or to the public. The questions involved in this legislation are moral as well as economic. They are, whether the public is to be decoyed by cut-price "bait"—whether the small retailer is to be deprived of a market for his honest wares. The great benefit to the consumer will accrue from competition in excellence between manufacturers who are now inclined to cut quality in meeting competition in price. Every citizen ought to take an interest in this legislation, and see that his Congressman supports the Stevens bill for the welfare of his community and for the sake of common honesty.

T. S. ARMSTRONG.

DON'T BE SCARED!

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

Would you kindly publish the following extract from a letter from L. Hollingsworth Wood, written in Washington, D. C., to the Friends' Intelligencer:

"The report that has been published so widely that an enemy could, if so inclined, land 400,000 troops upon our shores in fourteen days, has met with this startling statement which I had from James Hay, the chairman of the Military Affairs Committee of the House of Representatives. In commenting on the practical workings of the transport of troops from Canada to England, Mr. Hay said to me, 'The facts are that it took Great Britain, with the greatest merchant marine and navy the world has ever seen, with absolutely unchallenged control of the sea thirty-three days to transport 30,000 troops from a friendly port in Canada to a friendly port in Great Britain, and they used in so doing thirty-one transports and sixty-two war vessels.' How much longer it would take our most generally suggested enemies to transport their troops can be imagined."

OLD-TIME COLD CURE—DRINK TEA!

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also is the most effective way to break a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Adv.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We Eat too Much Meat Which Clogs Kidneys, Then the Back Hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

SAYS WAITE BOUGHT DISEASE CULTURES

District Attorney Hears Doctor Has Made New Confession.

New York, March 28.—District Attorney Swann was informed that Dr. Arthur Warren Waite had made a new confession of his complicity in the death of his father-in-law, John E. Peck. Judge Swann was at his country place and had not been able to communicate with Frank A. Waite, a brother of the accused dentist, to whom the new statement was made in Bellevue hospital prison ward.

District Attorney Swann has made interesting discoveries concerning Waite's purchase of germ cultures of virulent diseases.

Between Dec. 17 and March 8, a period which comprised the stay of Mrs. Hannah Peck and John E. Peck at Dr. Waite's apartment in the Coliseum at Riverside drive and One Hundred and Sixteenth street, the death of Mrs. Peck and the beginning of the violent illness of Mr. Peck, Waite went six times to the bacteriological laboratory of the Cornell Medical college at First avenue and Twenty-eighth street, several times accompanied by Mrs. Margaret Weaver Horton, and obtained from an unsuspecting clerk tubes containing typhoid fever and diphtheria cultures.

It is the theory of the district attorney that Waite obtained the typhus and diphtheria cultures for the purpose of inoculating the second person who stood between him and great wealth, his generous and confiding father-in-law. Mrs. Peck, the first obstacle, was already removed. Mr. Peck was the second, and the dentist's own wife, who was to make her will at his insistence only a few weeks later, was the third.

STIFLE FOES OF LITERACY TEST

House Votes to Retain This Feature.

Washington, March 28.—The literacy test section of the Burnett immigration bill was sustained, 225 to 82, in the house. This vote on the principal issue between the advocates and the opponents of restricted immigration presages the final passage of the Burnett measure by an overwhelming majority.

The comparatively small vote cast against the literacy test also indicates that the house may be able to override the veto of the president should he again disapprove the literacy test clause. It is believed by Chairman Burnett that practically every opponent of the bill was present, while many of its advocates, assured of the approval of the literary test clause, were absent.

On two occasions opponents of the Burnett bill have registered less than a hundred votes. The vote against the adoption of the special rule calling up the Burnett bill was only 82.

No roll call was taken on the literacy test clause test, as the measure was being considered informally in committee of the whole. It is expected that Representative Sabath, who moved to strike the clause from the bill, will renew his effort when the bill is put on final passage.

Although a two-thirds vote is required to override a presidential veto, Mr. Burnett estimates that when practically the entire membership of the house is present there will be an ample majority for the motion to override.

TRAIN KILLS TWO GIRLS.

Young College Women Meet Death on Railroad Tracks.

Baraboo, Wis., March 28.—Trapped at a sharp curve while walking along the Chicago and Northwestern tracks, with an abrupt cliff at one side and Devil's lake at the other, Miss Lola B. Whitmore, twenty-two, of Utica, N. Y., and Miss Caroline Duror, twenty-one, of New York city, were killed by a train.

The young women, who were students in geology at Chicago university, were visiting here.

PROMISE OF RELIGIOUS ACTIVITY.

Unless all signs fail, Rev. W. E. Biederwolf, who comes here in less than two weeks to conduct an evangelical campaign, will stir this city as it was never stirred before. Advance reports from Norristown, Penn., and other places where he has been indicate that he is a forceful preacher, and more than one who has heard both him and Billy Sunday say that he gives the baseball evangelist a close run for supremacy. The big "glory barn," as some have called it, which is to house the meetings, is rapidly assuming form at the lot on Giraud avenue, near Front street, and that in itself will attract hundreds of the curious, who in turn will be thrilled and held by the words of the man for whom it has been erected. Some idea of his strength may be gained from the fact that thousands of people urged him to extend his Norristown engagement for another week, and this he consented to do on Sunday night.

There is no movement of this kind that does not bring criticism from some people. They take delight in attacking the plan just on general principles, and not because they have any foundation for their remarks. We know of one prominent Plainfielder who could not think of enough unkind things to say about Billy Sunday—until he had heard him. After that this man went all the way to Trenton several times just to hear Sunday preach, and frankly admitted that his first opinion was all wrong. If some who are criticising the Biederwolf campaign will just have a little patience, they will find that instead of criticising they should praise. And no doubt many of them will hit the sawdust trail.

Plainfield cannot fail to benefit from the campaign. Regardless of what a man's religious views may be, he must concede that anything which tends to bring the people to thinking about the hereafter, and to leading better lives is a good thing. We look for a moral awakening that will do great good in this city, beginning on Sunday, April 9.

WHEN SILENCE IS ELOQUENT.

Teddy Roosevelt has returned home again, and aside from reiterating what he has to say in his latest book about Mexico, he remains silent regarding the many issues which are interesting the American people. He even requested that no reception be prepared in his honor by his friends, and they acceded to his wishes, although no one disputes that he is the man upon whom the eyes of the entire nation are now focussed, even if he has refused to declare himself with regard to the presidency. It makes no difference how much he asks to be let alone, the Colonel is always worth while to the American public, and in spite of his silence, he is getting plenty of publicity in the newspapers.

The reporters need not have been so emphatic about the Colonel's silence on politics. He created the silence, and has made it more emphatic than he usually does by adhering to his determination to say nothing just now. When he does have something to say it is a sure thing that it will be well worth hearing and reading.

The candidate may always look for some sort of reception, because it will be carried out in formal official way if necessary to direct the public mind to him. But the public reception expressed in warm fashion to the plain private citizen coming home after a short vacation trip is one that speaks from the common heart to the heart of the foremost citizen, who nevertheless remains one of us in spite of the high place the country has made for him.

Col. Roosevelt is a powerful factor even when he is doing his best to occupy ground outside the field of active politics. He is an influence that sways when he is trying not to do it, when he does not want to do it, when he fights against breaking self-imposed silence to avoid doing it.

SEND OR BRING YOUR DIMES.

Originally started by a little girl in Brooklyn, the Marjorie Sterrett Battleship fund has assumed such proportions that children all over the United States are helping the affair along. The Daily Press, in common with a number of other papers throughout the country, printed Marjorie's picture, and an account of her suggestion that all the "kids" send a dime to the newspapers to be applied toward building a battleship to be called the America. The idea took here, when one High School boy, Joseph Gallagher, sent in his dime, and scores of other youngsters soon followed suit. Last Friday and Saturday a photo-play, "Defense or Tribute?" was shown at Proctor's Theatre to great crowds, and as a result the amount which will be credited to Plainfield will be swelled by over $100. On Saturday afternoon several young girls conducted a tea in North Plainfield which netted the fund over $42. Every mail brings in more dimes from little people hereabouts, accompanied by characteristic letters which show the intense patriotism of the young Americans. While the aggregate amount which has been collected is still in five figures, the movement has every evidence of success because of the fact that the youngsters are behind it. What child is there that fails in something of a patriotic character? Incidentally the Daily Press will be glad to have the children visit the office any afternoon and bring in their dimes for the fund. They will be shown how a modern newspaper is made, thus adding to their education at the same time that they help a worthy cause. All they need do is ask to be shown through the plant.

The public hearing on the charges against Fire Chief T. O. Doane is to be held in the Council chambers tonight, and that there will be a big crowd out is certain. The charges of inefficiency on the part of the department have been heralded so broadcast that almost everyone in the city has taken sides one way or the other. The personnel of the fire committee assures the people of Plainfield that the hearing will be conducted with all fairness, and that no individual will be made "the goat."

--U. S. Astor Theatre--

"Jane," at the Astor Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday.

The star attraction at the Astor Theater today will be Theodore Roberts in "Mr. Grex of Monte Carlo," a Paramount feature picture in five big acts, showing the wonderful scenes in and around the world-famous gambling resort, Monte Carlo. In this wonderful Paramount production, Theodore Roberts is seen to good effect, the picture being taken from the book of E. Phillips Oppenheim. The added attraction for these will be the world's greatest "Travel Pictures." The Paramount Pictures Corporation have acquired at great expense, Burton Holmes, the most famous traveler and lecturer of the present day. The association of Burton Holmes with the Paramount Company will work the same revolution in travel-films and their uses as he brought about in the world of lectures, changing the old-fashioned, dry-as-dust lecture, poorly illustrated by a few purchased, uncolored lantern slides into a genuine entertainment, interesting always, amusing frequently, nevery prosy or sleepy, and full of all kinds of information, in sugar-coated form, appealing to the eye in its motion pictures and colored photo scenes, and to the ear because of the cleverly told facts and reminiscences told personally by the keen-eyed and experienced traveler himself.

In addition to the name he has made for himself and his travelogues on the platform, he is known in every city, town and village in the country through his Travelogues in book form, of which thousands of sets have been sold. This will be an added attraction every Monday and Tuesday.

LITERARY

THE LONELY BELGIANS.

"The Belgians are a race of children whose feelings have been hurt. The pathos of the Belgian army is like the pathos of an orphan-asylum: it is unconscious.

"They are very lonely, the loneliest men I have known. Back of the fighting Frenchman, you sense the gardens and fields of France, the strong, victorious national will. In a year, in two years, having made his peace with honor, he will return to a happiness richer than any that France has known in fifty years. And the Englishman carries with him to the stresses of the first line an unbroken calm which he has inherited from a thousand years of his island peace. His little moment of pain and death cannot trouble that consciousness of the eternal process in which his people have been permitted to play a continuing part. For him the present turmoil is only a ripple on the vast sea of his racial history. Back of the Tommy is his Devonshire village, still secure. His mother and his wife are waiting for him, unmolested, as when he left them. But the Belgian, schooled in horror, faces a fuller horror yet when the guns of his friends are put on his bell-towers and birthplace, held by the invaders.

"'My father and mother are inside the enemy lines,' said a Belgian officer to me as we were talking of the final victory. That is the ever-present thought of an army of boys whose parents are living in doomed houses back of German trenches. It is louder than the near guns, the noise of the guns to come, that will tear at Bruges and level the Tower of St. Nicholas. That is what the future holds for the Belgian. He is only at the beginning of his loss."—Arthur Gleason, in the April Century.

This year, when planting the peas and beans, corn, tomatoes, etc., why not also plant some of those very useful vegetables which are usually neglected in the home garden? Swiss chard, okra, Brussels sprouts, artichokes and leeks are all healthy additions to the table and they do not require any special conditions or culture. And then, also, why not set aside a small plot of ground for the growing of salad greens, which will vary the monotony.

Brussels sprouts, "the little cabbages," possess all the healthful qualities of cabbage while their flavor is much more delicate. The seed should be sown in June in shallow drills and the seedlings should be transplanted when they are about three inches high. Each sprout should be two feet apart in rows three feet apart. The plants are tall lusty ones, and each plant often yields thirty-five or forty of "the little cabbages." But like all members of the cabbage family, they are greedy feeders, and positively must have heavy and rich soil. Although the mature plants are quite hardy, they must be dug up before severe frost, and hung up by the roots in a frost-proof cellar. Brussels sprouts are delicious boiled and served with a cream sauce, and they are also excellent boiled in salted water for twenty-five minutes and served with a dressing of browned butter.—Woman's World for April.

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME...

∴ Plainfield Theatre ∴

The burlesque production of yesterday and the appearance here of "The Princess Pat" tomorrow gives only today for vaudeville and pictures for the first half of the week at the Plainfield Theatre, nevertheless, Manager Shannon has secured an excellent bill for this afternoon and tonight. He announces the engagement of Princess Que Quoue Poi, the only Chinese prima donna in America. The Princess is a dainty young daughter of the Celestial Kingdom and comes to Plainfield direct from a week's appearance at the Palace Theatre, New York. She brings with her a special big scenic setting, beautiful costumes and her own supporting company. This act has been one of the season's novelties in New York, and the local management is to be congratulated on securing it for local playgoers.

Besides the Princess Que Quoue Poi, five other vaudeville numbers will be on the program, and as an extra feature, a one-reel film will be presented showing Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Castle in a series of pictures taken just before Mr. Castle left for the European battlefields. It shows the talented couple in their latest ballroom dances, revealing them as they have never been before. The Pathe semi-weekly is also on for today. This instructive picture is shown every Tuesday and Friday.

For the last half of the week, beginning Thursday, Manager Shannon has another rousing vaudeville bill, the details of which will be announced in these columns tomorrow. It will comprise six acts and several feature photo films.

At the Plainfield Theatre, tomorrow afternoon and evening, John Cort will present the new comic opera, entitled, "The Princess Pat," music by Victor Herbert, book and lyrics by Henry Blossom, authors and composers of "Mlle. Modiste," "The Red Mill," "The Prima Donna," and "The Only Girl." The story of the opera relates how Princess di Montaldo (nee Patrice O'Connor), wishing to impress her loving but undemonstrative husband, Prince Antonio di Montaldo, an Italian, with her charms, flirts with Anthony Schmalz, an elderly Teutonic plutocrat, good-natured and "a bit of a bounder." Bob Darrow, a young man of ready wit, is introduced by the Princess to help promote the scheme. Darrow grasps the opportunity as it will serve as a means of helping his friend, Tony Schmalz, Jr., who is desperately in love with Grace Holbrook, whom his father is about to marry. It is to be a marriage of convenience and the Princess rebels at the thought of her girl friend being sacrificed. All goes well until Schmalz, senior, proposes an elopement with the Princess, and her husband discovers what he believes to be his wife's unfaithfulness, then complications ensue. "The Princess Pat" is easily the most charming comic opera of the season. Its story is amusing, with some pretty touches of sentiment, several well-drawn characters, witty lines and music of the true Herbert quality, graceful, melodious, and skilfully adapted to the dramatic situation. It is to John Cort's able management and generous outlay that the production is due. He has selected an excellent cast of principals, which includes, among others, Ruth Rogers, Georgio Sregario, Paul Nicholson, Earl Benham, Philip H. Ryley, Effie Toye, Ben Hendricks, Edward Metcalf, Tots Marks, Francis Bryan and Henry Vincent.

Maximus, who appears at Y. M. C. A. Circus, Thursday and Friday.

- Proctor's Theatre -

De Wolf Hopper appears at Proctor's today in his initial screen production, "Don Quixote," a story that has amused millions for a score of generation and has not lost its popularity in the least. This fact was carefully considered when the Triangle Company decided to produce it on the screen, and in order to obtain the proper atmosphere, they scoured the whole country for a star who would make most of the part, with the result that out of hundreds of applicants, Mr. Hopper was selected. This is truly a $2 production in every sense of the word, and the Proctor management was put under a heavy expense to obtain this wonderful masterpiece for their patrons. The prices will positively remain the same for this feature, another proof that nothing is too good for patrons of Proctor's. In addition, today, Ford Sterling, one of the most grotesque of Keystonites, will be seen in "His Pride and Shame," an uproar from start to finish that will fairly have the spectators bowling over with suppressed merriment. The fourth episode of "The Strange Case of Mary Page" is also a feature appearing today. Tomorrow will see Nance O'Neill, known as the empress of stormy emotion, in "The Witch," the exactions of the part which she assumes calling forth all her emotional talents; a powerful production, indeed, with a star whose reputation is world-wide. In addition, tomorrow, Pearl White and the all-star Pathe serial cast will appear in the fifth episode of "The Iron Claw." Thursday will be Triangle Day, and Bessie Barriscale, one of the most talented of Triangle Misses, will be seen in a part entirely new to her admirers, in "The Last Act," a story within a story, the novelty and tremendous dramatic qualities of which will be at once recognized. On Friday, the management has secured an extraordinary attraction indeed, when Audrey Munson, one of the most famous of art models, will appear in "Inspiration," conceded to be one of the most wonderful of classics. Monday, April 3, will see the introduction of Paramount pictures at Proctor's, the first production being Pauline Frederick in "Zaza."

The Czar of Russia has an income of eighty dollars a minute.

Over a billion dollars was spent last year by the American public for tobacco.

Poor Pupils Get Lunch For Cent.

Bernardsville, March 28.—The poorer children in the first, second and third grades of the Bernardsville schools are now receiving lunches for 1 cent. They get about 5 cents worth of food, however, for that sum, the Visiting Nurse association and the Parent-Teachers' association meeting the deficit. The system is for the pupil to hand the teacher a cent, for which a card is issued entitling the pupil to a lunch.

SHIPPING INTERESTS OBJECT TO PLANS

Public Hearing on Bay Bridge Proposition is Set for April 19.

Plans for the proposed new Central Railroad bridge over Newark Bay are on file in room 804, Army and Navy building, New York city, where they may be viewed by those interested in a hearing to be conducted Wednesday, April 19. Objection to the building of the bridge has developed from several quarters, according to the officers of the engineering department. The objection is not confined to the proposed new bridge, but is registered against any bridge being maintained in that section of the bay. Shipping interests are the chief objectors to the bridge. They seek to have the government engineers condemn the present Central Railroad structure and prevent the building of the proposed new one. They demand that no bridge be permitted to exist below the Central Railroad Company's Newark and New York branch bridge further up the bay.

The plans for the new bridge are only tentative and were furnished the government engineer's office in the form of a single tracing sheet upon which is shown the outline of the bridge draws and the elevation of the proposed and existing bridges above tidewater. There is no descriptive matter in connection with the plans mentioned. Such description will have to be provided at the hearing by the engineers of the Central Railroad Company The plans, however, show a bridge with a track level five feet above the present bridge track level. The draws, which are located practically the same as at present, are to be 15 feet wider, or 100 feet clearance in each. Lifts are provided.

If the new bridge is finally approved in spite of the objections recorded above, it will be built alongside of the present structure in such a way that there will be no interruption in traffic nor to navigation.

The Doll Was Caught In a High Tree.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The Little Girl Who Had Big Brothers.

[Adapted from Hans Christian Andersen.]

"ONCE upon a time there was a little girl," daddy stated when the children curled up on little stools beside him.

"What little girl, daddy?" asked Evelyn when he did not go on.

"Oh, a little girl that the moon saw! When the moon first discovered her she was crying. 'Why are you unhappy, little girl?' asked the moon. 'Oh, kind moon, I had a beautiful doll, and my big brothers tossed it up in a tree and then ran away!' she said. The moon stretched his short neck and gazed around for the tree, and, sure enough, caught in a big, high tree, with its arms stretched out among the branches and an unhappy look on its cloth face, was the little girl's doll."

"Did the moon help her?" asked Jack.

"The little girl cried some more and looked almost as unhappy as her doll did. Night was coming on. It was already twilight or else the moon wouldn't have been snooping about looking for trouble.

"'Will my poor doll have to stay up in the tree all alone through the dark night, Mr. Moon?' asked the little girl.

"The moon looked about carefully and saw no way for her to climb up and get her doll. He looked about for the clouds, hoping to pile them away in one corner of the sky, but they all seemed bent upon making a dark night of it. 'I'm afraid she will, little girl,' the moon told her as gently as he could.

"The little girl could not bear the thought. She wept some more and finally cried: 'I will stay with her! I haven't a bit of courage, but I will not let my dear doll stay outdoors alone all night.'

"Then she looked about and imagined that she saw little brownies in pointed caps peeking through the bushes, and long shadows danced about the dooryard. They came nearer and nearer and held out hands toward the tree where the poor doll hung, and they laughed and pointed fingers at the little girl. Oh, how scared she was!"

"The dark can't hurt anybody," said Jack bravely.

Daddy smiled. "Finally the little girl thought: 'I haven't done anything naughty. Why should my brothers do this naughty thing to my poor doll?' Then she thought again: 'Yes, I did. I laughed at an old duck that had a red rag tied around its left foot. It's very wrong to laugh at dumb animals that can't help themselves.' She looked up at her doll and asked, 'Have you ever laughed at dumb animals?' And the poor doll shook her head and tumbled right down out of the tree," daddy ended the bedtime story.

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

To Remove Mildew Spots—Cover spots with juice of a tomato and set out to bleach. If spot does not entirely disappear with first treatment, repeat process. This absolutely will remove mildew spots, and positively will not harm the finest fabric, or lace, nor will it injure the most delicate colors.

Buttons—Almost everyone has experienced difficulty in buttoning a dress by reason of the buttons being tightly sewed close to the goods; children, especially, soil and "muss up" a dress trying to button it. To overcome this, place a pin on the button over the holes and sew over the pin. Then, when sufficiently secured, remove the pin and wind thread around the shank, between button and goods. You will find that by this method the button stands up and can be easily fastened by anyone.

To Remove Paint and Putty from Window Glass—Put sufficient saleratus into hot water to make a strong solution, and saturate the paint or putty. Let it remain until nearly dry, then rub it off with woolen cloth.

Home-Made Fertilizer for potplants and evergreens—Dissolve one can lye in two gallons water and put in enough bones to make a thick, crumbly mass. A few spoonfuls of this in your watering pot once a week will give a wonderful growth and brightness to all foliage plants.

TO RENOVATE BRUSHES

The sweeper brush bristles become soft from long use and do not sweep up pieces as well as when stiff.

Put a little common baking soda in some hot water, take the brush out of the sweeper, dip it up and down in this. Let it dry in the sun and it will be like new. Hair bristles or any brush can be treated in the same way with the best of results.

HOME-MADE PASTE

A paste that will keep a long time is made by dissolving one ounce of alum in a quart of warm water. When cold add flour enough to make it the consistency of cream. Then stir into it a teaspoonful powdered rosin. Boil to proper consistency, stirring all the time. It will keep for many months and when dry can be softened with water.

THE TABLE

Cream of Celery Soup—One pint of chopped celery, two cups of cold water, yolks of two eggs (if desired), one and one-half cups milk, one tablespoon cornstarch. Salt to taste. Cook celery until tender. Press through a sieve and reheat. Moisten cornstarch with cold water, add to celery water and stir until it thickens. Beat yolks until light, add the milk, and pour both into the soup. Stir or beat for a few minutes, being careful to keep below boiling point or it will curdle. Just before serving add half a cup of cream or small piece of butter.

Green Beans—One quart of tender beans, two medium-sized tomatoes, one good-sized onion, three or four slices bacon. After the beans have been parboiled and cooking about an hour add the finely chopped onion and tomato. Put bacon in hot frying pan, crisp and chop fine in the grease and add the beans. Cook until tender.

Fried Tomatoes on Toast—A splendid dish and takes the place of meat. Wash and slice firm, ripe tomatoes, dip in bread crumbs and fry in butter until brown. Have ready as many slices of toasted bread as people; place fried tomatoes on each slice. Make a good milk gravy after removing tomatoes and pour over toast and tomatoes. Season with salt and pepper.

Onion Soup au Gratin in Casserole—One pound or more of veal off shank, four onions, rice from lunch, pound of cheese, two slices toast; make stock in casserole by simmering meat till tender in three cups of water; remove meat; fry onions in plenty of lard till brown; add with rice to stock; cook in oven fifteen minutes; add half of cheese and melt; serve with toast croutons and rest of cheese chopped and sprinkled over top. Veal may be used to stuff tomatoes or for croquets next day.

Marrying for Money

By MRS EVA LEONARD

The Neighbors Discuss Ortrude Townsends's Change of Heart.

"My! I feel for the Townsends," said Olive Ellson. Her tone was low and eager. Nell Morton looked up expectantly.

"For all but Mrs. Townsend, I suppose you mean," she corrected.

"No, for all. I don't know but I'm sorrier for her than for any of the rest," insisted Olive. "She is not all selfish, and this stroke of paralysis has shaken her out of her indifference to others, and now that she realizes what her cold, self-centered attitude has done she certainly is to be pitied."

"What makes you think she does realize it?" asked Nell.

"She asked the doctor about his condition in great agitation——"

"That might have been a pose for effect," interrupted Nell.

"I am sure it was not. Gaylord has never liked her; thought her the most impossible woman he ever saw, but he said she was really very much wrought up over Mr. Townsend's condition. She followed him to the gate and asked if he understood what was said to him. Gaylord was very much surprised and probably showed it in his face, for she said: —

"'You are surprised that I am anxious about him. I do not wonder. I deserve all you can think about me, but save him till I can show him that I am not all bad; that I have a human side.' Gaylord says it is not all talk either; she went right to work in the kitchen and helped out in any way possible just as any other woman would do."

"Which proves?"

"Oh, nothing but that she is human, and if a woman sees her failings and sees what has been the result of her course of action she surely must have conscience enough to be made very uncomfortable, to say the least," replied Olive smiling.

"I suppose you will think me very hard hearted." Nell looked defiant. "But I for one am glad she is suffering. I would hate to think any woman could cause as much pain as she has and then be able to get off scot free herself. She deserves to suffer."

"If we all got our desserts, who would escape whipping?" Olive smiled.

"That is all very well to say, but you know there is a vast difference between making mistakes when we are trying to do what is right, and deliberately setting out to have what one wants no matter who is injured in the process. That was what she did as near as I can make out." Nell had her sitting-in-judgment air on.

"That's true enough, but I imagine that anyone who had caused so much trouble would suffer correspondingly; so I am sorry for her."

"I doubt whether those people who have made it a habit to trample everybody into the earth if they happened to be in the way; I doubt, I say, whether they are very thin skinned. They do not seem to think other people have feelings—"

"So you do not spend any time pitying them," interrupted Olive.

"Exactly."

"I have a different theory. I believe we all get what we attract to us. Mrs. Townsend has attracted a vast deal of pain, I am thinking, and I am sorry for her."

"In plain slang, she will get what is coming to her?" asked Nell.

"Yes, poor thing."

(To be continued.)

WHY NOT?

"THAT IRRESISTIBLE FLAVOR."

NEWS AND VIEWS

Conducted by

THE W. C. T. U.

Prohibition history is being made rapidly in Canada. Following closely on the news of the magnificent victory in Manitoba comes the report that Premier Hearst of Ontario has declared for province-wide prohibition to the limit of constitutional powers, to be approved of by the electors—a majority vote to be decisive.

Almost simultaneously with the announcement in Ontario of a prohibition bill to be submitted to the electors, came the statement by Premier Bowser of the province of British Columbia, that his government agrees to the proposal that a prohibition measure shall be submitted to a vote of the provincial electors at the coming provincial election, which will probably be held June 1, and when a majority vote of the electors will bring the new law into operation.

It will be remembered that Alberta, Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland and Nova Scotia (with the exception of Halifax) have outlawed the liquor traffic; that Saskatchewan has passed a prohibitory law abolishing all bar and club licenses until after the war, the residue of the traffic being under control of the provincial government; that New Brunswick has prohibition in ten out of fifteen of its counties, and that about two-thirds of the territory of Quebec has outlawed the liquor traffic.

After an unbroken debate of more than seven hours, the house of delegates of the Virginia Legislature on the evening of March 4, by vote of 83 to 5, concurred in the passage of the Mapp prohibition bill, which had previously been passed by the Senate, by a vote of 33 to 6.

The law prohibits after November 1, 1916, the manufacture, use, sale, offering for sale, transportation for sale and giving away of ardent spirits, except under certain condition. It also prohibits the advertisement of such spirits.

The law also provides for a commissioner of prohibition, at an annual salary of $3,500, and appropriates $25,000 annually for the enforcement of the law.

The enforcement bill was signed by Governor Stuart on the afternoon of March 10. The signing was witnessed by Senator Mapp, Senator Saunders and Delegate Jordan, patrons of the measure, and by Mrs. Sara H. Hoge, president of the Virginia W. C. T. U., and Mr. Hoge. One of the pens used in signing the bill was presented to Mrs. Hoge.

After the signing of the bill, the Governor said, "It is the duty of every good citizen to get behind the law and see that it is enforced. The day that he winks at its violation, that day he ceases to be a good citizen."

Rev. J. Sidney Peters, son of a former president of the Virginia W. C. T. U., has been selected as commissioner of prohibition, charged with enforcement of the law.

"No more liquor advertising in Mississippi." So saith the Legislature and public opinion, in a chorus of "ayes" that makes the "nays" sould like a vesper.

Mississippi continues to go dry, drier, driest, and the light of prosperity grows bright, brighter, brightest.

Banking statistics show a steady increase in our per capita wealth. Farming lands have advanced in value nearly fifty per cent. in ten years.

Vast tracts of hitherto waste lands are being reclaimed by drainage canals and made to blossom like a rose.

Northern and eastern capital is pouring in by the millions for the purchase of our fine timber and timber-lands.

Good roads is the slogan in every county, while the honk, honk of the automobile resounds from the rivers to the ends of the earth.

Scarcely a farm-house in this state but receives its mail fresh each morning from the hands of the rural carrier, and we confidently look forward to the glad day when this mail shall no longer be contaminated, by the consent of Uncle Sam, with liquor advertisements.

Having tried eight years of prohibition, we desire better and more effective prohibitory measures. These we are fast achieving.

Petitions said to contain the names of 1,000 inmates of Sing Sing, Auburn and Dannemora state prisons, N. Y., were filed with the legislative committees recently at a hearing in support of the state-wide prohibition bill.

The spokesman, who was introduced as "No. 11,221," said that if the future of the bill lay with prison inmates, it would be enacted into law in ten minutes.

"Most of these men have known of the effects of intemperance," the former prisoner declared. "They know it was intemperance largely that put them where they are. If they had the say, New York state would be added to the prohibition column immediately. I know, for I've recently visited the prisons and talked with my former companions behind the gray walls. And I know, too, that they are praying this afternoon for the success of my argument."

Do You Know?

That anti-liquor advertising laws are in effect in seven states: Washington, Oklahoma, Oregon, West Virginia, North Dakota, Colorado and Maine.

That anti-liquor advertising laws have been passed and will soon be in effect in four other states: Georgia, South Carolina, Virginia and Mississippi?

That over 800 daily newspapers of the United States, with a total circulation of about five and a half millions, decline all liquor advertising.

That the more than 10,000 employes of the city of Philadelphia are required to abstain from the use of all alcoholic liquors during working hours, and if they show any evidence of drinking habits when they come to work they risk being asked to resign.

That New York City's Board of Health has for many months been carrying on an educational campaign against the use of alcoholic liquors by posters, bulletins, lectures, etc.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

Cort Theatre.

"The Blue Envelope," Richard Lambert's new farce, is attracting large audiences at the Cort Theatre, where it will enter upon the third week of what promises to be a long run, tomorrow night. Beginning like a zephyr, laughter increases as the complications in the play develop, until in the last act it reaches a veritable hurricane. The excellent cast of farceurs includes such favorites as Walter Jones, Carrie Reynolds, George Probert, Josie Sadler, George W. Howard, Beth Franklyn, Ralph Nairn, Henry Stockbridge, John L. Kearney, Belle Theodore and Ford Fenimore. Seats are selling four weeks in advance.

Hudson Theatre.

"The Cinderella Man," Edward Childs Carpenter's delightful fairy tale for grown-ups, which Oliver Morosco is presenting at the Hudson Theatre, will enter upon the eleventh week of its run tomorrow night. The splendid cast is headed by Shelley Hull and Phoebe Foster, and includes Frank Bacon, Charles Lane, Reginald Mason, Berton Churchill, Theodore Babcock, Lucille La Verne, Hazel Turney and others.

Erstwhile Susan.

New York theatregoers have discovered one thing that beats the Dutch—and that's the play, "Erstwhile Susan." This three-act comedy—all about the Dutch of Pennsylvania—their comical sayings, dress and behavior, is as unique and fascinating as a trip through the heart of a section of America as picturesque and humorously distinctive as the Dutchiest spot in Holland.

The Gaiety Theatre, in New York, is housing "Erstwhile Susan." Crowds have flocked to it because it is so peculiar. They have also flocked to see it because its principal part is being acted by America's foremost comedienne, Mrs. Fiske. People usually associate Mrs. Fiske with "high brow" plays—Ibsen, Maeterlinck and the like—or at least the highest form of high comedy. But there is no comedienne so delightful as a high comedienne in low comedy. Mrs. Fiske fairly revels in the broad comedy, grotesque situations, malapopish poetic quotations and startling incongruities of "Erstwhile Susan."

Candler Theatre.

Cohan and Harris announce the last eight performances of that exciting drama, "The House of Glass," which leaves the Candler Theatre after Saturday night, April 1, with a record of an eight months' run to its credit.

John Galsworthy's "Justice," with John Barrymore, is the incoming attraction at the Candler, opening Monday, April 3.

Harris Theatre.

Geo. M. Cohan's American farce, "Hit-The-Trail Holliday," as presented by Fred Niblo, Lorena Atwood, Hazel Lowry, Laura Bennett, Joseph Allen, Edgar Halstead, Frederick Maynard, Frank Williams and the others of this excellent cast, continues to keep large audiences at the Harris Theatre in a continual state of great good humor.

Longacre Theatre.

Leo Ditrichstein in "The Great Lover," is fascinating houseful audiences at the Longacre Theatre. Mr. Ditrichstein's latest comedy has a peculiar interest for the public in that it presents a vivid, highly humorous and perfectly reliable picture of the mysteriously fascinating thing—life behind the scenes in a Metropolitan Grand Opera House.

The tulips are over the ground. The sun is North. Now let us put Winter out of the Home and bring Spring in.

Spring came days ago to Wanamaker's. It is coming in fresh every morning. From the Holland rose bushes on the Subway floor to the exquisite hand-decorated enamel bedroom suites on the Seventh Gallery, here is Spring merchandise enough for ten thousand homes of the right sort.

SPRING comes in first through the windows of the bedroom.

Nights are not so cold. A light comforter may replace the heavier winter quilt. A pretty printed spread and bolster covers will give a new, fresh touch to the room. Perhaps the mattresses should be gone over and re-made. Or it might be better to get a new mattress, made to your order in our sanitary workrooms. Our specializing in bed-coverings and bedding has put us at the head of New York stores dealing in that important group of merchandise. Spring stocks are full and fine. Prices are very reasonable, because of the large business we do.

Third Gallery, New Building.

Hair mattresses start at $16, for full size.
Box springs at $13.50. Feather pillows at $1.25.

Seventh Gallery, New Building.

HAND-DECORATED enamel furniture for the bed chamber is being put into many fine homes.

One can furnish a room with matched bedstead, bureau, dressing table and chiffonier in white enamel, for as little as $63.75. Or one may spend $1,544 and be the proud possessor of an exquisite 10-piece Louis Seize suite in white enamel and powdered gold.

A child's bedroom suite of bedstead, bureau, chiffonier, dressing table, wardrobe and costumer, is $192.85. It is in cream enamel, with blue-bird decorations put on by hand in our atelier. The interiors of this child's suite are mahogany.

French gray, white, ivory, cream—you may have the enamel you prefer. And we will put on whatever decorations you wish—paint them in colors to match the decorative scheme of the room.

Seventh Gallery, New Building.

CRETONNES are so very lovely that we have assembled larger stocks than ever before.

And how they are going! The imported ones, 25c to $3.75 for printed cottons, 31 and 50 inches wide; 75c to $5 for printed linens, 31, 50 and 54 inches wide; and the American cretonnes, especially those at 50c yard.

We have furnished a bedroom in one of these American cretonnes — rosebuds on a French gray background. It is used on chair cushions, panels and seats, window seats, hangings and valance of the windows, portieres, bedspread, pillow covers, panels of screen, utility box, lamp shade, candelabra shades, strips for tables. And the same motif has been painted on the enameled furniture.

It is as pretty as can be. It will give one a good impression of what can be done with the clever use of cretonnes.

We have 27 patterns of these cretonnes at 50c yard. They are 36 inches wide. They were copied from cretonnes imported by us and sold for $1.10 to $2.50 yard. They are of cotton—"linenized," says the maker of them. He means that he has made the texture heavy, like linen. They are very durable. And each of these 27 patterns is in 4 different color treatments. Exclusive, of course.

Third Gallery, New Building.

HOME RUN KING OF NATIONAL LEAGUE PASSES THE THIRTY-FOURTH MILESTONE OF LIFE'S JOURNEY

His Grace, the Duke of Swat, Clifford Cactus Cravath, Marquis of the Ash and Lord Wallop of the Philadelphia peerage, has just passed the thirty-fourth milestone. Cactus was born in San Diego, Cal., March 23, 1882, and began playing ball in the theasaphical city. In 1903 he became an Angel, and for five seasons he played in a Los Angeles uniform, his batting averages during that period ranging from .259 to .303. He was sold to the Boston Red Sox in 1908, and after a disappointing season in the Johnson circuit he was turned over to the White Sox. Comiskey swapped the Californian to Joe Cantillon, then the pilot of the Washington Joe Millers. He wasn't good enough even for that imitation ball club, and was released to Minneapolis early in the 1909 season.

It is at this point in Cravath's career that the plot begins to thicken. With the brand of failure set upon his noble brow by three major league managers, Cactus was inspired with the ambition to show them up and prove them liars. With a vertebrate, failure is often the beginning of success, and it was so in the case of our heavy-footed hero. In 1910, his second season with the Minneapolis Millers, Cravath batted .326 and poled out 14 home runs. The next year he batted .363 and hung up a record of 29 home runs.

These exploits naturally aroused interest in big league circles. Cravath looked ripe for a come-back, and he landed with Red Dooin's Phillies, the Quaker management paying something like $4,000 for the slugger. The hard-hitting outfielder, who batted for a total of 387 bases with the Millers in 1911, showed a considerable drop in the National League, but his performance was very satisfactory. His batting average in 1912 was .284, and he annexed 11 homers. The next season he fattened his average to .341, with 19 complete circuit hits to his credit. In 1914 he batted only .298, but he had 19 home runs, and last season, while his swatting average was only .285, he got 24 circuit clouts. This was the best major league home run record since 1899, when Buck Freeman, of the Washington Nationals, got 25. The nearest approach to Cravath's 1915 home run record since the beginning of the present century was made by Schulte, of the Cubs, who got 21 homers in 1911.

Cravath's rather disappointing work in the world's series took some of the shine off his home run crown. Gabby wasn't up to form in the argument with the Red Sox, but at that it is to be remembered that he hit several balls in the Braves Field which would have been homers on any other field in the country.

Cravath was lucky in landing with the Phillies, because a large proportion of his home runs have been over the short wall on his home grounds. It is improbable that very many of his long-lifted flies would have been caught on any field, but not a few of them would, under less favorable circumstances, doubtless be only doubles or triples. Gabby has never learned to propel his feet with any degree of rapidity, and these short fences on the home grounds have certainly helped him a lot.

The fact remains, however, that during his career with the Phillies Cravath has been the home run king. He has averaged 90.1 extra bases per annum, as compared with 84.6 made by Sam Crawford in his last ten years with the Tigers. In four years Cravath has made 73 home runs, or an average of a little more than 18 per year.

WENCK THINKS M'VEA OR LANGFORD COULD LICK JESS

Fred A. Wenck, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, is not deeply impressed with the ability of Jess Willard and Frank Moran as heavyweight boxers. When he was asked what he thought about Saturday night's bout, Chairman Wenck said that it was a pretty fair bout for a heavyweight affair, but in his opinion Sam Langford or Sam McVea, the negro heavyweights, could beat either one of them.

SQUASH MATCH HERE.

The date for the Interclub Squash League match, Englewood at Plainfield, postponed from Saturday and tentatively set for tomorrow night, has been confirmed.

POND MEN ON ALLEYS.

Five-man bowling teams from the Pond Tool Works will roll on Gates' alleys tomorrow night.

WILLARD'S NEW CIRCUS CONTRACT FOR $150,000

Jess Willard arrived in Chicago yesterday with his right hand in bandages. Otherwise he showed no ill effects of his contest with Frank Moran in New York Saturday night.

The champion will remain with his family here until he starts his season with a circus April 29. It was said that his contract with the circus calls for $150,000.

"I did not knock out Moran because a knockout would have had a bad effect on the fighting game in New York, and there is enough feeling against it now," said Willard. "I do not intend to retire. I am not that much of a fool, even if they do say things about me."

Willard grinned when asked if the satchel he carried coutained the money he won.

"I've got some of it, all right," he said, "and Tom Jones is coming along with the rest."

Playing for First Time in a Year, Girls Win at Scotch Plains.

Although inactive for a year, the Young Women's Hebrew Association basketball team defeated the Sunshine Weavers, of the Scotch Plains Parish House last night, on the latter's court, by a score of 9 to 7. During the first half the Plainfield young women held the Scotch Plains lassies scoreless while they tallied six counts. By changing their line-up somewhat the Sunshine Weavers numbered seven points during the second half, while the Y. W. H. A. secured a goal and a foul. Miss Sadie Rothberg, playing center, threw one of the prettiest baskets of the game.

CHURCHES ASK CASH MADE ON BIG FIGHT

Charities Want Share of the $40,000 Profit From the Willard-Moran Bout.

Since it became known that Tex Rickards, promoter of the Willard-Moran fight Saturday night, would make a profit of more than $40,000 on the contest he has been besieged with letters asking donations for various charitable purposes. One of the most interesting letters which Rickard received yesterday was from an Episcopal church in Reidville, N. C., which is trying to pay off the debt.

The ticket count for the bout by inspectors from the State Controller's office in Albany showed that, according to the official stub tally, the total receipts were $150,608. The State's share, 7½ per cent. tax on the total, amounted to $11,295.60.

The list of tickets is as follows: 3,467 at $25, amounting to $86,675; 536 at $20, amounting to $10,720; 1,798 at $15, amounting to $26,970; 1,865 at $10, amounting to $18,650; 1,425 at $5, amounting to $7,125; 156 at $3, amounting to $468.

Tex Rickard stated yesterday that the total receipts amounted to more than the figures shown by the ticket count, as some tickets had been purchased which had not been presented at the door. Rickard said that the total receipts were $151,524. He has not yet figured how much it cost to put on the bout, but the expenditures will be almost $110,000.

Rickard has also given Moran a share of $3,250 in the moving pictures. There are still several details of the bout which have not yet been settled, but Rickard stated last evening that the profits would amount to more than $40,000.

TEAMS GIVE A DANCE.

The basketball teams of North Plainfield High School gave the members of the Plainfield High School basketball teams a dance in the Harrison Avenue School Saturday evening. One hundred and fifty young people were present at the affair, which was a success in every way. The music was furnished by an orchestra from Westfield. Refreshments were served at 11 o'clock. The committee in charge of the dance was composed of Harry Kirch, John Dawe and Warren Townley.

COLUMBIA GETS LATE START.

Coach Andy J. Coakley, of the Columbia baseball team, gave his men the first outdoor workout of the season yesterday afternoon.

The first two games on the Columbia schedule were canceled officially yesterday. It had been realized for a week that they could not be played. The first was scheduled for tomorrow with Manhattan College, and the second on Saturday with Rutgers. Games with Amherst, City College, and a second visit by the Manhattan College team are listed for next week.

UNOS ON EAGLES' LANES.

The Unos will bowl the Eagles on the F. O. E. drives tonight.

ST. JOSEPH'S MEETING.

A baseball meeting will be held at the St. Joseph's Club in the borough tonight.

LOCAL GOLFER LOSES IN BIG TOURNAMENT

Mrs. Lawrence Defeated in the Second Eight of North and South Title Play.

Mrs. C. B. Lawrence, of this city, lost to Mrs. Lawrence Swift, Yahnundasis, five up and three to play in the second eight of the first round of match play yesterday in the annual United North and South Golf Championship for women at Pinehurst.

In the first division, Mrs. J. V. Hurd, Pittsburgh C. C., made a runaway match with Miss Priscilla Beall. She played to the turn in 41 on the No. 2 course, and with a stymie penalty on one hole she finished the match on the eleventh green 8 to 7.

Mrs. R. H. Barlow, Merion Cricket Club, had to play her best game to beat Mrs. George Roope. They played out in 34 each and were even at the end of the first six holes coming in. Mrs. Barlow played two perfect shots on the sixteenth and had a short putt for a three. This won easily, and with a par 3 on the seventeenth the match ended 2 and 1 in her favor.

Mrs. M. J. Scammell, Oakmont, had an uphill fight with Miss Elinor Gates. She was 5 down going to the eighth hole. She won the eighth and ninth and turned for home 3 down. Winning four and losing one of the next eight holes, she was all even going to the last hole. When her opponent was bunkered on her third shot and failed to recover, she won the hole with a 5 and the match 1 up.

Philip Carter, the junior metropolitan champion, and H. J. Topping, Greenwich, beat M. J. Brady, Oakley, and Tom McNamara, New York, 3 and 2 in a four-ball match over the No. 3 course in the afternoon. Approximating one putt on the sixth hole, Carter made a 71. Brady had the next best score of 75.

THROWS BASKETBALL IN THE WRONG GOAL

Miss Ball Treds Unusual Path to Fame—Peg Seconds Win on Hope Chapel Court.

Hope chapel girls played the best game of the season on their home court last night, but were defeated by the P. E. G. S. second team, 13 to 9. For two of their points the losers were indebted to Miss Lillian Ball, a new member of the Pegs, who threw the ball into her opponents' basket.

The Hopes were outweighed and outplayed. Miss Mildred McAuliffe, the very efficient center of the Pegs' first, played with the Pegs and made more than half of the winners' points.

A return game, to be played on the Plainfield High School court, the Pegs' home floor, is pending for Wednesday night, April 5.

TRAINER LEWIS COLLAPSES.

Willie Lewis, who trained Frank Moran for his bout with Jess Willard, suffered a nervous breakdown at his home in the Bronx after he returned from Madison Square Garden Saturday night, and yesterday was seriously ill. More than a week ago, at the most critical period of Moran's training, Lewis' seven-year-old son, Willie Jr., died. Since that time the trainer has endeavored to hide his grief from Moran.

Local Sport News, Views, Reviews and Interviews

LOCAL BALL TOSSERS STIRRING.

Where the leading local ball players are going to play this year—absorbing questions that have been asked many times by many Plainfielders—are fast being answered. Within the last week, the news columns have told of half a dozen or more players who have accepted offers for the coming season.

Eugene Lidgate will pastime in the league Frank Baker made famous. As Liddy is working in Philadelphia, his Saturday engagements won't entail a whole lot of traveling. Cliff Randolph, Nibs Hand and Tommy Mullin will be back with the Pacers, playing in Perth Amboy on Sundays and in Washington, N. J., on Saturdays. Jimmy Emery will second base it for Rahway. There's a wealth of talent left here, too, and semi-pro managers know it. There are still a number of first class battery men, infielders and outfielders around these diggin's who will consider offers for the coming summer.

SNOWBIRD GOLFERS.

Winter snow cannot daunt a coterie of golfers who play at the Westfield links. They have played all winter, two of them not having missed a single Sunday since the regular season ended last fall. On two or three occasions they played in a driving snowstorm. Included in the group are L. J. Deitz, G. J. Morgan, John Barr, A. E. Keller, J. A. Worth, Samuel Armstrong, Bruce Rice, R. M. Morrison, G. R. Rucker, S. Ohki and M. Yamawaki.

The Westfield course, by the way, will undergo few changes this year. The club remodeled its links last year enough to last for a few seasons. One improvement planned is to do away with the terrace on the second green by filling in the lower half level with the upper plateau part.

The American League always has a joke outfit. Last year the paragraphers divided attention between the Indians and Athletics. Looks as though no one will pay any attention to the Cleveland crew this year, except to roast the management and players. Lee Fohl is up against a tough proposition. He took hold of the club when it was not as strong as some of the amateur clubs in the Cleveland territory. The newspapers were panning the backers and players. The members of the team looked upon their jobs as the biggest jokes imaginable, refused to keep in training and went on the field each day with the idea of getting back to their homes as quickly as possible. A new management has taken hold of the Indians this season. Cleveland refuses to accept the change in any spirit of boosting, however, and the newspaper scribes are already hammering the system, knocking the players and taking punches at Lee Fohl. It is a great handicap to buck against public sentiment, for when the newspapers are combined against a team it destroys the confidence of the fellows. Ohio seems to breed knockers; Cincinnati has always been noted for them.

Do You Want a "Guest-Tenant?"

When you rent a room of your home to someone, you secure a "guest-tenant." Your "roomer" is a guest of your house, on a business basis—but still a guest, somewhat in touch with your home, and this makes it highly important that the person should be of the right sort.

In advertising a furnished room it is a simple matter to indicate that the tenant-to-be must have reasonably convincing credentials as to character. You will thus have applications from a desirable class of people while a door sign or window card would merely bring to you the chance passer-by.

TORPEDO SANK STEAMER SUSSEX

Captain's Report Makes Explicit Statement.

WILSON AWAITS ALL FACTS

Situation Regarded by Government Officials as Very Grave — Break In Friendly Relations With Germany Seems More Than Probable — Congress to Back Up President.

London, March 28.—The captain of the channel steamer Sussex has made his report to the admiralty. It is in all essentials identical with the French official statements. The captain states explicitly that he saw the torpedo which destroyed the vessel.

This statement is supported by a piece of metal found on the deck of the Sussex and which is now in the possession of the admiralty. Officials say that the fragment is undoubtedly from a torpedo.

The American embassy's investigations have been concluded. Ambassador Page has reported the admiralty's opinions to the state department at Washington.

It was learned that the Sussex is by no means the first channel boat the Germans have attacked. It is stated that numerous other attempts have been made to sink vessels plying between English and French channel ports, but they were all unsuccessful.

Eugene Shoecraft, one of the American embassy's secretaries, visited several injured Americans in the hospital at Dover and telegraphed to Ambassador Page that W. G. Penfield, who is suffering from a broken thigh and several other injuries, is not in a serious condition.

Two Seriously Injured.

The condition of George Crocker, another American, however, is serious. Crocker has a fractured skull and scalp wounds. J. D. Armitage of New York, who is a naturalized American, born in England, is suffering from the effects of the shocks and several bruises. His condition is not serious.

A telegram from Paris states that Professor James Mark Baldwin, Mrs. Baldwin and Miss Elizabeth Baldwin are at Wimeraux, near Boulogne. Miss Baldwin was seriously hurt.

This accounts for all Americans who were on the Sussex. No American lives were lost, and only two, Crocker and Miss Baldwin, are seriously injured.

The American consul at Bristol reports to the embassy here that the steamship Englishman, which was sunk on the same day the Sussex was destroyed, was not engaged in government business. P. Buckley, an American horseman, whose address is not known, was killed. The total number of those killed in the sinking of the Englishman is seven horsemen and three members of the crew.

A coroner's jury began an inquest over three of the bodies of Sussex victims. Two were Belgians and the third an Italian.

President May Act Soon.

Washington, March 28.—With the tension in official circles hourly increasing as cable dispatches bring fresh evidence that the English channel steamer Sussex was torpedoed without warning, the submarine issue with Germany is authoritatively described as having reached the stage where President Wilson may soon be forced to take summary action.

The president will reserve final judgment until all the evidence in the case is before him. If he finds that the Sussex was attacked without warning, in violation of the pledges of Germany, he will advise congress of what he proposes to do and proceed to act.

According to the best information obtainable in official quarters, there will be no preliminaries and no further time lost in negotiations if complete evidence shows that Germany has countenanced attacks in violation or in evasion of guarantees repeatedly made to the United States as to the conduct of submarine warfare.

In view of this authoritative statement the impression is strong that if Germany is shown to have violated her pledges to the United States by attacking the passenger ship Sussex the severance of diplomatic relations will be more than a remote possibility. The president is said to feel that in this case nothing can be gained by diplomatic exchanges. An inspired offer of reparation and disavowal which reached the White House unofficially from German sources met with a frigid reception.

Wilson Sure It Was Torpedo.

It was said flatly that the president is not interested in disavowals and excuses. He is interested only in the facts pertaining to the cause of the explosion on the Sussex, which jeopardized American lives.

The inspired German disavowal, "in case it should be shown that a German submarine attacked the Sussex," which reached White House circles soon after the news of the president's significant conference with Senator Stone of the foreign relations committee, permeated diplomatic circles. No one seemed to know definitely where the German disavowal came from. Count von Bernstorff had not returned from New York, and inquiry at the German embassy brought the reply that the embassy had not authorized a statement.

Later it developed that the disavowal was really a private opinion of a German diplomat, expressed in the hope that it would tend to ease the tension. Secretary Lansing said he had heard nothing officially or unofficially from Berlin today. Asked if he had brought the case to the attention of the German government, he replied, "Not yet."

Englishman Case Serious.

Although the case of the Englishman may have as important a bearing on the submarine issue as the Sussex case, attention at the White House and the state department was centered on the latter because of the volume of official reports which came in concerning it and because of the growing proof that it demonstrated a violation of Germany's pledge not to attack unarmed passenger ships without warning.

There had been indications that a mine and not a torpedo might have been responsible, but Senator Stone found evidence all the other way when he conferred with the president. The information which has reached the White House indicates, it is explained, that the president and the country may have squarely to face the following facts:

First.—That Germany has not lived up to its pledge to the United States that unarmed passenger ships will not be attacked by submarines without warning.

Second.—That Germany's action indicates it does not intend to refrain from attacking passenger ships or merchant ships without warning, regardless of President Wilson's stand that the rights of American citizens must enjoy the protection which international law accords them on the seas.

Effective Action Necessary.

The president is said to realize fully now that, having taken his stand for the protection of American rights under international law, he must stick to it or unconditionally surrender. The protracted exchanges of notes and the diplomatic parleys have encouraged the president to believe that Germany would gradually adhere to the American point of view, and for this reason, it is said, the president has strained every point to keep negotiations on an amicable basis, but the cumulative evidence that German submarines are attacking passenger ships and merchant ships without warning and the fact that American lives have been endangered and sacrificed in the Sussex and Englishman cases have brought the president to the realization that something more effective than diplomatic communications is necessary.

This at least is the authoritative statement of the president's attitude which comes from White House officials. Incidentaly it may be said there is no attempt being made to emphasize the gravity of the situation for the special benefit of German officialdom. This has been the case in certain instances in the past, when it was felt that German opinion might be best educated to believe that the president and the United States were in deadly earnest. The tendency now is to minimize the gravity rather than to accentuate it.

Officials Are Reserved.

Explanations at the state department were uniformly reserved. No comment was made officially on the cause of the explosion, although Secretary Lansing admitted that several American passengers in sworn statements said they had seen the wake of a torpedo. In addition, the American consul at Boulogne reported that a French officer there had found a fragment of what appeared to be a German torpedo on the damaged deck of the Sussex. Unofficial reports that the Dutch government had gone far to prove that the Tubantia was torpedoed by means of a broken fragment of torpedo rescued from the deck of that ship gave added interest to the consul's report.

When asked if it would be necessary to prove definitely that a German submarine sank the Sussex in case it was shown that the ship was torpedoed, an official of the state department said it would not be reasonable to presume that any other than a German submarine could have been responsible.

"I have never heard of an Austrian or Turkish submarine torpedoing vessels in the British channel," was the verbatim reply.

Leaders in both the senate and house are convinced that the president will proceed cautionsly, and there is every indication that he will have the solid backing of both branches of congress in whatever action he decides to take.

The president is understood to have informed Senator Stone that he would keep congress advised of developments, and congress leaders will be informed in advance of any contemplated drastic action. That the president may go before congress after he has reached his decision and review the entire German submarine controversy is considered one of the possible courses of action which may be precipitated by the case of the Sussex.

ALLIED LEADERS CONVENE.

Representatives of Seven Nations Hold War Council In Paris.

Paris, March 28.—Military and political leaders of seven allies, comprising some of the greatest brains of the war, convened for a two day conference, the results of which may be among the most momentous events of history.

Extraordinary precautions to guard against a great Zeppelin raid while the war council of the allies is in session were taken by the French military authorities. The greatest fleet of aeroplanes that has maneuvered above the capital in many months took the air promptly at dawn to patrol the skies. Lines of air scouts extended far outside the city over the northern suburbs. Relays of aviators kept constant watch for Zeppelins from the district north of Compiegne.

KITTREDGE AND 13 OTHERS FINED

Hudson County Ballot Fraud Cases Ended.

Jersey City, March 28.—Alexander J. Kittredge was fined $1,000 by Judge G. G. Tennant as a result of his second conviction for tampering with election returns in Hoboken. Thirteen others who pleaded non vult after their convictions on a similar charge had been set aside on an appeal by the court of errors were fined $500 each by Judge M. H. Sullivan.

They were William Maher, Leo J. Duffy, John Matthews, Thomas O'Reilly, Joseph Brannelly, Thomas F. Brady, Alfred Lehman, Gustav Ising, Louis Baeder, Joseph Cassidy, Jeremiah J. Ryan, Patrick Connell and William F. Burtis. They were members of the Democratic faction opposing the Wittpenn forces, and as a result of their tampering with the returns the anti-Wittpennites were elected.

They were all indicted in 1913 and tried early in 1914. All were convicted and sentenced to terms of from one to three years in state prison. They appealed their convictions, and the errors court dismissed the convictions because of a technical error in the indictment.

Thirteen of the men pleaded non vult prior to being brought up for a second trial. Kittredge was tried a few weeks ago and reconvicted. He was a Democratic county committeeman.

FARMERS MUST COOL MILK.

State Health Department Adopts New Rule For May 1.

Trenton, March 28.—A rule has been adopted by the state department of health, to take effect May 1, requiring that all milk delivered by producers at creameries or milk shipping stations shall have been cooled to a temperature of 60 degrees F. or below before delivery.

This information was contained in a bulletin issued by the state department, which also stated that creamery men will be notified that this matter will be covered by the new state sanitary code and ultimately a lower temperature may be required.

WONDERFUL EXPOSITION AT SAN DIEGO OPEN FOR SECOND YEAR

Miss "SAN DIEGO-1916"

Not content with breaking all Exposition records by remaining an entire year, San Diego's International enterprise has started on its second year, with March 19 as Dedication Day.

In the face of the world war, and the Mexican complications, the United States government is participating in the San Diego Exposition in far greater degree than ever in any International Exposition. A thousand marines, a battalion of infantry, a troop of cavalry, three bands, 18,000 square feet of display, requiring three complete buildings, and the presence of the Pacific fleet in the bay below the Exposition grounds, constitute the government's recognition.

The 1916 visitor can find in this charming wonderland—that did not lose by comparison with San Francisco's captivating Exposition of 1915—every attraction of the old year and so many new features, including the participation of twenty nations, that it is a new corporation and given a new name, "Panama California International Exposition."

One of the most interesting innovations of the Exposition will be the attention given to the automobile. A motor demonstration field has been built where every make of American automobile will be given an opportunity to demonstrate efficiency.

The Canadian exhibit, considered at the San Francisco Exposition the most wonderful display ever assembled by any nation, is now at the San Diego Exposition in a building given oven entirely to its use. The French government's display, including the famous Napoleon relics; the Luxembourg art collection, valued at a million dollars; the $100,000 tapestries, and the wonderful fashion show of more than fifty beautiful models, is in the California building.

Flame and Orange Replace Pastel Tints of Last Season - Lanvin the Authoritative Exponent of Spanish Styles - Chantilly Lace for Flounces - Tall Combs Uphold Andalusian Coiffures.

TO old Madrid, where "softly sighs of love the light guitar," fashion is turning now for that indispensable "something new" with which to tempt jaded fancy. With the premiere of the Granados opera, "Goyescas," at the Metropolitan a few weeks ago a new impetus was given to fashion and a new style ideal was established. Feminine imagination was fired immediately by the possibilities in Spanish modes, Spanish colors, Spanish sashes and jackets and alluring mantillas; and now the dressmakers are rushed to death, applying black lace over orange satin and touching up flame colored dance frocks with spangles and purple rosettes.

For color is the strong feature in the Spanish costumes. One may riot in color, revel in it—have a perfect orgy of color. No more pallid baby blues and washed out pinks for the brilliant brunette type of woman whose inmost soul has been yearning for the deep, rich hues that best set off her beauty! Now she may have a scarlet and orange frock glittering with spangles, and a mantilla-wrap of black lace over flame silk splashed with gorgeous blooms.

Lanvin Sets the Pace in Spanish Modes.

Over in Paris one astute couturier is able to say that she foresaw the coming craze for Spanish costumes and proves it by a number of brilliant frocks and wraps put out early in the season. And while Lanvin has been insisting on Spanish modes most of the other couturiers have been trying to convince femininity the world round that Watteau, Louis Seize and Second Empire style-influence was dominating fashion this spring. Lanvin, quite properly comes back at them with the indisputable assertion that Second Empire fashions are in themselves Valesquez types revived. In the days of the Empress Eugenie, who reigned undisputed queen of fashion during the Second Empire, many women turned to Valesquez motifs for costumes designed to astonish the social world. So it is perfectly reasonable that Spanish styles should appear with Second Empire styles now and after all the Spanish opera coming at this psychological moment to fire feminine fancy is but a coincidence.

Perhaps the fetching raiment of Miss Geraldine Farrar—now Mrs. Lou-Tellegen—in "Carmen" has had something to do also in establishing the Spanish vogue. "Carmen," with Miss Farrar in the title role, is going all over the United States as a movie, so those who cannot see the "Carmen" costumes worn by the singer in the opera, may feast their eyes on her "Carmen" wearables in the motion picture presentation. The movie costumes are not the same ones worn by Miss Farrar in the opera, but none the less are they gorgeously, captivatingly Spanish.

One worn by Miss Farrar as the film "Carmen" shows a satin skirt with two deep flounces from the knee and an embroidered and deeply fringed Spanish shawl draped over one shoulder and part of the skirt. Women who possess these handsome fringed shawls should get them out now and have them incorporated in new gowns or made into summer evening wraps. It would seem a pity to cut one of these beautiful shawls, of which there are many specimens treasured as heirlooms in American families; but an expert dressmaker can drape such a shawl very cleverly without touching it with the scissors.

Black Lace in Demand.

In "Goyescas," the Granados opera which tells a story of old Madrid, Miss Anna Fitziu as "Rosario," wears a wonderful black lace costume designed after a Goya painting, "Maja Vestida" (the clothed maja) in the Prado Museum at Madrid. Nearby hangs the companion painting "Maja Desnuda" (the unclothed maja) and some rather laughable misunderstandings have arisen concerning the maja costume copied after the Goya painting in the Prado, to be worn on the Metropolitan Opera House stage in New York. The Goya costume as worn by Miss Fitziu, the new prima donna who has made her debut in "Goyescas," is pictured. It is made almost entirely of black lace, chantilly in the skirt and the sleeves and Spanish lace in the mantilla. Under the black lace gown is a foundation of bright colored satin. The black gauze fan is decorated with brilliant flowers. The lace mantilla is gracefully draped over the sleek Spanish coiffure with stiff little ringlets in front of the ears.

In her "Goya" model put out this season, Lanvin combines black tulle, white and crystal beads, and silver gauze ribbon. The silver ribbon is made into rosettes which are caught against the floating skirt of black tulle, banded again and again with clustered beads. No mantilla accompanies this gown, but the huge sleeves of tulle suggest the mantilla effect. This effect is notable again in the Lanvin dance frock pictured. Never were such sleeves as these of floating black tulle, and they afford just the right contrast with the costume of cream lace, spangles and orange-hued satin. The Spanish silhouette is always flounced and the flare occurs at the hip rather than at the waistline. In this Lanvin model the flounce of cream silk lace is attached at the hip to a broad band of spangled lace.

The Toreador Jacket In Evidence.

The gay little bolero coat of the Spanish toreador becomes at once a prominent style feature in a revival of modes of Madrid, and Beer has seized upon this Spanish bolero as the leit motif for a gorgeous dance frock pictured today. All swaying, flaming, scintillating color is this Beer frock, and even in its black and white printed semblance a suggestion of this color is conveyed. Over the skirt of gold and silver tissue, the stripes separated by lines of purple velvet ribbon is an outer skirt of flame red tulle on which are embroideries in silver cord. Silver and gold cords are wrapped around the girdle of red satin and the toreador jacket of purple velvet is embroidered in gold and silver also. A mantilla of cream-colored Spanish lace is ready to wrap around the shoulders or draped over the tall Spanish comb in the coiffure.

A Poiret dance frock is suggestively Spanish though this couturier is too busy pushing forward Brittany and Normandy fashions to bother much with Andalusian styles. Nevertheless his "Infanta" model is enchantingly Spanish—and being named "Infanta," it is of course intended for a debutante. Over a puffy skirt of daffodil yellow satin, distended at hip and hem with stiffening so that it stands out like the calyx of an inverted flower is a flounce of white tulle, attached at the hip to a yoke of crystal paillettes. The bodice is of white tulle and across it from left shoulder to right hip is a scarf of flame-embroidered daffodil chiffon. A startling touch of color is added in a rosette bow of brilliant purple ribbon which dangles from the hip at one side of the skirt. When one paints a word picture with yellow, flame red and brilliant purple, the result is apt to hurt the mental eye that visualizes this conglomeration of hues; but the colors are the soft sunset colors and blend, under Poiret's hand to a masterpiece of harmony.

From Callot comes a dance frock of black and gold and red brocade, a costume that is chiefly skirt for the bodice is made of a strip of gold lace that comes to the armpits and is held over the shoulder by straps of gold braid encrusted with jet and garnet beads. Another Spanish innovation is the use of black and white lace together. A gown of this sort, copied after a dancing costume worn by Senorita Tortola Valencia in Madrid this winter, is of black gauze shot with silver lines and trimmed with ruffles of white lace. The ruffles are set four inches apart and there are eight of them on the skirt. The bodice is of black lace over white tulle and a white lace mantilla is draped to form sleeves. On one shoulder is a cluster of red and yellow flowers.

Debutante Frock With Spanish Bolero.

The Spanish bolero, copied in white tulle and rhinestones, gives flavor to an otherwise conventional little debutante frock of white tulle. A rhinestone border on the skirt echoes the brilliant note of the bolero and floating tulle sleeves suggest the mantilla, draped over the arms. Another frock for a young girl shows its Spanish influence in its coloring, for it is made of orange chiffon with many tiny frills of bright red silk. The sleeveless bodice is of orange taffeta, the sleeves of orange chiffon with frills of the red silk. The corded chiffon guimpe with its rounded neck is a particularly pretty and girlish feature of this frock. Of course now that Spanish fashions are here the next new dance will be that dashing Spanish romp which is pronounced like a sneeze but spelled with a "k"; and every girl who dances it will want to have an appropriate frock for the dancing thereof. Nothing prettier than this orange and red Jenny model with its hosts of little frills could be imagined; and somewhere or other one must obtain a pair of castanets to accompany the stamping foot.

Spanish Combs.

Spanish combs are absolutely necessary to the correct adjustment of the mantilla, and even without the mantilla they are worn anyway as they give the right finish to a Spanish costume. A very handsome comb of real shell, a hand-carved comb that has come down as an heirloom, is shown in one picture, thrust into the hair at the back of a high coiffure, the hair being piled high in a big soft puff at the crown of the head.

Beauty's Eyes

THE beauty of the eyes depends upon so many things that it is scarcely fair to credit the eye itself with being beautiful. Big eyes, for instance, are not in themselves beautiful; they may be actually ugly if they stand out from the face in the manner popularly designated "pop-eyed." The same eyes in another head, where the bony structure is different, might be very beautiful. It all depends upon the shape of the lids, the size of the eye-socket, and the contour of the cheek-bone below the eye itself. On the delicate shape of the lids, their width of opening, and so on, depends the expression of the eye. With the tip of your little finger draw down or push up one eyelid the tiniest fraction of an inch. Behold, your whole expression has altered. Everybody knows the horrible, distorted expression caused by a swollen cheek, or the sting of an insect near the eye, or even a sty on the eyelid.

Therefore, as so much depends on the shape of the lids the greatest possible care should be taken, as youth passes, to preserve this line. Age shows in the eyes when a slight puffiness begins to reveal itself in the lids—especially in the upper lid. There is a well defined curve about the upper lid in youth. The photographs today show this delicate, arched curve which is called the "bow of beauty," and which follows the line of the lashes in an even width. The wider it is the more languorous and dreamy are the eyes. As age approaches this curve becomes less defined and in old age it vanishes altogether in the flabby, puffy flesh over the eye.

Swollen eyes may come from lack of sleep. If your eyes look puffy and smaller than usual, you may not notice it in your mirror but will sigh to yourself: "How old I am getting!" Try a night or two of long, sweet sleep and see what a difference it will make with your eyes. The "beauty" sleep that comes between nine o'clock and midnight is most of all a beautifier for the eyes, which are thus spared straining themselves over sewing or printed pages by artificial light. Puffy eyelids—above the eyes—may come from a gouty condition of the system. If your upper lids seem to overhang the "bow of beauty" in a swollen or puffy manner—and you are sure you are taking plenty of sleep—try dieting a week or so. Abstain from sweets and from all red meats. Eat plenty of fruit (except strawberries) and drink plenty of water. If not well established, the gouty condition will be driven away and your eyes will look younger forthwith. But should the puffy and swollen condition be under the eyes, in the lower lid, hesitate not about consulting a doctor, for puffiness below the eyes is often indicative of serious kidney trouble.

Scraggy eyebrows spoil any face. Keep them smooth with a special eyebrow brush.

Next to the shape of the lids, the luster of the eyes proves their claim upon youth. Dim and faded eyes are tokens of age, though sorrow and anxiety sometimes dim the eyes of women young enough to have still sparkling orbs. The great enemy to lustrous eyes is—overstrain. The great preserver of lustrous eyes is—rest. Eyes that work every minute their possessor is awake fade early. The fading process is hastened if close, concentrated work is done by artificial light. Cultivate the habit of looking off now and then—away from your work. Look out of a window to the horizon if you can. If this is impossible allow your gaze to rest dreamily on the farthest wall as though it were looking off to the horizon. And if you are compelled to work in a room artificially lighted, get a pair of rest glasses. These do not necessarily assist your vision. They merely enlarge whatever you are looking at a little bit so that the eyes need not strain themselves in the least.

There is nothing like ordinary salt water to keep the eyes clear and free from inflamed rims. Red-rimmed eyes are hopeless detractors of beauty and it is a pity that so many women allow such a condition to go on without doing anything to stop it. Plenty of sleep, a day or two of rest from close work, and a daily bath in very hot water with a pinch of salt, should relieve an ordinary case of red-rimmed lids.

Boracic acid will relieve and strengthen tired and inflamed eyes; and there is nothing like a boracic acid bath to make the eyes quickly presentable after a hard crying spell. Use a teaspoonful of boracic acid to a half-pint of warm water and apply to the eye with an eye-cup. A good substitute for an eye-cup in an emergency is an ordinary tablespoon. Pour enough boracic acid solution into the spoon to fill it brimful. Press the spoon up against the eye and open and shut the eye several times in the solution. It will not hurt at all and your eyes will feel rested and relieved.

Massage around the eye should be given with the greatest care and with a feather-light touch. The tip of one finger may be used very lightly; or better still a firm yet soft camel's hair brush. The stroke should be even and should be carried in one sweep from the inner corner of the eye out along the lower lid and then back along the upper lid to the nose again.

Vaseline will make the lashes and brows grow luxuriantly if faithfully applied twice a day. Apply with a very fine brush on the upper and lower lids near the roots of the lashes, and with a flat, eyebrow brush on the brows. This brushing of the eyebrows will make them appear more slender and arched also. One may have the eyebrows shaved now. The narrowest arched line is left at the center of the brows, the hairs above and below being shaved close. Eyebrows meeting over the nose give the face a harsh, masculine look and the hairs should be plucked out with tweezers. The further the brows run around toward the temples, however, the larger will the eyes appear.

Vaseline will positively make the lashes grow longer and thicker if faithfully applied.

DOLLS THAT ENDORSE THE FASHIONS

ONE of the French dressmakers, this spring, has given an exhibition of dolls in her salon, along with her ravishing spring costumes. After the exhibition the wee mannequins in their modish frills and furbelows were sold for the benefit of French soldiers. The little costumes, exquisitely perfect in every detail, were replicas in miniature of the spring fashions and a most interesting feature of the exhibition was the group of dolls representing styles of other eras, reproduced in the 1916 modes. One delightful little Louis Seize lady in tiers and tiers of lilac silk ruffles was almost a miniature copy of Mlle. Tchernichewa, as she dances in the "Carnival" episode of the Russian Ballet. There were also coquettish Watteau ladies, with nattier blue paniers, tip-tilted hats, powdered hair, and black patches; but most interesting of all were the Breton peasant dolls with flaring petticoats and gathered aprons—for all the world like the modish tailleurs of Parisiennes this moment.

FOR THE BIRD CAGE.

ATTRACTIVE are new brackets of enameled iron which may be attached to the wall, near a window, to support the hanging bird-cage. Some of these brackets are enameled bright yellow and a gay little yellow bird, supposedly a canary, perches on the end of the bracket arm. Bright blue brackets are provided with bluebirds, red enameled brackets with gay red-breasted robins.

JUNK DEALER HELD FOR RECEIVING STOLEN WIRE

Somerville, March 28.—Five junk dealers were arraigned in court here this morning on a charge of receiving and concealing stolen goods in connection with the theft of 1,800 pounds of copper wire from the American Telephone Company store room. The men were arrested by County Detective George Totten. He has arrested Ed Hilb, 19 years old, of Somerville, as the man who stole the wire. About 1,200 pounds of the wire has been recovered and it was found in possession of the dealers who were tried before Judge Daniel H. Beekman today. Hyman Cohen, and Benjamin Kline were put under bonds of $1,500 each, to appear for sentence next Friday, and Benjamin Natler, Samuel Kienbusky and Chas. Gutz were put under bonds of $500 each.

REAL ESTATE AGENT SUES TO COLLECT $54

More than two years ago, through the efforts of John Fedderman, the Louis L. Block store on North avenue, Dunellen, now occupied by the National Beef Company, was rented to that concern for two years, and the lease which was drawn up at the time gave the company the right to rent the store for an additional three years at the same rent. At the expiration of the two years the company did this, and this act, yesterday morning, was the basis of a suit instigated before Judge Rene P. F. von Minden, seated in the borough court, by Mr. Fedderman, who, through his attorney, Robert Newton Crane, of Plainfield, contended that Louis L. Block owed him $54 in commission as a result of the lease being renewed. The outcome was a judgment for the plaintiff.

CHANCE FOR PRESS ADVERTISERS TO ATTRACT THE ATTENTION OF THE ENTIRE COUNTY.

As the result of an agreement between the Plainfield Daily Press and the Elizabeth Evening Times any advertiser placing a classified ad in the Press may have that same ad inserted in the Elizabeth Evening Times upon the payment of one-half more than is charged for the Daily Press insertion alone. Thus, if an advertisement in the Daily Press costs forty cents, the same advertisement may be placed in the Elizabeth paper for an additional twenty cents.

The Elizabeth Evening Times has a circulation of 9,000 and is widely distributed throughout Union County. Thus if an advertiser places his advertisement in the Plainfield Daily Press and Elizabeth Evening Times he places it before the eyes of thousands of readers at a very small cost.

Most advertisers welcome the opportunity to attract the attention of the whole county to their offerings and with the co-operation of the Elizabeth Evening Times the Plainfield Daily Press is now able to make this possible. The Elizabeth Evening Times has earned a reputation for itself as an advertising medium, especially along the classified line, and it is a well known fact that its influence extends into other counties besides Union.

SAY ENGLISHMAN TRIED TO ESCAPE

Boat on Which Americans Went Down Ran From Submarine.

FRENCH LINES HOLD

German Assaults Against Malancourt Result in Heavy Losses—U. S. Citizen Swears Sussex Was Hit by a Torpedo.

Washington, March 29.—The evidence regarding "The Englishman," received at the State Department, shows that while the ship attempted to escape, she had desisted from this attempt before being torpedoed. This makes the case one in which the American Government will be deeply interested, as a violation of international law. Further inquiries regarding the incident are being made.

French Take Positions.

Paris, March 29.—French war statement:

According to a bulletin issued by the French War Office this afternoon, French troops made an attack last night on Avocourt wood, west of the Meuse, where the German assault was made yesterday. The French carried part of the works built by the Germans. The latter made a fierce counter-attack, but were driven back with heavy losses. They made no further effort to recover the lost ground. The recent German attack upon Malancourt was made with a fresh division, which was thrown back with large losses.

England Answers U. S. Note.

Washington, March 29.—Great Britain's reply to the American protest on the seizure of mails has been received at the British Embassy, but has not yet been presented to the American Government.

French General Killed.

Paris, March 29.—General Lar Zvo, one of the youngest officers of high rank in the Frency army, and who was decorated for bravery in the African campaign, has been killed before Verdun, it was announced today.

Twenty Died on Minneapolis.

Malta, March 29.—Twenty were lost instead of eleven, as first reported, when the British steamship Minneapolis was torpedoed in the Mediterranean. One hundred and twenty members of the crew of the Minneapolis were landed here by British destroyers.

Says Sussex was Torpedoed.

Paris, March 29.—Prof. J. Mark Baldwin, one of the Americans who was on the Sussex, is quoted in a despatch from Boulogne to the Excelsior, as saying that the manner in which the explosion occurred leaves no doubt in his mind that the steamship was torpedoed.

SABBATH SCHOOLS' ANNUAL MEETING

W. C. Hubbard is Elected Superintendent for the Sixth Consecutive Year.

The election of officers and presentation of reports were the features of the annual meeting of the Sabbath-school of the Seventh-Day Baptist church held at the church on Sunday evening. There was a large attendance of members and much interest was shown in the work of the school. The reports showed that a considerable sum was raised for benevolences and other departments of work.

William C. Hubbard was re-elected superintendent for the sixth consecutive year. The other officers chosen are:

Assistant superintendent, Dr. Henry M. Maxson; second assistant, Asa F. Randolph; secretary, Nathan Wardner; treasurer, Irving A. Hunting; superintendent primary department, Mrs. Nathan E. Lewis; chorister, Dr. O. B. Whitford; auditors, Miss Ethel Titsworth and Miss Marian West.

DR. BRADNER LECTURES ON ST. PAUL, THE MISSIONER

Rev. Dr. Lester Bradner, of New York, director of education work in the Episcopal church, gave the second of a series of Lenten talks at Grace church last night on "St. Paul and the Early Church," his subject last night being "St. Paul the Missioner." The lecture was given under the auspices of the Bible Readers' League of the church.

On Monday evening Dr. Bradner spoke more especially of St. Paul, the man, and last night he emphasized the work of the Apostle as a missioner, telling of his great work and how he was instrumental in winning many souls to Christ.

Prof. Henry Thatcher Fowler will lecture next Monday and Tuesday evenings, his general topic being "The Old Testament Religion and Modern America."

M. E. CONFERENCE IN SESSION TODAY

59th Annual Meeting Opens in Halsey Street Church, Newark.

CANDIDATES EXAMINED

Bishop Luther B. Wilson Presides—Great Interest in Selection of Delegates to General Conference to Be Held at Saratoga in May.

Newark, March 29.—The Newark Methodist conference assembled today for its 59th session, Bishop Luther B. Wilson presiding, and its interest centers principally on a number of subjects which are to be discussed at the quadrennial session of the General Conference in Saratoga next May. Among these is the proposition to unify the several branches of Methodism, and it is understood that the plan will be given a big boost at the present session. Another proposal is the election of bishops for races and nationalities.

The Rev. Fred C. Baldwin, of East Orange, this morning delivered the annual memorial address in honor of members of the conference who have died during the past year. Memorials of individuals will be prepared and printed in the conference report. The roll of dead for the past year follows: The Rev. James F. Shaw, of Westfield; the Rev. Williams Eakins, of Irvington; the Rev. Enock V. King, of Ramsey; the Rev. William H. Hagerty, of Vienna; the Rev. Thomas C. Mayhan, of Newark.

The unification project involves the amalgamation of the Methodist church, North and South, and the establishment of what is being referred to as the American Methodist church. The Southern church has already definitely acted upon the proposal and it needs only the concurrent action of the Northern body to make it effective.

Preparatory to the opening session at 10 o'clock this morning in the Halsey Street Methodist Episcopal church, candidates for admission to the conference on trial were examined yesterday. Eleven men presented themselves for approval of the examination committee.

Those to take the tests were Joseph A. Cousins, of Patenburg; Jonas Earl Custer, of Newark; Albert S. Dezendorf, Roselle; William H. Faslitt, Stillwater; George A. Hill, Stony Point, N. Y.; Albert J. Haines, Hope; John M. Jaqueth, Johnsonburg; Roland L. Luerich, Middle Smithfield, Pa.; Ray E. Marshall, Millburn; W. Harry Sutton, Paterson, and Edmund J. Guest, Madison.

Statistics to be presented are expected to show the greatest increase in church accessions in this district in years even exceeding the remarkable showing for the year ending March, 1915.

The unusually large number of conversions is due to several things, not least among which is the Billy Sunday campaign in Paterson last spring and the recent campaign in Easton, which had a tremendous influence on the churches in Phillipsburg. In addition to these, several other religious campaigns have been held in various parts of the district, every one of which has produced exceptional results. It is, therefore, believed the figures this year will be greater even than those of the record-breaking statement of 1915.

The delegation comprising both clergy and laity will be chosen by the distinctive order. Ministerial delegates will be elected by ballot by the members of the annual conference while the lay delegates will be selected at a lay electoral conference to be held on th first Friday of the conference which falls on March 31.

The Newark Conference is entitled to twelve delegates, six from the clergy and six from the laity. The laymen's meeting will probably be held at the Central Methodist Episcopal church. Each church at its congregational meeting elects one delegate and one reserve and these names are presented to the district superintendent. The credentials are now being issued to the lay delegates to the laymen's conference.

GEN. WOOD COMPELLED TO POSTPONE HIS LECTURE

Owing to the pressing and unexpected calls upon him at the present time General Leonard Wood will be unable to give his lecture on "Preparedness" before the members of the Monday Afternoon Club, on April 3, as was at first scheduled. As soon as his engagements, necessarily complicated by the Mexican situation, will warrant his making a definite date, due announcement will be made.

It is hoped that the deferred lecture will be given about the middle of April. It will probably be held in the evening, and will be open to the public. A program of special interest, to take the place of the lecture of April 3, has been arranged to follow the usual business meeting of the club.

LEADVILLE HAS FIRE.

Leadville, Col., March 29.—Fire starting at 3 o'clock this morning threatened the destruction of the city, but was finally gotten under control at 8 o'clock. The loss is estimated at $75,000.

TALENTED ARTIST WILL APPEAR HERE

Cecile Ayres Will Give a Recital on April 7 for Belgian Relief Fund.

Cecile Ayres, the talented young pianist, who gives a recital here for the benefit of the Belgian Relief on Friday evening, April 7, rouses enthusiasm wherever she is heard, and it is believed that her recital will rank in the enjoyment it will give with any of this season's successes. Her youth and genius are inspiring to the student of the piano and it is hoped that many of the younger musicians in Plainfield may avail themselves of this rare opportunity.

Miss Cecile Ayres.

Miss Ayres' program has been received and is one of unusual variety and beauty. A recent critic has said of her:

"Cecile Ayres is the name of a young American who will soon become known throughout the entire musical world. She is at home in every school from Gluck to Liszt. Her technic is absolutely beyond reproach, and her staccato is incomparably crisp and clear, and full of charm and humor. The audience was beyond itself with delight, and it was with difficulty that she was released after adding two Debussy numbers at the end of her program."

PRETTY SCHOOL GIRL KILLED BY AUTOIST

Sister of Patrolman MacIntyre Victim of Reckless Driver at Port Richmond, S. I.

Miss Rosalie MacIntyre, one of the prettiest nineteen-year-old school girls on Staten Island, and sister to Patrolman Roland MacIntyre, of West Front street, this city, was almost instantly killed in Fullerton square, Port Richmond, yesterday morning, when an automobile in charge of a reckless driver swung to the sidewalk and crushed her against a wall. The young woman's skull was fractured and a crushed and broken rib penetrated the heart, causing death before bystanders could reach her. The driver of the automobile, who gave his name as William Duffy, of Long Island, was locked up on a charge of manslaughter, and held without bail.

Miss MacIntyre was the daughter of Captain and Mrs. Henry MacIntyre, prominent residents of Port Richmond. She had many acquaintances in Plainfield through frequent visits to her brother. She was unusually attractive, and three months ago was entered from the Curtis High School, St. George, Staten Island, where she was a senior, in the Greater New York contest conducted at the Grand Central Palace for the prettiest school girl in any of the boroughs. Miss MacIntyre was awarded second prize, although a number of the judges were in favor of awarding her the first. She was the youngest of a family of seven children, being survived, in addition to her parents, by two sisters and four brothers. This is the first break that has ever occurred in the family.

News of his sister's tragic death was brought to Patrolman MacIntyre by telegram, and he left for Port Richmond at once. The funeral is to be held at the parents' home, 30 Dongan street, tomorrow afternoon, at 3 o'clock, and will be in charge of Rev. Canon Harrow. Interment will be in the Moravian cemetery on Staten Island.

DIES ON SUBWAY TRAIN.

New York, March 29.—Herbert Boughton, secretary of the Bush Terminal Co., was stricken on a train in the subway this morning near Wall Street Station and died while he was being assisted from the platform of the Fulton Street Station. Mr. Boughton also was a director of the company.

RUNYON IS NOT PROUD OF RECORD

Says Legislators Did Not Accomplish Anything "Very Big."

JUST A PLAIN SESSION

Praises Work of Morgan and Pierson—Municipal Finance Bills Best Work of the Lawmakers—Records Have Been Closed.

Assemblyman William N. Runyon is not very well satisfied with the accomplishments of the present New Jersey Legislature, according to an interview in the Elizabeth Journal of yesterday. The session was just a plain, ordinary one, not good and not bad, the local man is quoted as saying, and no member can go home, looking back with pride on his achievements of the past few weeks. Assemblyman Runyon is of the opinion that the biggest thing accomplished by the lawmakers was the passing of the Pierson municipal bills. The interview follows:

"Well," he said, "I wasn't very much impressed with it. I think that it was a very unsatisfactory sort of session. A session couldn't be very satisfactory where a lot of the members have to go around and get someone else's opinion before they can decide on a question.

"The session was just a plain, ordinary stereotyped one, that's all. It wasn't very good, but it wasn't very bad, as far as its accomplishments are concerned. It wasn't the sort of a session you'd feel like throwing your hat over the building for, and it wasn't the sort of session that you look back to with any great amount of pleasure.

"There was nothing big done. I think the biggest thing accomplished—that is, the thing which required the most amount of work and study in its preparation—was the batch of bills introduced by Pierson, and they were vetoed by the Governor. What the Legislature will do with them now I don't know.

"But nothing else was done which savored of bigness. Probably there was nothing very big in the air. I don't know that the House left anything undone which should have been done and probably their platform pledges were all carried out; but while the session may not have, and I don't think that it has, injured the party in any way, neither do I think that it has given it any great boost."

Assemblyman Runyon was warm in his praise of Assemblyman Pierson, of Westfield. He said very earnestly that Pierson was one of the biggest men in the House of Assembly; that he was sincere and level-headed, and that in his financial bills he had been endeavoring honestly and conscientiously to bring about an improvement in the general condition of municipal finances in the State.

Runyon, with his two colleagues, Pierson and Morgan, gained a lot of temporary enmity among the Essex delegation at the time the "Ripper" bills were voted on, and it is said that Dalrymple was not over-friendly to the Union county representatives. Runyon was the center of what was probably the only development of the session which savored of the sensational, and there was an open break between him and the machine Assemblymen at the time.

REHEARSALS SOON FOR "MYSTIC ROSE"

Local Elks Now Completing Cast for Big Production on May 2 and 3.

The committee having in charge the comic opera production, "The Mystic Rose," which will be given under the direction of the local lodge of Elks in the Plainfield Theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, May 2 and 3, have been hard at work perfecting preliminary arrangements. Invitations to members of the order to secure singers to take part in the chorus, which will be composed of one hundred people, forty men and sixty women, have been issued and responses have already been received by the secretary. The talent will not be restricted to Elks or their families, as it is aimed to make this by far the biggest event of the kind ever given in Plainfield and representative of the city and borough.

Robert P. Skilling, the composer and director will come to Plainfield next week to take up his residence here until after the production is given. The first rehearsal will take place in the lodge room of the Elks home on Thursday evening, April sixth.

Judging from the favorable comment which has been showered upon both the production and the composer by the press in the various cities throughout both the East and West where the opera has been staged, the Elks have made an exceptionally clever selection in "The Mystic Rose" and will no doubt receive the hearty support from the public to which they are entitled, both as to securing talent and in playing to capacity audiences.

POPULAR WORKER IN BIEDERWOLF PARTY

Mrs. Brake Contributes Wonderful Service Among Those of Her Sex.

Mrs. Marie Brake, who has charge of the work among the women in the great Biederwolf evangelistic campaigns, lives in Pittsburgh, Pa., where for a number of years she has been one of the principal instructors in the noted Byron King School of Expression, and has been engaged in Lyceum work in many of the leading Chautauquas.

She was converted in her early 'teens and has always been active in Christian work, and in the last few years she has responded to the call of God to give her life in a more definite way to the work of helping women and girls to find the way of life eternal, in evangelistic meetings.

MRS. MARIE F. BRAKE.
Director of Women's Work with the Biederwolf Evangelistic Party.

She has a rich mezzo-soprano voice and never fails to touch the hearts of her hearers in her message of song, and with her rare talent as a reader and soloist, as well as a most pleasing and forceful speaker, she is one of the most versatile women workers in the field of evangelism.

She is a woman of very pleasing personality and the women and girls of Norristown have fallen deeply in love with her, and the influence of her life work in that city will never be forgotten. Her work among the women has been one of the most potent factors in the success of the great revival. The noon luncheons for business women were a great success and the employed women flocked by the hundreds to these meetings and listened eagerly to Mrs. Brake's splendid massages. Her work among the High School girls has also been very much appreciated and very faithful, scores having been led to Christ through her efforts.

Possibly the greatest work that Mrs. Brake was privileged to do in Norristown, was that among the women in the factories at their noon hours. She, together with a singer, conducted religious services in some factory employing women, on nearly every weekday of the campaign.

LODGE OF ELKS TO RENDER ASSISTANCE

Will Endeavor to Get Information About Daniel Moody, Reported Dying in West.

The Plainfield Lodge of Elks has enlisted the assistance of the Elks of Cincinnati in obtaining information about Daniel Moody, the Dunellen man, who, according to a newspaper dispatch printed in last night's Daily Press, was assaulted by highwaymen, Friday evening, and is in a Cincinnati hospital in a condition which makes his recovery doubtful. The local Elks have manifsted a brotherly spirit in enlisting the aid of the Cincinnati Lodge in the matter, because neither the injured man or William Van Nuis, of Dunellen, who sought their assistance, are Elks.

Mr. Van Nuis went to the Elks' Club house last evening with a story of his futile efforts to obtain information about Moody for the distracted mother and wife, who want to know what hospital he is in and his true condition. He said that he had sent a telegram to the chief of police of Cincinnati Monday night, but that he had received no reply.

Since the publication of the mishap to Moody it has developed that the wife recently received a letter from the physician at the hospital of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, at Clifton Forge, Va., where Moody had gone to receive treatment for the grip, stating that he had left the hospital. It has also been ascertained that an aunt of Moody's wife lives in Cincinnati, and that Moody, in the letter written to his wife over a month ago, had said that he was going to visit her when he left the hospital, and the family does not doubt but that Moody went to Cincinnati and met with foul play.

CHIEF DOANE FACES CRITICS AND ANSWERS CHARGES THAT FIRE FIGHTERS ARE INEFFICIENT

COUNCIL ROOMS CROWDED TO HEAR EVIDENCE BEFORE COMMITTEE THAT CONDUCTS INVESTIGATION.

ALL ADMIT THAT DEPARTMENT IS HANDICAPPED

One Man Cannot Properly Handle Duties of Chief and Building Inspector, Veteran Head of Department Admits—He Loves to Fight Fires—No Decision is Made by the Councilmen.

T. O. Doane, for fifty-one years a fire fighter and for more than thirty years chief of the Plainfield department, last night weathered the fierce heat of criticism and came out victor in the investigation of charges made against him and against the local department. The investigation was conducted by the fire committee of the Council, but all members of the Council were present, with more than a hundred spectators as onlookers.

Admissions by all witnesses that the local department was handicapped by a shortage of men and equipment and a confession on the part of Chief Doane that he could not properly fill the office of building inspector while attending to his duties as head of the fire department featured the session. Evident prejudice in favor of the department was shown by Councilman Cose, who as chairman of the fire committee conducted the hearing, and by Councilman Graves, but this was more than offset by the attitude of Councilmen Hylan and Hamilton and by the impartial questioning of Corporation Counsel Reed, who finally took charge of the handling of witnesses.

J. Irvine Lyle, owner of the house at 1200 West Seventh street, where the fire of January 18 that resulted in the charges took place, was the principal witness in support of charges made by himself and he personally handled the witnesses called in support of his accusations. Before leaving Mr. Lyle assured Chief Doane that the investigation was not a personal matter and that he had preferred charges of inefficiency against the fire department through a sense of duty as a taxpayer. The two men shook hands.

While on the stand Chief Doane refuted the testimony of witnesses who had preceded him regarding the time it took the department to get on the scene after the blaze started. He declared that records of the New York Telephone Company indicated that its telephone apparatus was burned out in the Lyle home at 9:51, eighteen minutes before the first alarm was turned in. He settled the controversy over who smashed the glass doors in the front of the Lyle home by admitting that he did it and reviewed his instructions to his men while the blaze was in progress. Chief Doane testified that it was thirty-two minutes from the time the department arrived until Mr. Lyle's servant girl was carried to a neighbor's home. This brought forth a denial from Councilman Hylan, Chief Doane retaliating by telling him that he didn't know anything about time anyway. Councilman Hamilton took the Chief to task on various happenings at the Finney fire in Netherwood about a year ago, giving way to sarcasm in cross-questioning the witness. The point of most import apparently was the alleged use of the wrong hydrant by the department, Mr. Hamilton claiming that the firemen went over a thousand feet out of their way. The councilman declared that there was a hydrant within 500 feet of the Finney home, a statement which led Chief Doane to remark that representatives of the Board of Fire Underwriters and himself actually measured the distance to the two hydrants in question. One was 1,500 feet and the other 1,550, according to the witness.

When asked by Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed if he would not like to be relieved of one of his duties, Chief Doane replied that he had requested the Council to seek another man when the building inspector job was thrust upon him seven years ago. A hunt was made at that time for a suitable candidate but none could be found and Chief Doane was urged to accept the office at a salary of $500 a year. He was promised an assistant at that time but never has had one. Mr. Reed asked the Chief why he did not give his assistant answer at least a portion of the alarms and the gray haired old smoke eater replied that he "liked to run to fires and liked to fight them."

The appearance of Chief Doane on the stand last night belied the opinion voiced in Mr. Lyle's letter that he was too old to battle fires and was getting childish. The head of the department made one of the best witnesses and his explanations were clear and well delivered.

Twelve witnesses were called by Mr. Lyle six of whom failed to appear. Members of the fire committee had no authority to summon witnesses nor to put those who volunteered to testify under oath and some testimony that might otherwise have been secured was not offered, but it is not believed that the result would have been different. Mr. Lyle stated before the committee that none of the business men asked by him to testify had appeared, because of an evident fear of

Flyer Runs Into Rear of First Section — Second Train Crashes into Wreckage.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 29.—Reports received here on the wreck of the Chicago and Buffalo flyer of the New York Central at Amherst early today, placed the number of dead at more than 25, and the injured at more than 75. Thus far, 17 bodies have been removed from the rear coaches of the first section of the train.

New York, March 29.—Word was received at the Grand Central Terminal that 15 persons were killed in a rear-end collision at Amherst, Ohio, at 3:15 o'clock this morning. The accident happened to train 86, which left Chicago at 8:15 o'clock last night in two sections. At 3:15 this morning, the second section of train 86 ran into the rear of the first section at Amherst. The Twentieth Century Limited, westbound, ran into the derailment and some of its cars were derailed, but remained upright. Nobody was hurt on the Twentieth Century Limited. It was not possible to get an accurate estimate of the number of injured this morning. It was stated, however, that all those who were hurt were taken to a hospital at Elyria. The following statement was given out toward noon at the Grand Central Terminal in regard to the wreck at Amherst:

"Second section of Train No. 86, consisting of express cars and sleeping cars from Detroit to Toledo for Cleveland and Pittsburg, ran into first section of No. 86, a Chicago, Cleveland and Pittsburg train, made up of baggage car, sleeping cars, club car and coach, at a point one mile west of the village of Amherst, which is forty miles west of Cleveland, on the Lake Shore division of the New York Central. The accident occurred at 3:15 this morning during a dense fog. The railroad at the point of the accident is stone ballasted, and has the highest standard 100-pound steel rails with automatic signals acknowledged to be the best in service."

The Twentieth Century Limited, which ran into the wreckage from the Chicago and Buffalo flyer, and was derailed, was placed on the tracks shortly before 9 o'clock and proceeded to Chicago. The Twentieth Century Limited left here Tuesday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock and was made up of five sleepers, a club and dining car and two extra cars.

GALLAGHER STIRS QUIET OF BOROUGH

Michael Declares He Has Put a New Handle on His Muck Rake.

Michael Gallagher, who has been more or less silent on public questions for the past three years, promises to stir the quiet of the borough prior to the special election in April, when the voters will either approve or reject the proposition to issue an additional $45,000 worth of bonds to complete the sewer system.

Addressing a group of citizens on Main street yesterday, Mr. Gallagher declared: "I have put a new handle on my muck rake and am going to get busy at once."

In reply to a question from one of the bystanders, Mr. Gallagher said: "This is no joke. The Council, as you know, has called a special election for the middle of April, to vote an additional $45,000 to complete the sewers. During the past week I have been inspecting the work and have made discoveries which lead me to believe that we have received a poor job and that the system will not work when completed. For one thing, I do not think that the pipes have been properly joined. I propose to circulate a petition among taxpayers, which will demand that the Council make a thorough test as called for by the contract, before we are asked to spend any more money."

RECIPE TO CLEAR A PIMPLY SKIN

Pimples Are Impurities Seeking an Outlet Through Skin Pores.

Pimples, sores and boils usually result from toxins, poisons and impurities which are generated in the bowels and then absorbed into the blood through the very ducts which should absorb only nourishment to sustain the body.

It is the function of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood and cast them out in the form of urine, but in many instances the bowels create more toxins and impurities than the kidneys can eliminate, then the blood uses the skin pores as the next best means of getting rid of these impurities, which often break out all over the skin in the form of pimples.

The surest way to clear the skin of these eruptions, says a noted authority, is to get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of hot water each morning before breakfast for one week. This will prevent the formation of toxins in the bowels. It also stimulates the kidneys to normal activity, thus coaxing them to filter the blood of impurities and clearing the skin of pimples.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent drink which usually makes pimples disappear; cleanses the blood and is excellent for the kidneys as well.

VON PAPEN'S AID IS HERE TO CONFESS

Von der Goltz to Reveal Dynamite Plots.

New York, March 29.—Captain Horst von der Goltz, the secret agent of the German government who has confessed that he acted as the go-between for Captain von Papen and the men who were engaged to dynamite Canadian railroad bridges, and who afterward escaped to Europe under a passport made out in the name of Bridgman W. Taylor, arrived here from Liverpool on the American liner Finland in charge of Detective Sergeant Brust of Scotland Yard.

After giving his testimony to the department of justice, which will probably require about three months, Von der Goltz will be taken back to England and detained in prison until the war is over. At first it was intended that he should be landed here as a prisoner under an extradition warrant charging him with obtaining a passport under a false pretense, but this plan was abandoned because his evidence is wanted in Washington.

Before the prisoner was sent out of England an agreement was made between the state department at Washington and the foreign office in London that Von der Goltz should not be "kidnaped" during his stay in this country and that he should be treated with courtesy and returned safely to England.

ST. MARY'S SOCIAL CLUB HAS MEMBERSHIP OF 150

Beginning one year ago, the membership numbered fifty girls; now the roll call totals 150 young women from St. Mary's and St. Joseph's parishes. New members are received at practically every meeting. Plans were discussed last night for a card party to be given some time after Easter, the exact date to be announced later.

Many a woman's back has many aches and pains.

Ofttimes 'tis the kidneys' fault.

That's why Doan's Kidney Pills are so effective.

Many Plainfield women know this.

Read what one has to say about it:

Mrs. O. C. Moore, 57 Manning ave., Plainfield, says: "I endured much misery from backache, caused by my kidneys. Many nights I was unable to rest at all, and in the morning my limbs were so stiff and sore that I could hardly get out of bed. Whenever I caught the least cold, it settled on my kidneys, and any strain on my back made the aches and pains worse. I was treated by yphysicians, but their medicine didn't help me, and it was not until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's Drug Store that I had any hope of getting rid of the trouble. They made me feel like a different person, and I have never had any serious trouble since."

A PASSING TRIBUTE TO MISS PALMER

Personal Memories of Talented Musician Whose Funeral Was Held Today.

Some incidents in the life of Miss Sarah A. Palmer, whose funeral will take place this afternoon at the residence of Charles L. Lewis, 639 Belvidere avenue, may be of interest to her many Plainfield friends. She came to this city about twenty years ago at the earnest solicitation of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, to take up here her life work of teaching piano and the theory of music. After her home in Painesville, Ohio, had been broken up, she removed to Cleveland, Ohio, where she was very successful in her teaching and where she had the advantage of study with Franz X. Arens, the conductor of People's Symphony Concerts in New York, who was then located in Cleveland. She was a graduate of the American College of Musicians and was a master of the theory of music.

While living in her Painesville home, Miss Palmer was the organist of St. James Episcopal church and the pianist of the Grottan Smith Family Concert Company, the best in that vicinity. While concerting in a small town near her home she was entertained in a home where a cabinet organ indicated there were music lovers. With an interest, that was characteristic of her, in all young people who were trying to make the best use of musical or artistic talent in any way, she inquired who played the organ. When the daughter of the house informed her that she played a little and that her sixteen-year-old brother sang a little, she asked to hear the brother sing and volunteered to play the accompaniment. The song was "Eilleen Allanna," a favorite of a bygone day. Becoming interested in the boy's voice, she inquired as to his desire to study singing, with the result that she interested some Boston friends in the boy and it was made possible for him to go there to study with Mme. Clara Smart, successor to Mme. Rudersdorff, who was considered one of the greatest vocal teachers Europe had ever sent to this country. Mme. Rudersdorff was the mother of the late Richard Mansfield, the actor.

The young man in whom Miss Palmer had taken such an interest was Charles L. Lewis.

Miss Palmer's Painesville home was a gathering place for singers, musicians and artists, who found a gracious, sympathetic and inspiring hostess always. The record cannot be written of her unnumbered kindnesses to people who came under her influence, and she was unselfish to a degree that only her intimate friends could know.

The funeral will be conducted by the Rev. E. Vicar Stevenson, rector of Grace Episcopal church, of which Miss Palmer was a communicant. Mr. Lewis will sing "O Paradise" and "A Perfect Day," the latter being the last song she requested to have sung. The interment will be made later at Painesville, Ohio. The pall bearers will be as follows: Arthur and Leonard Lewis, of this city; Stanley and Sherwood Parsons, of Rahway; Henry Palmer and Frank Russell, of New York.

This is the end of the famous Hahn case, which grew out of the payment of $25,000 by Charles M. Kase to Hahn and the Gregory Detective Agency, to prevent a suit for alienation of affections. Mr. Hahn and the detective agency represented to Mr. Kase that they were acting for Charles F. Peaker, a negro, who threatened to sue for alienation of his wife's affections. Hahn was given $25,000. He gave the negro $2,000, turned $9,000 over to the detective agency, and kept the rest. # PERSHING PLANS CAVALRY DRIVE

Col. Dodd's Column Shifts Toward Madera.

VILLA IN CANYON COUNTRY

Americans Leave Mexicans Behind In Order to Move With Great Speed. Negro Troops Being Sent South as Fast as They Can Be Outfitted.

El Paso, Tex., March 29.—The American troops under Colonel George A. Dodd have shifted their scene of operations from the eastern slope of the Sierra Madre to the Pacific. This column is now using Madera as a base in the Santa Catherina canyon, the Seven hills district and Babricora.

This became known from two independent sources over the telegraph line from Casas Grandes. The news was received that Colonel Dodd had abandoned El Valle as a base, had left the Carranza column under General Pablo Bertaini to operate in the east slope country between Galeana and Namiquipa and had gone southwest to Madera by train to use that lumber camp as a base. From the same source it was reported in Juarez that Villa was believed to be in the Santa Catherina canyon country, fifteen miles southeast of Babricora and in the convolutions of the Sierra Madre range.

The information which sent the flying column into that country was received at Madera by long distance telephone from Babricora ranch, a short distance from Babricora station and in the Babricora lake district. The report from Babricora was followed by increased activity, as reported by returning soldiers from the Casas Grandes. These soldiers, who are being sent here for treatment at the base hospital, declare that when they left Casas Grandes the Tenth cavalry, which is a part of Colonel Dodd's column, was moving south from Casas Grandes toward Madera by way of the Cumbre mountain switchback, the negro cavalrymen having obtained Mexican Northwestern passenger coaches and were taking their cavalry horses with them in the box and stock cars and were leaving under rush orders.

HAISELDEN WLL APPEAL.

Chicago, March 29.—Friends of Dr. Harry J. Haiselden, who was recently expelled from the Chicago Medical Society because of alleged unethical conduct during and following the famous Bollinger baby case, believe that the doctor will appeal from the decision of the council which ousted him, at the April meeting. In case further consideration is unfavorable to him, he may appeal to the Illinois Medical Society, and in event of an adverse decision there, to the American Medical Association. The doctor refused to operate on the Bollinger infant, because, he said, surgery could never repair its defects. Haiselden permitted the publication of a serial story of the affair in certain newspapers, under his own name, and posed for moving pictures. He was very much in the lime-light, and he brought up an interesting question as to a doctor's duty to prolong life in hopeless cases.

JOSEPH A. HUBBARD EIGHTY-SIX TODAY

Veteran Plainfielder the Guest of Honor at Family Dinner on Anniversary.

Today's date marks the eighty-sixth anniversary of the birthday of Joseph A. Hubbard, of West Fifth street, and in celebration of the event he will be the guest of honor at a family dinner this evening at the home of his son, William C. Hubbard, also of West Fifth street. At its conclusion he will entertain a number of friends at the home of another son, Frank J. Hubbard, with whom he resides. Mr. Hubbard is hale and hearty, possessed of all his faculties and unusually energetic for one of his years. The latter statement is evidenced by the fact that he is treasurer of the Seventh-Day Baptist Memorial Fund and in this capacity handles accounts involving more than half a million dollars annually.

Mr. Hubbard, who is a well known and highly respected citizen of this city, came to Plainfield in 1855 and is still active in business and civic life. He was city assessor for forty years, from 1868 to 1908, and handled the entire work alone up to a few years ago when upon his recommendation an assessor was appointed for each ward. Mr. Hubbard undoubtedly has the record for holding this office, and his work was efficient.

Mr. Hubbard was born in Scott, Cortland county, New York, March 29, 1830. He learned the house building trade with his father. In 1850, he and his brother started in business in Allegany county, New York, where they stayed until coming to this city. Here they continued in the house building business. The last building erected by Mr. Hubbard was the old Seventh-Day Baptist church frame structure which was moved to make room for the present handsome church edifice. The old building is now known as the Whittier School and has been moved one block east.

Later Mr. Hubbard entered into business with Joseph D. Spicer, sash and blind manufacturer, but retired from that business in 1897 and is now treasurer of the Seventh-Day Baptist Memorial Fund and director of the First National Bank. He is still actively engaged in business each day.

Mr. Hubbard is a member of the Seventh-Day Baptist church and is its oldest trustee, having served in this capacity for more than forty years. He is beloved and respected by all who know him and to his close friends is known as "Uncle Joe."

He has only two children, Frank J. Hubbard, with whom he lives, and William C. Hubbard, architect, also of West Fifth street.

ROSENBAUM BACK FROM CONFERENCE

Jews of Nation Met at Philadelphia to Discuss World Problems.

Henry Rosenbaum has returned from the great Jewish conference held in Philadelphia Sunday and Monday. Mr. Rosenbaum says that the conference proved a far greater success than was anticipated and he predicts that great things for the Jewish race will come out of it.

According to the report of the credential committee, Max Silverstein, of New York, chaiman, there were 351 delegates to the convention from twenty-eight States. Twenty-eight national Jewish organizations were represented by 131 delegates and eighty-one city congresses from various municipalities had 226 delegates. In all the branch organizations which the conference represented total 3381 and the conference represented in this manner discounting duplication 1,000,000 Jews.

There was a sprinkling of women delegates and this is not only the first gathering of Jews so organized, but it is also the first time women have sat in other than a purely partisan Jewish conference. Every class of Jew was represented in the conference, orthodox and reformed, rich and poor, radical and conservative.

As a concrete proof of the devotion of the delegates when the committee on finances reported that a hundred thousand dollars would be required for the organization to carry out the work of the proposed congress $5,000 was donated from the floor, started by Louis B. Strecker, of Boston, sub-treasurer of the United States. In a few minutes twelve thousand dollars was raised on the floor. Mr. Rosenbaum pledge $50 for the Plainfield Congress Committee.

A tentative outline of the work of the congress was adopted by the conference. It was suggested that the congress consider the question of obtaining for the Jews:

1. Full and equal rights, civil, political and religious, in all such countries where these rights are now denied.
2. National rights in such lands where national rights are or ought to be recognized.
3. Development of Palestine in all its phases.
4. The advisability of establishing a congress as a permanent institution.
5. Creating a commission which shall submit the deliveration of the congress to the peace conference.
6. Constructive relief in lands affected by the war.
7. Jewish emigration in all its aspects.
8. Financial responsibility which the congress movement may create.

Louis D. Brandise was named honorary president and permanent chairman.

Judge Hugo Pam, justice of the Court of Appeals of the State of Illinois, was elected permanent chairman, and an executive committee of seventy.

New Jersey was recognized through the election of Louis H. Levin. The principles of democratic and universal suffrage will guide the election of delegates to the Jewish Congress.

FUNERAL OF MRS. SCHAEFER.

The funeral of Mrs. Susanah Schaefer, widow of William Schaefer, whose death occurred suddenly early Monday morning, was held this afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Clifton, of Compton avenue. The service was conducted by Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson of the First M. E. church, and was attended by many relatives and friends. Numerous floral tributes were presented by friends of the family. Burial was made in Hillside cemetery.

Glass of Hot Water Before Breakfast a Splendid Habit

Open sluices of the system each morning and wash away the poisonous, stagnant matter.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise; splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, lame back, can, instead, both look and feel as fresh as a daisy always by washing the poisons and toxins from the body with phosphated hot water each morning.

We should drink, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to flush from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract before putting more food into the stomach.

The action of limestone phosphate and hot water on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast and it is said to be but a little while until the roses begin to appear in the cheeks. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to make any one who is bothered with biliousness, constipation, stomach trouble or rheumatism a real enthusiast on the subject of internal sanitation. Try it and you are assured that you will look better and feel better in every way shortly.—Adv.

CHIEF DOANE FACES CRITICS

incurring the enmity of city officials. He explained that his recent letter to the Council had been construed as a personal attack on Chief Doane and that this impression was wrong. "The loudest talkers have failed to appear here tonight," said Mr. Lyle. "For that reason a hearing of this kind cannot be considered conclusive, as it cannot bring out all the evidence."

He said that seven men who had told him the fire at his home was not properly handled had refused to appear, giving as their reason that they were in business and could not afford to give testimony in such an investigation. One was a merchant and was afraid, he admitted; another's house was mortgaged to the Firemen's Benevolent Association.

Chairman Cose asked who the men were.

"That would not be fair," was the reply of Mr. Lyle. "They are afraid it would injure them in business."

Mr. Lyle was then asked if he was present when the fire at his house started or at any time while it was raging. He said he was not. Chairman Cose asked him if he had an incubator in his basement. He said he did not have.

The names of James Harris, James Peacock and Herbert Peacock were then called in order but they did not answer.

D. J. Galbraith was the next witness. He is a contracting plumber and as such works under laws that are enforced by the building inspector. Some of his evidence was against the department and he was asked by Councilman Hamilton if Chief Doane, as building inspector, passed on his work. He replied that the Chief did have this authority. Councilman Hylan then asked him if it was not good policy for men in his business to stand on the "right side" of the Chief. Mr. Galbraith did not think so. "As long as we do our work right, we don't care about Chief Doane," was his reply.

Mr. Galbraith was in the West End fire hall when the alarm from the Lyle home came in and he rode the apparatus to West Seventh street, where he helped members of the department in their work. He saw no inefficiency, he said, but the men were there early and had water on the fire in a very short time. He went almost immediately to the rear roof where the father and mother of Mr. Lyle were rescued. This was done by Mr. Galbraith and Donald Hylan. A fireman was on the roof when he got there, he said, but after the aged couple had been brought from their room the firemen left. He then went to the maid's room on the third floor, having heard someone say there was a woman there, but the firemen did not go. He did not know why. The maid was not in the room when he searched it. Later Captain Mehl, of the West End company, searched and did not find her.

Mr. Galbraith said that in his opinion the fire department needed smoke helmets and better ladders.

When Mr. Galbraith said that there were only four firemen in the company that answered the first alarm, Councilman Graves asked if these four men were expected to be on the roof rescuing an aged couple, in the maid's room on the third floor carrying her out, and fighting a fire in the basement at the same time. Mr. Galbraith dodged the question.

He was then asked by Mr. Lyle if it was not against the law for citizens to ride on the fire apparatus. Mr. Galbraith did not answer this, but Councilman Graves explained that as there were only four men in the company several former members of the department sometimes sat in the house and went out on alarms to help in the work. Mr. Galbraith was never a member of the department.

C. C. Randolph and H. C. McMemimem were called but did not appear.

W. J. Boyd, who signed a statement that he had seen the West End apparatus looking for a hydrant many minutes after the fire started, admitted that he might have been mistaken as to this and it was shown that he had mistaken the combination wagon from headquarters for that in the West End. This made no difference, insisted Mr. Boyd, as the apparatus he saw was coming from the fire, having passed a hydrant and had to come back to connect, thereby losing valuable time. Chairman Cose explained how this was possible. He said that the firemen did not always know what was wanted and sometimes went to the burning house to find out whether or not a stream of water was necessary.

"That is a lame excuse," said Mr. Boyd. "I could see the blaze from where I was and they could, too.

After Mr. Boyd had criticized the firemen for loosely-connected hose joints, Councilman Graves began to explain this for him. Councilman Hamilton interrupted by asking if this information would not be offered later by the firemen. When Chairman Cose ruled that the "question" was permissable, Councilman Hylan objected further on the grounds that Mr. Graves was making statements and not asking questions. The witness told of a fireman stopping in his work to hold a hose nozzle to his eyes like a telescope, apparently to determine whether or not it was filded with dust.

Donald Hylan testified that in turning in the alarm he told fire headquarters to "send up to 1,200 West Seventh street; Mr. Lyle's house was burning down." He was on the roof before firemen arrived, he said, and, with the help of another, got out the aged mother and father of Mr. Lyle. Mr. Galbraith came to help him after he had been there a short time, he said, and later a fireman came upon the roof. The couple was left there for twenty minutes. They were in no danger from fire, but were in danger from smoke and exposure. Once the firemen lost a hose nozzle and water drenched them.

C. O .Peacock was out of the city.

Roland Rice prefaced his testimony by the statement that it was not given in ill-feeling. He said the fire had been under way forty-five minutes, and possibly an hour, when he arrived, and should have been out. The firemen were slow in fighting the fire, according to him, and slow in rescuing the three persons in the building. If it had been his house and his wife and children, he wouldn't live here any longer, he told members of the committee. Hr. Rice said that he had expert advice that the house was unnecessarily mutilated, and that the firemen were slow in answering the alarm and working after they arrived at the fire. This evidence came from Thomas Kenney, a former New York policeman, he said.

Mr. Rice deplored the fact that there were two distinctly divided factions in the Council on the investigation. Some of the questions asked were biased, he said. He further explained that he wanted to help the Plainfield fire department, not throw mud at it; and added that no man could deny that the fire department needed help. Mr. Graves helped Mr. Rice by explaining.

Mr. Edgar, a former member of the Neversink Hook and Ladder company of Red Bank (volunteer), testified that he saw one apparatus backing toward a plug; that there was much delay in laying a hose line; that one man stopped and gazed down the street through the hose nozzle before connecting it, and that the hose joints leaked badly. He confided that in all fairness he had then made the remark that the sooner Plainfield went back to the volunteer fire-fighting department the better the city would be off. Mr. Edgar's expert opinion was that the Plainfield department was suffering from lack of training. He based this on the single performance of the Lyle fire.

After the testimony of Mr. Edgar, Mr. Lyle asked that he be allowed to take the stand again, and he told of incidents of wanton destruction, as he charged. There were unnecessary holes in the walls, he said, a big hole on the third floor where the fire did not reach; a hole on the second floor cut through to a hallway; a battered china closet; a hacked bookcase and every window and door on the first floor was knocked in, with one exception. Mr. Lyle also told of an inspection made after the fire, which showed that one-third of the fire stops in the building had been left out. He said that he had questioned every workman engaged in making repairs on the old building, and that, so far as he could learn, Chief Doane had not made an inspection of the work there until after the plastering was all done. In discussing the fire with Councilman Graves, Mr. Lyle dramatically exclaimed, "Yes, it was a small fire. Thank God it was! If it hadn't been a small one I wouldn't have my family!"

Among other names suggested by Mr. Lyle as those of men who might have other charges to make against the fire department, was that of A. C. Wilmerding, of Netherwood. Mr. Wilmerding said that he had attended as an onlooker, and with no intention of becoming a witness, but he called attention to the work of the department at the Finney fire on Denmark road two years ago, and the Letcher fire years ago, where much loss was suffered through inefficiency, in his opinion. With his testimony the evidence of Mr. Lyle was in.

Captain Mehl, of the West End fire house, in whose jurisdiction the Lyle fire happened to be, testified that his apparatus was on the scene three minutes after the alarm came in and emphatically denied the allegation of Mr. Lyle to the effect that nothing came out of the chemical hose when it was run into the cellar. He told of going into the maid's room on three different occasions in search of the woman, whom bystanders declared was dying in the smoke and flames. He has been a fireman for thirty years and stamped the Lyle blaze as the worst he ever fought.

Driver William Jaeger, of the same house, corroborated his superior's testimony in every detail, and when asked by Councilman Hylan why he didn't act differently in several matters while at the fire, he retorted, "Whom am I to obey, my captain or someone else?"

To Captain Townley must be given the credit for clearing up some of the biggest points of doubt at the meeting. Having previously been lauded by Mr. Lyle, and later by Councilman Hylan, for efficiency at this particular blaze, Captain Townley's appearance in the witness chair was watched for with interest by both sides, and his remarks were clean-cut and decisive. He said in part:

"When I arrived at the Lyle home, fire was shooting from both sides of the building below the second floor. I tried to grope my way upstairs, but was beaten back by the heat and stifling smoke. I returned a second time, and at the bottom of the stairs leading to the third floor I stumbled over a girl's body. Her leg was caught between two panels and I had to call for help in getting her to safety. He denied the inference made by preceding witnesses that there had been any shirking of duty on the part of firemen, and added that he had been in the service twenty-eight years.

Alexander Milne, who examined the building after the fire and submitted a proposal for the remodelling, declared that none of the holes cut in the walls, which were referred to previously as unnecessary, figured in the insurance; and that, in his opinion, no more cutting was done than was necessary.

Firemen Jens Claassen and Allen B. Laing were also witnesses, the former reiterating the remark that no more cutting was done than was necessary.

FISH ATTACKS DIEDLING.

Says Osborne Trial Testimony Shows Him to Unfit For Office.

Albany, N. Y., March 29.—During a futile attempt to force the assembly to act upon his bill to provide for an investigation of the entire prison situation in the state, Assemblyman Hamilton Fish, Jr., sharply criticised Dr. Rudolph Diedling, a prison commissioner, who testified against Thomas Mott Osborne at his recent trial, and some of the employees of the office of the state superintendent of prisons.

Fish said Dr. Diedling by his testimony at the trial had shown himself to be unfit to be a public office holder. The employees of the superintendent's office he characterized as a "nest of vipers" that "consistently strangled every effort at prison reform."

His motion to discharge the ways and means committee from further consideration of the measure failed by 22 to 93.

ASK GERMANY ABOUT SUSSEX

Break In Diplomatic Relations Is Imminent.

ORDER GERARD TO INQUIRE

Cabinet Said to Be Strongly In Favor of Rupture—President Determined to Proceed Slowly, but Will Insist on Complete Satisfaction — Apologies Will Not Be Accepted.

Washington, March 29.—Instructions have been sent by cable to James W. Gerard, the American ambassador in Berlin, to make inquiries as to whether the channel passenger liner Sussex and the British steamer Englishman were torpedoed by German submarines. This indicates the seriousness with which the administration views the present status of relations between Germany and the United States.

It was the conclusion of President Wilson and his advisers that the situation demanded that the facts in these two cases should be ascertained as quickly as possible and that the direct, although not unprecedented method, of seeking information in the German capital should be resorted to.

In taking this course the government is emphasizing that Germany has lost an opportunity of coming forward with the statement that inquiries would be made to learn whether the attacks were due to German submarines and assurances that submarine commanders had been instructed not to fire torpedoes at unarmed merchant vessels without giving them warning and affording passengers and crews an opportunity to escape.

The message to Ambassador Gerard was sent after the cabinet meeting.

No representations are to be made to the German government under the instructions given to Ambassador Gerard, and their scope does not permit him to enter into any discussion of the case with the Berlin foreign office. The sole purpose of the inquiry is to ascertain whether these steamers were torpedoed by a German submarine.

Merely Seeks Facts.

President Wilson and his advisers are desirous of knowing at the earliest possible moment whether the German government was responsible for the destruction of these vessels after it had given a broad and solemn pledge that it would not allow its submarines to sink vessels without giving warning and without safety to the lives of noncombatants, provided such steamers did not offer resistance or attempt to escape. Ambassador Gerard has been definitely instructed to ask for the facts and likewise been advised not to discuss them with the German government.

The entire situation was canvassed very carefully and deliberately at the meeting of the cabinet in a session that lasted two hours. It is learned that the cabinet took a very grave view of the situation and that strong sentiment developed in favor of breaking diplomatic relations with Germany if that government admitted that the Sussex was attacked by a German submarine unless in addition to disavowing the attack and punishing the commander Germany radically altered her submarine policy and gave unequivocal pledges that attacks on merchant steamers without warning would be positively and absolutely abandoned.

It was learned that the president and his advisers concluded that the point had been reached where there must be an absolute "show down" with respect to the German submarine controversy. The administration will not be satisfied with any repetition of apologies previously given. Should the German government admit that the Sussex was torpedoed, even if contending that the act was a mistake and in violation of admiralty instructions, the administration, it was intimated in a reliable quarter, will be strongly persuaded to break diplomatic relations unless submarine warfare against merchant shipping is abandoned.

House at the Capital.

The gravity of the situation brought Colonel E. M. House to Washington. He conferred with President Wilson at length in the White House. Counselor Frank L. Polk of the state department spent an hour at the White House in conference with Colonel House.

The tension was aggravated by official confirmation of the earlier news report from London that the British steamer Manchester Engineer was torpedoed with two Americans on board. A dispatch from Consul Wesley Frost at Queenstown to the state department read:

"The Manchester liner Manchester Engineer was torpedoed without warning off Waterport with two American citizens, negroes, on board; no casualties."

Should Germany deny responsibility for the loss of the Sussex, the Englishman or the Manchester Engineer the administration will be compelled to base its action on its own independent investigation of the incidents. Admission of responsibility will serve, however, to hasten the crisis between the two governments. The best obtainable information here is that the president, while proceeding very deliberately, is determined to bring the controversy to a prompt issue as soon as it is definitely determined that a German submagine was responsible for these incidents.

Once it is established beyond reasonable doubt or definitely that the Sussex was sunk by a German submarine President Wilson, it is understood, will be prepared to go before congress, review the entire situation, present the facts and indicate that there is nothing that this government can do short of breaking relations with Germany. It was asserted in a responsible quarter that this would almost certainly be the course to be pursued by the president in the event that Germany admitted responsibility for the attack on the Sussex. In this quarter it was asserted that in such a contingency possibly only one thing might influence the administration not to take that course. This was that the German government would explain that those tragedies of submarine warfare happened despite orders to the contrary and that in the future Germany would give positive guarantees that such submarine warfare will be discontinued.

Wants Full Information.

No action will be taken by the administration pending the receipt of information from the German government through Ambassador Gerard. But the investigation of the Sussex, Englishman, Manchester Engineer and other recent cases will be pressed by the state department through its embassies in London and Paris. The United States is making a most careful investigation of these cases in an effort to ascertain the facts independently of the German government, but the determination of the administration is to be found in the fact that no time was lost in directing Ambassador Gerard to make inquiries of the German foreign office for the facts.

The fact that this instruction was sent only to Ambassador Gerard and not to other embassies at Vienna and Constantinople indicates of itself that the administration takes the view that the Sussex if torpedoed could have been attacked by none other than a German submarine. It is also inferred that since Ambassador Gerard has been instructed to ask Germany for the facts the administration already has sufficient circumstantial evidence to lead it to believe that the Sussex was the victim of a German submarine attack.

WAITE CONFESSES TO TWO MURDERS

Germs, Morphine and Arsenic All Used.

New York, March 29.—Dr. Arthur Warren Waite has confessed that he killed his mother-in-law, Mrs. Hannah Peck; that he had given disease germs to her and shortly before she died had dosed her with morphine. He also confessed that he had later killed her husband, John E. Peck, with arsenic and that his first story that he had bought arsenic for Mr. Peck at Mr. Peck's request was false.

In making this confession Dr. Waite represented himself as the victim of an evil influence which dominated him in his crimes and which he personified as "the man from Egypt." Almost in the same breath he narrated to District Attorney Swann a perfectly coherent story of how when he first heard that the poisoning of his father-in-law would be discovered he bribed the man who embalmed Mr. Peck's body to say that he had used arsenic in the embalming fluid.

The part of Dr. Waite's confession relating to "the man from Egypt" was taken to be the groundwork for a defense plea of insanity and his admissions concerning the undertaker to show that before his arrest he was making plans to justify a plea of "not guilty."

ARMOR PLANT CAUCUS CALLED

Some Democrats Said to Fear Governmental Manufacture.

Washington, March 29.—A call was issued for a caucus of the Democratic majority of the house to consider the Tillman bill authorizing the expenditure of $11,000,000 for a government armor plate plant. Since the senate passed the bill a number of Democrats have expressed the fear that the adoption of the policy of governmental manufacture of war munitions and supplies may have a disastrous effect.

They have shown a disposition to accept the alternative proposition made by representatives of armor plate companies before the house naval committee to make armor at a price based on certified cost of manufacture.

BIG BATTLE ON EAST FRONT.

Russians Attack to Avoid Necessity of Retreat, Says Berlin.

Berlin, March 29.—Bent on saving themselves from a forced retreat on a front of more than 100 miles, the Russians are renewing their attacks against Von Hindenberg's armies with great fury.

The Russians have suffered no greater losses since the memorable retreat from the Dunajec begun nearly a year ago. But German officers pointed out that it is absolutely necessary for General Kuropatkin to continue the attacks or else admit defeat.

$152.11 RAISED FOR MARJORIE'S FIGHTER

Daily Press Fund Swelled by Twelve Dimes This Morning.

"My brother and I were at Proctor's Theatre Saturday night to see the picture, 'Defense or Tribute,' given by the Plainfield Daily Press, and when we came out we thought we would like to give two dimes towards Marjorie Sterrett's battleship fund. We hope they will soon have enough money to build it."

This letter arrived at the Plainfield Daily Press office this morning from 1343 South Second street, where Jack George and his sister, Florence, live. It is only an example of the interest which the big feature motion picture stirred up among Plainfield's patriotic young Americans,, and is one of the evidences that it served to instill a little national pride in some hearts. Twelve dimes came to the Press office this morning, several contributions being accompanied by letters and several more coming from youngsters too small to write their opinions.

Dickerman William, of 915 Kensington avenue, has sent two dimes for his brother, Dounter, and he with the following letter:

"Enclosed please find two dimes from my brother, Dounter Williams, and myself for Marjorie Sterrett's battleship 'America' fund. We are thorough believers in preparedness and want to do our share in the protection of our country."

Carl and Walter Dencklau, of 825 West Third street, write: "Please accept our dimes for the great battleship fund."

The Daily Press extends an invitation to all contributors to bring their dimes to the Press office in person. All they need do is to ask and they will be conducted through the modern printing and publishing plant of this paper. This in itself is a feature well worth wile and of exceptional educational value.

POSTPONE COUNTY ENDEAVOR RALLY

Executive Committee in Session Here Discuss Plans For Spring and Summer.

Notwithstanding the disagreeable weather about twenty members of the executive committee of the Union County Christian Endeavor Union gathered at the First Baptist church last night for the monthly session. It was decided to postpone the county rally to be held in Elizabeth until after the Biederwolf evangelistic campaign in this city, the tentative date being fixed for the second week in May. It was also decided to hold the annual social in the fall instead of this spring.

The press and information conference will be held Tuesday, April 25. It was proposed that all societies boom Camp Endeavor as much as possible. It was stated that the camp accommodated 200 children last summer and the committee in charge hopes to care for 300 this summer.

President J. Duer Randolph named a special committee of seven to nominate the officers for the coming year, those chosen being Messrs. Mingus, Butler and Beamer and the Misses Foote, Hahn and Lum. It was announced that on April 18 a meeting will be held in Elizabeth when Paul Brown, of California, intermediate secretary of the United Society, will speak. In conclusion the committee thanked the society of the First Baptist church for the use of its rooms for last night's meeting.

UNION SERVICE TONIGHT.

The congregations of Grace M. E. church and Warren chapel will hold a union service at Warren chapel tonight, and Rev. C. S. Gillespie, pastor of Grace church, will preach. This will also be in the nature of a preparatory service for the members of Warren chapel, preceding communion to be held Sunday morning at the chapel.

CHURCHES WILL UNITE.

The Seventh-Day Baptist, Park Avenue Baptist, Crescent Avenue Presbyterian and Congregational churches will unite in a service at the Seventh-Day Baptist church tonight. Rev. Dr. B. S. Hudson, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, will conduct the service and speak.

STONE NEWARK TROLLEY CARS

Some Disorder Marks Failing Strike.

POLICE ARE KEPT BUSY.

Agitators Are Reported Working to Gain Recruits in Jersey City—Company Says Schedules Are Not Affected and That Less Than Thirty Men Have Actually Struck.

Newark, March 29. — Sporadic disturbances leading to arrests in some cases marked the so called trolley strike. Cars were stoned and windows shattered on several lines in the city and suburbs. The agitators have for the first time transferred their activity to Hudson county, where efforts are being made to gain recruits in Jersey City. The company declares that only twenty-eight men are still unaccounted for on its roster, while the strikers, as represented by Magnus Sinclair, the Toronto man who is in charge of organization, claim an enrollment of "about 200."

Sinclair was uncommunicative. He declared that "things are going as well as can be expected." He said he had no further statement to make.

The disorder has in no way affected the trolley schedules apparently. There is no appreciable delay and to the average traveler there is no outward sign of the strike.

Several men have applied for reinstatement, the Public Service officials say. In each case the platform men of the various car barns were appealed to by the company to decide whether the men should be given their old jobs. In every case the men assigned to the barns have refused, it is declared by the company, to permit their recreant members to come back.

The first report of stoning cars came from Bowery and Market streets. Patrolman Pfeiffer of the Third precinct was on the car and drove the disturbers off. No one was hurt.

Other attacks were made at Ferry and Lockwood streets, Ferry and Polk streets and at High street and Springfield avenue. There was a great smashing of glass, but that was all. The car crews refused to join the gangs and ran their cars through to their destinations.

GRADE CROSSINGS TO GO.

Orange Mayor Signs Pact Providing For Their Elimination.

Orange, March 29.—Within sixty days actual work on the elimination of grade crossings in Orange will be started. Mayor Daniel F. Minahan has signed the contract for the improvement. With City Clerk John J. Byrne and City Counsel Arthur B. Seymour the mayor has carefully compared the provisions of the contract with the terms of the ordinance authorizing the track changes.

After the mayor's signature was placed on the contract the document was sent to President William H. Truesdale of the Lackawanna railroad. One of the provisions of the agreement is that specifying the time limit under which work must be begun.

—Do the available household workers of this city, who read the classified columns of this newspaper, know that you need a good servant?

Maximus, the man who ties knots in crowbars and holds auto trucks in his big right hand, has consented to appear at the Y. M. C. A. circus tomorrow and Friday night in what promises to be the feature act on the big bill of novelties. Plainfield's strong man will be present in the interests of the association, having offered his services gratis. He is in the prime of condition and when interviewed by a Plainfield Daily Press reporter this morning admitted that he would like nothing better than to "tear off" a half dozen rounds with Jess Willard. "Max" isn't quite as big as the Texan cowboy who holds the fistic championship but he says that Willard's punches wouldn't make any impression on his anatomy and that he would just let the giant wear himself out. The Plainfielder is a past master at the ring game and his friends believe he could teach Jess a thing or two about the "K. O." Indian Eign.

But Maximus won't appear at the circus in the garb of a prize fighter. He'll be just the plain everyday "Max" as we see him using an innocent looking gasoline buggy for convenience sake. The management will pay him nothing for the performance despite the fact that he will probably prove the best of the exhibits, barring the freaks in the side show.

Those who attended the minstrel entertainments of the Plainfield Elks' Lodge two years ago well remember the hair raising stunt Maximus performed on that occasion, which consisted of leaping from a table on to a spring-board on the other end of which was a 300 pound weight which was thrown into the air and landed on the back of his neck. He's going to do the same trick but he has added a few frills to it and the stunt will be even more daring than it proved to be on the last occasion.

Maximus has not trained to any extent for this exhibition as he intends to use it as sort of a "feeler" to find out whether or not he can still "deliver the goods." He is always in the pink of physical condition and those who have had occasion to shake hands with him of late will testify as to his strength.

Since appearing at the Elks' show Maximus has been keeping pretty well away from the public eye but the spring show fever that is so well known to circus and theatrical people has hit him hard and he is anxious to once more appear before the footlights as an entertainer. The above illustration describes the nature of the act better than words and the cartoonist also calls attention to his training routine.

BOYS' AUXILIARY WILL CONDUCT SALE APRIL 8

The Boys' Auxiliary of the Plant, Flower and Fruit Guild will hold a sale of home-made cake and candy, Saturday, April 8, at 403 Watchung avenue. The following boys are soliciting contributions: Howard Hall, 64 Norwood avenue; Randolph A. Douglas, 81 Grove street; Walter A. Sutphen, 507 Madison avenue; Carol Dunavan, 333 East Front street; Dorchester Walsh, 1144 Thornton avenue; Paul Peck, 32 Park place; Harold Allen, 159 Somerset street; Parker B. Newell, 1017 West Seventh street; Carman Trembath, 17 Chatham street.

The sale will commence at 9 o'clock Saturday morning and the proceeds will be for the benefit of the Plant, Flower and Fruit Guild. An auto will start out to collect donations of cake and candy at 9:30 Saturday morning.

ASTOR THEATRE

As a treat to Plainfielders, the Astor Theatre will show a screen adaptation of Charles Frohman's London and New York comedy success, "Jane," in which Charlotte Greenwood and Sydney Grant share the stellar honors. The original play by W. H. Lestocque, was produced here in the early nineties at the Tremont Theatre, Boston, and was then taken to New York, where it had a record-breaking run at the Madison Square. Charlotte Greenwood portrays in the film the ludicrous character of "Jane," played on the American stage by Miss Jonstone Bonnet. The play was first produced in London, at the Comedy Theatre, Dec. 18, 1890, with Charles Hawtrey as the original "Shackelton"; Lottie Venne as "Jane," etc. Charlotte Greeenwood and her comical little partner, Sydney Grant, have established an enviable reputation among patrons of the big-time vaudeville and musical theatres throughout the country, and make their first motion picture appearance in this film.

In addition to this great laugh-producer, we will show on the screen the "Better Babies," edited in conjunction with the Women's Home Companion, and during the week of March 4 to 11, the women's clubs in every community held "Better Babies" Week. The country was flooded with literature by the Children's Bureau, in charge of Miss Julia Lathrop, chief of the bureau. The Paramount Pictograph's material has been prepared by the eminent infant specialist, Dr. Rodger Dennett, of New York. On Monday and Tuesday, April 10 and 11, we will produce on the screen "The Foundling," with Mary Pickford, the movie fans' sweetheart, and on April 12 and 13, Denman Thompson's "Old Homestead.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

The address to Brown University Union by Everett Colby recently shows unregenerate enthusiasm for Theodore Roosevelt and a quasi hope for the nomination of Justice Hughes, and is good reading, anyway. Mr. Colby has, at least, a literary touch, and is readable, as he is hearable. Nobody could write the political history of New Jersey without including him in a full-sized picture. There is one thing about him which has always appealed to many who have not coincided with his views, and that has been his ability to understand that Newark and Essex county folk are just the same as the rest of the world. There are differences in customs and manners and temporary emotions, but otherwise, and in deeper matters, they are just the same as all of mankind. It is a good deal to learn at any time, and Mr. Colby is lucky to have learned it early.—Newark Sunday Call.

GOLFERS IN HOCKEY MATCH.

Howard Craig will play with Max Marston's team of New Jersey golfers who will play a hockey match against a sextet of New York golfers, in a New York rink tonight. Craig will play with Grant Peacock, a Princeton man, who is a cousin of the Peacocks in this city: Fellowes Morgan, Jr., and Schuyler Van Vechten. Gardiner White will lead the New York seven.

RESUME WAR ON JERSEY MOSQUITO

County Extermination Commission Takes up its Fight Against Pest This Week.

Keeping pace with the advent of the first real spring weather, the County Mosquito Extermination Commission will begin the annual fight against the pest this week.

Under the direction of Chief Inspector Russell W. Gies, a force of twenty men will start the work of cleaning nearly half-a-million feet of ditching in the salt marshes. They will commence in the Linden meadows and will work toward Elizabeth, completing last the meadows north of Elizabeth.

Additional plans for elimination work will be discussed at the April meeting of the Commission next Tuesday. One will be the proposition submitted at the last meeting by a Red Bank contractor, who offered to permanently eradicate breeding in the meadows by a secret process. His proposal was that the Commission enter into a three-year contract for $7,000 the first year, $1,400 the second year, and $700 the third year. He offered to furnish a bond to guarantee the prevention of breeding and promised that the work would be permanent in character.

The offer was referred to a committee for investigation and a report is expected next week. In addition, Chief Inspector Gies has other plans outlined for the summer campaign and the Commission will adopt a definite program for the season's work.

The prevalence of mosquitoes at times last summer was said to be due to the excessive rainfalls. How to eliminate the pests under such conditions is one of the worst problems that confronts the Commission, but Mr. Gies hopes to adopt measures that will keep down the number of mosquitoes to a minimum, even in the stormiest weather.

CALL OFF MEETINGS.

The executive committee of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church, has decided to hold no further meetings until the Easter sunrise service, after which the meetings will be called off until after the Biederwolf evangelistic campaign.

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

Druggist Says Ladies are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or, when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite to impart color and a youthful appearance to the hair. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Adv.

A JUDGE OF WISDOM.

Ofttimes a police court judge feels that his judgment should be based upon law and not facts, but Plainfield has a different sort of man on the municipal bench. Monday morning two men stood before Judge De Meza for punishment. Both were guilty of the crime with which they were charged. They were drunkards, with records as long as the arm of Jess Willard, but neither had been guilty of an offense more serious. One, a man of forty-two years, has an aged mother who is supported by the city. He is incapable of self-support because he is a cripple. The other was also dependent upon the community for food. To each offender Judge De Meza talked in a kindly tone and he turned both loose upon their promise to take the pledge for a year, but he said, "I wish that I had Latzo here instead of you two unfortunates. He is a menace to the morals of the community and is the real offender. He sold the whisky and I would punish him but the sale was in another county and is out of my jurisdiction." Judge De Meza also announced that he would personally protest against the granting of a new license to the man who sold whisky to these two weak-willed slaves of the intoxicant, and that he would go to Somerville to oppose the renewal of the license of Latzo. In this he demonstrated his fitness to judge the morals of Plainfield. Police court is a court of justice and not one of law, and no better recommendation could be written for Judge De Meza than that he holds Latzo, the whisky seller, the guilty party in this case. May he long sit in judgment of our crimes.

AMBULANCE NEEDS A GONG.

A happy medium is struck between the warning signals of the automobile fire apparatus and the ambulance from Muhlenberg Hospital. The fire engine from headquarters makes more noise going back to headquarters than is necessary going to a fire, and the ambulance does not sound a warning sufficient for an ordinary automobile. The Press has scolded those in the fire department before, but it is only within the past few days that its attention has been called to the inadequacy of the ambulance warning signal. It seems that those in in charge of affairs of Muhlenberg Hospital, probably careful of quiet in the institution, have ordered that the ambulance be operated without a noisy warning signal. This is not fair to the patients, especially on emergency calls. A few seconds may mean life to many who ride in the ambulance, and it could cut many minutes off every trip if its driver were also to sound a general warning of its approach, for every driver of any kind of vehicle is always willing to give way to an ambulance. Human lives are not to be trifled with. All of Plainfield and every other city is ready and willing to give way to the red cross, and an intermittent gong was long ago recognized as an appeal for mercy.

The New Brunswick Times has discovered that the ground hog has been unjustly criticised, because of the prolonged winter. It has dug up an old verse which applies especially to leap year, which proves once again that Mr. G. Hog knew his business. He failed to see his shadow on February 2, when he left his winter home, and made an observation of the weather. According to tradition, this was a sign that summer would soon be here. Ever since, however, there has been all sorts of stormy weather, with blizzards and biting cold. This led to his being scored as a bad weather forecaster.

But all these critics forgot that this is leap year. This is the year when the fair maidens not only have the right to propose, but the groundhog can change his rule as well. In any other year his failure to see his shadow would have been a good sign that cold weather was over, but for leap year the verse in his book of rules reads like this:

If cloudy Candlemas in leap year be,
And the woodchuck his shadow cannot see,
Back to his ground hole he goes to stay,
For winter will last till All Fools' day.

And so the poor groundhog has been unjustly criticised because we poor mortals forgot it was leap year. The Times received a wireless message from this grizzle-coated inhabitant of the mountainous regions by way of Millstone stating that he is much put out by the inhuman conduct he has received, through no fault of his; and he proposes to make those who have provoked him sweat for it before the summer is over.

The Governor has signed the bill providing for a revision and codification of the fish and game laws of the State, which, as the Trenton Times says, is a work that has been badly needed for years. It is absurd to think that nearly two hundred and fifty pages are required to cover the statute law and instructions on the subject in a manufacturing State like New Jersey, even though the pages be small and twenty or more be devoted to indexes. After the laws have been revised and approved by the Legislature, all attempts at amendment should be discountenanced. It has been the experience that acts passed at one session have been repealed a year or two later, only to be revised, and again repealed in the course of time. After about one hundred and forty years of tinkering with the subject, the Legislature should know what it wants by this time.

N. Y. TO PROBE HIGH PRICE OF GASOLINE

New York, March 29.—Assemblyman Shannon, of Troy, has introduced a bill to inquire into the high price of gasoline and suggest remedies through legislation. The measure suggests a commission comprising two Senators, six Assemblymen and three members of the State Automobile Association. All the powers of a legislative committee would be given the commission for whose work an appropriation of $100,000 is suggested.

SECOND NIGHT CLUB BUSY.

The Second Night Club, one of the city's active social organizations, is completing plans for a reception and dance to be held in the Columbus auditorium on Easter Monday night. Frank Burke has been appointed chairman of a general committee and the arrangements are now being perfected. The Second Night Club last year gave a very successful reception and also arranged and conducted several social affairs which marked a new standard for originality during the season. It is safe to predict that the coming reception will be marked by a number of original features.

Half a cent, half a cent,
Half a cent upward,
It's all in the game,
Said the old Standard.
Charge for it, charge for it,
Even the price and higher,
Declared the old Standard.
Upward the old Standard
Keeps slipping their prices.
No hand is out there to stop them,
No one to halt their devices.
Not ours to wonder why,
But ours to buy and buy,
While onward and upward
Charges the old Standard.
Competition to right of them,
Common people to left of them,
Dissolution in front of them,
Still upward unhampered;
Damned to the eternals,
But caring not, and they
Keep slipping their prices
Into the wheels of progress,
And always so meek and so innocent,
Charges the old Standard.

A Good Business.

A Southern liquor house solicited mail orders and secured names by writing to prominent men in small towns asking them for lists of their fellow citizens who use whiskey. If any persons on such lists purchase from the company the citizen who sent in the names gets a commission. Some time ago a merchant in a dry county received a request, and, as a joke, filled out the blank with names of total abstainers never known to take a drink or tolerate it in their homes. The business man had forgotten the incident, when one day recently he received a check for $14, accompanied by a letter from the Kentucky firm, stating that the money represented commissions on liquor sold the people on the list he submitted.

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME...

∴ Plainfield Theatre ∴

Dan Collyer, the man who made the colored porter in "Excuse Me" the hit of the show, is to appear at the Plainfield Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday in a new sketch written expressly for him by A. R. De Beer and Adam Hull Shirk, entitled "In Old New Orleans." This is a racing sketch with a punch, a real race scene and excitement and love commingled. Mr. Collyer plays the role of a colored trainer and can be depended on to do a fine bit of character work. He will be supported by Charles Sturgis, a veteran actor of the Harrigan and Hart school; Miss Bessie Sankey, late of "The Traffic," in which she played the lead, and who is a beautiful and talented California girl; Hal Castle, a well known leading man, and last but not least, Mr. De Beer himself, who is to play the part of a jockey. De Beer created the role of Tom Blinker in "The Prodigal Son" in London some years ago and was received with acclaim. He returns to the stage in this act. Mr. Shirk, his co-author, is a member of the staff of "The Morning Telegraph" of New York and has written many sketches and librettos.

In addition to "In Old New Orleans" and despite the great expense incurred in bringing it here, there will be five other high class vaudeville acts on the Plainfield Theatre bill for the last half of the week. Moving pictures, both feature films and continued serials, will be presented each day, Thursday, the "Iron Claw" and Friday "The Strange Case of Mary Page" being noteworthy features. Taken all in all the show commencing tomorrow will be the best in weeks and Plainfield patrons will miss a decided treat by failing to see it.

In his latest comic opera, "The Princess Pat," Victor Herbert has written another score which is bound to be accepted among his best works of recent years. It is quite as tuneful as "The Only Girl" and more ambitious. From the moment the overture begins "The Princess Pat" is recognized as a Herbert opera, for it is splendid, tuneful and refined with a beautiful delicacy and sweetness in its themes. Henry Blossom's book tells a possible story in a sane fashion by means of characters not distorted. The story revolves around Tony Schmalz, Jr. Tony, who lives only for wine, woman and song, yet is the hero of the operette, falls in love with Grace Holbrook, a pretty girl whom his father is about to marry, or rather buy. Old Schmalz in time, falls in love with the Princess Pat. Among the songs which find especial favor are "Love Is Best of All," "I'd Like to Be a Quitter, But I Find It Hard to Quit," "I Wish I Was An Island In An Ocean of Girls," "I Need Affection," "All For You," and "Two Laughing Irish Eyes." A good cast includes Ruth Welch, Georgio Sregario, Philip H. Ryley, Paul Nicholson, Effie Toye, Earl Benham, Ben Hendricks, Tote Mark, Francis Bryan, Edward Metcalf and Henry Vincent. "The Princess Pat" will be produced with an effective chorus and an augmented Herbert orchestra at the Plainfield Theatre this afternoon and night.

- Proctor's Theatre -

The feature photoplay attraction at Proctor's today has been selected from the Fox studios and is entitled "The Witch." Nance O'Neil, one of the most prominent of emotional stars, appears in the title role and is supported by a typical Fox cast, which means a capable one indeed. The story has a powerful theme and will grip the spectator throughout its entirety. Miss O'Neill's splendid personality and versatile talents coming to the fore with an innate force that will meet with hearty approval and commendation. The fifth episode of "The Iron Claw" is an added attraction today and Pearl White meets all the thrilling and nerve racking treatment she has to endure with the stoic calm that characterizes the work of this popular heroine of the films. Tomorrow Bessie Barriscale appears in a momentous Triangle feature entitled "The Last Act," in which she is taxed to her utmost in the several emotional scenes which she has to enact. A strong theme carries this production along with leaps and bounds, dealing as it does with modern society and stage life, and it is bound to create a sensation among local film enthusiasts. Chester Conklin, one of the most darling of the Keystone comedians, will be seen tomorrow in a thrilling escapade of hilarious mirth entitled "Cinders of Love." This comedy will certainly drive away the most aggravated touch of the blues and was made for laughing purposes only. Friday, one of the most extraordinary film spectacles seen in a local theatre will be presented in the form of "Inspiration," one of the greatest of classics in which Audrey Munson appears in the lead. Miss Munson is a famous art model whose figure adorns such noted pieces of sculpture as the Maine Monument in Central Park, N. Y., Municipal Building, New York Stock Exchange, the buildings of the recent Panama-Pacific exposition and scores of others just as prominent. In addition the thirteenth episode of "The Red Circle" will be shown. Saturday will see Francis X. Bushman, a popular star in this vicinity, in his most triumphant production entitled "Man and His Soul." Harry Watson, of "Musty Suffer" fame, will also appear in his latest comedy cut-up to amuse the little folk. On Monday, April 3, Paramount pictures will be introduced to patrons of Proctor's, the first production being "Zaza," with Pauline Frederick in the leading role.

UNUSUAL CHANCE TO OWN A FINE RED LETTER BIBLE

Perhaps no edition of the Bible has ever attained so widespread and immediate popularity as the Big Print Red Letter Edition now offered to readers of the Daily Press at cost—$1.23. The fact that it is not bulky and awkward in size does not prevent the type from being so clear and large that old people can read the text with ease. Then again, the red letter feature, by which all the words of Christ stand out from the context, makes it easy to trace his sacred teachings without reference to cumbersome indexes and concordances. Attention is called to the advertisements that may appear from time to time in our columns, as the number allotted to us may not last, and we want none of our readers to be disappointed. The coupon appears in today's paper on page 2.—Adv.

NAKED MAN SETS FIRE TO APARTMENT

First Bound Woman in Bed—Three Die in Flames That Follow.

Cleveland, O., March 29.—Three persons, one of them a woman, are dead as the result of a fire in the Fisher apartment house in Prospect avenue set by a naked man who first bound a woman in bed and then set fire to the bed with newspapers, according to the story she told the police. The woman, Miss Bessie Reimer, says that she crawled out of her bed with her arms and legs hobbled and made her way to the third floor just above where a neighbor cut the cords and helped her to the roof. The firemen rescued them with ladders.

The flames cut off escape of other tenants by the stairs. Some of them leaped from the window into nets. Two unidentified men and Miss Elizabeth Seamon were suffocated on the top floor. Twenty others were injured.

CLASSICAL SELECTIONS ARE BEING REHEARSED

Some of the finest classics are being practiced by the Plainfield Choral Society every Tuesday evening, in the Franklin School Auditorium under the leadership of S. Frederick Smith. This is a splendid opportunity for any who wish to enlarge their intellect on the subject of music.

The music sung this year is taken from a book of classics which should meet the approval of everyone. The selections are by such famous composers as Wagner, Grieg, Ciro Pinsuti, Handel and many others.

Among the selections to be rendered are as follows:

"Hall, Noble Hall." A chorus arranged from the grand opera "Tannhauser," by Richard Wagner.

"La Czarine." A unison and four part chorus arranged from the Russian Mozurka, "La Czarine," by Louis Ganne.

"Good-Night, Good-Night, Beloved." A song in four parts, by Ciro Pinsuti.

"Love's Mission." A selection consisting of unison bass, unison soprano and four part chorus arranged from the art song, "Ich Liebe Dich," by Edward Grieg.

"My Dream." A union and four part chorus arranged from the set of instrumental waltzes entitled, "My Dream," by Emile Waldteufel.

"And the Glory of the Lord." A chorus from the oratorio, "The Messiah" by George F. Handel.

A large chorus is desired and the society will be glad to welcome new members at the rehearsals on Tuesday evenings.

PRINCETONIANS BASHFUL.

Forty-three of Them Have Never Kissed a Girl!

Princeton, March 29.—Of the 230 members of the senior class at Princeton university forty-three confess that never in their young lives have they kissed a girl. In the majority of cases the excuse given for not having kissed was inability to humor the girl into a mood that would lend itself to kissing.

There are forty members of the senior class who think it is morally wrong to kiss a girl. But on the other hand there are 160 who are enthusiastically for kissing. Twenty-five seniors do not correspond with girls. The others, though, have various numbers of feminine correspondents.

SEE NO HARM IN HOOKEY.

Bayonne Mothers Organize to Save Their Boys From Jail.

Bayonne, March 29.—The mothers of this city have organized to combat Recorder William J. Cain's program of sending boys to prison on bread and water for playing hookey. The women's movement against jailing hookey players is headed by Mrs. Lillian Murphy of 26 West Forty-third street.

There are a dozen other women whose sentiments are similar to those of Mrs. Murphy. And they mean business. They say that the next time any Bayonne boys are sent to jail because they don't attend school Recorder Cain will hear from them.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How a Big Bear Played Being a Soldier.

Jumped Upon His Hind Feet and Danced.

[Adapted from Hans Christian Andersen.]

"COULDN'T you tell us an animal story, daddy?" asked Jack, who was very fond of all kinds of animals.

"How would you like a bear story?" daddy asked both the children. "This is the moon's tale: 'One nice night I looked down upon a little town that might have been anywhere in the world, and what I saw was a bear leader eating his supper at a little country hotel. His bear was tied outside behind the woodshed—poor bear! Up in the attic three little children were playing by the light of my beams. Perhaps the oldest was about six; the tiniest one was not more than two.

"'Flop, flop! A muffled sound was coming up the stairs. Who could it be? Open flew the door. It was great, shaggy bruin!

"'He was bored by standing tied out behind the woodshed with nothing to play with but my moonbeams. He had broken his tie string and found his way upstairs, where he heard the children's voices. Of course at first they were much frightened. I saw it all. The big furry creature stood in the middle of the room, and the children dashed off into the corners. But he found them, sniffed them all over, but he did not hurt them. "It's a nice big dog come to play with us!" said the oldest boy. And I saw all the children begin to pet him. At this the big bear lay down on the floor, and the baby rolled on to his back, rolled all over him, playing at hiding his golden curls in the bear's long, black fur. Then the biggest boy got his drum and beat it just as hard as he could. Soon as the bear heard it he jumped up on his hind feet and danced. It was a pretty sight. Each boy shouldered his little wooden gun, and, of course, the bear had to have a gun too. So the boys gave him a gun, and he held it in his great front paws, proud as a man. Oh, he made a rare playmate. All four of them marched up and down, one-two, one-two!

"'Just then I saw some one come to the door and open it. It was the boys' mother. Never shall I forget the look of fear and terror on her white face. She stood there with open mouth and startled eyes, and around the room marched the big bear and her three little boys, one-two, one-two! Then the baby caught sight of his mamma and called out happily, "We're playing soldiers, mummy!"

"'Then the mother knew that the terrible stranger was a tame bear, and just then the bear leader came rushing up the stairs and led his pet away,' the moon finished telling his story."

"Oh, daddy, I think the moon tells almost as nice stories as you do!" cried Evelyn. And daddy kissed her good night twice.

Household Hints

THE SUNDAY DINNER

Cream of Parsley Soup.
Crackers. Pickles, Sweet.
Planked Veal with Vegetables.
Fruit Salad with Whipped Cream.
Sponge Cake. Coffee.
Salted Peanuts.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

To Take Lime Out of Teakettle—Put in kettle four teaspoons lye, fill kettle with water, boil ten or twenty minutes, and kettle will be clean.

To Stiffen Crocheted Article—Take a little water and same measure of sugar—just enough to soak the article. Put article over the form you want and place in hot sun or where it will dry well.

THE TABLE

Beanburg Steak—One pound hamburg, one scant cup canned beans, one egg, a small onion, salt and pepper to taste. Put meat into large mixing bowl, add well-beaten egg, then chopped onion, beans and seasoning. Make into patties. Fry brown on both sides. Cover with water and simmer twenty minutes. Serve with tomato sauce.

Cheese Relish—Ten cents roquefort cheese, ten cents cream cheese, one tablespoon butter, one or two green peppers, a little grated onion, a little celery salt. Rub roquefort, cream cheese, butter to smooth paste, add chopped onion and green pepper; season with paprika. Harden in ice box and serve with toasted crackers.

Pineapple Salad—One can pineapple, one pound marshmallows, one pound nut meats (English walnuts preferred). Dressing: Two eggs, four tablespoons butter (melted), one teaspoon salt, one lemon (juice of). Beat yolks of eggs very light, put in double boiler, add gradually and alternately melted butter and lemon juice, beating all the time; then add sugar and salt. When cool add stiffly beaten whites and one-half pint sweet cream well whipped. Cut marshmallows and pineapple into cubes, mix with nut meats, let stand at least three hours. When ready to serve add dressing and mix lightly. Serve on lettuce leaf.

New Apple Dessert—Use apples that are mild—neither sweet nor sour. Take out cores, then part, leaving a tiny strip of skin around the center. This will hold apple together some while cooking. Place in deep pan, fill centers of apples with red cinnamon drops (candy). Put water enough to cover about two-thirds of apples. Cook slowly on back part of stove until you can pierce them with a fork. When done place in a dish. Cook the water until thick, then pour over apples. Put a marshmallow on each apple, also a little sugar. The candy will color the apples. This makes a pretty and appetizing dessert.

Nut Bread (fine)—One-half cup granulated sugar, one egg, one cup sweet milk, one teaspoon salt, one-half cup walnut meats, four cups white flour, three teaspoons baking powder. Let stand ten minutes, then bake one hour.

Golden Spice Cake—Yolks of seven eggs and one whole egg, two cups brown sugar, one cup molasses, one large cup sour milk, one cup butter, one teaspoon baking soda, five cups flour, one teaspoon cloves, two teaspoons cinnamon, one teaspoon ginger and nutmeg. Cream butter and sugar together, add molasses and milk, spices and soda with the flour. Bake in moderate oven and frost with white icing.

A Delicious Pickle (which can be made any time of the year)—Purchase six large sour pickles at the market, slice them in quarters, place in crock and cover with two and one-half pounds brown sugar and contents of a box of mixed spices. These are ready to serve in three days.

Carrot Pudding—One cup grated carrots, one-half cup raw potatoes, one-half cup apples, one-half cup light brown sugar, one-half cup flour, one-half cup currants, one-half cup raisins, one-half cup chopped suet, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, cloves and nutmeg, one teaspoon soda, pinch salt. Stir soda and salt into potatoes, mix all together, put in buttered dish, tie cloth over top and steam three hours.

Marrying for Money

BY MRS EVA LEONARD

Marian Townsend Gets Some Good Advice from Olive Ellson.

"Yes, I suppose Ortrude is trying to help in every way possible," said Marian Townsend, wiping her eyes. "I know I am hateful, but I liked it far better when she confined her activities to the kitchen and spent her spare time in her own room. It makes me furious with rage when I see her sitting by Daddy reading to him and doing the devoted wife after all the ruin and misery she has brought into the home." Marian put her handkerchief to her eyes and her shoulders heaved.

"You sit right down here by me and relieve your feelings with a good cry. It will make you feel better." Olive Allson pulled the girl down on the couch beside her and stroked her hair, drawing her head to her shoulder.

"When I see dear Daddy lying there so patient and helpless and know just how he would have been all right if he had never seen that woman, I hate her." Marian's eyes blazed.

"Don't talk of hating people, Marian. Hatred is a terrible thing to harbor in your heart. You have seen plants all baked about the roots; the soil so hard that no moisture could get to the roots, haven't you? Well, hatred hardens one's nature so that no dew from heaven can reach the soul. You can never grow spiritually while you hate anybody." Olive drew the girl close to her while she talked. "Hatred is a boomerang that comes back and injures the one who threw it."

"Nothing injures her. She walks serenely on while she has strewn all our lives with wreckage. There is no justice in having everybody suffer except the principal offender."

"Do not envy her," said Olive softly. "She is the last one I should want to change places with. She is planting thorns for her pillow."

"I don't see how. She has a comfortable property settled on her. If Daddy should die"—Marian's voice broke—"she would take herself away and be independent for life. She would get what she married him for, money, while she would leave us a broken family, crippled financially in the bargain. There is no justice in that."

"If she could take money obtained at such a cost and not suffer, her soul must be callous indeed. I do not believe she is so hardened as that."

There was silence for a while, then Olive said softly:

"Would you change places with her? That is the test. Would you give up your beautiful memories, memories that nothing can change or spoil?"

"They are spoiled now. When I think how Daddy has been made to suffer because of her selfishness all the dear memories are made bitter. Oh, why did she have to come into our lives? We were so happy. Ever since mother died Daddy has been father and mother, too. He lived for us. He——"

"Don't you see, dear," interrupted Olive, "that nothing can change the memory of those happy years? She did not take your father from you in spirit. I have seen homes where the new wife turned the love of the father away from the children. Your father was devoted to all of you to the end."

"Of course, she could not do that," replied Marian.

"So you see the worst has not befallen, and you must learn to be brave for Dudley's sake, for you will be all that is left of a home for him after your father is gone," urged Olive.

"Dear Dudley, I must do all I can for him. We must stand by each other," said Marian, wiping her eyes. "It has helped me, this talk and cry. I feel stronger to go on now. Thank you, dear Mrs. Ellson."

Olive stooped and kissed the girl as she bade her good-bye at the door.

BRITISH ATTACK HEAVILY.

Berlin Thinks Drive Is Designed to Relieve Verdun Situation.

Berlin, March 29. — The fighting around St. Eloi, where the British launched heavy attacks against the German lines, is developing into what may prove to be a strong enemy offensive, the war office reported.

The British are continuing their attacks, though they have made no further important gains. It is thought possible here that the British troops, taking advantage of improved weather conditions on this sector, may be planning a drive aiming to force the withdrawal of German troops from Verdun.

TO GIVE RECEPTION FOR OTTO WITTPENN

Aspirant for Gubernatorial Honors to Be Honored by Englewood Friends.

Englewood, March 28.—Englewood friends of Naval Officer H. Otto Wittpenn, of Jersey City, who are backing him for the Democratic nomination for Governor, will tender him a reception and complimentary dinner at the Hotel Palisade, here, on Saturday evening, April 1.

It was a large delegation of Bergen county men that, visiting the office of Naval Officer Wittpenn in New York, first demanded that he become a candidate for the governorship, and since that day his loyal supporters in Bergen county has steadily increased. Patrick Henry Maley, of Hackensack, and other Democratic friends of Mr. Wittpenn confidently predict that he will earry Bergen county by a large majority at the Democratic primary and that the vote for him at the general election will be a large one.

Former Assemblyman John J. Johnson, of Englewood, is in direct charge of the arrangements for the dinner and the toastmaster will be Judge D. Eugene Blankenhorn. The speakers in addition to Mr. Wittpenn will be former Assemblyman John A. Matthews, of Newark, and Patrick Henry Maley. The affair promises to be the biggest event of the kind Bergen county has ever witnessed.

MARKED ADVANCE IN PRICE OF SHOES

Hide Shortage, Population Increase, Army Footwear Responsible.

A side-effect of the far-away war that interests every man, woman and child is the announcement of the fact that shoes must this season advance in price.

The generally reported scarcity of leather and increased cost of tanning since the war, combined, with an enormously increased demand for leather, all account for the advanced cost of footwear.

Millions of pairs of shoes for the European armies have been and still are being made by American shoe manufacturers. On the average, these army shoes consume one and one-half as much leather as the average American man's shoe.

Knapsacks, saddles, harnesses and other material for the armies at war and a general increase in equipment of the American army and State militia account for a still further demand on the not too large supply of leather.

Munitions plants have called for thousands of feet of leather belting, and the general picking up of business has started thousands of factories' wheels and greatly augmented the call for belting.

Autos have also made great and increasing inroads into the available leather supply for upholstering.

Leather is a by-product. The supply cannot be increased at will as crops and metals are, but is dependent on the hide supply; and cattle are not killed, primaritly, for their hides.

The latest census reports show that the cattle population has decreased 20 per cent. in the last ten year, and the population has increased the same percentage.

Shoes, therefore, are to be more expensive. It is said that the increase for the present will be about 20 per cent., but will likely be more by next fall.

Jail Roosevelt's Secretary.

Wonderful Lessons in the Bible's English for Writers and Speakers

Shakespeare was master of nearly twenty thousand words. Milton of about thirteen thousand. But the whole King James Version of the Bible contains not over six thousand words; not a half of Milton's, not a third of Shakespeare's vocabulary.

Short words are always strong words; they explode like bullets. Do you know that the average word in the English Bible, including even the proper names, is composed of less than five letters? Leave out the proper names and the average word wouldn't have even four letters.

In the beloved 23d Psalm there are 119 words; 95 are words of one syllable! In the Sermon on the Mount more than 80% are words of one syllable. In the Ten Commandments, on which are based all the laws of all the world, there are 319 words; 259 are words of one syllable; and only 60 of two and more syllables. In Lincoln's Address at Gettysburg, perhaps the greatest in the world, there are 266 words. Of these, 194 words are of one syllable; 53 of two syllables; and only 19 of three or more syllables.

There is food for thought in these figures. What an improvement in our writers and speakers, if, like Lincoln, they would only give study to the English of the Bible!

The publishers of the famous RED LETTER EDITION of the Bible inform us that only by means of a vast newspaper co-operation throughout the United States and Canada could this magnificent Bible be had for the nominal price asked. They state they are arranging to distribute at least two million copies, and that the RED LETTER BIBLE represents a value of from three to four dollars in the usual channels of trade.

ROSENSON TO GET TRYOUT IN N. Y.

Former P. H. S. Captain Will Have Chance With Hank Mathewson's Club.

N. P. A. A. SIGNING MEN

Jones Has Henny Albert and George Miller for Outfield; Johnny Dixon and Harry Moulton as Battery; also Gets Morley and DeMond.

Benny Rosenson, who captained the Plainfield High School baseball nine last year and the year before, is to get a tryout with the Interboroughs, one of Manhattan's fast semi-pro teams. Benny will try for a job in the infield. Hank Mathewson, brother of the famous Christy, of the New York Giants, and brother of Mrs. P. B. Creger, of this city, will pitch for the Interborough. The team will play two games a week.

Rosenson played shortstop for P. H. S. He was one of the hardest hitters the Red and Blue ever had. Benny also did some pitching. He played with the Clinton Avenues, of the City League, last year, and was with the Plainfield A. A. on Sundays. Towards the end of the season he pitched an all-star team to a victory over the Netherwoods, who won the city championship.

If Rosenson doesn't stick with the New Yorkers, he will play in the City League, either as a member of the Clinton Avenues or on Jones' North Plainfield A. A. Other former Clinton Avenue players who will play for Jones are Johnny Dixon and Harry Moulton. Among the other players expected to be on the team are Henny Albert, former Scotch Plains and Saurer player. George Miller, of the Saurers; Joe Morley, who caught for the Farmers' A. C. last year, and Jerry De Mond, former first baseman for Somerville High School and the Klinkers.

Albert will be used in the outfield, and so will Miller. Moulton is slated to do the catching, as he and Dixon work well together as a battery. Dunellen, which club will be run by Lou Dixon, brother of Johnny, and Warry McLaughlin, wants the former Saurer star. Clinton Avenue is also counting on Dixon, Rosenson and Moulton. However, the Clintons are not in need of catchers, as they have Eddie Bergen and Roy Apgar, and as Moulton wants to work behind the bat, he will probably join the club that will use him behind the plate.

STARS ENTER N. Y. P. O. CLERKS' ATHLETIC MEET

Several good races are promised for the indoor games of the New York Post Office Clerks' Association, which will be held in the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory, Saturday night. The proceeds of the games will be turned over to the sick and death benefit fund of the association. The big event, the half mile, will bring together some of the best middle-distance men—John Overton of Yale, Sid Leslie, Homer Baker, Joe Higgins, Ted Meredith and Dave Caldwell. In the 60-yards special Maynard of Brown, Ray Morse, Frank Stephenson, Howard P. Drew and Dave Pulitzer are entered.

PLENTY OF EVERYTHING BUT PITCHERS AT HIGH SCHOOL

With lots of good material to be tried out for every position and no one berth certain, Coach Patch and Captain "Box" Apgar, of the Plainfield High School baseball team, plan to have outdoor practice started not later than Saturday. One week from that date the High School lads line up against Camp Bowser, a team composed of former High School players, and Coach Patch will have only the intervening time to get a line on the available material. The pitching staff is the only department that is causing worry, and at least two reliable men have got to be found for the mound in order to have a successful season.

IF DEFI IS NOT ANSWERED, ATHENIANS WILL CLAIM TITLE

The Athenians, who last week, through the Daily Press, challenged any local basketball team disputing their right to the city championship, stated today that if no quintet accepts their defi within the next few days, they will claim the title. Athenians have no games scheduled for the next few days, and after a short rest they will be prepared to meet any combination in the city.

PFAU'S CLUB WILL BE ON THE ROAD SUNDAYS

The team Bill Pfau will place in Washington on Saturdays this year may be a traveling Sunday club, instead of playing in Perth Amboy as in former years. Pfau and Gibian are said to have disposed of their Perth Amboy interests to James "Pick" Mullen and James "Sport" Kelly, who will put a team of Amboy players on Amusement Park. Some of the St. Anthony players will join the new club.

Cliff Randolph, Tommy Mullin, Nibs Hand and Red Grimes, four local players, will stick to Pfau. The latter has picked up a new pitcher by the name of Stevens, who is employed at Parlin.

JESS BROKE HIS OS MAGNUM ON MORAN

Chicago, March 29.—An X-ray photograph of the injured hand of Jess Willard showed that one of the large bones of his right hand was broken. Dr. J. H. Carpenter, who made the examination, gave out this statement: "I find from the X-ray I have taken of Jess Willard's right hand that he has a fracture of the os magnum of the right hand."

P. H. S. GIRLS ON COURT.

The P. H. S. girls' basketball league winds up tomorrow, when the Seniors play the Juniors and the Sophomores the Freshmen. The Juniors are now leading the league, not having lost a game.

ATHENIANS TOY WITH ELIZABETH QUINTET

Spend Second Half Practicing Signals After First Part Ends With Score 20-4.

The Athenians played their last out-of-town game Monday night, when they ran away with the Majestics of Elizabeth, 30 to 17. Starting with a rush, the local boys got in some good, snappy passing that bewildered their opponents, and then proceeded to drop them in at will. The half ended 20-4 with the Athenians in the van.

The second period was slow, and the Athenians, contented with their lead, tried out a new set of signals, toying with the Majestics. The locals were outscored in this period, 13 to 10.

Venable was sent in to relieve Greene, who, together with Vaughan, did practically all the scoring for the locals. Each caged seven of the two-point variety. Clay succeeded Hedgeman at guard and stuck like a leech. Davis was the main point-getter for the Majestics, dropping in five field goals.

The score:

SPORT NOTES

That Johnny Kilbane has forfeited his title to the featherweight championship, is the claim of many sport writers, as the outcome of his refusal to honor his agreement to meet George Chaney at Baltimore.

Sam Langford, the dusky heavyweight, is on his way to Denver, where he is matched to go 15 rounds with Battling Jim Johnson on Friday night.

The International League season gets under way April 26, with opening games at Baltimore and Richmond. Rred Tenney is one of the new owners of the Newark Club.

Kentucky will have 62 days of its favorite sport this season, beginning late in April and ending in July.

Jeff Smith is matched to fight Gus Christie at Fond du Lac, Wis., tonight.

There is prospect of an early match between Frank Gotch and Joe Stecher for the wrestling title.

The eastern race track season opens on Saturday at Bowie, with predictions pointing to a good season.

The big event of dogdom this week is the Chicago Kennel Club Show, which opens tomorrow.

CLAY COURT CHAMPIONSHIP.

Two new clay court championships will probably be allowed by the executive committee of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association, when the fixtures for the season are announced. A request has been made for a clay court championship of New Jersey, to be played July 22, and a clay court championship of Pennsylvania, to be played Aug. 5.

TO OPEN NEWARK VELODROME.

If the weather permits, the cycle racing season at the Newark Velodrome will open next Sunday, seven events being on the program. The feature will be the Shanley handicap, a mile race, the purse for which will be $500. Frank Kramer and a number of other prominent professional riders will start. Three are for amateur contestants.

Cleveland (A. L.), 4; Cincinnati (N. L.), 1.

Cold in Chattanooga.

Chattanooga, Tenn., March 29.—Despite the fact that the thermometer was down to 45 degrees and only 181 persons paid to see the game, the Yankees ran off their scheduled contest with "Kid" Elberfeld's Chattanooga Lookouts yesterday and won easily by a score of 6 to 0.

Dodgers Again Blank Mackmen.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 29.—Yesterday's shutout of the Philadelphia Athletics by the Brooklyn Dodgers makes the second in three days. Second base was the nearest any of the Mackmen came to scoring. The score: Brooklyn, 2; Athletics, 0.

Detroits Wallop Giants.

Waxahachie, Texas, March 29.—It was a lopsided victory the Detroit Tigers won over the New York Giants here yesterday afternoon. The score was 8 to 3 and perfectly satisfactory to the big crowd present.

STYMIE ALLOWS MRS. BARLOW TO DEFEAT MRS. J. V. HURD

Pinehurst, N. C., March 29.—The semi-final round in the women's annual North and South championship was played by all eight divisions yesterday over the No. 2 course. In the first division, as was expected, Mrs. R. H. Barlow, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. J. V. Hurd, of Pittsburgh, had a close match, and a devision was reached only at the eighteenth green, a stymie being the deciding factor. Mrs. Hurd was the unlucky one.

Mrs. Barlow turned 2 up, the scores being 43 to 45. Coming in Mrs. Barlow lost the twelfth, thirteenth and fifteenth, and won the fourteenth. The sixteenth and seventeenth were halved, and they started for the home hole all even.

Mrs. Hurd missed her third, and Mrs. Barlow put her in the trap at the right of the green. Both were on in 4. Mrs. Hurd's fifth shot was four feet from the hole, and Mrs. Barlow's was on the edge of the cup, and a dead stymie for Mrs. Hurd, who tried to go around it, but failed, and lost the hole and the match. Mrs. Barlow was around in 92 and Mrs. Hurd in 93.

In the other half of the first eight Mrs. J. Raymond Price, Oakmont, won easily from her clubmate, Mrs. M. J. Scannell.

M. J. Brady, of Oakley, and "Tom" MacNamara, of New York, beat "Phil" Carter, Nassau, and H. J. Topping, Greenwich, 2 and 1 in a four-ball match on the No. 2 course. Carter and MacNamara each scored a 73.

RED DESERT OF WYOMING.

Its Sand Dunes, Color Effects and Sheep Pastures.

West of Creston is obtained the first comprehensive view of the Red desert of Wyoming. A few miles north of the railroad track is a great stretch of sand dunes, which extends a hundred miles, from Green river to North Platte river. The dunes, many of them more than a hundred feet high, are constantly traveling with the prevailing winds in a general easterly direction. If a few camels and an Arab or two were added to the scene the spectator could easily imagine himself in the Sahara desert. Frequent mirages, endless variety of feature and wonderful coloring make the desert far from the monotonous stretch it may seem to be at first glance.

As the name suggests, the dominant colors are red—russet, brick red and vermilion—but there is every tone of gray and brown, with not a few shades of green, purple and yellow. Unlike the colors of an eastern American landscape, those of the Red desert are not dependent on the season, for there is little vegetation to hide the coloring of the rocks and soil.

Despite the sparsity of vegetable growth, the Red desert of Wyoming is a winter sheep range. The scattered "bunch grass," which looks so meager and dry, is, in fact, excellent forage, curing into hay where it grew and having a high nutritive value. In summer, when the desert is dry and the water holes are few, the sheep are herded in the mountains, where water is abundant and grass is green and tender.

The earlier snows, falling first in the higher mountains and extending week by week to lower altitudes, drive the flocks into the rough fall range between the mountains and the desert. Here they are held until the snow falls on the desert itself, but with the first heavy snowfall they are driven from the foothills to spend the winter in the open, where they find pasture in the spaces cleared of snow by the winds. The winds are not tempered here, but neither is the lamb shorn, and Wyoming winter winds make heavy wool when shearing time comes.—Argonaut.

Music in Shakespeare's Time.

Shakespeare's time was an age of music. "Catches" were sung by gentles as well as by weavers and tinkers. Lute, cithern or virginals were in every barber's shop for the diversion of customers. * * * Thomas Morley may be using the blessed argument of a music teacher when he tells us that a gentleman was counted but a boor if he could not play the lute or sing a part in a madrigal, but there is no getting over the craggy fact that over eighty collections of madrigals, ayres and songs were printed and published between 1587 and 1630, in addition to which vast collections of early music still remain in manuscript. With an aristocracy fond of music and accustomed to play and listen to music and song, music in the theater was almost as inevitable in England as in Italy, says the London Musical Record. It was considered a manly accomplishment to play the hunting horn. Every gentleman who kept hounds could wind it. A punctilious etiquette fixed the correct set of notes for each operation of the chase. Usually a play had at least one song.

No Novelty.

"When I took Mrs. Gaddy out for an automobile ride she was nervous all the time for fear we should strike somebody."

"That was all put on. She's used to running people down." — Baltimore American.

Local Sport News, Views, Reviews and Interviews

THE Y. M. C. A. CIRCUS.

Some of Plainfield's best athletes—men who, in their particular lines, have no equals locally—will take part in the Y. M. C. A. indoor circus to be given tomorrow and Friday evenings. A few years ago the Y. M. C. A.'s annual indoor show was one of the events of the winter season, and that the 1916 revival may fully maintain the high calibre of former years, the committees and performers who have been working for some time have spared no efforts to make the exhibition a complete success.

Max Maximus Maximoff, known best to Plainfielders simply as Maximus, will put on one of the feature acts. Maximus has appeared before the public in all parts of the world. He has traveled with tent shows, played various vaudeville circuits, and helped out local amateur productions before. His act alone is a show. The mere appearance of a man who has been the headliner on bills all over this country and Europe is guarantee of a meritorious program. The strong man himself is as interesting as his work, and, knowing him to be a fellow Plainfielder, those who see him will come into a closer appreciation of his efforts.

Marty O'Loughlin, Plainfield's best golfer, will give a demonstration of his prowess—not of golfing, but of bag punching. The Country Club professional is as skillful hitting the leather as he is smiting the small white ball, and he is just as much at home in the gymnasium as he is on the links. We've forgotten how many different ways Marty can punch the bag, and we don't know as we'd tell, anyhow, because that's one of the treats in store for those who pay admission.

Bert Hansen, premier local tumbler and gymnast, will do contortions that would put a snake to shame. To those who have seen Bert before, any praise for his tumbling would be superfluous. To the others—go and see for yourselves.

Then add J. L. McCloud, the New York A. A. Indian club swinger who holds the championship of the U. S. A.; Engler, Sundstrom and Van Norden, a trio who have been working together for some time in a variety of hand-balancing stunts; Eddie Gunzelman, the Gotch of Plainfield, who will be seen in a wrestling match with a hooded unknown; and classes of more than twenty Seniors and more than fifty boys, who will appear as clowns, animals, tumblers and gymnasts, and you will understand why the program is such an excellent one.

• • • • • •

Of the large contingent of Plainfield women golfers, it is doubtful if any have improved so rapidly within the last twelve months as has Mrs. C. B. Lawrence, Jr., who gained a place in the second eight in the North and South championship now being played at Pinehurst. Mrs. Lawrence was rated handicap 22 on the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association list last year. She is sure to be much nearer the top when the 1916 ratings are announced.

The biggest advance any local player ever made in one year was that of Mrs. H. A. Manvel, who was rated handicap 7 last year, after being 25 the year before. Mrs. Manvel, by the way, will not play at Westfield this year, as she is no longer making her home there.

• • • • • •

Good players—whether for baseball, basketball, or what the game—are not hard to find in Plainfield, but hard-working managers are scarce. Gifford Jones is considered a good manager. To do all the work and get none of the enjoyment of the play, except to watch the others, is the manager's lot which does not appeal to the average man interested in sports; but Jones is hustling all the time for the cause of his club. That's why a committee from one local nine waited on "Dipper" in an effort to persuade him to manage the outfit. Jones is one of the few real executives in Plainfield sportdom.

• • • • • •

Benny Rosenson will try for a job on the Interboroughs. There isn't any youngster in town who looks to have a better chance to make good in fast diamond company. Benny is a slugger with the hickory, and can play either the infield or outfield. After starring with the High School team, he made good in local semi-pro. games, even to taking an occasional turn in the box. When Rosenson was in school, his admirers were open in their opinions that some day Benny would be with a league team. His tryout with Hank Mathewson may be the stepping stone.

CHANCE FOR PRESS ADVERTISERS TO ATTRACT THE ATTENTION OF THE ENTIRE COUNTY.

As the result of an agreement between the Plainfield Daily Press and the Elizabeth Evening Times any advertiser placing a classified ad in the Press may have that same ad inserted in the Elizabeth Evening Times upon the payment of one-half more than is charged for the Daily Press insertion alone. Thus, if an advertisement in the Daily Press costs forty cents, the same advertisement may be placed in the Elizabeth paper for an additional twenty cents.

The Elizabeth Evening Times has a circulation of 9,000 and is widely distributed throughout Union County. Thus if an advertiser places his advertisement in the Plainfield Daily Press and Elizabeth Evening Times he places it before the eyes of thousands of readers at a very small cost.

Most advertisers welcome the opportunity to attract the attention of the whole county to their offerings and with the co-operation of the Elizabeth Evening Times the Plainfield Daily Press is now able to make this possible. The Elizabeth Evening Times has earned a reputation for itself as an advertising medium, especially along the classified line, and it is a well known fact that its influence extends into other counties besides Union.

PRAYER MEETINGS WELL ATTENDED

Four Held Last Night Brought Out Many Workers and Others.

DR. RAACH IN CHARGE

Relates Touching Incident of Miracle Calling to Bedside of Dying Man—Spirit of Help Shown by Local People.

Four union prayer meetings were held in the city and borough last night in preparation for the coming Biederwolf campign, which is to begin in the big tabernacle on Girard avenue and Front street on Sunday morning, April 9, at 10:30 o'clock.

These meetings were helpful and filled with a spirit of prayer. This was especially true at the meeting at Trinity Reformed church last evening, where the First Presbyterian, the First Baptist, the First Methodist, Trinity Reformed, Temple Baptist and Netherwood Reformed churches united. Rev. Charles F. Raach, of the Biederwolf party, and Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, were the leaders, many of the congregation taking part. The Rev. Mr. Raach referred to a touching incident in the experience of one of the workers in the interests of this campaign. This worker was inspired at a late hour at night to go on to the street. He seemed to be led on to Second street and finally arrived at a house and rapped at the door. A quick response brought him inside where he found an aged couple. He was hailed with the cry from the old sick man, "You have come to lead me to Jesus," and he began to preach to him Jesos Christ. Before midnight this poor sick man found Jesus Christ as his Saviour. The next morning when this worker came bringing flowers, he found crape on the door, and the soul had taken its flight.

The meeting of the second group comprising the Park Avenue Baptist, the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian, the Congregational and Seventh-Day Baptist churches met last night in the Seventh-Day Baptist church. This was an open meeting, the Rev. Dr. Birney S. Hudson giving the scripture lesson.

The third group was held in the Warren chapel, where the congregations of Grace Methodist, Warren chapel and Wilson Union church united with Rev. C. S. Gillespie as leader.

The fourth group met in Hope chapel, the Monroe Avenue Methodist and Hope chapel congregations united with Fred Andrews as leader.

As evidence of the growing realization of both the responsibility and privilege offered by the campaign, in spite of the fact that each Wednesday night has been stormy, more people are attending and greater numbers are taking part in the meetings.

Everywhere workers go they are met with a spirit of co-operation that has been most gratifying. "It seems as though all of Plainfield is willing and anxious to do more than its part," said one, "and nowhere have I failed to find a Christian spirit of help and eagerness to serve."

One of the many human incidents that have occurred at these prayer meetings took place early in the week. A father and mother attended to participate in the services and brought with them a small child, a girl. The girl asked that it be allowed to take part in the meeting and she offered up a child's prayer of thanks for her happiness. One woman of German birth arose and in broken English expressed a wish to pray. She apologized for her English, but said that she could not sit quietly after the little girl had stood up to give thanks and she made the first public prayer of her life.

BORO COUPLE OBSERVE WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

In celebration of their twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller, of Fairview avenue, entertained a party of friends at their home on Tuesday night. The house was prettily decorated for the event, flowers and potted plants being used in large numbers. Guests were present from New York, Newark, Westfield, Plainfield and the borough. The evening was spent in a reminiscent way, games, music and dancing being features. During the evening, Rev. Father Hart and Rev. Father Baldwin made short congratulatory addresses to the couple.

W. R. CODINGTON, 2D., ARRIVES.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert I. Codington, of Sheridan avenue, are parents of a boy born to them yesterday. The little fellow has been named William R. Codington, 2d. Mrs. Codington was Miss Margaret Leggett, daughter of Mrs. Charles P. Leggett, of this city.

JUDGE RUNYON MOVES.

Isaac P. Runyon removed his offices yesterday from the Sterling building on Park avenue to the Codington building at Park avenue and West Second street.

HOLY CROSS PREACHER.

Rev. Chas. B. Ackley, of New York, will be the special preacher at Holy Cross church tonight.

QUARTET THAT WILL SING HERE WHEN EVANGELIST BIEDERWOLF COMES

One of the most pleasing features of the evangelistic meetings of the Rev. W. E. Biederwolf is the music interspersed freely with other parts of every program. William McEwan, chorus leader and tenor soloist, is admitted one of the sweetest singers in gospel work, and Plainfield will offer him a chorus of 1,000, according to present indications, with which to work while here. In the Biederwolf party there is also a male quartette, and it has proved highly popular in York, Norristown and all other places visited by the evangelist.

The introduction of male quartet music as a regular feature in evangelistic work is a new departure inaugurated by Mr. Biederwolf. The experiment which would hardly be possible in a work on a smaller scale than that of Mr. Biederwolf's, has proven highly successful. There is no music like the music of a well-balanced male quartet. The harmony of four well-trained, equally-balanced male voices, has a tenderness and sympathetic strain that will touch the heart of the most sympathetic listener. The four men who compose the National Male Quartet are all carefully trained singers—they are, in fact, soloists in their own particular range.

Mr. Heaton, the second tenor, and leader of the quartet, one of America's sweetest tenors, was formerly a member of the famous Gate Quartet at Winona Lake. Mr. Backemeyer, the first tenor, possesses a voice of high range and exceptional quality. He was formerly a member of the Hoosier Quartet. Mr. Sluyter, the first bass, has a voice of rare quality and his work in the quartet has been much complimented. He was formerly a member of the Star Male Quartet. Mr. Roberts, the second bass, has a pure basso profundo. He was formerly a member of the famous Gate Quartet at Winona Lake.

MARTINE CALLS FOR A GASOLINE PROBE

Senate Resolution Demands Investigation Into Present High Prices.

Washington, March 30.—A resolution, directing the Attorney-General to investigate the Standard Oil Company to ascertain whether the rapid rise in gasolene prices is the result of a violation of the anti-trust law by that corporation, was introduced in the Senate today by Senator Martine of New Jersey.

The resolution of Senator Martine is the first official movement toward an investigation of the rapidly-increasing gasoline prices, although there has been much talk of such a probe recently because of inability to understand the various reasons offered by selling companies for the persistent jumping of crude oil prices. A bill was introduced in the House this week, calling for a Congressional investigation into the crude oil output for the purpose of determining the cause of high prices, but its purpose would be better carried out by the Martine resolution, and the plan of the Plainfield senator will probably take precedent over all. New York legislators have called for a probe there, and other states were considering such action; but a government investigation will make State inquiries unnecessary.

DOZEN MEN ENTOMBED IN FIRE BELOW EARTH

Johnstown, Pa., March 30.—Ten or twelve men were entombed early today in the Robindale mine of the Conenaught Smokeless Coal Co. at Seward, ten miles west of Johnstown, following an explosion. The explosion put the fan out of commission and the mine is believed to be on fire. It is feared the men will be suffocated before rescuers can reach them.

BOSTON TRAIN WRECKED.

NEPHEWS AND NIECES IGNORED IN WILL

Three Plainfielders Not Mentioned in Bequests Made by Mrs. C. H. B. Smith.

New York, March 30.—Ten nephews and nieces which include Sophie W. Brower, John Brower and Harry W. Brower, of Plainfield, are completely ignored in the will of Mrs. Catherine H. B. Smith, who died on March 16 last leaving an estate of "over $50,000" in real and personal property, which was offered for probate in the surrogate's court today.

Sarah L. Brower, of Orange; Diana H. Brower, sisters-in-law; Elizabeth H. Brower, the last two named of Plainfield, and Kate W. Brower, of Orange, are bequeathed all clothing, jewelry and all other articles of personal use and ornament, in equal shares, or in such shares as both the sisters-in-law may deem proper.

The rest of the estate which includes real estate, library, paintings, all right and title as Fellow perpetuity of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, in New York, and all contents of the house at 17 East 77th street, New York, goes to William Leverich Brower, a brother, who occupies the above premises.

Mrs. Smith was the widow of William Wheeler Smith. Among her ignored nephews and nieces are two physicians and a clergyman. No explanation is given for leaving them out of the will.

COMMISSION NAMED BY MAYOR SMALLEY

Will Assess Benefits and Damages for Widening of Somerset Street.

Probably the shortest meeting in the history of the North Plainfield Council was held last night, the session lasting exactly three minutes. The meeting was called for the purpose of having Mayor W. L. Smalley name three commissioners to assess benefits and damages in the matter of widening Somerset street, from Jackson avenue to Johnston's Drive. Those named are John Y. Barrett, Morris C. Van Arsdale and L. B. Woolston.

Under the law they cannot begin their work within ten days. The commissioners will, however, be prepared to go ahead at the expiration of that time. In making this improvement the Public Service Corporation will be required to stand a portion of the expense, but the assessment for damages will be borne by the borough at large and not by the property-owners on the street as supposed by some people.

PROGRAM ADVERTISES WINE WITH DINNER

Newark Conference Thrown Into State of Excitement Over Announcement.

Newark, March 30.—When the second day's session of the Newark Conference convened today in the Halsey Street church, it was discovered that among the advertisements in the program was one of the Continental Hotel, Newark, which stated among other things "dinner 75 cents, 'with wine' $1.00 The fact that the conference program was aiding in advertising intoxicating liquors and that Bishop Luther B. Wilson, who presides at the conference, is stopping at the Continental Hotel caused considerable comment. This was especially noteworthy because last night Rev. Clarence True Wilson, of New York, delivered a strong address on temperance last night.

This morning the four presiding elders presented their annual reports. The following pastors, having served from twenty-five to thirty-five years, were placed on the retired list today:

Rev. A. W. Hayes, of Madison; Rev. Thomas Hall, of Harrison; Rev. A. B. Richardson, of Paterson; Rev. S. H. Jones, of Elizabeth; Rev. Wesley Martin, of Westfield; Rev. Ellis F. Fowler, of Mt. Hermon; Rev. William McKain, of Newton.

The following received deacon's orders today:

Robert J. Haines, of Hope; J. M. Jacques, of Johnsonburg; Ray G. Marshall, of Milburn; H. C. Steinheimer, of West New York; Joseph H. Cousins, of Patenburg; James E. Custer and George Lester, of Newark; Max Beyer, of Paterson, and Edward J. Guest, of Scotch Plains. The following received elder's orders: Thomas G. James, of Columbia; F. A. Benson, of Mt. Freedom; Milnoe H. Senior, of Piermont; W. B. Stickley, of Lebanon, and W. S. Waters, of Tenafly.

MAYOR CALKINS TO REPRESENT THE CITY

Invited to Attend First National Annual Assemblage of the League.

Former President William H. Taft has asked Mayor Leighton Calkins, of this city, it was announced yesterday, to represent Plainfield at the first national annual assemblage of the League to Enforce Peace to be held at Washington on Friday and Saturday, May 26 and 27. Mr. Taft is president of the league. Governor Fielder has been asked to represent the State at the conference.

The League to Enforce Peace has a platform of four proposals, the main feature of which is contained in the third which provides that the joint armed forces of the great powers be used against any nation or nations who refuse to keep an agreement to try arbitration or conciliation before going to war. The other three proposals are for an international court, an international council of conciliation, and a code of international law.

Mr. Taft's letter inviting the Mayor to be presen at the Washington conference, also asks him to appoint delegates thereto, and points out that the Taft league is "no-stop-the-war movement, no anti-preparedness movement, no peace-at-any-price endeavor," but an "earnest effort by practical men to bring about, after the close of the European war, a co-operation among the nations which will tend to make peace more permanent and war less probable."

Washington, March 30.—The State Department today received a despatch from Ambassador Page in London, saying that the British Admiralty had informed him that the destroyer which went to the rescue of the Sussex was fired upon by a submarine. Other evidence now at hand seems to show that at least two torpedoes were fired by the submarine.

Bernstorff Denies Charge.

Washington, March 30.—Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, went to the State Department today and held a conference with Counsellor Polk. The Ambassador said that he had no official information from his government dealing with the submarine situation. The Ambassador made it plain that if the submarine question is to be discussed, the discussion must be initiated by the State Department. "I am positively convinced," he said, "that the Sussex was sunk by striking a mine. My government is scrupulously observing all the promises made, and is not violating international law."

WANT BIG TURNOUT FOR MASS MEETING

Transportation Topic Will Be Discussed by Experts Who Will Suggest Remedies.

The big "transportation" meeting of the Parish House Men's Forum will be held Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, and from present indications it will assume the proportions of a mass meeting. Every Scotch Plains resident and taxpayer who is at all interested in the betterment of local transportation facilities will probably be present, and it is more than likely that as a result some of the things Scotch Plains has been without for several years will again be had

The Rev. J. Madison Hare, who has charge of the meetings, has secured for the occasion several really brilliant speakers General Pasenger Agent Hope will be present and speak on behalf of the C. R. R. of N. J., while the P. S. C. will be represented by General Superintendent Hines. Efforts have been made to get a representative of the New Jersey Telephone Company, but whether someone will be present or not is not yet known.

—Still-useful furniture may be sold for what it is worth to somebody else—if you give the selling-task to a classified ad.

TOWN TOPICS

GIVE THEM A CHANCE.

Although it is true that the weather of the past few days has put some of the streets and sidewalks in the borough and township in a nearly impassable condition, people should withhold their sharp criticisms of the two places until it is time to stir them into activity. It will cost hundreds of dollars to repair all necessary places, and will take time besides. The street departments have had men working on the thoroughfares all this week filling holes and making other repairs, yet remarks have come from all sides because everything was not put in shape at once. Filling a public office properly is not made any easier by criticism, and it would be well if people were to bear that it mind, because in the long run a little help instead will bring better results.

TELL THEM WHAT'S WHAT.

That "transportation" meeting of the Men's Forum, Sunday afternoon, is going to be one of the best events for civic welfare that has been put on in Scotch Plains in many a day, and in view of that it is clearly the duty of every taxpayer and resident to be present and be ready to express his views or derive benefit from those of others. With such speakers as have been secured present, it will be up to local people to bring results. If Mr. Hope and Mr. Hines can be shown where local people are not being treated right on the transportation question, it is in their power to make changes. At any rate it will not be time wasted to attend the meeting and see how matters come out.

HAVE YOU CONRIBUTED?

Several Scotch Plains and Fanwood youngsters have contributed to the Marjorie Sterrett battleship fund being raised by the Daily Press, and it is hoped that scores of children from these two suburbs will be enrolled as "builders" when the complete list of subscribers is sent to the little Brooklyn girl who originated the idea of collecting dimes to build Uncle Sam a fine new battleship. The contributors submit letters along with their ten-cent pieces, several of which are published in another column of this issue. Every school pupil in Scotch Plains or Fanwood should be sufficiently interested in the United States preparedness policy to set aside at least one dime for this big undertaking, and each one who does so will be considered a stockholder in the monster ship.

SHOULD ALL BE BOOSTERS.

That it takes all classes of humanity to make up a town is the conceded opinion, but it is to be regretted that there are not more boosters in these two suburbs who are willing to put their shoulder to the wheel and help put these places back on the map. Few will deny that Scotch Plains has been slipping into the background of late years, and it is a well-known fact that several prominent residents have come to the rescue and are endeavoring to brace up conditions. These faithful few need co-operation, and one of the ways to co-operate is to cut out the knocking and start booming your own wares and your neighbor's. The efforts to have Scotch Plains returned to a listing in the telephone directory and the promise of the Central Railroad officials to place this suburb on the timetable have been ridiculed by some few who are so narrow-minded that they cannot foresee the personal good that they will reap from such improvements. These are only two of the many contemplated steps of the progressive community committee, and suggestions for the betterment of either municipality are solicited through these columns. In other words, get your imagination working and do your little part to formulate a plan to boost the suburbs.

EXPECT BUSINESS BOOM.

Scotch Plains merchants noticed an influx of shoppers from the mountain district during the few fine days we enjoyed recently, this being taken as an indication that people living in this vicinity are waking up to the fact that they can get what they want in Scotch Plains' stores at the right price and of the right quality. The special Thursday edition of the Plainfield Daily Press is going to play a leading role in heralding the wares of Scotch Plains and Fanwood merchants among the farming element, and it affords these people an opportunity to see just what they can buy in Scotch Plains and where they can buy it. In other words, the value of the suburban edition as a business directory is spreading to other sections, and it will make Scotch Plains a stopping-off place this spring and summer. Previously many of these farmers passed through this place without stopping, but they have been shown what Scotch Plains really has in the line of business enterprise, and they are consequently going to abandon the long trip to Plainfield and give Scotch Plains merchants a chance.

NEW LACKAMAXSON GOLF COURSE WILL BE ONE OF THE FINEST IN THE COUNTRY

3,600 Yards of Green With Eighteen Holes—Spot Will Be Beautified and Lambert's Pond Deepened—Clubhouse With all Modern Conveniences—Gymnasium, Ballroom, Dining Hall and Billiard Parlor to Be Features.

The eyes of all the golfing world are now turned to the Willow Grove section of the township, where a golf course is being laid out that will be the equal of any in the East. After four months' work, Albert I Tillinghast, a noted course architect, of New York, has completed plans for the links, and work will be started some time during the coming month.

Covering nearly all of the Lambert estate, now owned by William R. Nelson, besides part of the adjoining Gallagher estate, which was also recently purchased by Mr. Nelson, the course will be of eighteen holes, with 3,600 yards of green Every natural advantage to be found on the ground is to be turned into the course, including a pond a mile and a quarter long and several hundred yards wide. The surface formation is practically ideal, and but few artificial changes will have to be made. Several streams that run through the property will be utilized to the best advantage. It is planned to have the first and ninth holes located near the clubhouse, while another will be placed in the center of the pond. The greens are to be beautified as far as possible, and rustic bridges will be built over the water courses, while several summer houses will be built at various points on the course.

During the past winter Mr. Nelson has had landscape gardeners at work getting the grounds in shape, and already the greens have been grassed and timber land cleared. It is expected that "Lambert's Pond" will be cleared and made considerably deeper. The banks are to be walled up with cement, and according to present plans a road will encircle it. The grounds in the immediate vicinity will be planted with shrubbery and turned into a park.

One of the best features will be a clubhouse that will be built with all modern conveniences, with a special effort made for the comfort of members. A ballroom, billiard room, dining room and gymnasium will be a few of the attractions. The structure is to be located on a rising eminence, within eash reach of nearby roads and surrounded by wide verandas.

With Martine avenue and Raritan road running on two sides of the land that will be used, the boundary line between the township and Westfield will also form the boundary line for the other two sides. The railroad station at Fanwood is slightly over two miles distance, while the station at Westfield is about the same distance. Access from Fanwood is easy, and when the town of Westfield completes the macadamizing of Rahway road, as it has promised to do, travel to a from that place will be just as easy.

Already Mr. Nelson has received more than five hundred requests for membership from prominent people all over the Eastern States, and when the formation of the club, which will be known as the Lackamaxson Country Club, is started and officers elected, there will undoubtedly be as many more wanting to join.

On top of the announcement of the plans for the club comes the rumor of several more country estates that are to be built in that end of the township during the coming summer. Farms are rapidly disappearing, and in their place country houses and large estates are being built, and in a short time all that part of Fanwood township south of Fanwood borough will become one of the most important social centers of the State. The layout of the course and the plans of the clubhouse will be given in detail in the Daily Press in a few days.

ATTRACTIVE EXHIBIT.

An attractive display of spring millinery is being exhibited by Miss M. A. Lewis, on Front street, Scotch Plains. All of the most up-to-date models and finest trimmings are shown, and Miss Lewis is assuming personal charge of the informal opening to offer suggestions and advise prospective buyers. An elaborate side line of ribbons and fixings of various kinds have called forth considerable attention during the past week.

ROADS IN BAD SHAPE.

Although it is partly closed to traffic, Terrill road is being rapidly repaired under county supervision. The weather of the past few days put it in bad shape. Nearly all of the local roads are in the same condition. and vehicles stuck by the roadside are now common sights. Yesterday a Brooklyn moving van became mired on North avenue, and it took three teams of horses and a half dozen men several hours to get it free.

—Until you have canvassed the eaders of this newspaper on the matter, do not decide whether or not this may be a "poor time to sell" that property.

EXPECT TO RAISE A $10,000 FUND

New Episcopal Church Rectory and Parish House Sought by Members.

SOCIETIES ARE BUSY

Object is to Dedicate New Buildings on Date of Fiftieth Anniversary Observance—Church Has Had a Unique History.

Several months ago All-Saints' Episcopal church celebrated its forty-second annivarsary, and since then a campaign has been started that will end, it is hoped by those working for it in a rectory and parish house by the time the fiftieth anniversary is reached. Two societies, the Junior Auxiliary and the All Saints' Guild, have been formed to work for the $10,000 building fund, and the Ladies' Aid Society is also active.

The first service of the Episcopal church was held in the Scotch Plains schoolhouse, now the Parish House, on June 22, 1873, under the spiritual direction of the Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, who was then pastor of the Plainfield Grace Episcopal church, and the Rev. Charles Ward, rector of Holy Cross church, North Plainfield.

For four months various clergy supplied on Sunday afternoons, and there was also a Sunday-school from the beginning. In September, 1873, $200, the proceeds of an entertainment under the auspices of the women of the parish, were deposited as a nucleus of a building fund for a house of worship. On October 31, 1873, preliminary steps, legal and ecclesiastical, to the organization of a mission parish, were consummated, and seven trustees were duly elected, namely, A. C. Duyckinck, R. B. Duyckinck, Charles Kyte, George Kyte, George Moore, Joseph B. Paterson and William Stanbery.

Rev. John K. Sykes was chosen resident minister in 1874, and he continued his faithful and helpful labors until 1889. During his administration the present attractive stone church, costing $10,000 was built by bonds gradually paid off by various circulations, in which the Ladies' Aid Society had a prominent part. The corner-stone was laid in 1882, the church was finished in 1883, and consecrated on November 10, 1907, on full payment of all debt.

The last $2,000 of indebtedness was raised as a memorial fund, and after being offered in payment of the indebtedness, was returned to the trustees of the mission by Mrs. D. P. Bell, the holder of the mortgage, who by her munificence herself thus cancelled the indebtedness. Part of this sum was spent in refitting the church and part, to the amount of about $1,200, was invested as a memorial endowment fund, whose interest is to be devoted to repairs on the church.

Rev. William Maxwell Reilly was appointed minister on the resignation of Mr. Sykes and served until 1892. In that year steps were taken to secure full parish organization, and the following were elected as the first parish vestry: A. H. Gardiner and Harry P. Robinson; wardens, Paul Tuzo, Frank Sykes, T. M. Quereen, Wright Babcock and L. J. Briggs, Jr. In 1893 the Rev. Edward H. True was called to be the first rector. He served until 1899, and was followed by the following rectors: Rev. William R. Mulford, 1900; Rev. Edward Gabler, 1910; Rev. B. S. Levering, 1913; Rev. G. H. H Butler, 1914, and the present rector, Rev Oscar Stuart Michael.

BASEBALL BUG HAS BEGUN TO BUZZ IN THE 'PLAINS

Although it was stated positively several weeks ago that Scotch Plains would not be represented by a baseball team this year, the sport bug has crept in among the fans once more, and it seems likely at the present time that this place will once more figure in the diamond sport. One of the biggest hitches has resulted from the practice the township has made of levying a $25 license on property owners who choose to rent their grounds for baseball exhibitions, and the subsequent $5 license fee extracted from ball clubs, besides the ground license. This makes at least $30 the club is eventually called upon to pay out, besides the rental for the season.

According to those who are familiar with baseball conditions hereabouts, this attempt to snuff out the game has come very near to having the desired effect, and the license fee has caused several managers to hesitate in reorganizing. They claim the sum is altogether too high, and they are afraid to enter the venture for fear of coming out on the short end financially.

In an interview with a Daily Press reporter yesterday Joe Albert, who has been a central figure in local baseball for years past, called attention to the renewal of interest in the pastime, and he was optimistic of the possibilities of reorganizing. There is plenty of talent to be had hereabouts, and all that is needed is organization. The abandonment of the license fee would stimulate interest and would no doubt result in a representative team being put on the field at the very start of the season.

RIFLE CLUB PLANS BEGIN TO SHAPE UP

Prominent Residents Will Assist in Formation of New Organization.

As soon as the weather permits a rifle club will be formed by a number of the most prominent borough residents. Permision has been secured from the H. C. Lockwood Realty Company to use land owned by it in the eastern end of Fanwood, bordering Westfield road, as a range, and a meeting will probably be called in the near future to organize and elect officers.

There are a number of men in the borough—although women are also to be admitted as members—who are excellent shots, and after the club gets agoing several more of ability should be found. Councilman A. I. Nichol, of North avenue, is interested in the formation of such a club, and would undoubtedly be one of the best marksmen. He is considered one of the best trapshooters at the Westfield Golf Club, and only last Saturday finished a close second ina shoot held there.

To start with, it is expected that the range will be of 300 yards in length, with regulation bunkers built at one end. Rifles will probably be the only firearms used.

NEW FAMILIES ARE MOVING THIS WAY

Borough Selected for Home Sites by a Number of Out of Town Residents.

If the influx of new familes to the borough and township continues for the next two weeks at the rate it has for the past two weeks, every local dwelling will be tenanted. As it is, Scotch Plains has but one or two vacant houses, while in the borough, although there are a number of empty ones, conditions are rapidly improving over the past winter.

The following are included among the recent arrivals: John Widner, from the Shepard house, Front street, to the Morrel flat, Park avenue; Henry Kandelky and family, of New York, to the Sheppard house, Front street; Edward Ward and family, of Jersey City, to Reiner house, Park avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Woodbridge, of Paterson road, the borough, to Park house, Park avenue; William Pangborn, of Dunellen, to Barr house, Bartle avenue; John Sheffield and family, of Jersey City, to Hophan house, Farley avenue; Kenneth Mathiason and family, of New York, to Sands house, Fourth street, the borough. Mr. and Mrs. George Keuhn, of Westfield avenue, will remove to the former Coddington residence on Park avenue as soon as improvements are made.

WILL SUE FOR $200 BECAUSE OF MISHAP

John J. Mullen, of Newark, Suing Dr. Edward Sargent, of Russell Road.

The second lawsuit in which a local automobilist figures came up before Judge Connolly, in Elizabeth, on Monday, and was postponed until Monday, April 10. The suit has been instituted by John J. Mullen, of Newark, against Dr. Edward Sargent, of Russell road, to recover $200 damages as the result of a collision in Elizabeth last August.

In entering the suit Mullen charges the local man, who at the time was driving a car owned by Dr. John Thelsburg, with running into and upsetting a horse and wagon owned by him and driven by a young boy.

Dr. Sargent's version of the accident is quite different and is backed up by witnesses. In answering the complaint he says that at the time his car was motionless alongside the curb, and that the horse, getting beyond the control of the youth, took fright and ran into the machine. At the time it occurred he drove to the nearest police station and reported it. Vincent Nash, Jr., of Plainfield, is his counsel.

TOWNSHIP TALK

Philip Neider, of South avenue, has been spending several days on a trip to New England in the interests of the Bound Brook concern he is connected with.

News has been received here of the death earlier in the week of Miss Ethel Schulz at her home in Brooklyn. Miss Schulz was a niece of James Eberly, of Martine avenue, and well known locally.

SEEKING HIS SERVICES.

Henry Albert, the slugging infielder, who has adorned nearly every position on a baseball team in years gone by, will play this summer with the City Baseball League in Plainfield on Saturday afternoons, and is considering various proposals for a Sunday job. According to "Hen" he still can line them out, and he'd like to get behind the bat once more. Should his brother Joe decide to manage the 'Plains outfit once more Henry would in all likelihood don a home uniform.

WELL KNOWN MERCHANT RETIRES FROM BUSINESS

Edwin G. Lewis, who has been engaged in business in the borough for the past twenty-two years, has sold his stock to a Plainfield merchant and will spend the remainder of his days in retirement. He is one of the most highly-respected citizens of the borough. Mr. Lewis, whose parents were Enoch and Elizabeth Ann Lewis, was born seventy-three years ago at Sidney, the name of which has since been changed to Lansdowne. He is a veteran of the Civil War, serving from 1862 to 1863 as a member of the Thirty-first New Jersey Regiment, and was actively engaged in the battles of Fredericksburg and Chancellorsville. In 1865 he married Miss Emma Cortsley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cortsley, of High Bridge, who died a year ago. Mr. Lewis and his wife commenced housekeeping at Hampton Junction, where they resided for sixteen years, thirteen years of which Mr. Lewis engaged in shoemaking and three in railroading. High Bridge was the next home, and during his residence of eight years there, Mr. Lewis continued railroading. Twenty-six years ago, Mr. Lewis and his family moved to Dunellen. Residences now compactly line all of the principal streets, but in those days they were only scattered here and there. All of the present churches were built, but there was only one school.

Upon coming to Dunellen, Mr. Lewis secured a position at Pond's and worked there four years. At the expiration of that time he and Walter Smith, of Bound Brook, opened a gent's furnishing establishment in the store now occupied by Frank Cashin. This partnership continued for seven years, when Mr. Smith sold his interest to Mr. Lewis. Mr. Lewis continued in business at this store until two years ago, when he moved to Hatfield row. Last fall he moved to David S. Campbell's store, where he rented half the floor space. Mr. Lewis is a member of the Methodist Episcopal church. He is a charter member of the W. G. Holton Council, No. 55, Jr. O. U. A. M., which was organized twenty-five years ago, and a member of the Plainfield Lodge of United Workmen.

A. E. Smith, who has been incapacitated since an operation for eye trouble performed three weeks ago, expects to be able to return to work on Monday.

Harry S. Titsworth, who has been unable to attend to his duties as manager of the Union Pacific Tea store since Saturday owing to an attack of grip, returned to work today.

LEROY SMITH IMPROVING.

LeRoy Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Smith, is able to be out, after an illness of three weeks with what first threatened to be pneumonia.

REGAINING HIS VOICE.

John Doty, of the Dunellen Lumber and Stone Company, is gradually regaining the use of his voice, lost several months ago when he was buried in a car of coal.

Mr. and Mrs. William De Roner, of Allentown, have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Smith.

COTTAGE PRAYER MEETINGS.

Cottage prayer services will be held at the homes of the following persons this evening: George T. Schenck, Samuel M. Titus, Joseph G. Tetlow and W. W. Giddes.

George Myers, of Prospect avenue, is suffering again from eye trouble. He has consulted specialists, but improvement only seems to be temporary.

HAVER'S NARROW ESCAPE.

Russell Haver, who has been unable to work since Monday, when he was run into by a motorcycle at Lincoln while on his way to the plant of the Railway Acetylene Light and Signal Company, expects to be able to resume his duties the first of the week. The accident occurred just as young Haver left the trolley at the abrupt turn in its tracks opposite the American Tile Works. In dodging one man, the motorcyclist, who was headed towards Bound Brook, ran into Haver. The front wheel of the motorcycle struck Haver on the left leg. The motorcyclist was hurled off of his machine and the headlight was broken. The rider was uninjured.

MADE NO INSPECTION.

Michael Gallagher, who has announced his intention of circulating a petition to have the sewer work completed to date tested before more money is appropriated for the completion of the system, wishes the statement denied that he has made an inspection of the work. He says that his action is based upon facts about the sewers which he believes to be generally known, the principal fact of which is that the pipes along Grove street must be taken up and relaid. He said that he was against Dunellen having sewers in the first place, and called attention to his remarks before the Council three years ago, when he told that body that they were "pulling the wool over the eyes of the taxpayers."

DWELLING IS SOLD.

The house at Dunellen and Sanford avenues has been sold to Amos Riehl, of New York City, by W. S. Freeman, acting for the National Building and Land Company. Mr. Riehl will take possession on April 1.

Raymond Millard is entertaining his sister, Mrs. Joseph Bivins, of Alloway.

A. G. Nelson, who has pleurisy, is improving.

"A CASE OF SUSPENSION."

The farce, "A Case of Suspension," will be presented under the auspices of the choir of the First Baptist church in Friendship Hall at 8 o'clock this evening, the proceeds to be for the benefit of the organ fund. Ice cream will be on sale after the entertainment.

ROOSEVELT MAKES ATTACK ON WILSON

Blames Administration For Nation's Difficulties.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., March 30.—In a bitter denunciation of President Wilson, which he made public, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt charged that by the policies adopted in treating with Mexico, preparedness and the European war, the administration had placed this country in an infamous position and had courted the "possibility of the most terrible disgrace and disaster in the future."

Taking as his text what he termed the president's "utterly baseless" intimations that sinister influences were at work in Mexico to bring about armed intervention, the colonel put the issue squarely in the form of a challenge to answer a series of questions about the Mexican situation. He accused the president and his subordinates of being "woefully [illegible] time" for the situation which is now confronting the country.

Coming as it did after a series of political conferences with leaders of the Progressive and Republican parties in some of the principal Republican strongholds, the last of which was held with Congressman Gardiner of Massachusetts, but one interpretation was placed on the colonel's statement by politicians. It was looked upon frankly as the opening gun in a rousing campaign for the colonel to awaken the country in an effort to bring about the overthrow of the Wilson administration.

MR. AND MRS. POINIER GIVEN FAREWELL SURPRISE

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer W. Poinier, who are removing from their home on East Second street, to Ampere, Essex county, where they will reside in the future, were given a surprise gathering at their East Second street home, Tuesday night. The affair was arranged by the members of the Afternoon Reading Club, to which Mrs. Poinier belonger, and was a complete surprise to both she and her husband. The gathering numbered forty in all and took possession of the house, while Mr. and Mrs. Poinier were visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Causbrook, of Netherwood avenue.

The evening was spent in playing cards and dancing while the serving of refreshments terminated the festivities at midnight. During an intermission in the informal program, Mrs. Poinier was presented with a handsome bouillon set, the gift of the reading club. On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Poinier was accorded a farewell at the home of Miss Boss, St. Mark's place, by the card club of which she is a member and the organization made her a present of a set of silverware.

Mr. Poinier has been connected with the Bosh Magneto Company since it came to Plainfield and previous to that time was with the Rushmore Dynamo Company, its predecessor. About a year ago he was transferred to the New York office of the company and his removal to Ampere was brought about because of more convenient commuting facilities. Both he and Mrs. Pioinier have a host of friends who will wish them success in their new location.

SEWER BOARD PAYS BILLS AMOUNTING TO OVER $2,700

Bills for the past month amounting to more than $2,700 were audited and ordered paid last night by members of the joint sewer board of Plainfield, North Plainfield and Dunellen at the meeting held last night. Francis J. Blatz, chairman of the board, presided. Many other matters were discussed, but all were of minor importance.

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Adv.

PRESS WANT ADS REACH THE PEOPLE THROUGH-OUT UNION COUNTY.

In order that residents of Scotch Plains and Fanwood may use the Plainfield Daily Press' classified advertising columns without coming to the Plainfield office to insert their ads the Daily Press has arranged with Walter Van Hoesen and H. C. Flannery to take charge of the advertising in these two places. Both may be reached by telephone at any time, and they will accept advertisements at the regular office rates. Recent experiments have proven that Press want ads are producing surprising results.

During the past week the Daily Press has entered into an agreement with the Elizabeth Evening Times whereby advertisements inserted in the classified columns of the Daily Press will be published in the Elizabeth paper upon the payment of one-half of the amount which the Press ad costs. This offer is described in detail on the classified page of this issue. Look it over Washington, March 30.—For the "moral effect it will have on the country and the international relations of the United States," Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, recommended to the house naval affairs committee the laying down of eight capital ships as a building program for the present year.

Mr. Roosevelt also referred to reports that Japan had a secret building program and said that according to present strength, so far as known, the United States would be on a par with the oriental power if obliged to meet the Japanese navy in its own waters.

"ALL ISRAEL MUST SPEAK FOR ISRAEL"

Declares Rabbi Wise in Keynote Speech

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, of New York, delivered the most important speech at the Jewish conference in Philadelphia this week. The Congress voted that this addres be recorded as the official "keynote" speech, with the thanks of the delegates to Dr. Wise. Following is the address in full:

"This day is destined to be memorable in the annals of Israel the more because we are thinking not of ourselves alone, nor for ourselves, but, after the Jewish manner, of and for all Israel. High is the privilege of having part in an assembly which may be destined to make Jewish history and, therefore, world history. The revenge of the human soul, when its rights are ignored by power, is history. Not the revenge, but the indomitable resolution of the rights too long ignored by power, is to be history. Not the revenge but the indomitable resolution of the rights too long ignored by power, is to be history.

439th Year of Woe.

"I recall another date, January 31, 439, nearly fifteen hundred years ago, the East Roman emperor, Theodosius II, deprived our forefathers of civil rights and excluded them from public office and, as has been said, this act became during the next one and one-half thousand years in every christian state and basis of the degradation accorded to the Jews. After nearly fifteen hundred years, during the last one hundred of which there has been a beginning of the light, who knows but that even as January 31, 439, is memorable as our day of loss and woe, this day, March 26, 1916, may by us be made forever memorable as the beginning of a new epoch, an epoch that shall see Israel clothed at last throughout the world with honor and security.

"There can be but two questions with regard to the possibility of a congress—questions touching the name and the thing. As for the name, it is known of men that this is not a congress, but a meeting summoned to consider whether and when a congress should be called. We have chosen the name because it is the American name, because its American associations have endeared it to us, native and adoptive children of the republic alike. We have chosen the name congress because it is an inclusive, all-American name, with no implication of partisanship or factionalism.

Why the Name Congress.

"We have chosen the name as alone befitting the high dignity of such an assembly as we conceive to be needed, becausue no lesser name would measure the significance of an assembly of democratically-chosen representatives of the Jewish people of the land. We have deliberately refrained from using the name convention because of the political associations wrapped around it—witness the quadrennial presidential conventions of the political parties. In view of the faith of certain good men in compact, and for one reason or another easily manageable bodies, one is tempted to wonder that the name caucus has not been offered as a substitute for the term congress. So mush for the name, which it were ludicrous to defend as against those who, for want of anything truly objectionable, are happily reduced to the necessity of caviling at the word!

"If any further proof of the fitness of the name congress were needed, is it not at hand in the circumstance that for a generation a series of congresses have been held in this land, dealing with problems of the gravest import. Such have been the world's congress of religions, the tuberculosis congress, the sociological congresses, the social insurance congress (temporarily postponed because of the war), the congress on child welfare, soon to meet in a South American capital. Never, as far as I have heard, has objection been made to the use of the term congress in connection with these assemblies of national or international character. Shall it remain for Jews to belittle their own affairs by refusing to invest their deliberations at the most critical moment of our tasks and hopes with the outward title and the inward dignity of a congress?

"This is not the first time in Jewish history that a Jewish assembly has been called. Little more than a century ago such a Jewish high court was convened by Napoleon, which court, in the course of public sessions, did little more than ratify the decisions of the assembly of notables. This assembly, in a sense of milestone on the highroad of Jewish history, little avail after one year to avert the restriction of legal rights for Jews. This Jewish congress or sandhedrin, while not paralleled by our assembly, failed to be greatly and permanently serviceable to Jewish interests for two reasons. First, it was not an act of the Jewish consciousness and the Jewish will. Second, because in the nature of things it was not free to legislate and act on behalf of Israel.

Summoned by People.

"Taking no special account of a series of memorable Jewish congresses during the last two decades, which were called into being by the high statesmanship of Theodore Kerzl, the assembly of this hour has been summoned upon the initiative of the people's will. The Sandhedrin of a century ago, decreed for us, marked the beginning of Israel's emergence from the Ghetto. This assembly, after a century of experience in the manner and the matter of democracy for some of us, and after centuries of democratic idealism for all of us, marks not our emergence for the Ghetto, but our resurgence to the highest hopes of Israel's life and destiny. It bears witness that we have not lost our capacity for self-determination, and that, paraphrasing Edmund Burke, while not despairing of the world, we have come as a people to put our trust chiefly in ourselves.

"The failure to secure aught for our people unless the demand be formulated and fortified by the people's purpose was shown in the classic instance of Disraeli's insistence at the Berlin congress of 1878. Earnestly and resolutely he sought to safeguard the rights of Jews in Balkan lands. He failed in a large part because, though an ardent believer in his people's future, he omitted to seek support in his people's will. Disraeli died and Roumania utterly forgot. But the Jewish people live and cannot permanently be ignored. 'In magnis voluisse sat est.' In great things it is enough to will, but not in the greatest, where a people's will alone may be prophetic of a people's achievement.

Must Be Free of Masters.

"We have no apologies to make to the American people, though our fellow Americans will be moved to wonder that any Jews should fail to have part in deliberations, orderly, responsible, democratic, concerned with the security of half of the millions of Israel and involving the honor of all Israel. No more do we find it necessary to make reply to certain grave accusations unctuously couched in the form of admonition, rooted within a resentment of the people's determination to be free of their masters. And the people are resolved to be free of their masters, whether these be malevolent tyrants without or benevolent despots within the life of Israel.

"We are sorry, not because the American people have caught a glimpse of a deep-seated division of opinion; not because we have obviously failed to achieve unanimity touching our aims, but solely because a once beneficent attitude reveals itself as a petulant and malevolent boss-ship abhorring the substance of democracy amid the counsels of a people. It were treasonable to be either un-Jewish or un-American, and we are Jewish in our determinations to be self-succoring and American in the strength of our will to achieve the best for our people everywhere, that we may in all things free our people for the best.

"Were it not for certain circumstances, this meeting would in all likelihood have come under the direction of the surest of hands. Not very long ago the president of the republic sought throughout the land for a man to take a place on the foremost tribunal of the land, the Supreme Court of the United States. By common consent of all, save the abettors of privilege, the man was found in a citizen of the republic whose life has been as serviceable to the nation as it has been honoring to Israel. It is in truth a happy omen that the highest place yet reached by an American Jew should fall to the lot of that statesman in the realm of industrial democracy and social ethics.

'Who never sold the trust to serve the hour,
Nor paltered with Eternal God for power.'

"Whom the citizenship of the Republic, save for the lovers of inequity, rightfully reveres as a selfless and consecrated tribune of all the people. This American Jew who, more than any other, has moved his people to repossess themselves of the spirit of self-determination and to loose themselves from a long-endured bondage of eleemosynary patronage, Louis Dembitz Brandeis.

Democracy is Necessary.

"We have no programme. As individuals we have opinions, even convictions. But our programme might be summed up in the words—The Jewish people must create their own organ through which, after earnest deliberation and discussion, to express their convictions touching the deeds and demands of the Jewish people. Beyond this we are not to go. This conference is to labor solely to the end that there be devised and perfected such agencies as may bring about a completely democratic organization of all the forces of American Israel, save for such as may will to exclude themselves.

"If it again be objected that democratic organization is a method of operation and not an end to be sought, we again solemnly aver that a people is not worthy of respect which does not insist upon the right to be heard touching its own affairs, but surrenders the right of judgment and decision to a company of men, however wise and benevolent, who substitute their own opinions and wishes for the convictions and determinations of the whole people. It were little less than a tragedy if the Jewish people first among the peoples in democratic aim should in this land succumb to the pressure exerted by those who for one reason or another are distrustful of the capacity of the many to manage their own affairs.

"One further step this congress may take. It may, after reaching a decision that a congress be held, suggest in outline a programme to be considered by the congress, but it must be understood that this conference can do no more than tentatively draft a programme for the consideration of the congress, which congress must remain free to reach its own decisions on all questions. The congress, if congress there is to be, must enjoy freedom unlimited by any mandates from this body. The congress must remain its own master as the Jewish people is about to resume the mastery over its own affairs.

To Be No Longer Onlookers.

"While no man may speak with authority for this conference, it is obvious that among the questions to be considered by it is the situation of Jews in various lands, especially the belligerent lands; the situation in Palestine, which history has created for us; the situation which a historic people have created for themselves; the Jewish immigration which, as a problem, has been intensified rather than evoked by the world war; the question whether or not a Jewish congress shall be brought into being—and, after that, the choosing of a group of men to be intrusted by us with the task of representing this conference in making needed arrangements for a congress.

"A congress means that which Theodore Herzl was wise enough to foresee and big enough to foretell—that the fate of Israel cannot be settled for us, but must be determined by us, by Israel's collective will and indomitable purpose. A Jewish congress means that we are to cease to be onlookers or auditors at a debate on the future of Israel. That, whatsoever the future, we are to mold it in whole or in largest part. They alone are satisfied to have our future molded for us who are indifferent to the question whether or not Israel is to have a future. A congress means that, whatsoever the decision with regard to the future of Israel, we must reach it and we must pronounce it.

"The world cannot be expected to assent to any programme touching Israel's future as long as Israel does not unitedly deliberate and speak. We owe it to the world to bring into the arena of discussion those problems the rightful solution of which cannot be attained without the co-operation of the peoples.

"It was the genius of Herzl to put an end to the century-old hole-in-the-corner method of considering Jewish questions and to insist upon the world's attention and discussion touching Jewish problems. Secrecy, always futile as a curative method, had proven disastrous in prolonging and intensifying Jewish woes. The world had registered its unspoken decrees, while Israel self-pityingly and helplessly listened. The soul of a great Jew ended all that. He bade Israel speak, and the nations listen. We now freely discuss our will where aforetime we furtively listened to the edict of others. A congress means deliberation, not agitation; discussion, not division; enlightenment, not secrecy.

Let Us Choose a Leader.

"The call to Israel to speak for itself rather than forever to be spoken for, comes at a time when the world has been brought to realize the peril which inheres in the conduct of the people's affairs, most especially international affairs, by the powerful, and the privileged unamenable to public authority and public control. Out of this war is to come an end of private, professional secret diplomacy and a beginning of the control by the people of their national and international relationships. For these can never be ordered aright save as they have been brought into the arena of public deliberation and untrammeled discussion.

"Are we, the people of Israel, to persist in being less democratic than the rest of the world; to insist that we are not competent to pass upon our own problems? Are we forever to suffer men to think and act for us, not because we have chosen and named them, but because they have decreed that we are not fit to be trusted with the power of shaping our own destiny? Among the first of earth's people to advocate and to insist upon popular autonomy, shall we be the last to welcome the renewal of the spirit of democracy? Shall we in this democratic land renounce our democratic ideals, and by so much foreswear the passionately democratic faith of our fathers?

"It is of the essence of the democratic spirit wisely to choose and reasoningly to follow high leadership. To hold that we as a people are anarchic in our incapacity, for the acceptance of leadership is wholly to misunderstand Israel's veritable passion for leadership if so be that leadership be wise and noble. Through the centuries, Israel ceaselessly renewed its quest for leadership in the words of our fathers, 'na-aseh-rosh' ('let us choose for ourselves a leader'). The leadership which Israel has always rejected has either been imposed by outward authority or unendowed with inward authority. To them that express regret at our seemingly ruthless rejection of the policies that have long been in control of the affairs of American Israel, let it be said that, whatever may have been the necessities of the past, the time is come for a leadership by us to be chosen—a leadership that shall democratically and wisely lead rather than autocratically and unwisely command.

Caution in Place of Wisdom.

"We reject no leadership, for we have known no leadership. Policies of inaction and aimlessness and timidity have presumed to erect themselves into leadership, tempered always by the grace of beneficence. With the substitution of inchoate purposelessness for the conscious direction of our affairs, we have been patient much too long. Accidentally and whimsically adopted policies have been set to do the work of undeviating principle. Such direction as has been even lacked the merit of wise opportunism. We have had caution in the place of wisdom. We have had inaction erected into a programme. This leadership of inaction has persisted so long because of the long-suffering patience of our people, which pardons much ineffectiveness in men if they are, or are believed, to be moved by benevolent purpose. The aimlessness of our so-called leadership has been witnessed during the past year by the rejection of our demand for a programme and the naming of our insistence upon a programme as token of divisiveness and disloyalty.

"The only programme acceptable to the man in control of our affairs has been a programme of palliation, as if nothing more than temporary relief could be hoped for Israel, wounded and oppressed. Relief, alas, is at times sorely needed; was never more needed than today. But relief is not to be exalted as a policy or programme of a people unless these be hopeless beggars and their leaders adopt a programme of relief as the only way out. Not relief, but redress; not palliation, but prevention; not charity, but justice; not Zedakah, but Zedek—is the only programme worthy of a great and proud people.

The Call of Washington.

"It was not far from these halls that the father of the Republic spoke unforgettable words to his fellow-founders of a new order—words peculiarly applicable to the situation in which we, the sons and daughters of Israel, stand this day. 'Let us,' said Washington, 'erect a standard to which all men can repair.' I say to you, representatives of a great people and of a great cause: Let us erect a standard to which all men can repair—our fellow Jews, all—for we have opened the door of hope and we are resolved to keep the door open, that all men may enter; that all our fellow Jews may stand with us in restoring the fortunes and renewing the glories of our people Israel. To which all men may repair—yea, all men—our fellow-Americans and all peoples, for of them we ask all that it doth become men to ask—their just and even brotherly consideration of the problems of Israel which, to solve equitably is to remove their, as well as our own, reproach. Israel expects every man to do his duty.

"The character and content of that duty it remains for us wisely and solemnly, prayerfully and selflessly, to seek to determine. God give it that our deliberations be worthy of this setting, the cradle of American freedom, and be equal to the hopes of our people Israel.

"I have sought to do no more than as an individual to interpret the mind of Israel. Whether or not I have rightly interpreted the purpose of our people, it is for this conference and the Jewish congress, not in the process of creation, to determine. The event be in the hands of God, brethren in the war-stricken countries.

"This opportunity is something we should all cherish and only, in having the entire congress movement thoroughly democratic and its work democratic, can we create a force and influence that will make the rulers of the older world realize that the spirit we represent is reflective of the spirit of democracy that prevails in their land, and when such a spirit will prevail, the cause of securing to the Jew his rights will be attained.

In Cradle of Liberty.

"I look upon the holding of this conference in this city of Philadelphia as prophetic of the future of the Jewry. This great country of ours has passed through several crises—the first, when we severed the bonds that had grown unbearable by reason of the violation of the principles of democracy. It was in this city, in 1776, this spirit of democracy rose to its true height in the Declaration of Independence. It is most fitting, therefore, that in this city is gathered this preliminary conference that has, for its purpose, the calling together of the Jews in a collective capacity—namely, a congress.

It is most fitting that we here should voice our protest against the injustice and inhumanity of acts which deny to a large part of our people their inalienable rights. The spirit of democracy exemplified by this immortal document is but the spirit of democracy given as a heritage to the world by our people, in our Talmud and in the sayings of our prophets. But with the first crisis passed in our history within a very few years we were confronted with another one—joined together, as we were, in our battle for independence by a common purpose, namely, as defense and an assertion of a right against a common enemy. When that purpose was attained the people of each separate colony thought only of themselves as individual colonies and not as a collective whole.

"They were held together then, merely by the articles of confederation—a rope of sand. The danger was realized by Franklin, Washington, Jefferson, Adams, Patrick, Henry and others; and although each felt strongly for his own state, yet they realized that there must be unity of purpose, unity of action, and as a result was born our constitution, which cemented us into a union one almost to the breaking hrdluacMe and inseparable, although strained almost to the breaking point in four years of warfare.

Spirit of Republic Lives.

"The spirit that actuated the fathers of the land continued to live, and came again in the immortal Lincoln, until today that same spirit must actuate us in our deliberations, in our purpose, in order to secure for the Jew in other lands what he has in this land of ours—the right to life, liberty, and the prospect of happiness.

"It is an important responsibility, therefore, that we have before us. The last congress of Jews was in 1878. Since that time there have been other organizations that have sought in their own way to improve and better the condition of the Jew. Such organizations existed in London, in Paris and in our land. While the men therein strove valiantly, fearlessly and unselfishly, yet in my humble opinion, the spirit in which they organized and in which they carried out their work was the spirit of philanthropy and charity.

"Such a spirit may alleviate conditions, but it cannot eradicate them. We are endeavoring to bring into creation a force that will give to the Jew his inalienable rights as a matter of right, and when we do this it is not a question of relief, not a question of applying the ointment of charity to the canker sores of a civilization that has denied the Jew his rights, but we are simply practicing and bringing into realty what is greatest and best in the world—democracy—a word sacred to us as Americans, sacred to us as Jews."

There's something that rings so true in the lines of praise sent us by the wearers of Rothberg Clothes, that it would be unfair both to ourselves and to you if we withheld their publication altogether. Such dis-interested testimony is the kind of tip you may take at its full face value.

One man writes us: "The suit fits me perfectly. I shall be in to see you shortly for some additional clothes." Another says: "I like the snap and style the Rothberg Clothes possess!"

And so on, in the same tenor, by word of mouth and mail our hundreds of friends think there's nothing like Rothberg's.

May we show YOU?

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back herts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

U-BOAT ATTACKS AROUSE CAPITAL

Another Merchantman Torpedoed Without Warning.

OUR POLICY DETERMINED

Wilson Convinced Germany Has Broken Pledge—Berlin to Take Stand That Channel Steamer Sussex Was Sunk by Floating Mine—Crisis More Acute.

Washington, March 30.—The state department has been officially advised by the American consul at Queenstown that another merchant vessel has been torpedoed without warning. The gravity of the international situation has been increased thereby.

Responsible officials express themselves as amazed, to put it mildly, over the manner in which the German submarine warfare is being conducted. They do not hesitate to say that they are irritated. They are unable to explain what seems to them to be a reckless disregard for international rights and specific pledges to the United States on the part of the submarine commanders.

The German government will take the position that the explosion which damaged the channel steamer Sussex, resulting in the loss of a number of lives and injury to several Americans, was caused by a British mine and not by a German submarine. It was made clear following the arrival of Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, that the German reply to the request for information which President Wilson has instructed Ambassador Gerard to make in Berlin will be based upon this contention.

The German government declines to consider itself in any way involved in the Sussex disaster. The imperial government has taken no steps to discuss the matter with Washington, and Count von Bernstorff said he saw no reason for discussing it with the American state department.

The ambassador was obviously worried over the developments of the past few days, but answered questions with his usual courtesy. When told that the tension had reached a very high pitch in White House and state department circles here the ambassador replied:

"I cannot help it. One cannot blame Germany because the Sussex struck a British mine."

Cites Germany's Promise.

The ambassador emphasized the fact that Germany had agreed that passenger ships would not be attacked by submarines. He expressed the opinion that the mine which damaged the Sussex was a British mine which had been anchored near the coast and drifted into the steamer's track.

When asked if the German foreign office had cabled instructions for him to discuss the Sussex with the American state department Count von Bernstorff replied:

"Why should we discuss it? It does not concern us."

Asked if he intended to talk to Secretary Lansing about it the ambassador replied:

"I have not the slightest intention to."

Further questions along this line only made it more evident that Germany's position is based on the assertion that a British mine was probably responsible and that neither a German submarine nor a German mine could have been the cause. There are indications that Germany will stand firm on this issue and will not take with any great relish presumptions impugning her pledge to the United States. It is also predicted that the tension in official circles here over the Sussex case will have no effect on the position which the German foreign office has taken in regard to it.

BARON ZWIEDINEK.

It is possible that Baron Zwiedinek may be handed his passports in the event of a diplomatic rupture with the Teutonic countries over the submarine question.

There have been veiled hints from inspired German sources that the German government would hasten to express regret and disavow in advance any attack of a German submarine on a passenger vessel. There now appears to be little justification for this assumption. Apparently Germany will make no disavowal in the case of the Sussex.

Thinks Germany Sincere.

The flat statement denying responsibility and putting the blame on Great Britain emphasizes the importance of proving that a German submarine attacked this vessel and at the same time indicates that Count von Bernstorff at least does not consider that Germany has any intention of breaking her pledge to the United States with regard to submarine warfare. Meantime increasing evidence is steadily reaching the state department that German submarines are striking right and left at merchantmen.

American Consul Frost, at Queenstown, cabled to the state department as follows:

"British steamer Eagle Point torpedoed yesterday without warning. One hundred miles from land. All saved. One American."

This makes the fourth case within the last few days where American lives have been placed in jeopardy or sacrificed by alleged attacks of German submarines. Secretary Lansing had hardly sent his message of inquiry to Ambassador Gerard about the Sussex and Englishman when official news came of the submarine attack on the Manchester Engineer. This is followed by the report of the attack on the Eagle Point. These dispatches citing new cases are reaching here simultaneously with new evidence pointing to the fact that the Sussex was struck by a torpedo.

In these circumstances there is a marked contrast here between the position which President Wilson and the state department take and the attitude of Count von Bernstorff and the German foreign office. It was made clear that both President Wilson and Secretary Lansing are convinced that Germany has, deliberately or otherwise, broken her pledge to the United States. Both the president and Secretary Lansing have their minds made up as to the course which the United States must follow.

Count von Bernstorff, on the other hand, takes the view that so far as the Sussex is concerned there is nothing for the United States even to consider in regard to Germany. President Wilson and Secretary Lansing admittedly regard the situation as serious.

In Conference With Colonel House.

Both the president and Secretary Lansing, together with Counselor Polk of the state department, discussed the submarine question with Colonel E. M. House. Colonel House is understood to have clearly emphasized the divergence of views here and in Berlin over the issue and to have explained how the German point of view is unalterably opposed to shaping its policy of submarine warfare in accordance with the wishes of any foreign power.

The state department has directed Ambassador Gerard to make inquiries at the German foreign office about the British steamship Manchester Engineer, which, according to official advices here, was torpedoed without warning by a German submarine. American lives were placed in jeopardy, and the submarine attack is construed as another violation of Germany's pledge to the United States.

Mr. Gerard will not initiate any diplomatic discussion of the case. No secret is made of the fact that the president thinks the time for diplomatic discussion is past and will base his decision on the facts without further diplomatic controversy.

The fate of the Englishman is considered particularly significant here in connection with the recent communication from the German government complaining about British vessels refusing to stop after German submarines began to shell them. In a number of specified cases the merchantmen refused to stop and escaped injury. In this case the Englishman did stop and was sent to the bottom.

TO PAY RECRUITS WAGES.

Steel Company Encourages Enlistments Among Employees.

Youngstown, O., March 30.—Officals of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company here announced that this company would assist President Wilson's preparedness plans by paying all employees who are members of the national guard their regular wages when away from work on guard duty or at annual training encampments.

The offer was made when Captain Wade C. Christy, an officer of the Ohio militia, who is an employee of the company, asked permission to recruit a new company of sixty-five men from the Sheet and Tube company's employees. The company management disiaims encouraging enlistments merely to hely on strike duty.

For Embargo on Gasoline.

Washington, March 30.—After a conference with Secretary of Commerce Redfield, Representative Howard of Georgia introduced a resolution authorizing the president to declare an embargo on the shipment of gasoline from the United States. At the same time a measure was introduced by Representative Steenerson of Minnesota which would authorize the federal trade commission to fix the price of gasoline and other petroleum products.

MY TIRED FEET
ACHED FOR "TIZ"
When Mixed With Sulphur It Brings Back Its Beautiful Lustre at Once.

Just take your shoes off and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, aching, burning, corn-pestered, bunion-tortured feet of yours in a "Tiz" bath. Your toes will wriggle with joy; they'll look up at you and almost talk and then they'll take another dive in that "Tiz" bath.

When your feet feel like lumps of lead—all tired out—just try "Tiz." It's grand—it's glorious. Your feet will dance with joy; also you will find all pain gone from corns, callouses and bunions.

There's nothing like "Tiz." It's the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause foot torture.

Get a 25-cent box of "Tiz" at any drug or department store—don't wait. Ah! how glad your feet get; how comfortable your shoes feel. You can wear shoes a size smaller if you desire.—Adv.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK
Let your sorefi, swollen, aching feet spread out in a bath of "Tiz."

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beauttifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Adv.

WHY WAR WITH JAPAN?

It is rather remarkable that every once in a while some Senator or Congressman who has never visited Japan rises to tell of the peril that confronts the United States on the western coast from the Mikado's people. On the other hand those who have visited that country say that they are convinced that Japan does not want war with the United States, and hopes to continue her pleasant relations with this country. Here is what the Tokio Advertiser, one of the leading papers of Japan, says about the matter, in answer to a statement made by the San Francisco Examiner, predicting that we "will have war with Japan just as surely as Germany and England came to blows and fierce battle:"

The questions have to be answered before we admit the inevitable war theory. What are the United States and Japan to go to war about? How are they going to wage a "worth while" war? The Examiner will admit that Japan has nothing which America covets, and the admission wipes out one side of a whole series of possible causes of trouble. What has America which Japan might conceivably covet? The Philippines? These do not seem to Japan to be worth a war. Japan, however, is sometimes regarded as coveting some parts of the Pacific slope, including that desirable State which is the Examiner's home. Admitting the military possibility that parts of the Pacific seaboard might be seized by a naval power which had run amuck, is it thinkable that the United States would acquiesce in such seizure? Does anyone imagine that America could be fought into permanent acceptance of a redrawn map, colored yellow on the western side of the Rockies? Everybody in the United States knows the answer to that question, and those who fear the inevitable war can be reasonably asked to believe that the rulers of Japan also know the answer and are not likely to lead the nation over a precipice by attempting the impossible. Other supposed causes of war will be found to be variations of the same tune.

DENYING LIBERTY TO OTHERS.

Americans are growing insanely jealous of their boasted liberty. It is not enough that they shall enjoy it, but that they shall build a wall around their choicest possession so that others may not taste its richness. Congress is to bar immigrants who cannot pass a literacy test. Why not refuse admittance to those who cannot successfully negotiate the contortions of the latest dip or glide? Many achieve happiness and even success—according to the fast-growing American standard—without a knowledge of the classics, or even a common school education, but none who are not at home in the ball room can be said to be truly American. If Congress is afraid American stock is to be cheapened by the blood of the uneducated, why not send the hundreds of thousands of illiterates in the Southern and Western States to darkest Africa until they can pass the necessary exams? Let Congress strike from the pages of American history the names and deeds of all citizens who would never have seen our shores had such a test been conducted beginning with the landing of the Mayflower and it will have no future trouble with immigrants, for there will be nothing here to attract them.

A liberty-enjoying people will not deny liberty to others. A free country cannot be fenced. Congress ignorantly strikes at the very foundation of the American republic in seeking to pass the wholly idiotic bill.

* * * * * *

While none of the local coal dealers have announced that the price of coal will not take the customary fifty-cent drop on April first, such announcements have been made in New York and other cities, and it is safe to assume that thrifty Plainfielders will have to pay more this year than for many years past. The failure to make a better price for the summer months is due to the fact that there is trouble between the anthracite miners and their employes, and pending its settlement no reduction can be made at the mines. The ostensible reason for not reducing the price is that while a working agreement has been reached with the miners pending negotiations, the new rate of wages and conditions of labor, when adopted are to be dated as from April first, and notice already has been served that the consumer must pay the cost. Therefore, it appears from the statement made in New York city, a charge of 50 cents a ton above the normal April figure is to be made on the consumer as an insurance of the operator against possible loss in case an increase of miners' wages shall be required. But, there is no provision for refunding to the buyer if the increase shall be avoided or if it does not amount to fifty cents a ton—and, as a matter of fact, no one expects that it will. As usual, the public pays the fiddler.

* * * * * *

All Europe has been at war for nearly two years, and one of the most valuable aids for carrying on the struggle has been the use of aeroplanes. The United States has had plenty of time to learn that there should be a large fleet of these machines in this country, and yet when trouble came in Mexico, it was found that there were but eight fliers available, and six of these have already been put out of commission. The Aero Club of America has offered the government two more machines, and because of a rule about not accepting anything without pay, the government has refused the proffered loan. There is certainly no greater evidence of the inefficiency of the Secretaries of War, past and present, than is shown by the fact that in less than two weeks' time the available aircraft in Mexico is narrowed down to two, both ancient models.

* * * * * *

The case against the fire department having been thoroughly aired, it is evident that matters stand exactly as they did before the investigation was asked. We fail to see where a thing has been accomplished, except to bring out a lot of points that the people already knew.

If some giant with a mop as wide as the streets would come along and start to clean up a little, Plainfielders would be mighty thankful.

BIEDERWOLF WILL REVIVE INTEREST IN BIBLE READING

The Big Print Red Letter Edition of the Bible now being offered by the Daily Press to its readers should be in every home in this city and suburbs, as the Biederwolf campaign will revive interest in Bible reading as never before. It is far and away the best edition ever offered to the public at anything like the wonderful price now placed before our readers.

The helpful information concerning the Book of Books, alone, would be easily worth the distribution price asked by the Press. This is printed in what might be called an "appendix" and consists of essays, carefully compiled statistics, and a general fund of information that will save many an hour of research for facts such as the general reader or student of the Bible most wants to know. The beauty of the text, however, with its large type and comprehensive marginal annotations, and the red letter printing of Christ's words in the New Testament, render this special edition "out of competition." It is ne plus ultra—there is none other like it! See coupon in today's paper for unrivaled terms.—Adv.

Parody.

A little love,
A little kiss,
A little hug,
A little bliss
She is a queen,
He is a king;
He pops and then
He buys a ring.
Folks stand around,
And see them wed;
Their fate is sealed,
The words are said.
A little flat,
A little strife,
And big expense—
That's married life.

Uncle Abner

Elmer Jones heard a travelin' drummer fer a seed house spring a good joke the other night and he is writin' a vaud'vill sketch around it.

Miss Amaryllis Teeter is singing' popular songs in a movin' picter show. That is to say, they are popular until she sings 'em.

It ain't no trick to belong to the "silk stockings" element any more. You can get a pair of 'em for two bits.

If every feller's sanity was judged by the love letters he has written, the insane asylums would have to turn 'em away and there wouldn't be nobody to act as keepers.

The main difference between vaudeville and the highest forms of dramatic art is that there is more money in vaudeville.

The fellers that never had a chance are gen'ally the ones that gather around the bank directors' table later in life.

Civilization is certainly advancing some. You hardly ever see a plug hat on the streets any more.

No Wonder Jim is Pleased.

We can hardly refrain from giving the general public the benefit of the following advertisement in one of the Indiana papers:

"Mr. James Spillman is pleased to announce that his wife has recovered from her recent illness and is ready again to serve her former customers in the way of washing and ironing and plain sewing. Mr. Spillman will call for and deliver all work for his wife, and your patronage is respectfully solicited."

The Hero.

He stuttered like a motorboat
When he tried conversation;
He always seemed to get the goat
Of all the congregation.
He was as dull as Balaam's ass,
He had no sort of knowledge;
He never saw a freshman class
In high school or in college.

His toqknot was a fiery red,
Almost a conflagration;
In fact, it nearly scorched his head;
He was a weird creation.
His face would stop an eight-day clock;
He was an ugly creature;
To look at him gave one a shock;
He had no handsome feature.

But still he was a hero, and
The girls did gather round him;
They thought that he was simply grand,
And were happy when they found him.
They gazed at him and sighed and sighed,
But still it wasn't funny;
Because, you see, his pa had died
And left a wad of money.

A Horse on Counsel.

"You saw this horse?" defendant's counsel asked the witness in court.

"Yes, I ——"

"What did you do?"

"I just opened his mouth to find out how old he was, and I said to him, 'Old top, I guess you're pretty good yet.'"

"Stop!" yelled the opposing counsel. "Your honor, I object to any conversation carried on between the witness and the horse when the plaintiff was not present."

And the objection was sustained.

"Jane," at the Astor Theatre, Today.

Russians Renew Fight In Galicia.

Vienna, March 30.—The Russians are attacking Austrian positions north of Boyan and along the Stripa with great violence and are shelling Austrian positions near the Bessarabian frontier, the war office announced.

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME...

SLAYER OF HOY FOUND INSANE

Hudson County Jury Absolves Henry Waddington.

TO BE CONFINED IN ASYLUM

Witnesses For State and Defense Agree as to Mental Condition of Defendant. Jurymen Arrived at Verdict After Deliberation of Only Ten Minutes.

Jersey City, March 30.—By bringing in a verdict of insanity in the case of Henry Waddington of 616 Adams street, Hoboken, a jury in the Hudson county court of quarter sessions absolved him from trial on an indictment for the murder on Jan. 3 of Joseph S. Hoy of 322 Belleville avenue, Newark. He will probably be committed to the State Hospital For the Insane at Morris Plains.

Witnesses for both the defense and the state agreed that Waddington was insane. County Physician George W. King, called as a state witness, testified that in his opinion Waddington was a dangerous man to be at large. Other physicians who testified were: For the state, Dr. Smith Ely Jelliffe of New York, Dr. William Mabon of New York, Assistant County Physician Arthur P. Hasking, Dr. Joseph H. Londrigan of Hoboken, Dr. William J. Arlitz of this city and Dr. Henry A. Cotton of the State Hospital For the Insane at Trenton.

The jury was out ten minutes. Judge Mark A. Sullivan, who presided at the trial, explained to the jurymen at the start that they were to try only the issue whether Waddington was sufficiently sane to stand trial on the murder indictment.

VICK TO BE DELEGATE.

Ardent Wilson Man to Attend Convention at St. Louis.

Rutherford, March 30.—Walter Whiting Vick has consented upon the insistence of the various leaders of the Sixth district to go to the St. Louis convention as a delegate.

Mr. Vick was formerly receiver of customs of Santo Domingo. He became assistant secretary of the Democratic national committee after Mr. Wilson's nomination and organized the New York headquarters. He served in the navy during the Spanish-American war and was president of the United Spanish War Veterans' encampment commission in 1912.

Mr. Vick is known as an ardent Wilson man.

TO TEST PASS LAW.

Pennsylvania R. R. to Renew Attempt to Collect State Officers' Fares.

Jersey City, March 30.—The Pennsylvania railroad is about to make a new attempt to compel state officers to pay carfare while traveling between points within the state on official business.

The higher courts have upheld the right of L. Edward Herrman, Governor Fielder's private secretary, to present a state certification in place of carfare, but Vredenbergh, Wall & Carey of this city, counsel for the road, believe a different result will come from action under a different law.

BUILDERS SEEK MORE PAY.

Paterson Crafts Present Demands For Wage Increases May 1.

Paterson, March 30.—Several of the crafts in the building trades have presented demands to the master builders and contractors for wage increases beginning May 1. Although there has been no definite settlement announced by the employers as yet, serious trouble in the building trades is not anticipated this spring. The mechanics asking an increase in wages are the plumbers and sheet metal workers, building laborers, carpenters and the structural iron workers.

Recess For Legislature.

Trenton, March 30.—Republican senators held a conference and decided to take a recess until June 26. Majority Leader Rathbun said Speaker Pilgrim and Majority Leader Kates suggested the three month recess. The proposition has not been formally adopted by senate or house, but resolutions may be introduced soon.

- Proctor's Theatre -

AUDREY MUNSON IN "INSPIRATION" FIVE ACT MUTUAL MASTERPICTURE MADE BY THANHOUSER
At Proctor's Tomorrow.

Bessie Barriscale greets her many admirers today in her latest Triangle production entitled "The Last Act," an extremely powerful emotional story that will fairly rock the audience by means of its sheer dramatic intensity. As an actress out of work and out of money Miss Barriscale is seen in the earlier moments of the play, considering her hopeless situation while seated on a park bench. A big-hearted woman, passing, notices her and stops to ask if she can be of any assistance. The girl is too proud to accept help, but the woman, nevertheless, slips a bill into her purse, unobserved. Then Fate does its share. The gift starts the young actress on an upward career, at the height of which the husband of her benefactor falls in love with her. He begs the girl to elope with him, and marry him after he has arranged a divorce. Here is a situation to try the emotional powers of any actress, and Miss Barriscale's performance does full justice to the unique situation the playwright has conceived. In addition today Chester Conklin, one of the most popular of Keystone comedians, is featured in a whirlwind of thrills and comic capers entitled, "Cinders of Love." Tomorrow Audrey Munson, one of the most popular of art models, appears in the greatest of photoplay classics entitled "Inspiration." Miss Munson's fame is world-wide and her figure adorns such famous pieces of sculpture as the Maine Monument in Central Park, the New York Stock Exchange, New York Municipal Building, Williamsburg Bridge, and scores of statuary at the recent Panama-Pacific Exposition. Tomorrow as an added feature the 13th episode of "The Red Circle" will be shown. On Saturday the management has provided a variety program indeed, which includes popular Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne in an exceedingly interesting and original production called "Man and His Soul." For the amusement of the children Harry Watson will appear in the latest comedy of the "Musty Suffer" series, and will provide fifteen minutes of continuous merriment. Monday Paramount pictures are introduced to the patrons of Proctor's, the first production being Pauline Frederick in "Zaza." With the presentation of Paramount pictures, the chain of the world's greatest photoplays at Proctor's is complete, and now that popular playhouse is the home of Triangle, Paramount, Fox and Metro productions, and the famous Keystone comedies.

FIRE IN TROLLEY PLANT.

The power plant of the transit company was saved only after the Mount Holly fire department arrived on the scene.

WILL CORPORATIONS FIGHT CANADA'S WAR TAX PLAN?

Corporations doing business in Canada are pondering whether to follow the lead of Baron Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in approving the plan recently announced by Canada's Minister of Finance, Hon. William Thomas White, for putting the burden of war taxes upon corporations earning big profits, to the exemption of farmers and stock raisers.

The tax of 25 per cent of all profits over 7 per cent made since the war began on capital stock affects practically every line of corporate business in the Dominion. The grain grower is given light taxes to encourage production.

That Baron Shaughnessy should accept the budget plan has great weight with corporation managers in the United States. His Montreal statement is considered important for the Dominion's debt at the end of the year will be $580,000,000. He said: "The war has, as we all know, added, and will for some time continue to add, important financial burdens to those that the country was already carrying and the Minister of Finance is compelled to resort to drastic methods of taxation for the purpose of meeting the situation.

"The measure now before the House would appear to be about the most feasible means of providing the additional revenue required, but it strikes me that it has some features requiring elucidation and that Sir Thomas White would be inclined to amend before the bill becomes law. Every good citizen and reasonable man will loyally stand back of the Financial Minister in the adoption of the plan of taxation that may finally be considered best in the circumstances, but in return, the people of the country will demand, probably more emphatically than ever before, that expenditures in connection with war shall be without wastefulness or extravagance, and that the Minister of Finance with his colleagues shall see that the country's money is neither pilfered or squandered."

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

What the Moon Saw One Fine Evening.

He Has the Best Place to See Things From.

[Adapted from Hans Christian Andersen.]

"OH, daddy, please tell us a bedtime story!" cried the children.

So daddy sat down, with Jack and Evelyn on his knees, and told them this story: "The moon is a very jolly fellow and from his place in the sky looks down upon the earth and sees many strange sights, as you know. Sometimes he tells what he sees to little children, and this is what he told a little boy: 'Yesterday I peeped down into a little courtyard all surrounded by houses. In the middle of the court sat a hen with eleven chickens around her.

"'The sunshine streamed over the court, and around the chickens skipped a charming little girl. The hen clucked and spread her wings over her brood in alarm. Then the little girl's father came out into the court and scolded her for frightening the hen, and I slipped behind a cloud and thought no more about it. I turned my back upon that side of the world and paid a great deal of attention to a part of the Ganges river where the air is so still that I can get a beautiful picture of myself in the water and where a lovely Hindu maiden comes nightly to burn a bright lamp so her lover will come back home. She interests me very much more than a little girl bothering a hen with some chickens.'"

"Is the moon talking, daddy?" asked Jack.

"Yes," said daddy. "And the moon said: 'Tonight I looked into the same courtyard again, and soon out came the little girl who frightened the hen. She crept along to the chicken house, lifted the latch and slipped inside with the hen and chickens. The hen cackled and flapped her wings, and the chickens made a great fuss. I saw it all quite plainly, for I peeped in through a hole in the wall. I was quite angry with the naughty child for frightening the poor things, and I was glad when her father came and scolded her worse than he did yesterday. He took her by the arm sternly, and when she bent back her head I saw her big blue eyes were full of tears. "What are you doing here?" I heard her father say rather harshly.

"'The little girl cried and answered her father, "I only wanted to get in where the hen is so I can kiss her and ask her to forgive me for frightening her so yesterday, and I was afraid to tell you, daddy."

"'Then her father saw what a sweet child she was and stooped to kiss the dear thing on her forehead, her lips and her eyes. Glad to see this happy ending to the affair, I turned my back upon the courtyard again and glanced over to the Ganges to see if the Hindu maiden had found her lover yet.'" mother is the most beautiful reality of my entire life, though she has been dead a quarter of a century." That is immortality!

WHY NOT?

"THAT IRRESISTIBLE FLAVOR."

THE SYMPATHETIC HOME.

Besides being a healthful place, a beautiful place, a sociable place, home if it is to afford us enriching memories, must be an intimate and sympathetic place, possessing that finer intimate sociability which grows up between the true home and its inmates. For, dear as are the hours we remember shared with friends and strangers, dearer yet are those intimate memories when we shared the day's bounties, the day's needs, the day's joys or the day's difficulties with those who were our own.

Of such were the winter evenings I remember in my own old home when we children studied our lessons together around the big table; or, our lessons finished, we played games or charades. In later years, such were the times when one of us read aloud while the others sewed. Of such, too, certain projects we undertook together, the Christmas box we prepared for a certain poor family, the Christmas dolls we dressed for a Northwest mission.

Then there were the home entertainments we planned, the funny and ambitious tableaux we children were forever getting up; and the private theatricals. And perhaps best of all the things intimately shared at home were the songs we sang. I can still see the faces in the firelight or in the light of the candles that stood on either side of the piano. And I seem still to hear the fresh, young voices joining in those old songs which, as I so little knew then, were to help more potently, perhaps, than many another influence, to mold me

LYNN A. WORDEN GOES TO BROOKFIELD

Will Become Owner of the Courier, Where he Learned Printers' Trade.

Business Manager Lynn A. Worden, whose name for nearly five years has been familiar to Sabbath Recorder readers as manager of the local publishing house, leaves at the end of this week. He has purchased the Brookfield Courier and takes charge of its publication the first of April. This will be going home for Mr. Worden, as he was a Brookfield boy and learned his printer's trade on the paper of which he now becomes the proprietor.

Before coming to Plainfield he was connected with Dr. Arnold C. Davis in publishing the West Winfield Star, after which he became publisher of the Tioga County Herald, in Newark Valley, N. Y. Since July, 1911, he has been a most congenial yokefellow with the editor of the Sabbath Recorder. He is a man of few words, pleasant address, modest and unassuming in his ways, and these qualities have won for him many true friends in Plainfield, who are sorry to lose him. Under his management the business of the publishing house has increased nearly one-half within two or three years.

His family consists of his wife and four children, the eldest of whom, Dean M. Worden, is now in school at Alfred. The best wishes of their friends in Plainfield go with them to their new home, and all wish Mr. Worden success in his business undertaking.

ASTOR THEATRE

Charlotte Greenwoods and Sydney Grant's motion picture debut in Oliver Morosco's screen production of "Jane," the delightful Charles Frohman comedy, is the occasion for a surprising number of individual hits by members of the all star cast. Lydia Yeamans Titus, to cite one, offers a mellow characterization of a sugary brandied peach of past fifty with a fondness for handsome young men that is one of the richest things that has been seen in years. Lydia Yeamans Titus, a name to conjure with in stage annals, is the last of the famous Yeamans family and for years has been one of the great favorites of America, England and Australia. She is a famous mimic, her baby types and imitations of Emma Eames and Adelina Patti and other famous stage folk, not to mention her London East End, Italian, French and "coon" types having gained her world-wide fame as a comediene. "Jane" plays at the Astor Theatre today for the last time.

Another feature in conjunction with this great comedy will be the "Better Babies." This wor is being done in co-operation with the National Federation of Woman's Clubs of the United States and the Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor at Washington. During the week of March 4 to 11, the Woman's Clubs in every community held "Better Babies" week. The country was literally flooded with literature by the Children's Bureau, in charge of Miss Julia Lathrop, chief of the bureau. The Paramount pictographs material has been prepared by the eminent infant specialist, Dr. Rodger Dennett, of New York, and the pictures are edited by the Woman's Home Companion. An all Paramount program, at Plainfield's picture palace.

OLIVE SANDWICHES

Two bottles of olives chopped fine, one-fourth pound grated cheese, yolks of three hard-boiled eggs rubbed to a smooth paste, tablespoon melted butter; season with salt, pepper and celery salt, with a dash of paprika spread on thin slices of bread and butter. Fine for luncheon.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

To Stiffen Crocheted Article—Dip it into hot starch made of flour, rub it in well, then stretch over the form and let dry thoroughly before shellacking. You will have no further trouble and it will keep its shape for years.

Any crocheted article made of twine or heavy thread should be thoroughly wet in a stiff glue before it is shellacked. Rub the warm glue in with the hands, then stretch article over the form. Let it get perfectly dry and it will be stiff as a board. Remove from form, shellac inside and out, put back and let dry. Repeat this until you get the color you desire. Every coat makes a richer shade.

A crocheted article can't be stiffened by using shellac and varnish. Simply use plain sugar water (quite a bit of sugar), then spread article over anything that will keep its shape and leave till dry; that will make your collar box just as hard as desired.

To keep veils of different textures and colors clean and crisp, wash veil carefully in a thick suds, rinse several times, then immerse in small quantity of skimmed milk (sweet milk, of course). Squeeze veil as dry as possible and, holding it by the side, wave it back and forth until dry. This will be in a surprisingly short time. By this method veils retain their original width, luster and stiffness, and wear much longer.

To keep clothes from sticking to line and from freezing so hard, have last rinse water warm, if possible, and into it dissolve one large cup of table salt.

Two-in-One Window Shade for the Kitchen—This takes the place of the regular blind and lace curtain. Get two yards muslin or cambric one yard wide. Being selvaged at both ends it needs no hemming. Get one yard each of heavy lace and insertion. Sew insertion in just a little above the hem; sew lace on at bottom of hem. Tack on to a roller (from a discarded window shade), insert stick in hem, and you have an economical and sanitary window shade for your kitchen. Can easily be taken off roller, washed, starched and ironed, and you can roll it up to any distance wanted. Very handy.

THE TABLE

Baked Rice and Cheese—Three cups boiled rice, 1½ cups milk, half pound cheese, one tablespoon butter, salt and pepper. Place layer of rice in baking dish, then a layer of cheese, bits of butter, salt and pepper. Another layer of rice, then cheese, etc. Have layers of rice thin; end with cheese on top. Pour milk over and bake from half to three-fourths hour.

Salad a la Boston—Arrange chopped celery and tomato on lettuce leaves. Make dressing with one egg, one tablespoon butter, half cup vinegar, salt, pepper and mustard to taste. When thickened by boiling stir in one tablespoon each chopped olives and nuts. Pour over salad and serve cold.

Boiled Fruit Cake (without eggs)—Three-fourths cup sugar, three-fourths cup raisins, one-half cup shortening (half butter and lard), one cup boiling water, small teaspoon spices, pinch of salt. Boil all together five minutes, let cool, add two cups flour and one teaspoon soda. Bake.

Economical Cake—This is a fine cake recipe: Two eggs (the white of one saved for filling), 1½ cups granulated sugar, one cup sweet milk, three teaspoons baking powder, scant 2½ cups flour, half teaspoon salt, half cup butter or lard. Cream sugar and butter; add one teaspoon vanilla. Filling: White of one egg, one banana sliced thin; beat together till light and creamy, then place between layers. Frost top with any desired frosting.

KATHERINE.

Bright innocence, with radiant life aglow,
A thousand hands shall serve you as you go;
A thousand hearts shall claim you for their own
For whom the perfect flower has never blown;
And, all about your presence, hosts unseen,
Shall rise the ghosts from little graves kept green.
Ah! hold us to the vision, perfect power
That moves the stars—and opens such a flower.

HINTS TO SINGING MOTHERS.

Let me offer a few hints to singing mothers. Unless you are a trained vocalist, it would do you good to take a few lessons from some competent specialist. If you can not do so, at least you can go through the following simple exercise every day:

Sing mah, mee, my, moh, to each note in your range. While doing so, listen critically to your tone. Get to know the songs so well that your memory will take care of itself, and will leave you free to look at the child and think of him while singing. Form the habit of setting apart a children's musical hour—"between the dark and the daylight," and let nothing break into it. Encourage the child to sing with you, but do not let him go beyond his natural range, which is usually between middle C and fourth line D, with perhaps one note added, either way.

Many suppose that it makes small difference what music you sing to very young children. But the more this question is studied, the more probable it seems that infants are influenced by the quality of music more deeply than we dream.

The best lullabies are none too good for your baby.

Some of them are: Schumann's "Guardian Angels"; "The Sandman," by Brahms; Mozart's "Lullaby in G"; the two "Dream Songs," from "Hansel und Gretel"; the old German folk-song, "Sleep, Baby Sleep"; Ricci's typically Italian cradle-song, "Una Ninnerla"; the rare old Irish lullaby, "Sweet Babe, a Golden Cradle Holds Thee"; "Fais ton dodo, mon P'tit Pierrto," the French berceuse; "Sweet and Low," by Barnby; "Oh, Hush Thee, My Baby," by Macirone, or by Sir Arthur Sullivan; Luther's "Cradle Hymn"; "My Bed is Like a Little Boat," by Cissie Loftus; and Gruber's "Stille Nacht, heilige Nacht."

R. H. SCHAUFFLER.

THE MOTHER'S CRITIC.

Parents are living daily before the most critical audience in the world—their child. The small deceit, the loss of temper—all such things are seen by the small critic, and they all color, in later years, his feeling for his parents. Love them he may, always; but adore them? That is another matter. If he does not blush for them as he recalls certain things known only to the home circle, he is a happy child.

A woman begins the foundation of her immortality with the birth of her first child; she lives her real inner life in his presence. Most vital of all earthly things to her happiness is the way in which this life is lived: the patience, the sweet charity, the daily attractiveness, the constant attitude toward all the occurrences of every-day life — this is the woman who will live in memory as long as the child lives, and his child, and his, and his—.

THE GREATEST PRAYER IN THE WORLD

Prayer is the highest act of man. In it he is nearest to his Creator and the farthest from his sometime brother—the brute. All women and most men pray—whether they admit it or not. Prayer is the soul's answer to the question, "If a man die, shall he live again?" It came direct from Heaven, and did not unfold itself along with the convolutions of the brain.

Prayer is Hope with wings. It antedates all History. It will outlast Humanity itself. But prayer without faith is not prayer.

This is why the Lord's Prayer is the greatest prayer in the world. It is divine faith breathed into human words. All creeds, formulas, systems, philosophies, theologies—are within its miraculous compass. It is Religion itself. Like the dewdrop, it orbs the universe. Wise men have studied it reverently. Great men have lived and died with it on their lips. One-half the world has known no other prayer for 2000 years.

This is why we call it the greatest prayer in the world.

SEASON FOR TROUT TO OPEN SATURDAY

All Streams Stocked—Law Requires Men to Procure Licenses.

The trout season will open Saturday. Brook trout anglers ought to find fish in any of the open streams of the State, as these waters have been stocked with fish that should be now above the six-inch limit prescribed by law.

The license law is fairly well understood by this time and there have been no changes in the law of 1915, which provides that "all resident males above the age of 14, who must be citizens of the United States and bona fide residents of New Jersey, must secure a resident's hunting and fishing license, which entitles the holder to fish by the method commonly known as angling." No license to fish is required of females, and males under 14 can also fish without a license.

Non-resident and alien males above the age of 14 must first secure a non-resident's license, at a cost of $2.15, before they can fish in this State, but no license is required of any non-resident or alien female, and males under 14 years of age are excepted.

Bag limit heretofore has not been an important question, as few anglers ever caught half the number stated, but, judging from the number of fish sent out from the State hatchery at Hackettstown last fall, there should be many instances where the legal limit, twenty-five trout, should be made in one day.

As rainbow trout and land-locked salmon have been added to the brook and brown trout season, it might be well to know that the legal length of fish permitted to be caught are all the same as far as the trout family goes, six inches being the length prescribed.

The question of stream stocking is always an important one with the angler, who contributes toward his own sport by license fee, and this season he is informed by the board of fish and game commissioners that millions of trout, from fry to full-grown fish, have been placed in streams throughout the State by wardens. The extreme southern section of the State does not seem to be cold enough for brook trout, so rainbow trout, the more hardy species, has been sent down there.

Rainbow trout are great fighters, as all those who caught them last year can testify to, and this year they are expected to be still better, as they have become used to their surroundings and have shaken off their timidness. In Union county the Rahway River was stocked with 1,500 in the last two years; Bloodgood's Lake, 1,000; Ash Brook, $1,000, all of which were large fish.

QUEEN CITY NINE ON THE FIELD AGAIN THIS YEAR

The Queen City A. C. baseball team, although it didn't enjoy much success last year, will be in the field again this season. The team will probably line us as follows: Mar Marsh, c; Butler, p; Boos, 1b; Trotter, 2b; V. Mullin, ss; R. Houston, 3b; Randolph, lf; Velard, cf; Paritz, rf.

The team was unfortunate last year, losing a number of close games. W. Coulter will be out for the team this year. He is a heavy sticker and a good catcher.

The Queen Citys have Sunday, April 16, open, and would like to arrange a game for that date. Address Vincent Mullin, manager, 183 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

CHURCH EUCHRE GAMES IN ST. MARY'S HALL TONIGHT

The second round of euchre games in which St. John's church of Dunellen, St. Joseph's of North Plainfield, and St. Mary's of this city are taking part, will be played in St. Mary's Social Hall this evening. The games, which were originally planned to be played elsewhere, were postponed earlier in the week, but it has since been decided to keep the original date.

BASEBALL CAPTAIN OF CITY HIGH SCHOOL NINE RESIGNS

Announcement has been made at the Plainfield High School of the resignation of Holmes Clawson, '16, as manager of this year's baseball team. Clawson has been in ill health for several months and will not return to school this year. The schedule is already completed, but it is expected that the B. A. ## LOCAL SQUASH TEAM CLINCHES PENNANT

Plainfield Players Capture Championship by Beating Englewood.

Plainfield Squash Club players clinched the Interclub Squash League pennant last night, winning a postponed match from the Englewood Field Club, on the H. L. De Forest courts. The new champions have won every match they have played so far this season, and attribute a large share of the credit for their success to the coaching of Harry Harris, the Montclair professional.

Three of the four matches last night required the limit of three games. One match was defaulted. In the others, Butler Duyckinck defeated D. T. Humphrey, W. S. Tyler won from J. W. Taussig, H. L. De Forest defeated H. La Chappelle, and R. L. Carter trounced Murray Olyphant.

PLAINFIELDER PLAYS WELL ON GOLFERS' HOCKEY TEAM

Howard Craig, of this city, played on the hockey team composed of New Jersey golfers, in a match against a New York team in New York last night. The Jersey linksmen won, 16 to 9, the Plainfielder, playing point, mtaking a quarter of the wining sextet's goals.

The Plainfield Country Club man made his first score after ten minutes of the first half had been played. The score stood 3 to 1 in favor of New Jersey at the time. Craig's second goal followed less than a minute after his first. His other two shots that found the net were made in the second half, the times being 12.00 and 14.06.

Max Marston, of Cranford, led the Jersey team. The State amateur champion played coverpoint. Grant Peacock held down rover, and W. Fellowes Morgan, Jr., was center. Gardner White was the leader of the New York team.

AMBOY FRANKLINS EXPECT TO SIGN LOCAL PLAYERS

Joe Mullen will manage the Franklin nine, of Perth Amboy, again this season. He expects to have Tommy Mullin and Red Grimes on his team. The Franklins will open on Easter Sunday, April 23. The team has secured the use of the Cooper Works field, and will play only Sundays. Mullen hopes to sign Neider or Applegate, to do the pitching, with Walter Yenk behind the bat. The other positions will be filled by the same men that played last year

Y. M. C. A. ALERTS WINS.

The Unity Group basketballers from Bound Brook lost to the Alerts, a local Y. M. C. A. team, here last night, 41 to 24. The game was fast. Every member of the winning side bagged at least three baskets, each of the guards getting four. M. Klowski, who played on the Trenton Y. M. C. A. quintet two years ago, put up a star game for the Plainfield team. Brandt was high point man, with half-a-dozen goals. Haegney was high for the visitors. He, Bailie and Shay made all the losers' points.

Only a few knew the game was being played, and the gallery was practically empty.

ORGANIZED BASEBALL SUED FOR $900,000

Security of Game Threatened by Action Started Under Anti-Trust Statute.

Philadelphia, March 30.—An action for $900,000 damages was filed in the United States District Court here yesterday under the National Anti-Trust Laws, by the Federal Baseball Club of Baltimore. The defendants in the action are the National and American Leagues, and the sixteen clubs making up their membership, the three members of the National Baseball Commission, James A. Gilmore, Charles E. Weghman and Harry F. Sinclair, formerly of the Federal league.

If the Federal League Club of Baltimore wins its action, organized baseball will be in peril of attack by the national government, it is said. The difference between the complaint filed and the one begun by the Federal league against organized baseball in Chicago in January, 1915, is that the present action is one for damages only, while the first one was an injunction to restrain organized baseball from continuing certain acts alleged to be in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Law.

To win the present action the Baltimore club must show that organized baseball, as at present constituted, is in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Law and the Clayton Anti-Trust act. If it proves this and recovers damages, lawyers said last night, the government may have to take cognizance of the court's decree.

The Baltimore club alleges it was not considered in the negotiations last winter which resulted in the so-called peace agreement between organized baseball and Federal league owners, and that in consequence it suffered a loss of $300,000, and asks for triple damages under the federal anti-trust laws.

The bill of complaint gives a history of the present organization of the game and its operation, mentioning the national agreement the National Commission, the Baseball Players' Fraternity and the various leagues that enter into organized baseball. The complaint recites the organization of the Federal League, charges that organized baseball entered into a conspiracy to wreck it, and goes into details of the negotiations whereby the Federal League was eliminated from baseball competition.

The Baltimore club charges that the National and American Leagues are operating in a combination or conspiracy to monopolize or to attempt to monopolize a part of the commerce of the States in violation of the federal anti-trust laws.

The bill of complaint states that in the alleged conspiracy to wreck the Federal League, organized baseball "gave or secured" to the Brooklyn Federal League club $400,000 to induce that club to cease competing with the defendants, and that by cash contributions of not less than $50,000 and "flattery and persuasion" induced Charles E. Weghman and his associates to desert the Federal League.

ILDERAN GETS ATHLETIC LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP

Ilderan Outing Club, of Rahway, was last night crowned the champion of the Athletic Bowling League. The New York Athletic Club team, the only one that had a chance to tie the Ilderans, finished the season on the alleys of the North End Club last night, and needed all three games to tie the leaders. The champions lost the first game when the North Enders rolled 996, and lost all chances of beating out Rahway for the championship.

The victory of the Ilderan bowlers, who have just completed their first season in the "Millionaires' League," is a surprise in metropolitan circles. The Athletic loop is one of the fastest in the country. Charles A. McCormick, a bowler well known locally as a member of the New Brunswick team of the Elks' Senior League, is a member of the championship Ilderan quintet.

ATHLETICS PAY AT HARVARD; FOOTBALL'S PROFIT $85,000

Cambridge, Mass., March 31—A profit of $4,148 resulted from Harvard University athletic activities during the fiscal year ending July 31, 1915, according to a report issued last night by F. W. Moore, graduate treasurer of athletics. Football, with receipts of $120,499 and expenses of $35,668, as usual, largely contributed to the support of all other teams except baseball, which showed a reduced profit of $3,468. The receipts from football jumped $25,000, as compared with the previous year, an increase accounted for largely by the opening of the Yale bowl.

Cash on hand at the close of the fiscal year amounted to $34,180, as compared with $26,555 the previous year. The treasurer explained the decrease as principally due to the fact that a final payment was made on the athletic association's loan on the stadium. The lack of a great indoor field, a swimming tank and a skating rink are handicaps in the winter months, according to the report. The treasurer suggested the idea of building a rink in Cambridge as worthy of serious consideration.

CORIELL TO RESIGN AS CITY LEAGUE UMP

"Too Much Money," Says Dean of Staff, Who Wants More Mazuma.

"There's too much money in the job"—is Louis Coriell's sarcastic reason for resigning as the chief umpire of the City League. "Cory" hasn't resigned yet—that is, officially. He is expected to tender his regrets to the league moguls when they meet in the Daily Press offices Monday night.

Coriell is the dean of the league staff. It was his demands that resulted in the umps' weekly wage being raised last year from $1.50 to $2.50. Now the "Slick" O'Loughlin of this city wants the ante boosted again.

Louis says the lot of a City League arbiter is worth all he can get. "They are beginning to 'crab' already, with the opening of the league a month off," charges Coriell. "What will they say to us when they get us out there on the field, with a lot of Villas lined up along first base and third. A City League ump. has to work alone, and he has to chase all over the diamond. Then if you miss a thing, you get panned; and if you don't miss anything, you get panned anyway. I'd rather umpire the penitentionary championship series. It's not nearly as bad to get hit with a pick as it is to have to listen to the crabs."

Coriell is one of the best umpires in town. He officiated the important P. H. S.-N. P. H. S. rubber game on Parker Field last year, and gave perfect satisfaction. If he doesn't stay in the City League, he will get a job out of town, possibly at Bound Brook. The Bees pay $5 to the umpire behind the bat, and $3 to the field umpire, according to Coriell.

DODGERS WHIP ATHLETICS.

Wheezer Dell and Nap Rucker pitched Brooklyn to a 5-3 victory over the Philadelphia Americans at Jacksonville, Fla., yesterday.

COLORED FIVE VS. KNIGHTS.

An exciting basketball game is expected to result tonight, when the Colored Five plays the Columbus Club players on the latters' court

CARRANZA PERMITS U. S. TO USE TRAINS

Pershing Two Days Behind Villa's Force.

Washington, March 30.—One of the army's most serious problems in hunting Villa was solved when General Carranza promptly granted the renewed request of the state department for permission to use the Mexican Northwestern railroad in carrying out the pursuit.

Although the army will proceed to use the railroad on a commercial basis, which is construed here as meaning that all service shall be paid for at regular rates, the state department will negotiate further with Carranza to bring about a more complete understanding as to just what he has agreed to.

An order was dispatched to General Funston under which the general will make such use of the railroads as the Mexican authorities permit pending the further negotiations with General Carranza being conducted by the state department.

El Paso, Tex., March 30.—Francisco Villa and his band has appeared at Santa Tomas, on the Mexican Northwestern railway, half way between Madera and Chihuahua City. He had passed through Santa Caterina, where American troops are now searching.

At Santa Tomas Villa burned railroad bridges in both directions and destroyed other property. There were no American troops in the vicinity, according to the message received here General Pershing's advance troops are reported two days behind.

FIRST OFFICER VICTIM.

Lieutenant Allison Dies of Pneumonia Contracted in Mexico.

El Paso, Tex., March 30.—Second Lieutenant Joseph W. Allison of the Thirteenth cavalry died at the Fort Bliss hospital of pneumonia, which developed while he was in Mexico with General Pershing's column.

Lieutenant Allison, the first officer of the American army to succumb as the result of the punitive expedition in Mexico, was a native of Texas, having been a resident of Dallas at the time he was appointed to West Point by a Texas congressman. He was twenty-six years old.

Lieutenant Allison is survived by his father, who is now on his way from Dallas; his mother, who lives in Homer, La., and his wife, who has been living at her home in Elizabethtown, N. J., since her husband has been on border duty.

FIERCE FIGHT NEAR VERDUN

Both Sides Claim Victory and Capture of Enemy Positions.

London, March 30.—Desperate fighting is going on in the Malancourt-Avocourt region a few miles northwest of Verdun.

The Paris communique asserts that French forces penetrated 300 yards inside the German lines in Avocourt forest and captured an important redoubt, driving back counter attacks with heavy losses and capturing fifty prisoners.

At Berlin the war office announces that German troops have broken the French front north of Malancourt for a distance of more than 2,000 yards, capturing several lines of trenches, 498 prisoners and five guns.

MOODY'S CONDITION IS NOT SERIOUS

Local Elks Get Information About Dunellen Man in Cincinnati Hospital.

Daniel Moodey, of Dunellen, who was reported to be dying in a Cincinnati hospital, following an assault by highwaymen, is in a hospital, but his condition is not serious according to a telegram received last night by William R. Townsend, secretary of the Plainfield Lodge of Elks, which was asked to interest itself in the case in behalf of Mr. Moody's family.

The telegram from the Cincinnati Lodge of Elks, which made an investigation, stated that Mr. Moody was in the Betts Street Hospital and that he would be out in a week. This information was sent to Police Chief Mohan at Dunellen, who conveyed the same to Mr. Moody's family.

It was through the efforts of William VanNuis, of Dunelen, that the aid of the local Elks was enlisted, and both he and the Moody family appreciate their efforts. Mr. VanNuis is unable to explain the action of the Cincinnati police in ignoring a telegram he sent to them on Monday asking for information about Moody. Up to yesterday he had received no reply. He then called the police of the western city on the 'phone and was informed that there was no person of the name of Daniel Moody in any of the Cincinnati hospitals and he had never been there so far as they knew. Mr. VanNuis says that the people of Cincinnati shall hear of the action of their police heads.

Local Sport News, Views, Reviews and Interviews

LENGTH OF GOLF HOLES.

Accepted standards regarding the length of golf holes, according to a prominent writer, limit the maximum and minimum distances which good golf permits to be 600 yards and 100 yards. Local golfers will disagree with the theory that no hole can be more than six hundred yards long, or less than one hundred, and still be a perfect, sporty hole. There are two exceptions nearby.

The third hole at the Park Golf Club, in the borough, is 616 yards, yet it is not for its length that the hole is criticised. For either the expert or the ordinary player, the hole is one of the tests of the round. It requires three very long carries to reach the green in three. The average player is well pleased to get on in one more stroke, for a par six. The hole, being the longest in this vicinity, is one of the distinct features of the North Plainfield course.

The shortest hole around here is the seventh at Westfield. Although only seventy-five yards from tee to cup, it is one of the sportiest shots possible. The carry is across a pond, and the water furnishes a mental hazard that troubles the most confident. The hole, short as it is, tests the nerve of the player and the accuracy of his pitch as no other type of shot could. No one can play the Westfield links without carrying away a vivid memory of the pond hole. The women's tournament played there last year proved that, for it was on the pond hole that most of the competitors came to grief.

Much as could be said in favor of Dunellen coming into Plainfield's baseball league, it looks at the present time that the move is little better than a remote possibility. It is known that a number of the league men are against any such expansion. Admitting Dunellen to the circuit will make it necessary to increase the number of teams in the league—since none of the six members is going to drop out, and none can be forced out. As the schedule is made up, and practically all the plans completed for the opening of the season, it looks very doubtful if the league will undo its work to take in Warry McLaughlin's club. The league will meet in the Daily Press offices Monday night.

One of the important bowling matches of the late season will be decided tonight on Gates' alleys. The Imperials, champions of the City League, take on a quintet of Westfield maple maulers. The Imps are generally unbeatable at home, and although they lost the last time they visited Westfield, they are confident they will win tonight.

"PRINCESS PAT" ENJOYED BY LARGE AUDIENCES

"Princess Pat" scored one of the biggest hits of any booking engaged by the management of the Plainfield theatre, both at the matinee and the night performances yesterday. The production was the first comic opera that the theatre has had in a number of months and it was thoroughly appreciated by the audience. Included in the cast was Herbert Nicholoson, who was recognized by a large number of Plainfielders as a member of the cast of "A Pair of Sixes" when that production appeared here last season.

After the Storm

Upon the storm wind sweep the clouds
That wrap the skies in ragged shrouds,
Rent by the lightning flashing.
From floodgates of the heavens pour
The deluge, while the thunders roar
Their fierce artillery crashing.

The storm its fury spends at last
Upon the winds the clouds have passed,
Their battlements retreating.
The sun is smiling in the west,
To kiss the storm cloud's dewy crest—
When, lo, the rainbow's greeting.

When in our lives the storms arise
To shut the sunlight from our skies
And gloom the heart in sorrow,
We know that some time we shall see
What there in every life must be—
A promise of tomorrow.

"THE SOCIAL SERVICE IN INDIA AND BURMA"

Mrs. Montgomery Gives Third of Interdenominational Mission Study Talks.

The third of the interdenominational mission study talks given by Mrs. Helen Barrett Montgomery, in the First Baptist church yesterday afternoon was the most largely attended of any thus far. Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of the Grace Episcopal church, conducted the devotional portion of the meeting, after which Mrs. Montgomery took up her theme of the week before and dwelt largely on "The Social Service In India and Burma."

The practical work accomplishel among the lepers in China was also taken up at some length, the speaker telling of the wonderful work in colonizing the afflicted people. Missionaries have studied them from the scientific standpoint, and through various researches are finding a cure for the disease. One of the noteworthy points brought out by Mrs. Montgomery was the fact that scientists have proven that leprosy is not hereditary. The missions have been successful and the practical results of the Christian influence prevalent have been many.

Next Wednesday, Mrs. Montgomery will speak on "The Renaissance in China," and Rev. Edwin Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, will have charge of the devotional service.

Rochester, N. Cellars of buildings which skirt the river in the business section are already flooded. Efforts are being made to dynamite the ice pack, which is threatening the destruction of Ballantyne bridge, four miles south of the city.

JAMES KENNEY SAFE AT DOUGLAS, ARIZONA

Plainfield Man Was One of 200 American Refugees Hurried Out of Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kenney, of 728 West Third street, are in receipt of a letter from their son, James Kenney, who has been working in Nacozari, Mexico, stating that he was one of the two hundred American refugees hurried out of the Sonora district early last week and is now comfortably quartered at Douglas, Arizona. He adds that he will remain in Douglas for an indefinite period, pending the disposition of the Villa bandits by the American troops. Although the refugees had narrow escapes in getting to the special train, outlaw bands being in the vicinity, everyone was gotten safe on United States territory.

Mr. Kenney is a pattern-maker by trade, and two years ago secured a fine position at Los Angeles, California. He remained there until a few months ago when he received a flattering offer to become foreman of the pattern department in a shop at Nacozari and was succeeding in his new field when the Villa trouble reached its heighth. He states in his letter that the climatic conditions and environment at Nacozari were congenial and that if the outlaw troubles can be permanently settled he will return. Nacozari is about seventy-five miles south of Douglas. Mr. Kenney learned his trade at the Pond Tool Works, where he was employed for several years after becoming a journeyman. He was prominent in the various organizations at Hope chapel and has a wide acquaintance throughout the city, especially in the West End.

LEGISLATIVE BILLS PASSED OVER VETO

Adjournment Taken After Reenacting Measures Disapproved by Governor.

Trenton, March 30. — Having passed the appropriation bills and the twenty-one measures which Governor Fielder vetoed and which the Republican majority decided to enact, notwithstanding his disapproval, the Legislature finally adjourned last night after a session of twelve weeks. One of its last acts was to override the veto of the Pierce bill requiring the railroads to abolish yearly one grade crossing for each thirty miles of track.

When the Senate had completed its routine work, President William T. Read resigned as a legislator to become State Treasurer, and Senator George W. F. Gaunt, of Gloucester county, chosen yesterday to succeed him as presiding officer of the upper house, took the chair. An executive session was then held, in which the Governor's appointment of Edward E. Grosscup, the retiring State Treasurer, as State Purchasing Agent, was confirmed.

With the sine die adjournment, Republican Senate Leader Charles A. Rathbun, of Morris county, issued a formal statement, branding as unwarranted the charge that the majority party had been partisan. He insisted that the Governor had played politics.

RAID ANGERS GREEKS.

German Attack Subject of Bitter Comment in Press and Chamber.

Athens, March 30.—Bitter feeling against the continued neutrality of Greece is expressed in the Liberal newspapers as the result of the German aerial raid on Saloniki, in which Greek citizens were killed.

The government has forbidden mass meetings to be held in Saloniki, as was planned. In the chamber of deputies, despite the attempts of the government to stop hostile comment concerning the Germans, members denounced the raid as intended to frighten the Greek people.

Premier Skouloudis refused to continue a debate involving foreign relations on the ground that the highest interests demanded silence.

Concerning the Easter Silhouette--The Easter Maid Will Flare -- A Late Easter Means Many Silk Costumes and Coatless Frocks--Last Touches of Perfection for the Easter Costume.

EASTER comes so late this year that tailored suits of worsted weave need not expect all the glory. Silk tailleurs and even dainty frocks accompanied by parasols will undoubtedly add their charm to the Easter parade if the day is fair and reasonably warm—and by the middle of April a sunny, sultry day of summer is quite apt to peer coyly over spring's shoulder. On the other hand it may be cold and bleak—with old winter glancing back rebelliously over spring's shoulder—and in such event wool tailored suits will be all one can expect to see.

The Flaring Easter Silhouette.

Fifth avenue from the Plaza to forty-second street—the line of march of the fashionable Easter parade, after church is out on Easter morning—is going to look more crowded this year than it ever was before; all because of billowy skirts! When crinoline styles were in vogue, fifty-five or sixty years ago, Fifth avenue above forty-second street was unknown to fashion. Hoops may have visited this section, but not en masse, on Easter Day. There will be a few actual hoops in the Easter parade this year, for the dressmakers have discovered a haircloth substitute vastly more manageable and more pliantly graceful as the skirt moves about its wearer; but the hoop effect remains the same and Fifth avenue will see it Easter morning.

The Easter silhouette this year means a widely flaring skirt, a rather close bodice with narrow, extremely feminine shoulders; a small head with a chic little hat and fluttering veil, and two pretty feet and ankles not hesitating to show themselves in all their prettiness. Paris insists that skirts are growing longer, but so far the insistence is all in the air and women are continuing to wear skirts that reveal the very high-priced boots they take such pride in. A pretty foot is a gift of gifts and she who possesses it is going to cling to this opportunity to show it off just as long as Fashion will allow her to. So the Easter costume is very short and swings well out from the feet, its hem faced for several inches with haircloth.

Just a word of warning to you about these new stiffened skirts which everybody is interested in now. Do not put anything but haircloth into a skirt facing. Some of the many new stiffenings which flood the market have celluloid in their make-up and anything composed even partly of celluloid is dangerous—if one happens to stand near a fire—for celluloid is extremely inflammable.

Silk Tailleurs For Easter Morn.

As has been said before in these columns, the dressy tailleur this spring is of silk and cloth, or entirely of silk. Worsted woven suits come under the classification of sport suits or knock-about suits. Three typical Easter tailleurs are illustrated. Each one of them will make its initial bow to spring in the Easter parade on Fifth avenue. That some of the new tailleurs are hard to tell from one-piece frocks is demonstrated by the costume of striped silk with new, elbow sleeves. This suit has a short, basque-like coat and a long tunic-overskirt, but the fit at the waistline is so smooth and close that the lines of a frock are suggested. There is a fitted and slightly boned lining below the armpits and the soft taffeta of the coat is puckered to this, giving a close, yet easy fit that only a master hand could attain—the master hand in this instance belonging to Doucet. The silk is striped almost invisibly in two tones of the ground color—coffee brown—and a deep hem of cloth in the darker brown shade conceals a facing of haircloth. Under this stiffened tunic is a full but unstiffened skirt of the taffeta. There is a suggestion of the cape collar in the pleated tab that falls below the standing collar. This tall collar and the flaring sleeve are edged with cream plisse net. The loose sleeves are faced with hairlace—a lighter grade of haircloth—and fall over inner sleeves of cream net finished with cuffs of the taffeta and more plisse net frills. Note that the pointed ends of the silk sleeves do not fly loose but are caught down flatly to the silk cuff of the undersleeve—quite a new idea.

The skirt of this tailleur is very short and below it show silk stockings of creamy tan shade and patent leather slippers. The shoe shops everywhere are displaying buckled Colonial pumps for spring wear; they are said to be the correct thing this season. Yet in the smart restaurants and stepping in and out of limousines and taxi's while the pavements were still too sloppy for anything but sensible footwear, I have noted a good many of these pretty little slippers, slim of cut and guiltless of buckle or even ornament. One of those little style whispers that seems to come from nowhere and have no reason for coming at all, but which makes itself heard! At any rate do not invest liberally in buckled Colonial pumps until you are very sure they are going to be as popular as the shoemakers say they are.

A spring maid indeed is she who wears the Easter tailleur of plain and flowered silk and a flower-topped turban. Her suit has the approved flare, not only at the hem but also in the peplum, in the cuff and even in the collar which is one of the new starched linen kind, slashed up the back. This starched collar gives the whole costume a youthful suggestion; in other respects the suit might be quite appropriate for a middle-aged woman. But many of the styles this spring are middle-aged, in spite of the short skirts and general frivolity of trimming. This is because there are so many bulky effects and one associates bulkiness with middle-age rather than youth.

Of two shades is this silk costume, navy blue and very dark, blue-gray; the blue silk is taffeta, printed with little flowers in white and blue and a note of clear pink; the gray silk is gros de londres, a rich rep weave. In the hat the blue and gray tones are combined and white lilacs are sprinkled over the crown.

A Scalloped Easter Suit.

From Paquin comes the gay little silk tailleur with scallops fluttering everywhere; or at least, the original model came from Paquin. This is a reproduction of the Paquin suit in American silks, plain colored taffeta for the coat and silk marquisette over taffeta for the double overskirt. Fawn tones are blended in the suit and the boots have fawn kid tops. The airy collar and cuffs, attached to a dainty blouse, are of cream mousseline and the high Directoire turban has spreading bows of grosgrain ribbon in a soft pansy shade most delectable with fawn. Everything about this costume is scalloped—the overskirt, the drooping cuffs, the edges of the coat, and even the poise of the hat bow suggests the scalloped line. And the whole effect is indisputably gay and pretty and spring-like.

The maid with an opened parasol is ready for a balmy Easter Sunday. Her frock of black taffeta and embroidered net partakes of the Spanish character—the newest vogue in dress. Though both neck and arms appear almost bare they are sufficiently veiled for conventionality's sake with draperies of black net and underneath is a layer of flesh-tinted chiffon. A smart black hat accompanies the black frock and the parasol, in royal purple shade to furnish the note of color, is prettily edged with tiny velvet flowers.

Accessories for Easter.

Correct and exquisitely fresh accessories will give the Easter costume its finished perfection. It would be indeed a shame to wear anything shabby or partly worn on Easter Day. The Easter maid will be perfectly shod with dainty boots or pumps and silk stockings in the general shade of her costume. She will wear kid gloves of the new bisque shade, for these are smarter just now than pure white. Something particularly crisp and airy in neckwear will be her selection even if the choice is not as comfortable as an every-day collar; and from her hat will float the newest thing in veils—the little fluttering flounce of veiling that comes to the nose in front and falls no lower at sides or back; that is, if she wears a veil at all. Veils are a matter of personal choice just now; one wears them or not as one pleases but on a breezy day it is always best to protect the hair with a veil for wisps of hair flying about can spoil the smartest Easter get-up.

Both large and small Easter hats are approved by fashion. One of each sort is pictured. The larger hat is of cream leghorn covered over the top of the brim with pale flesh pink satin, and satin ribbon of the same tint is braided to form the crown. A velvet flower in orchid and violet tones weighs down the brim at one side. For wear with a tailored costume the smaller hat is commended. The shape is smartly simple—a high-crowned Directoire type with trimming of pale gray ribbon in countless loops which are massed at the back. This hat accompanies a suit of black and white checked worsted with a very smart collar of white pique.

Easter Readiness in Favor Land

FASHIONS change in Easter novelties as in Easter bonnets. A few years ago Br'er Rabbit was the patron saint in favorland at Easter season. Millions of bunnies, veritable armies of bunnies, swarmed over the counters and in the windows of candy shops; and though the bunnies are still represented in vast numbers in every Easter showing, one notes a growing favor for furry animals of the cat species as Easter representatives. There is a good old German tradition back of the hare as an Easter pet but just why the kitten is lifted to a pinnacle of favoritism at this season is hard to determine—except that a soft, furry white kitten with a blue ribbon around its neck is even more lovable than a pert, long-eared rabbit similarly bedecked.

Chicks there are, too, a-plenty; and they have a good raison d'etre at Easter season, for as everybody knows the relationship between eggs and chicks is a close one—and eggs from time immemorial have been the special delight of Easter celebrations. Ducks have their place with the chicks and one Easter table-center shows an adorable white gosling, fluffy with tiny "feathers" made of crepe paper and driven by a gallant rider in the shape of a fascinating dolly clad in a new Easter frock of pink and white silk. A bridle of pink ribbon is harnessed to the steed's bill and from other pink ribbons depend little chicks covered with downy feathers.

The dovecote, also intended for a table ornament, is particularly appealing; and best of all, it is a disguised Jack Horner. Within the dove's dwelling and the standard imitating a tree-trunk (both made of crepe paper) is space for tissue-wrapped

An Easter dovecote made of crepe paper, with Mary and her Little Lamb presiding thereover. For the Easter luncheon.

Easter gifts. These are attached to long ribbons pulled through slits in the paper windows of the dovecote. At a given signal, each ribbon is pulled out, by means of the Easter egg fastened to its end. The paper window readily tears away and out pops the gift for the guest who holds the ribbon. Mary and her little lamb, though not particularly suggestive of Easter—or a dovecote—add much to the interest of this pretty Easter contraption.

There are many dainty place favors for bridal luncheons at Easter season. Tiny white satin slippers designed to hold candy or salted nuts come by the pair and four pairs will be enough for a luncheon of eight—the bride-to-be, her six bridesmaids and the maid of honor. Little bisque cupids are equally charming; one especially pretty conceit shows a plump cupid disporting in a white slipper — both made of bisque. If one desires a bridal Jack Horner, the cleverest idea is a huge white rose, made of crepe paper with white ribbons trailing out through the petals, each ribbon of course being fastened to a gift. This is a very pleasing way for the bride to present remembrances to her bridesmaids.

Place cards for the Easter bridesmaid luncheon show many original designs. Perhaps the most attractive are simple white cards hand decorated with orange blossoms and Easter lilies in combination. There are cards with cherubs and cards with white ribbon bowknots. For an Easter

An Easter gosling with snow white feathers made of crepe paper is bestridden by a fetching Easter doll luncheon have been prepared some dainty place cards showing a white Easter rabbit holding by a ribbon a medallion in which are the initials of the bride and groom to-be. Other place cards are decorated with baskets of bridal flowers, white-ribboned trunks and other baggage, wedding bells, white parasols and other appropriate conceits.

Flower baskets are given at Easter as well as candy boxes and some of these baskets are exquisite affairs, destined to be treasured long after the flowers are gone as work-baskets or receptacles for trinkets. A tall-handled gilded wicker basket is filled with tiny pink debutante roses; a low white basket holds growing violets; lily of the valley is massed in another white basket with a wisp of pale green and silver tulle on the handle. Artificial flowers for the corsage make charming Easter gifts.

Most luxurious are Easter candy boxes these days. Aside from the candy itself, which costs no trifling price, three pounds at a dollar a pound being deemed about the proper amount for a young lady at Easter season, the boxes are things of delight in themselves. Many of them are intended for workbaskets — after the candy is gone—and there are fascinating little shirred pockets for thimbles and buttons and heart-shaped pincushions tucked into corners of the box.

As for Easter eggs, here they are again in old-time numbers and new ideas. Some of them are filled with candy; others with gifts. In small and humble candy shops one discovers those delightful eggs which thrilled our hearts in childhood—eggs with glass windows at the end through which one peeped at marvelous landscapes and scenes. There are chocolate eggs, too, with wriggling lines of white candy frosting over the surface—these also reminiscent of old-fashioned Easters; but it is the modern Easter egg that entrances the modern child—the Easter egg not wonderful but comical. The military suggestion clings to two 1916 Easter eggs. Very clever to be sure is a donkey's face, lightly sketched on the egg, with velvet ears thrust into the shell and a funny cap with a saucy feather. Equally comical a fat little Major Rabbit, made of an egg belted around the middle and decorated with an impressively gold-laced uniform.

Easter-egg candy boxes of comical character; each with a touch of military preparedness.

Spring Flowers for the Table

GREEN things growing are always particularly appealing on the luncheon or dinner table in springtime. Great bunches of roses or chrysanthemums or flaunting masses of yellow are no longer used on the table. A few flowers, exquisitely arranged are the preference of good taste. Ferns in small openwork Leeds baskets make charming table decorations for April and May. Three of these small receptacles, each with a lush green fern are placed at intervals around the table center which may be a low bowl of fruit or a glass bowl with two or three spears of narcissus springing from one of the receptacles which come for this purpose. Three daffodils with spiky green leaves will sufficiently decorate a dinner table these days of sparse flower arrangements, if the daffodils are held upright, each all by itself in one of the aforementioned receptacles. As the days become warmer, and the daylight lasts longer, dispense with the bright glow of electric lights at dinner hour and have two or three candles in dainty candle sticks on the table. Dinner may be begun by daylight, as the season advances, and presently the candles may be lighted, making a pleasant and cosy light for dessert.

A New Idea In Lighting

EVERYBODY is using reflected light now; if the landlord can be coaxed by hook or by crook to put in the new sort of lighting fixtures. The light, in this new method of illumination, is thrown upward rather than downward and strikes the ceiling rather than the eyes of people in the room, and the effect is very soft and pleasing and much more restful than the direct glare of gas-jets or electric bulbs from an ordinary chandelier. Of course the new method of lighting applies only to overhead lights. Table lamps burning oil, gas or electricity, are lighted with shades that throw the illumination downward. The chandelier, however, is supplied with a "shade" that throws the light upward. This "shade" is something like a huge shallow bowl of heavy ground glass, suspended beneath the lights which shed a soft, diffused glow through the glass. The effect has been secured very cleverly in the long room of a woman's club in New York, by suspending inverted wicker lamp shades under each of the several chandeliers. The lamp shades are of the ordinary brown wicker sort, lined with yellow silk and the diffused light thus produced is very pleasing.

CHANCE FOR PRESS ADVERTISERS TO ATTRACT THE ATTENTION OF THE ENTIRE COUNTY.

As the result of an agreement between the Plainfield Daily Press and the Elizabeth Evening Times any advertiser placing a classified ad in the Press may have that same ad inserted in the Elizabeth Evening Times upon the payment of one-half more than is charged for the Daily Press insertion alone. Thus, if an advertisement in the Daily Press costs forty cents, the same advertisement may be placed in the Elizabeth paper for an additional twenty cents.

The Elizabeth Evening Times has a circulation of 9,000 and is widely distributed throughout Union County. Thus if an advertiser places his advertisement in the Plainfield Daily Press and Elizabeth Evening Times he places it before the eyes of thousands of readers at a very small cost.

Most advertisers welcome the opportunity to attract the attention of the whole county to their offerings and with the co-operation of the Elizabeth Evening Times the Plainfield Daily Press is now able to make this possible. The Elizabeth Evening Times has earned a reputation for itself as an advertising medium, especially along the classified line, and it is a well known fact that its influence extends into other counties besides Union.

TROOP D GIVES ANNIVERSARY TEA

Interesting Event is Marked by Delightful Social Function at Their Quarters.

UNIQUE DECORATIONS

Wives of Officers Comprise Reception Committee—Daniel Runkle Chosen First Lieutenant—Several Other changes Among Officers. . .

The first anniversary of the founding of the Plainfield platoon of Troop D, N. G., N. J., which has now become the Watchung Troop, having completely outgrown the original Hoboken platoon, which no longer exists, was marked yesterday by a reception at the troop headquarters in the afternoon, and an election of officers in the evening.

The election was caused by the resignation of Lieutenant Thomas F. Meaney, because of the difficulty of attending drills now that the headquarters of the troop have been transferred from Hoboken, his home, to this city. Daniel Runkle, formerly second lieutenant, was unanimously chosen to fill his place. J. M. Charles, formerly quartermaster-sergeant, was then elected unanimously as second lieutenant, and this caused a vacancy in the line of sergeants. Walter L. Righter, formerly corporal, was unanimously elected to fill it. This required the election of another corporal, and C. D. Wardlaw was chosen. The new officers are especially well fitted for their positions. Daniel Runkle, second lieutenant since the organization of what was the Plainfield platoon, has served a full term in Squadron A, in New York; J. M. Charles served in the Seventh Regiment of New York for seven years, and seven years more in Squadron A, part of that time as sergeant-major; W. L. Righter, besides his experience as corporal, attended the Plattsburg camp last summer and won honors for marksmanship; and C. D. Wardlaw, though a comparatively new member of the troop, has shown already that talent for leadership that has made him so successful a master and athletic coach in Mr. Leal's school. The elections were presided over by Major Bryant, of the First Squadron Cavalry, N. G., N. J., who also attended the anniversary reception.

Some sixty or seventy guests, besides most of the members of the troop, attended the reception at the troop headquarters, Putnam and Kensington avenues. The house was marked by a flag, and two tents pitched in the yard outside. Mrs. Daniel Runkle, Mrs. Arthur W. Ransome and Mrs. Brown Rolston poured tea at tables decorated with yellow jonquils and blue cornflowers; and Mrs. Lewis D. Williams, Mrs. W. L. Righter, Mrs. J. M. Charles and Mrs. Maxwell Perkins assisted in receiving. The wives and friends of the troopers took great interest in viewing the comfortable and orderly quarters of the troop—the rifle and revolver stands, the lockers and the saddle room with its seventy saddles and appointments.

The evening drill was principally given up to the practice in sabre manual under the instruction of Sergeant Osborne, of the regular army.

The Watchung Troop has now adopted a hat band—blue and yellow, the regular cavalry colors, a broad dark blue stripe bordered by two narrow stripes of yellow.

RIORDAN IS HELD ON BOND FOR THE GRAND JURY

Thomas Riordan, of Plainfield, was arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of having stolen $260 worth of platinum tipped magneto points from the plant of the International Motor Company. Riordan was arrested in Essex county on request of Chief Kiely, but the authorities there sought to convict him of a case of larceny. They failed, however, and he was brought back here. He entered a plea of not guilty before Judge De Meza this morning, but waived examination and was held for the grand jury under a bond of $800.

EASTER WASHINGTON TRIP.

Arrangements have been completed for an "Easter Special" three-day tour to Washington, D. C., to be personally conducted by Dr. E. Burton Allcutt, of this city. The tourists will leave Plainfield on April 21 and the itinerary includes visits to all points of interest in the nation's capital. Although the trip will be taken under the auspices of Gillespie, Kinports and Beard, of New York city, Dr. Allcutt will personally direct the tourists and his thorough acquaintance with Washington assures those who go of an interesting and educational outing. It will give Plainfielders an opportunity to visit with United States Senator James E. Martine, and John Nicol, secretary to Congressman John H. Capstick, both of whom are Plainfielders.

USED TABERNACLE FOR SHOOTING CRAP

Patrolman Martin Surprised Five Boys Gambling in Big "Glory Barn."

The Biederwolf tabernacle now under construction, yesterday afternoon rang with the rolling of "bones" and the pleading of "come seven, come leben."

Patrolman Roy Martin heard voices in the tabernacle about 5 o'clock and stopped to listen. To his amazement the voices took on the unmistakable tenor of crapshooters engaged in their favorite pursuit. He went closer and found a party of five young men on their hands and knees with a few pieces of change between them and one of them was rolling a pair of dice on the sawdust floor.

The patrolman caught two of them. They were George Lyons and Edwin Fay. The boys were sent to the station on a charge of disorderly conduct. Lieutenant Higgins in charge of the station, sought to bring about their release and after consulting with Judge De Meza it was greed that the boys should be turned loose to report back in court this morning, but when they were asked to give the names of the other three in the game they refused to comply and were locked up for the night. In court this morning they again refused to tell who it was that escaped and Judge De Meza ordered them sent back to jail. They will be tried tomorrow morning. The police know the names of those that escaped and they will be arrested today.

ANNUAL MEETING OF EVONA CHAPEL

Officers Are Elected and Reports for the Past Year Are Presented.

Officers were elected and reports were presented at the ninth annual meeting of Evona chapel held at the chapel on West Third street last night. There was a large attendance of members, and marked interest in the meeting. The reports of all the various departments showed them to be in excellent condition. These officers were elected for the coming year:

VanAsdale; secretary, Howard Bozenbury; treasurer, Mrs. John Carter; organist, Miss Dorothy Bowden; assistant organist, Mrs. Joseph Taylor; superintendent primary department, Mrs. Louise Casenove; assistant, Mrs. Joseph Taylor; superintendent cradle roll, Mrs. Joseph Taylor; superintendent Home department, Mrs. Howard Bozenbury. The resignation of Miss Agnes Van Norden as librarian was placed on the table for future action. Mr. Love will soon name the committees for the year. It was reported that the membership roll totals about one hundred.

UNITY LODGE, K. OF P., HAS AN ANNIVERSARY

Unity Lodge, No. 102, Knights of Pythias, took cognizance of its thirty-third anniversary last night, by holding an informal smoker and social session. One of the charter members of the lodge, L. B. Woolston, was present and gave an interesting address, speaking of Unity Lodge as it was in its initial years and its progress up to the present time. Chancellor Commander J. W. A. Bauersachs also spoke and announced that within the coming week he would appoint thirty committees of three men each to broaden the scope of Unity's work before March, 1917.

There was a large attendance at the meeting and during the regular business session, a considerable amount of routine work was disposed of. Four candidates were ushered into the mysteries of the third degree which made them full-fledged Knights.

WAITE INDICTED FOR MURDER OF PECK

New York, March 31.—Dr. Arthur Warren Waite was indicted this afternoon for the murder of his father-in-law, John E. Peck, of Grand Rapids. Although Waite admitted that he had also killed his mother-in-law, Mrs. Peck, he was not accused of that crime in the indictment. The indictment charges murder in the first degree, stating that Waite administered the arsenic to Peck on March 11, and that Peck died the following day.

DEFER ORGANIZATION.

Owing to the small atendance, no organization of a Plainfield High School Alumni Club was effected at last night's meeting of former P. H. S. boys. There were less than a dozen at the meeting. The former students will gather again soon, at which time it is expected that the club will be formed.

RECEPTION GIVEN TO F. C. BURNER

Honored on Completion of Twenty Years' Service With Metropolitan Company.

RECEIVES MANY GIFTS

Affair is Arranged by Business Associates—Supper, Speeches and Music Pleasing Features of the Evening.

In celebration of the twentieth anniversary of his affiliation with the Metropolitan Insurance Company, F. C. Burner, of the borough, was accorded a reception last night by the officers and agents of the Plainfield district of the company, twenty in all gathering at his Jackson avenue residence. The affair was a complete surprise to Mr. Burner. A supper, speeches, presentations and musical selections featured the evening. The home was attractively decorated for the event with jonquils, palms and ferns, green and white being the prevailing color scheme.

H. C. Paris, superintendent of the Plainfield district of the company, personally arranged the surprise and, in an appropriate speech of presentation, during which he personally gave Mr. and Mrs. Burner a handsome punch bowl, took occasion to congratulate Mr. Burner on the long and faithful service he has given the Metropolitan and took, as the keynote of his address, the one word "Unique," enlarging upon the fact that it was an uncommon occasion in his life, because of the fact that it not only was a score of years since he joined the staff of the concern, but that it seldom happens that a celebration is marked by the attendance of so many of the officers. Addresses of congratulation were also given by the following: W. A. Augenblick, deputy superintendent, who presented Mr. Burner with a gold chain, a token from the agents of the local district; Deputy Superintendent Jacob Hoos, who presented Mr. Burner with a twenty-year serving gold medal, an appreciation from the Metropolitan Company; and Frank Stewart, the only surviving member of the Veteran's Association. He presented Mr. Burner with a veteran's button. Music during the evening was provided by Messrs. Kenneth Stewart, violin; Russell Brennen, piano; and Michael Radwouski, cornet.

Mr. Burner became identified with the Metropolitan Company in Boston, Mass., on February 24, 1896, being an agent in that district for seven months, when he was promoted to the assistant superintendency and transferred to Dorchester, Mass. He remained there for seven months, meeting with much success, and again was transferred by his company to Lawrence, Mass. After ten months in the latter place, at his personal request the company transferred him to Plainfield, where he has been ever since. During his stay here he has been sent by the company to New Brunswick, Elizabeth, Passaic and other nearby cities. He was eventually offered a transfer to New Brunswick, but for personal reasons refused. During the speech of Mr. Parras last night, the latter made the announcement that an estimate taken from the records of the company show that during the time Mr. Burner has been in Plainfield, he has insured more people than there are men, women and children in North Plainfield at the present time.

Beside those already mentioned, agents attendant at the gathering last night included Joseph Herberman, Thomas Moore, William Callahan, Harry Bush, Eugene Sanfilippo, Frank Stewart, William Banks, Harry Freenberg, Clarence Bilyeu, Joseph Ten Eyck, of Somerville; Pasquale Orlando, of Raritan, and William Kirckman.

1,057 DEFENDANTS CITED IN ONE CASE

Camden, March 31.—An order requiring 1,057 shareholders of Linwood Haines, Limited, of America, to show cause why they should not pay up on their subscriptions and make good about $38,000 due unsecured creditors of the concern was made Thursday afternoon by Referee in Bankruptcy Ott. The order is returnable May 10 at the Camden Court House, and it effects the largest number of people ever summoned in a single action in a South Jersey court action.

According to statements of those interested a great number of the shareholders were given their shares in return for patronage. Seemingly, at the time, they were getting something for nothing, but it now appears they may have to pay. Linwood Haines, promoter of the concern, was convicted in Monmouth county of obtaining money under false pretenses.

CANTATA OF "QUEEN ESTHER" IS GIVEN

Many Enjoy the Sacred Production Given at Trinity Reformed Church.

The first rendition of the sacred cantata, "Queen Esther," given in the Trinity Reformed church, last night, by the Triangle Bible School of the Nethorwood Reformed church, was largely attended and the various numbers rendered by the soloists and chorus were a source of much praise from the audience. The cantata will be repeated tonight. The proceeds will be added to the building fund of the Netherwood church.

The cantata was directed by Miss Blanche Mabelle Kelley, of the New York School of Music and Art, and the splendid results shown last night reflected much credit for the young woman. Mrs. S. P. Rush presided at the piano throughout the evening.

The leading characters in the cantata were taken as follows: Queen Esther, Miss Etta Raybert; King, J. C. Martin; Haman, Horace J. Martin; Mordecai, Ralph O. Martin; Zerish, Mrs. Charles Steiner; Hagar, William Steer; and Prophetess, Miss Wihlelmina Haines. The chorus was composed of members of the class. In all, forty persons took part in the cantata.

SEND TUG FOR BOAT BEARING SHACKLETON CREW

Washington, New Zealand, March 31.—A sea-going tug was sent out today by Premier Massey, of New Zealand, to meet the exploration ship Aurora, upon which some of the members of Lieut. Sir Ernest Shackleton's expedition are returning. Capt. Stenhouse reported by wireless that the Aurora was 250 miles southwest of Port Chalmers, proceeding towards Snares Islands. The Aurora is unable to make any speed owing to her damaged condition and the high wind. It is expected that the tug will pick up the Aurora and will tow her to Port Chalmers.

MOTHER GABRIEL CALLED BY DEATH

Superior Sister of Mt. St. Mary College Passed Away This Morning.

ILL FOR TWO YEARS

Born in Worcester, Mass., But Had Devoted Her Life to Religious Work in New Jersey—Funeral at St. Joseph's Tuesday Morning.

Mother Gabriel, who has been for many years one of the most energetic workers of the Sisters of Mercy in the diocese of Trenton, died at 9:40 this morning, at Mt. St. Mary College, where she had been Mother Superior until three years ago, at which time she was appointed to the office of treasurer. Death came after an illness extending back two years, and during which she had suffered from various complications. The funeral will be held in St. Joseph's church, Tuesday morning, at an hour not definitely fixed as yet, and will be attended by the Catholic clergy and laity throughout the State. Burial is to be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mother Gabriel was a native of Worcester, Mass., where she was born sixty-five years ago, her name being Mary Redican. She began her novitiate in the sisterhood in Worcester, and in 1872 was transferred to Jersey City, where she was one of the founders of St. Patrick's school of the Sisters of Mercy. Four years later she went to Princeton, to continue her work in St. Paul's school, and from there she went to Bordentown. Her devotion to the cause earned for her, at Bordentown, in 1900, the title of Rev. Mother Superior, holding that office until she became treasurer of Mt. St. Mary College in 1912. Much of the successful growth of Mt. St. Mary College was the result of her labors, and she was one of the sisterhood transferred here when the beautiful college buildings were erected in North Plainfield township in 1908. It was a great blow to her when the original structure was destroyed, and none worked harder than she to replace the institution with the present commodious home. Mother Gabriel also gave much of her attention to St. Gabriel's Academy, on Jackson avenue, which for many years was an important factor in St. Joseph's parish in the teaching of useful arts for young women. This department was afterward merged with Mt. St. Mary educational course.

Mother Gabriel's only surviving relatives are a brother, James Redican, of Boston, and a sister, Miss Catherine Redican, who has been making her home in Mt. St. Mary College. Mother Gabriel's acquaintanceship was not limited to New Jersey, and messages today are being sent to scores of friends throughout New York and New England.

FAMOUS PLAYERS VISIT PLAINFIELD

Scenes in "Dolly Make-Believe" With Marguerite Clark Made Here.

Sixteen members of the Famous Players' Company, which produces the Paramount motion pictures, stopped in this city today on their way to South Plainfield, where this afternoon some of the last scenes of the picture of "Dolly Make-Believe" will be made under the direction of Cyril Dorley. Marguerite Clark appears as the star in this picture, but owing to the fact that she is ill in New York, she could not come here today. Mr. Dorley says that it may be necessary for the company to make another trip to South Plainfield. William Hamilton plays the part opposite Miss Clark.

The scenes to be taken today will include a train wreck, and various members of the company were "made-up" as an engineer, conductor, trainmen, etc. The picture of "Dolly Make-Believe" was made sometime ago, but was consumed in the fire which destroyed the Famous Players' studio in New York. The company later decided to re-make the picture. It will be released on April 10.

CAPTAIN WEEL TELLS OF EXPERIENCE AT YPRES

Mrs. Francis de L. Hyde was hostess at a dinner party at her home on Mountain avenue last evening. More than thirty-five young people were guests and after dinner they enjoyed a talk by Captain Alexander Weel, of the Royal Highlanders, who has just come to this country after spending the winter in the trenches in France with his regiment.

Captain Weel served through the battle of Ypres and was wounded by a machine gun in that engagement. He talked in an interesting manner of personal experiences during this engagement and after he had finished answered many questions.

F Garretson, of Somerville, were married at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. F. G. Stone, 549 Clinton avenue, Newark. Rev. J. Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, of which the bride is a member, performed the ceremony.

Miss Dorothy Crane, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, while Henry Garretson, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Only the members of the two families attended the wedding and reception. The couple left last night for Washington, where they will spend their honeymoon. Upon their return they will reside at 545 Madison avenue, Elizabeth. Mr. Garretson is engaged in business in New York city.

Mrs. Garretson is well-known here, where she has many friends. She was graduated from the Plainfield High School class, '12, where, during a post-graduate course, she was assistant to S. B. Howe, then instructor in the English department.

GREAT GRANDMOTHER SENDS DOZEN DIMES

And a Fifteen Months Old "Future Warrior" Visits Press Office With 10 Cents.

One great-grandmother has forwarded twelve ten-cent pieces to the Plainfield Daily Press Marjorie Sterrett battleship fund to be credited to her three little great-grandsons, Brooks and Amos Sharretts and Brown Rolston. Three more dimes have come in from A. Blanchard, Susan L. and Melton C. Shuttuck; one from Raphael and Martha Berse and one from Catherine Newmiller. In her letter little Miss Newmiller says:

"Enclosed you will find ten cents, which will go to the Marjorie Sterrett battleship fund. I think it is a good plan, and that our nation should be prepared." She lives at 726 Webster place.

Raphael Berse says in his letter:

"My sister and I are enclosing ten cents each for the battleship fund. I hope that every boy and girl in Plainfield will send dimes along quickly."

The Daily Press fund is growing rapidly, and the total is now reaching the $200 mark. The little ones should remember that ten dimes make a dollar, and ten dollars or ten thousand dollars are not acceptable as donations. Marjorie Sterrett wants the dimes of the school children, and she does not want any one child to have more than a ten-cent share in the big new battleship. On the other hand, every American school pupil should have a dime's worth of stock in the "U. S. S. America," which is soon to be built with these tenpenny contributions from all parts of the United States.

One of the interesting events connected with the collecting of the battleship fund in Plainfield occurred yesterday afternoon, when Hugh Bartley Sweeny, Jr., age fifteen months, visited the Daily Press office and turned his dime contribution over. As he has not mastered the art of walking, little Hughie came in his mother's arms to the Press and appeared to have just as much patriotism in his make-up as one fifteen years old.

The Daily Press has placed an order for a big supply of "U. S. S. Battleship" buttons, and all contributors will be presented with these little tokens upon application to this office in a few days.

FUNSTON'S MEN IN REAL BATTLE

Villa Turns and Shows Fight in Vicinity of Guerrero.

RESULTS NOT KNOWN

Mexicans Will Send Out Stories of American Defeat, Warns General, but Pershing's Men Can Take Care of Themselves.

San Antonio, Texas, March 31.—General Funston announced today that in all probability the Villa and American forces have already clashed. He also declared that Villa had undoubtedly received accessions to his forces and would make a stand in the vicinity of Guerrero. It is considered certain here that the news of the battle will be announced this afternoon. General Funston, however, issued a warning against placing credence in unofficial reports, saying that the Mexicans are liable to send out stories to the effect that the American troops have been defeated. Funston declared that he had no fear of the result of the battle, believing Pershing's men thoroughly capable of taking care of themselves.

Carranza Reassures People.

Queretaro, Mexico, March 31.—To reassure the Mexican public, uneasy by false information published by the newspapers with reference to the attack on Columbus and the subsequent hunt for Francisco Villa, General Candido Aguilar, Minister of Foreign Affairs, has issued the following proclamation:

"The Mexican people may rely upon the fact that the patriotism of Chief Executive Carranza, and the government will endeavor to obtain a satisfactory solution of the international matter, which is being conducted with honesty of purpose and dignity befitting the sovereignty of Mexico."

BISHOP WILSON STIRS CONFERENCE

Congregation Bursts Into Song Following Address on Patriotism.

Newark, March 31.—The admission of young ministers, the election of delegates to the quadriennial convention to be held in Saratoga in May, together with the meeting of the Laymen's Association, were features of today's session of the Newark Conference being held in Halsey street church. These young men were admitted to the conference:

Rev. Jay Oakes, of East Summit; Rev. Carl K. Quimby, of West Orange; Rev. Phillip S. Watters, of Tenafly; Rev. Milnor E. Senior, of Piermont. Bishop Wilson addressed the new members and urged them to "play the game fair and square," and to, so far as possible, emulate John Wesley and Francis Asbury, and to realize that they were beginning a new life.

During the morning a committee, headed by Rev. Dr. W. E. Palmer, went from the ministerial conference to the laymen's conference carrying greetings from the former body, while a committee from the laymen's conference, of which Samuel Bingaman, of Plainfield, was a member, carried greetings to the ministerial conference. The Bishop made a response in which he exhorted the laymen and others present to be patriotic, and to co-operate. He spoke of the glorious country founded on righteousness and peace. He said that the American flag was a good one to live under and stand by, and it was good to die for. These remarks so stirred the congregation that all joined in singing "My Country, 'tis of Thee."

This afternoon the ministerial conference met to elect delegates to the Saratoga convention. There are five to be chosen. On the first ballot, Rev. Dr. Ralph B. Urmy, of Newark, received 169 votes; Rev. Dr. W. E. Palmer, of Paterson, 125, and Rev. G. G. Vogel, of Newark, 109. It is predicted that Rev. F. J. Hubach, district superintendent of the Elizabeth district, has an excellent chance of being one of the chosen five. The Laymen's Association will also elect delegates to the same convention at this afternoon's session.

FORMER PLAINFIELDER DIES.

A number of relatives and friends from this city were in attendance Wednesday, at Newark, when the funeral of Mrs. Andrew Lang, a former well known Plainfielder, was held at her home in the former place. She passed away last Saturday after a brief illness. Mrs. Lang was the daughter of the late Andrew Zeisz, and her husband was employed for many years at the Spicer & Hubbard factory at Madison avenue and Third street. She is survived by one brother, George A. Zeisz, of West Third street, and two sisters, Mrs. Charles Glaentzer, of West Front street, and Mrs. John Bremmer, of the borough. Mrs. Lang was sixty-five years old.

Missoula, Mont.—To avoid confusion, Dr. Edward C. Elliott, chancellor of the University of Montana, has decided to designate that part of the university which is located here as "The State University." The greater University of Montana consists of the State University at Missoula, the College of Agriculture and Mechacnic Arts at Bozeman, the State School of Mines at Butte, and the State Normal College at Dillon. The university was constituted under the laws of 1913.

Boston—Boston's experiment in trying to reduce its school expenses by a half million dollars during the coming year is being watched by educational bodies in mauy cities where the public debt is large. The new regime goes into effect April 1. Superintendent Dyer has announced that there will be no wholesale cuts in teachers' salaries. Reductions will occur, however, among twenty so-called heads of departments in high schools. It is expected that the expense per capita in the high schools will be reduced from $80 to $50, effecting a saving on 7,000 pupils of about $210,000.

New Orleans.—Two hundred thousand dollars to establish a tuberculosis hospital is the magnificent gift of Mrs. Eve Christine Butterworth Dibert, to the city of New Orleans. The hospital will be a memorial to the lady's late husband, John Dibert. This is the largest single gift to alleviate human suffering and conserve human life ever made in the South.

Get the Habit of Drinking Hot Water Before Breakfast

Says we can't look or feel right with the system full of poisons.

Millions of folks bathe internally now instead of loading their system with drugs. "What's an inside bath?" you say. Well, it is guaranteed to perform miracles if you could believe these hot water enthusiasts.

There are vast numbers of men and women who, immediately upon arising in the morning, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is a very excellent health measure. It is intended to flush the stomach, liver, kidneys and the thirty feet of intestines of the previous day's waste, sour bile and indigestible material left over in the body which if not eliminated every day become food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels, the quick result is poisons and toxins which are then absorbed into the blood causing headache, bilious attacks, foul breath, bad taste, colds, stomach trouble, kidney misery, sleeplessness, impure blood and all sorts of ailments.

People who feel good one day and badly the next, but who simply can not get feeling right are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to make anyone a real crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so limestone phosphate and hot water act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It is vastly more important to bathe on the inside than on the outside, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.—Adv.

SENDING EVIDENCE IN SUSSEX SINKING

Bronze Fragments May Prove to Be Conclusive.

Washington, March 31.—The pieces of bronze which the American consul at Boulogne reported were found on the channel liner Sussex after the explosion will be examined by United States naval experts with a view to determining whether or not they were part of a German torpedo. They are expected to form a very important point in the evidence which the United States government is collecting concerning the cause of the explosion.

Important new evidence corroborating reports that the vessel was torpedoed was received at the state department. This included a sworn statement by Captain Mouffet of the Sussex, who says he actually saw the wake of a torpedo approaching his ship. A cable from Ambassador Page in London transmitted a report from the British admiralty that a British destroyer was fired on twice by a German submarine while endeavoring to rescue survivors of the Sussex. This may have been the same submarine that wrecked the passenger liner, although the destroyer did not arrive on the scene until some hours later.

Owing to the increased gravity of the situation Secretary of State Lansing declines to comment on official dispatches bearing on the Sussex, the Englishman or the Manchester Engineer pending complete information about each case.

The state department has not yet cabled to Ambassador Gerard at Berlin concerning the most recent attack, that on the steamer Eagle Point, as details concerning this case have not yet been received here.

HEAD STUFFED FROM CATARRH OR A COLD

Says Cream Applied in Nostrils Opens Air Passages Right Up.

Instant relief—no waiting. Your clogged nostrils open right up; the air passages of your head clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffing, blowing, headache, dryness. No struggling for breath at night; your cold or catarrh disappears.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic, healing cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothes the inflamed or swollen mucous membrane and relief comes instantly.

It's just fine. Don't stay stuffed-up with a cold or nasty catarrh.—Adv.

"COOL" RECEPTION TURNS INTO "WARM" REUNION

Percy Burner, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Burner, of Jackson avenue, the borough, who has been in the United States naval service for many years, left for Newport, R. I., a few days ago, after a visit with his parents. He will be stationed at the Newport navy yard, undergoing special instruction in torpedo work, according to the latest ideas laid down by the government's experts. The young man has been chief gunner for the past six years on the gunboat Nashville, and his transfer to the Rhode Island station is in the line of promotion, his ability afterward making him eligible for a petty officer's position.

During his service on the Nashville, Mr. Burner was located for a long period at Hayti. From there he went to New Orleans and thence up the coast to New York. He had not been home for many months previous, and when he entered the Jackson avenue residence, his father mistook him for another son, Ashley Burner, not taking a second look because of his coming unannounced. A moment later he said facetiously:

"Well, I have been stationed for a long time in a hot climate, but this is absolutely the coolest reception I have ever encountered."

It is unnecessary to say that the parental Burner leaped forward with a summons for the rest of the family and the young gunner was accorded the "warmest" reception that had ever been his experience.

Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, will lead the meeting tonight at the home of William Rilling, 34 Jefferson avenue.

SHOWED WHITE FEATHER INSTEAD OF BLACK FACES

A comedy basketball game was planned for last night at the Columbus Club, between the regular club team and a quintet of members who were to blacken up and play as the "Colored Five." Those who had promised to play on the burned cork side got an attack of "cold feet" when the time came to put on the battle, so the game was not played. The first team spent the evening practicing.

PINOCHLE TOURNEY LEADERS LOSE TO REPUBLICAN CLUB

The pinochle team of the Borough Domino Club took three straight games from the Firemen in the continuation of the borough pinochle tournament last evening and got out of last place, which is now occupied by the Firemen. Gaub's barbershop team, which was rapidly drawing away from the other teams, met with its second successive check, losing two games out of three to the North Plainfield Republican Club. The team is still in first place, but its lead has been reduced materially.

The accomplishment of the Domino team last evening has made Al De Nise, one of its players, feel so lucky that he has been spending today fishing in the Passaic River.

Harry Cook, one of the Gaub barbershop players, did not show up last evening. He is commonly called "Explorer" Cook because he happens to bear the name of a person who claimed that he discovered the North Pole. Ever since this certain Cook had his "warm" reception all of the other Cooks have a natural misapprehension. It is therefore believed that "Explorer" Cook scented the warm reception that was awaiting the Gaub team last evening and for this reason decided to remain away.

The standing of the teams follows:

| | W. | L. | P. C. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Gaub's Barbershop | 12 | 6 | .666 |
| Republican Club | 9 | 9 | .500 |
| Domino Club | 8 | 10 | .444 |
| Firemen | 7 | 11 | .333 |

IMPS CLEANED UP BY WESTFIELD BOWLERS

Mt. Ararat Pinners Shoot 977 and 929, Winning Easily.

Westfield made short work of the Imperials in a match on Gates' alleys in the borough last night. The visitors, who had Harry Radin, of this city, and Charley Montross, formerly of Plainfield, shot 977 and 929, winning two games easily.

MAJOR GENERAL WOOD.

Pacifists Object to Preparedness Speech.

Major General Wood, commanding the eastern department of the United States army, is making a series of speeches on preparedness. When he spoke at the City college in New York a riot was precipitated by a squad of students favoring pacificism.

FRANKLIN COUNCIL HOST TO DELEGATION FROM NEWARK

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., acted as host last night for a delegation from James Boyd Council, of Newark, which came to this city for a return fraternal visit. The Newarkers brought a fife and drum corps with them and conducted a short parade through the business district.

The visitation took place in Junior Hall and was in charge of William J. Hartpence. An informal program was enjoyed, music and speeches predominating, and at its conclusion refreshments were served. The James Boyd delegation made the trip by special trolley.

Workmen's Compensation Laws.

Thirty-one states and two territories now have workingmen's compensation laws, and a federal statute covers about one-fourth of the civilian employees of the United States. All this legislation has been enacted since 1908, and virtually all of the existing legislation was passed in 1910.

DEDICATE GLORY BARN APRIL 7TH

Tabernacle Committee to Arrange Program for That Date.

CHOIR TO TAKE PART

House at 167 Crescent Avenue is Secured for Dr. Biederwolf and His Party of Ten During Their Stay in Plainfield.

The Biederwolf Campaign Executive Committee met at headquarters in the Y. M. C. A. Building last night with W. D. Murray, chairman, presiding. Rev. Charles Raach, representing Dr. Biederwolf, was present, to assist in the final details of organization. Several sub-committees were appointed and include the following:

Committee on dedication of tabernacle; woman's committee in charge of all the work for women during the campaign; shop meeting committee responsible for the shop meetings; delegation committee to look after the needs of visiting delegations; reception and transportation committees.

It was decided to dedicate the tabernacle on Friday evening, April 7, at which time a very impressive service will be held. Some well-known speaker is to be secured and the full choir and orchestra will assist in the music.

The first rehearsal of the Biederwolf orchestra will be held in the Vincent chapel of the First M. E. church tonight at 8 o'clock under the leadership of Clifford A. Braider. The response to the call for musicians has been very generous, but the full number desired has not been pledged to the committee.

If you can play any instrument and went to enjoy the work of the orchestra and choir during this campaign, send your name at once to the campaign headquarters in the Y. M. C. A.

The house at 167 Crescent avenue has been secured for the occupancy of Dr. and Mrs. Biederwolf and members of their party during the services here. There are ten in the party, exclusive of the cook, who travels with them. They are Dr. Biederwolf, Mrs. Biederwolf, Mrs. Brake, Miss Boals, Mr. Heaton, Dr. Raach, Mr. Roberts, Mr. McEwan, Mr. Sluyter and Mr. Backemeyer.

CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS LEASE YATES PROPERTY

The Christian Science Society, which some time ago was formed by Plainfielders, has taken a lease on the Yates property on East Seventh street, opposite Grace church, and hereafter will hold its mid-week and Sunday meetings there.

Some of the members of this society were formerly identified with the First Church Scientists, which meets in the Babcock building. John F. Zerega is the appointed reader for the Christian Science Society, which has a membership of about twenty-five.

PLANETS AND GRAVITY.

The Vast Difference In Conditions Upon Mars and Jupiter.

In an article entitled "Is Mars Alive?" in the Popular Science Monthly Waldemar Kaempffert describes the possible appearance of a Martian. In speaking of the different conditions prevailing on the planets Mr. Kaempffert says:

"The bigger the planet on which you live, the harder it is for you to move about. If you were suddenly transported to Jupiter, the largest of the planets, and if you were able to live on its semi-molten surface, you would find it hard to lift your arm. A steam crane would be welcome assistance in moving your body about. This is due entirely to the enormous gravitational attraction which Jupiter would exert upon you. The bigger the planet the harder are you pulled down to its surface; the harder it is to put your foot forward.

"Mars is only one-ninth as massive as the earth. Hence you would weigh much less on Mars than you do on the earth. A Martian porter could easily carry as much as a terrestrial elephant. A Martian baseball player could bat a ball a mile. A very ordinary Martian athlete could leap with ease over a moderately sized house. Because his planet is not able to pull him down with the attractive force that the earth exerts upon us, the typical Martian has conceivably attained a stature that we would regard as gigantic. Three times as large as a human being, this creature has muscles twenty-seven times as effective. His trunk must be fashioned to inclose lungs capable of breathing the excessively attenuated Martian air in sufficiently large quantities to sustain life. As a canal digger—assuming that he had no machinery—he would be a great success, because he would excavate a canal with the speed and efficiency of a small Panama canal steam shovel.

"Beyond that we cannot go. Intelligence is not necessarily a human attribute. It has so happened on this earth that man has become the dominant race not because of his physical powers, but because of his brains. It may well be that the biological conditions of Mars are such that a creature very unhuman in appearance may have gained the ascendency in the struggle for existence on a planet that is fast drying up."

A woman with buying to do never saves any time by omitting to read the advertisements. Nor does she always secure par-value for her dollar.

The spot-light of full publicity, turned on a store, reveals and places in that full light a store's defects—if it have defects. For example: If high prices prevail, or lines of goods are not kept up to date, the reader of the store advertisements knows it. It follows that advertising "pays" the store that renders real service—and would not pay the other kind of a store.

JIM HAS THEM GUESSING.

United States Senator James E. Martine, of this city, is worrying a lot of the Democratic leaders of the State. The scalp hunters are on his trail, and are trying their best to find a man whom they think can beat the "Farmer Orator," but up to date have not succeeded in persuading anyone to enter the lists. Former Congressman Townsend, of Montclair; Robert D. Foote, of Morristown; Congressman Thomas J. Scully, of South Amboy; Attornel General Wescott and possibly Commissioner of Banking and Insurance La Monte, of Bound Brook, are all mentioned as possibilities, but all seem reluctant to declare themselves.

"Our own Jim" in the mean time sticks calmly to the job at Washington "senatoring" to the best of his ability, and making every Jerseyman he runs across happy by taking them through the capital. He realizes that he has the advantage of holding the job now, and that the bigger the field of his opponents, the better will it be for him. He is not a bit ashamed of his record, which is one of never missing a roll call except when absent on official business, and he knows that everyone else knows that he is as honest as the day is long, and cannot be swerved from what he considers the right course in all his actions.

The Trenton State Gazette, a Republican paper, sees much that is good in "Jim," and gives him credit for having put his political fences in order, thus compelling his opponents to "go some" to catch up to him. As the State Gezette says, "when it comes to stumping Mr. Martine is there with a flag in each hand, and he is a very effective speaker, especially in the rural districts, where the spread eagle style of oratory is as plasing now as it was fifty years ago.

"Mr. Martine's claim that he is a farmer made thousands of votes for him when he first ran for senator, and it will make thousands of votes for him this year. He is strong with the tillers of the soil. Stronger than any of the men who will run against him. And the farmer's vote is not to be sniffed at."

The "claim that he is a farmer" is more than a claim, as every one of his neighbors in Plainfield knows. If the editor of the State Gazette could see him at 5 o'clock some bright summer morning, clad in his working clothes with a piece of burlap tied around his waist, he'd know that Jim is a farmer. And believe us, they can say all they want about Jim being easy to beat, it is going to take better men than some that are seeking the Republican nomination to defeat him at the polls next November.

A NORMAL SCHOOL FOR UNION COUNTY.

The cause of teaching hereabouts has been greatly aided by the passage by the Senate and House, over the Governor's veto, of the bill authorizing the erection of a new $200,000 normal school at Elizabeth. Both houses, by a substantial vote, plainly showed the Governor that his opinion had little or no weight with them, when it came to a matter of improving the facilities for turning out teachers in a section of the State where the school is most needed. The bill was originally passed without objection in both houses, and was not a partisan measure in any sense. The Governor's objection was that the selection of the site should be left to the State Board of Education, but the legislators, knowing the inaccessible place at which one school has been placed by that Board, thought the location should be fixed. As the Elizabeth Times says, the Montclair Normal School is almost inaccessible to communities only a few miles distant, and has never been and probably never will be of practical usefulness except to a district of comparatively narrow radius. The proposed school at Elizabeth, on the other hand, because two great trunk line railways pass through that city, will be easily reached from all parts of the State. The Times continues:

"It remains now only to expend the $200,000 which has been appropriated for this project in obtaining the maximum of value in design and construction of the building. Union county rejoices that the bill was passed, primarily because it will bring to this city another institution that will give further rank to Elizabeth among her sister cities, because it will prove an advantage of lasting benefit to the residents of all communities of Central New Jersey and because the choice of this city as the proposed location meets with State-wide approval.

ROOSEVELT OR HUGHES.

It becomes more and more evident each day that either Justice Charles E. Hughes, of the Supreme Court, of Theodore Roosevelt will be the Republican candidate for President this year. Former Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, who is to go as an uninstructed delegate to the Chicago convention is one of the big men in the party to declare that these two men are the only possible and logical suggestions that can be made. The Senator naturally wants to see the Colonel, his life long friend, receive the honor, but he says that he will vote for the strongest man, and will not allow his personal preferences to sway him—and he believes that Hughes is the man. Although Hughes has declared that he is not a candidate for the nomination, the Senator believes that neither Hughes nor anyone else can decline to accept a call to serve his country at a time like the present. Senator Lodge is a candidate for re-election, and has a personal interest in having the strongest man named. He talked frankly to friends on this matter. He thinks it is a time for plain speaking. The senator may visit Colonel Roosevelt at Oyster Bay. He has already communicated with the colonel, and has not hesitated to inform him that it is extremely doubtful that he could defeat President Wilson as matters stand today. As a matter of fact, Colonel Roosevelt himself has told close friends and admirers in New England that he will have difficulty in being elected unless he is chosen as the nominee of a well-nigh unanimous vote of the Progressive and Republican conventions.

ASQUITH CABINET UPHELD.

Coalition Government Candidate Wins Seat In Commons.

London, March 31.—Owen Jacobson, candidate of the coalition government for the house of commons seat for Hyde, defeated B. P. Davies, an independent, by a vote of 4,089 to 3,215. The victory is regarded as a manifestation of confidence in the government's management of the war.

The election was caused by the resignation of Francis Neilson, who recently lectured against the war in the United States.

Seeing the World.

I've seen the giant towering Alps;
I've seen the glories of the modern Rome;
I've seen the redskins yanking scalps,
And many other scenes far, far from home.

I've seen the far-famed Zuyder Zee;
I've seen the beauties of the Isle of Swat;
Vsuvius has belched for me;
I've seen all of the charms Alaska's got.

I've seen Greenland and Iceland, too;
I've seen the streets of Paris day and night;
I've seen old Bagdad and Peru;
I've seen the haunts of Turk and Muscovite.

I've never traveled very much,
And for world tours no money have I spent;
I've seen these interesting things
On picture postcards that my friends have sent.

Uncle Abner

Bud Hicks and Hi Purdy are fast friends, and there are those who say they are too fast for our town.

There are several ways of getting rich quick besides workin' on a newspaper.

It begins to look as though the patent leather shoe and the four-in-hand tie have come to stay.

Hank Frisbie and his wife sold all of their bedroom suites, their stove and their dining room furniture to buy an automobile, and still some say there is no prosperity in this country.

It doesn't take long to find out what some people know, and what they do know ain't wuth findin' out.

Mrs. Hi Purdy has had electric lights and a bathtub put in her house and threatens to wrestle the social leadership of our town away from Mrs. Anson Frisby, who has held it so long with her pair of lorgnettes and her rubber plant.

Cutting Expenses.

I love to ride in a touring car,
And zip on the old stone road;
I love to tour the bergs afar,
And joke with the merry load.

I love to observe the trees flash by,
And hear the good motor hum;
I love the rumble as on we fly,
With the sound of a kettle drum.

I love the rush of the bracing air,
And the feeling of joy it brings;
It's sport that's quite beyond compare,
A sport that is fit for kings.

It's the jolliest thing that I know by far,
And my heart in rapture melts;
I love to ride in a touring car,
When it's owned by someone else.

Helpful Hints on How to Dress.

Always wear a red necktie to a dinner party where tomato bouillon is to be served.

Never wear tan shoes with a dress suit unless you happen to be a millionaire, and then you will start a new style.

It is not considered necessary to wear full dress to a funeral.

If you sympathize with organized labor it is customary to wear a union suit.

He has a wife and child at home—they live on what he borrows

We Have Not Seen the Editor.

A lady friend in a nearby town remarked to the editor the other day that a new dress would help the appearance of The Pod. Yes it would; and a new suit of clothes would improve the appearance of the editor.—The Pea Ridge (Ark.) Editor.

- Proctor's Theatre -

It is seldom, indeed, that one finds such a wonderful classic among photoplay productions as that shown at Proctor's today. It is "Inspiration," Edwin Thanhouser's gorgeous photoplay spectacle, featuring Audrey Munson, known throughout the universe as the greatest of art models. A feature like this is far out of the ordinary. Miss Munson was selected out of hundreds of others as the chief figure on scores of statuary at the recent Panama-Pacific Exposition, and her figure adorns such renowned sculptures as the Maine Monument in Central Park, the Soldiers and Sailor's Monument in Riverside Drive, the New York Municipal Building, the New York Stock Exchange, the Williamsburg bridge and many other buildings equally as prominent. In addition to "Inspiration," and among other excellent features, the thirteenth episode of "The Red Circle" is shown today. Tomorrow a varied program is provided, the main dramatic picture featuring two favorites who have hundreds of admirers in this vicinity. It is entitled "Man and His Soul," and stars Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne In order to provide amusement for the little folk Harry Watson will appear in a screamingly funny "Musty Suffer" comedy, while the other features have been booked with infinite care and to provide the utmost variety. On Monday Paramount Pictures will be inaugurated at Proctor's, and will appear on Friday and Saturday of each week thereafter The initial Paramount Picture is "Zaza," featuring Pauline Frederick, one of the most popular of screen stars. In addition, Monday, Sis Hopkins will be seen in a laugh-provoking comedy, "Ham and Bud," who will captivate their admirers, and Frank Daniels will also appear in a one-reel uproar. Some of the prominent attractions that will appear at Proctor's in the very near future are Mary Pickford ini "The Girl of Yesterday," which will be shown on Friday, April 7th, and one the same date the "Social Pirates," a new fascinating series packed with thrills and a big moral, will also begin an extended run, appearing on every Friday thereafter. On Wednesday, April 12, Theda Bara, will appear in her latest picture entitled "Gold and the Woman."

A WONDERFUL OPPORTUNITY

Many Daily Press readers have secured the big print Red Letter Edition of the Bible by means of the coupon offer repeated in today's issue, and they are loud in their praise of the remarkable opportunity thus given them. They are showing the work to their friends and urging them to lose no time in obtaining a copy at a cost that makes it almost a gift. The thought that led to the printing of the words of Christ in red, was an inspiration, and thousands testify to their appreciation of this unique feature. Besides this, the marginal annotations on every page are a mine of information. Taken all in all, we do not know of any coupon offer in recent years that has so pleased the people. Read the offer in today's coupon elsewhere in this paper.—Adv.

MUST DECIDE WHETHER FOUNDATION IS CHARITY

New York, March 31.—Whether or not the Rockefeller Foundation and similarly endowed funds are charitable corporations, is the interesting question that must be answered in an interesting tax case that will be argued today. The State Controller has appealed from the decision of the transfer tax appraiser in exempting from taxation the residuary bequest of $47,000, under the will of the late Mrs. John D. Rockefeller to the Rockefeller foundation. The State maintains that the foundation is not a charitable corporation and, therefore, is not exempt from the transfer tax.

LITERARY

T. R.'S POLICIES MADE FRIENDS.

Seldom did Roosevelt send to any foreign power a formal note that was even disagreeable. When he was obligeod to do so, he took great pains to send it with as little personal diplomatic disagreeableness as possible. He protested, for instance, to Russia against Russian treatment of Jews; and yet he managed not to offend, officially, the officially friendly Russian Government. The note went to Petrograd. Our ambassador took it to the Russian Foreign Office. He said: "Would the Foreign Office please read it and say whether or not it would be willing to 'receive' it? The Foreign Office read it and said: "No. It would not be willing to 'receive' it." Our ambassador then carefully took it away. It had served its purpose without starting a back-fire. The Russian Government had really read it; and it got into the newspapers of Russia, where the Russian public read it, too; and so our views reached their mark. Yet the Russian Government had never "officially" seen it at all; and the formal relations between Petrograd and Washington continued to be unabatedly friendly. Roosevelt's diplomacy did not lose friends for us. It made them.—William Hard in the May Metropolitan.

CARDINAL DECLARES FOR TEMPERANCE

Although a strong advocate of temperance and a believer in local option where it is wanted, Cardinal Gibbons denounced state-wide prohibition when up before the Maryland legislature, asserting that such law is impossible of enforcement.

"I am strongly opposed," said the Cardinal, "to any state-wide prohibition bill being passed by the legislature because I believe that such a law is impossible of enforcement in a city the size of Baltimore and its environs. Such being the case, a law of this kind interferes with personal liberty and rights and operates to encourage hypocrisy in the people. The history of the world down to the present time demonstrates the fact that people always have and always will indulge in the use of intoxicating liquors.

"Further, I am opposed to the passage of such a law because it would deprive the State of a large revenue without accomplishing results, and that, too, at a time when both the city and State are very much in need of the revenues produced.

"However, I am heartily in favor of temperance and whenever it is my pleasure to confirm a class of boys, I always exact from them a pledge to abstain from the use of intoxicants until they become of age. I am also a firm believer in local option, and whenever the majority of the citizens of a county or any portion of the State want to vote on the question of local option, their wishes should be gratified."

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

What Finally Happened to Karen's Red Shoes.

[Adapted from Hans Christian Andersen.]

"DADDY, please tell us a fairy story?" begged the children.

So daddy told the story of a pair of red shoes: "When a little girl Karen, whose red shoes ran away with her, came to a little lonely house in a meadow, she tapped on the windowpane and asked who lived there. 'Come out. I can't come in,' she said. And out came a man whose business it was to chop off heads. 'Oh, don't chop off my head!' she cried. 'Chop off my red shoes!' Then she confessed all her sins, and off the man chopped both her feet and her red shoes, and the shoes danced, danced away, with the little feet inside them, to the depths of the forest.

"Then the man made Karen a pair of wooden legs and some crutches, and he taught her to sing psalms. Then she went away across the meadow. 'Now I will go to church, so they may see that I have suffered enough for those red shoes,' she said to herself. And she went as fast as she could to the church door. When she got there, right in front of her danced up the red shoes. She was so frightened that she went home without going into the church. For a week she was very sad, but when Sunday came she decided that she was just as good as the people who sat in church with their heads so high. So she went to church quite boldly, but before she got to the gate she saw the red shoes dancing on before her.

"She was so frightened this time that she went to the parson's house and begged him to let her work in his kitchen. She did not care whether he paid her or not; she only wanted a roof over her head and kind people near her. The parson's wife was sorry for her and took her in, and Karen proved to be very clever at her work and thoughtful. She sat very still and read her Bible evenings, and when the children, who liked her very much, talked about finery and beautiful clothes she would shake her head at them.

"Next Sunday they all went to church and asked Karen if she would like to go with them. Tears came to her eyes as she glanced at her crutches, and off they went to church, leaving her home alone. Her room was only big enough for a bed and a chair, but she sat there and read her prayer book. Soon she heard the notes of the organ carried up by the wind from the church, and they made her feel like praying. So she prayed, 'O God, help me!' Then the sun shone brightly around her, and an angel in white robes stood before her."

"Oh, daddy, did she have a vision?" Jack wanted to know.

"It all happened in her heart," said daddy, with a good night kiss.

Household Hints

Orange Straws.

Remove peel from four thin-skinned oranges.

Cover peel with cold water, bring to boiling point, cook slowly until soft. Drain, remove white portion by scraping with a spoon, and cut yellow portion in thin strips, using scissors.

Boil half cup water and one cup sugar until sirup will thread when dropped from tip of spoon. Add strips of peel and let boil five minutes. Drain and coat with fine granulated sugar.

THE TABLE

Steak Roll, Tomato Sauce—One and one-half pounds ground steak, three slices bread (soaked), three onions cut fine, sage, pepper and salt to taste. Make into a roll and lay on baking pan. Take one can tomatoes, boil and strain, add seasoning and one large tablespoon flour, then water to make a quart. Pour over meat and bake till done. Baste often.

Cheese Fondue (with food value of one pound potatoes and one pound beef, served without meat or potatoes)—One and one-third cups stale bread crumbs, 1½ cups grated cheese, three or four eggs, one cup hot water, one-half teaspoon salt. Add thoroughly beaten egg yolks to bread, cheese, salt and water, and fold in stiffly beaten whites carefully (to retain the air and lightness). Put in buttered baking dish and bake slowly thirty minutes; or fry five minutes until it sets.

Fruit Salad—One can pineapple (fruit only), one and one-half cups sugar, six bananas (sliced), three oranges( sliced), one envelope Knox gelatin. Drain juice off pineapple and measure; add to it boiling water enough to make one quart, then add sugar. Take part of cup of cold water, add gelatin (any good kind may be used) and let stand five minutes. Then stir into the boiling water (or fruit juice) and sugar. Let stand until it commences to cool, then pour over fruit. Serve when cold, with whipped cream. Nuts and grapes may be added.

Mayonnaise Dressing—Mayonnaise dressing is usually considered a difficult achievement, but is not, if a few simple principles are kept in mind. In the first place, all the materials must be cold, and the wise ones will keep the bowl containing the dressing in a pan of ice water during the process. Secondly, the oil must be added in very small quantities at first, and the mayonnaise must be kept on ice and tightly covered until used. For a pint of mayonnaise, enough for several salads, put a level teaspoonful of dry mustard into a white earthern bowl with a smooth rounded surface. Add a half teaspoon salt, dash of paprika and yolks of two fresh eggs, unbeaten. Stir until well mixed, then begin to add oil. Three drops will suffice at first, and the dressing must be rubbed with the back of a silver spoon, rather than stirred. When smooth, more oil may be added in larger quantities, but no more than a teaspoonful at a time, until one cup of oil has been used. With the second cup of oil, one may risk two or three teaspoonfuls at a time, but "haste makes waste." The yolk of each egg will take up one cup oil. When all the oil is absorbed and the mixture is so thick that it seems like a stiff batter, add lemon juice to taste, and a few drops of tarragon vinegar.

Good Doughnut Recipe—Three large or six medium-sized potatoes mashed, one tablespoon butter, one-half teaspoon salt; stir well all together until light; add three eggs, two cups sugar, one cup sweet milk, five teaspoons baking powder sifted in six cups of flour (to start with; use more as needed). To sugar doughnuts evenly and easily, let doughnuts get very cold, then take a medium-sized paper sack, put in three-fourths cup pulverized sugar (confectionery sugar), using more as you need it. Then take doughnuts, a few at a time, put in the sack and shake well. When taken out they are covered evenly.

KEEP URIC ACID OUT OF JOINTS

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Eat Less Meat and Take Salts.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water.

Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid, which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which helps overcome uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

PARTIAL INVENTORY OF CURTIS ESTATE

Former Plainfielders Left Valuable Property According to Document Filed.

New York, March 31.—An unfinished inventory of part of the estate of Thomas E. H. Curtis, father of the Misses Harriet, Ada and Sylvia Curtis, of Plainfield, was filed in the surrogate's court today. Mr. Curtis, who lived in Plainfield for many years, was one of the founders of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, and greatly interested in works of art. He died August 30 last at Atlantic City without leaving a will.

His art collection was reputed to be one of the finest in this country and a number of his Roman and Phoenician specimens of glassware are now on exhibition at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, of which he was a trustee. When Archer M. Huntington gave the site for the National Institute of Arts and Letters in New York, Mr. Curtis said he would give $50,000 toward the erection of the building.

Beside his three daughters, who inherit in equal shares his entire property, Mr. Curtis also leaves a sister. On September 28 last, Harriet Curtis, a daughter, was appointed administratrix of the estate by the probate court of Union county. The inventory does not show the valuation of the estate which comprises works of art, real estate, railroad stocks and bonds, mining stock. Prior to removing to Plainfield twenty years ago, Mr. Curtis resided in New York. He was spending the summer at Atlantic City when he was taken ill and died.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Dan Collyer and his excellent company of five, brought a refreshing novelty to the Plainfield Theatre yesterday, when his racing playlet, "In Old New Orleans," began the first of a three days' engagement The sketch was written especially for Mr. Collyer, who recently made a big hit in New York as a colored porter in "Excuse Me," and his work in the latter play was none the less clever than that which he exhibited to the Plainfield audiences yesterday afternoon and last night.

"In Old New Orleans" is a very clever production of race-track life, with a Southern atmosphere. Mr. Collyer plays the part of a colored jockey, and his humor is both original and infectious. The spectators yesterday were held spellbound with excitement when the big part of the piece, a real horse race, with thoroughbreds straining every nerve for victory, capped the climax after a series of startling situations. "In Old New Orleans" will be the feature of the Plainfield bill for the remainder of the week.

Beside the big feature number, Manager Shannon has secured five other spendid acts for the present show. Everyone is out of the ordinary and comprised Edna May Hall and company in the sketch, "Patsy's Finish;" the Campbells, novelty trio in a violin and singing act; Raines and Clark, blackface comedy and singing; Tossing Ostons, vaudeville's greatest juggling and club swinging company, and Tom Blinker, comedian.

The sixth episode of "The Strange Case of Mary Page," is scheduled for this afternoon, and tonight, in the picture portion of the program.

Bob Walpole After Ike Walton's Laurels at Age of Eighty-Four

When old Ike Walton drew up his angling regulations he failed to stipulate any age limit, and this is one of the reasons why Constable Robert Walpole, of Scotch Plains, is shining up his rod and reel for a visit to the trout ponds tomorrow, when the Jersey season for the speckled beauties officially opens. Ike didn't say anything about a man 84 years old being beyond the age of usefulness as an angler, nor did "Doc." Osler decree that a man past the half-century could no longer enjoy good wholesome outdoor sport.

"Bob" Walpole, as he is familiarly known to residents of this section, sported a constable's shield on his bosom for more than forty years, and during that time it fell to his lot to become personally acquainted with a majority of the "real characters" of Central New Jersey. He knows 'em all, and many seek his advice about trout fishing each time the calendar leaf is torn off to reveal April fools' day. This is the date on which angling for this specie of fish becomes legal in the "skeeter" State, and Bob knows all the nooks and corners where they thrive.

One of his favorite angling centers in past years has been the old pond at Feltville, and it was not very long ago when the constable stamped this as the best trout fishing rendezvous in the State. He has fished each winter in Florida and Virginia, and attributes his present fine physical condition to out-of-door life. His knowledge of trout ponds is not confined to New Jersey alone, for he has made a study of the rod and reel pastime wherever he has visited and is a recognized authority on all pertaining to it.

Although he is nearing his eighty-fourth birthday, which will be celebrated on August 10 next, Mr. Walpole is unusually active for one of his years and he is in full possession of all of his faculties. He is looking forward with particular interest to the coming of Saturday, and he predicts a good season for the sportsmen who love to angle for the finny tribe.

TWO GREATEST FEATS IN DIAMOND HISTORY

Radbourne's Pitching Seventy-two Games, and Keeler's Batting Unparalelled.

The after-effects of performing what a jury of ten major league managers has voted the greatest and second greatest feats in baseball were extremely difficult.

"Old Hoss" Radbourne, who performed the greatest feat, according to the managers, when he pitched seventy-two games for the Providence club in 1884, a record for the number pitched by a hurler in a single season, was useless the following season.

Willie Keeler, given the honor of performing the second greatest by going through the season of 1896 with Baltimore without striking out, was as good as ever many years afterward.

Radbourne's feat was one of physical endurance. Only a man of unusual strength could pitch seventy-two games in a season—thirty-seven of them in succession. Keeler's feat was one of keen judgment. Ability to pick out good balls and crack them made it possible for him to go to the plate 700 times without fanning, a performance never equaled by even such great batters as Dan Brouthers, Pop Anson, Hans Wagner, Larry Lejoie or Ty Cobb.

When Radbourne took on the proposition of pitching every game his team played from the middle of the season on, he said:

"I'll pitch every game and win the pennant or pitch my arm off." He did both.

Keeler could judge a pitched ball to a fraction of an inch. He is said to be the only player who ever umpired his own games. When he let a ball pass, umpires were satisfied it was not over the plate and called it a "ball."

Keeler and Jesse Burkett were the game's greatest place hitters. Keeler used a short, think bat, and gripped it so far up on the handle that only half of the bat extended beyond his hand. He poked the ball just over the heads of infielders. When outfielders moved in to stop his short drives, he swung at the ball and sent it over the outfielders' heads.

Besides going through the 1896 season without fanning, Keeler set a record for the number of hits made by a National league player. He cracked 243 safeties. His average for the season was .392. He batted over .300 thirteen consecutive seasons—1894 to 1906, inclusive. He beat his mark of .392 twice, batting .394 in 1895 and .432 in 1897.

Radbourne, after his feat, went back to the diamond the following year, but found that he had pitched his arm away. He was as strong of heart as ever, but his curves lacked snap, and the old zip was missing from his fast ball.

"Old Hoss" refused to allow the Providence club to carry him as a pensioner. If he couldn't pitch he wouldn't wear a uniform. He quit.

GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH AT Y. M. C. A.

Barnyard and Dingling's Outfit Give Wonderful Performance.

Barnyard and Dingling's greatest show on earth arrived in town yesterday for a two days' stay at the Y. M. C. A. and made their first appearance before an enthusiastic audience of over four hundred people.

The grand circus parade led by Ringmaster F. O. Dunning displayed the greatest company of acrobats, gymnasts, clowns, monkeys, horses, bears and giraffes ever exhibited in the "Queen City."

The most mirth provoking act was the trained horse, whose wonderful exhibition of intelligence amazed the audience beyond words.

Hand balancing by a trio of most dexterous and daring seniors and the pyramids by boy leaders and seniors were among the best of the gymnastic acts.

In the wrestling match the "Masked Marvel" was defeated by Eddie Gunzelman, Y. M. C. A. champion, but look out tonight, Eddie, or you'll lose your title.

Maximus' wonderful act in classic posings and heavyweight juggling was a fitting climax to a great show.

The Dutch Arms orchestra, which contributed so much to the enjoyment of the evening, will be unable to play tonight because of the rehearsal of the evangelistic choir. Harry Wetten's professional orchestra, of Roselle, will put on the rousments tonight.

ONE-LEGGED WONDER STAR AT ALL KINDS OF GAMES

Alliance, O., March 31.—Fifteen years ago, "Peg" Oswalt, aged 23, watched Mt. Union College baseball men and gridders at their daily practice. "Peg" often expressed the wish that some day he would be the greatest athlete in Ohio. But "Peg," having only one leg, realized his inability to become Ohio's greatest two-legged athlete. So he set out to become America's greatest one-legged athlete. He is that today.

Oswalt plays football, baseball and basketball and can roller-skate. His lone left leg has stood him good in many a hard-fought athletic contest when he competed against able-bodied two-legged men and did not suffer by comparison.

"Peg" learned to poise himself on his crutches, and he can kick off as well as the best two-legged players in football. His crutches are used in starting the game. As soon as the ball goes sailing through the air, he throws them away and hops with as much speed as many gridders attain on two good legs.

Last fall "Peg" played right guard on the strong Alliance Independent team, which went the whole season without a single defeat. It is a matter of local football history that Oswalt in a game with Canton last November, leaped through the line and stopped a terrific tandem plunge when Canton had the ball on the one-yard line ready to back it over on the last down. Oswalt played in every game and was frequently injured, but refused to quit.

"Peg" catches on baseball teams and is given a runner after he reaches first base. He has been known to hobble all the way around the circuit at times when runs were needed.

He is a deadly accurate goal shooter in basketball. He plays forward on the McCombs Bros. team here, which a week ago defeated the strong Hiram college five.

In addition to these sports, Oswalt is an excellent roller skater and an expert swimmer.

"One leg is enough, if you know how to use it," he has frequently said to his friends.

WATCHUNG COUNCIL WILL HAVE A NINE

Knights of Columbus in This City Have a Number of Clever Players.

Watchung Council, No. 552, Knights of Columbus, has decided to have a baseball team this season. In the council are a number of well known tossers, and there is little doubt that a strong nine can be picked. The team, it is said, will make application for admittance to the City League.

Behind the bat will be stationed George Linke, former Plainfield Y. M. C. A. catcher and Lehigh University star. The string of pitchers includes the veterans, Al Squier, Ed Harding, Fred Winn and Jules Parent. Dan McAfee will fliver around the initial bag, while Eddie Taylor is down to cover the keystone sack. Billy Coyle will play short, the position he covered with credit for Dunellen in the Central New Jersey League. Lazy Lou Harding, Jim Cullen and Al Bryniarski are slated to fight it out for the third base job.

Among the candidates for the outfield posts are George Taylor, John Kyle, Jim Kyle and John Coffey. John Duffy will be the scorer. Doc Greenwood will start the season as umpire. Joe Greene has been picked to carry the water, although he has never had much experience. Jim Strappe will be cheer leader. Al Des Noyers, Mike Moynihan and Joe Sullivan will be ticket sellers.

DESPITE WAR, RUSSIA IS PLANNING OLYMPIC GAMES

In the midst of war, Russia has not forgotten athletics and the possibility of future Olympic games. By order of that department of the government which is planning for the athletic upbuilding of the younger generation of Russians, there arrived in New York recently, Hannes F. Anderson. His card bears the inscription: "Russian trainer in light athletics and chief administrator in physical culture of His Imperial Highness, the Czar of Russia, schools for officers."

Anderson, who is a Swede and, as a member of the Swedish team competed in the Olympic games at Stockholm in 1912, bears a formidable package of passports, recommendations and other official documents, all stamped with Russian and Imperial seals. He explained that, owing to the war, his field of labors in Russia has been seriously curtailed. In view of these circumstances, the government decided that the time was opportune for a careful study of the American athletic system, which the Russians concede to be the best in the world.

The Swedish trainer has been given a roving commission, together with a large expense fund, and will investigate American athletics in all its phases during the coming summer. The system used in holding games, developing athletes, raising funds and forms of control in vogue in the Amateur Athletic Union, intercollegiate associations and individual colleges will be the subject of careful study. Anderson will visit various parts of the country, attend and interview the leading athletic trainers of the United States before he returns to Russia.

In a recent interview he stated that athletic training, competition and sport will in the future be a feature of Russian life. Following the close of the war he looks for a great revival of interest in all form of sports throughout Russia. When asked when and where the next Olympic games will be held, Anderson simply smiled and shrugged his shoulders.

FRENCH HOLD AVOCOURT.

German Attempts to Regain Position Near Verdun Defeated.

Paris, March 31.—Violent fighting continues in the Avocourt wood, west of the Meuse, where the Germans are attempting to retake their lost positions. Repeated counter attacks were repulsed, according to the official communique, which states that the German losses were very heavy.

In front of the redoubt of Avocourt, it is stated, the enemy dead were left piled in heaps.

The war office statement also reports a heavy attack, preceded by a violent bombardment, south of the Somme.

The enemy penetrated French advanced lines west of Vermandoviller, ten miles southwest of Peronne and north of Chaulnes, but were driven out by an immediate counter attack.

Thirty Hurt as Cars Crash.

Chicago, March 31.—Thirty men and women were injured, several probably fatally, when two Argo cars crashed on a single track line at West Sixty-fifth street and Chicago avenue.

N. P. H. S. BOYS OPEN NEXT WEEK

Twenty-two Games Scheduled All Saturday Games to Be Played at Home.

FIRST PRACTICE TODAY

Battery Candidates Had Workout Yesterday — Bernardsville High Will Open Schedule One Week from Tomorrow.

North Plainfield High School players will begin its baseball schedule of twenty-two games a week from tomorrow on Hyde field, when they face Bernardsville High School. Princeton High School is the only new rival athletic negotiations have been opened with, although Roselle and Cranford High Schools will once more appear on the list after a short absence. Strange to say, the borough boys have not compared their strength with that of Westfield High School for the past six years, but opportunity will be given this year, as two contests are scheduled.

With the advent of warm weather, Captain Dilts will collect his charges and commence practicing. The first practice will be held this afternoon. The pitchers and catchers were warming up yesterday afternoon. Among those out were Appleton, Van Mater, Le Roy Force, Oscar Dilts, Clifford Feiring, Andrew McDonough, Newton Mair and Antonio Genavario. Van Mater has the natural ability, although being inexperienced. He has plenty of stuff on the ball, with speed to burn. With proper coaching he should develop into a reliable moundsman. Newton Mair and Andrew McDonough are the strongest contenders for the backstop position, both having good throwing arms.

The interscholastic series will be opened when N. P. H. S. appears on Parker field, May 13. P. H. S. boys will invade their opponents' territory June 3. The deciding game, if one is necessary, will be staged a week later. Efforts were made to extend the series to five games, thereby proportioning the chances of each school, while this would also help defray the heavy expenditures which this sport requires. The plan fell through, as Holmes Clawson, the Red-and-Blue manager, had already completed his schedule and could not revise it.

One distinct feature of the schedule is that every Saturday game is scheduled on Hyde field, with the exception of the one on Plainfield's field.

The schedule follows:

April.

11—Seton Hall at Seton Hall.

SHOOT FOR COUNTY TITLE.

Frank Glaser, of Elizabeth, and R. Sickley, of Springfield, two men who are among the best trap shooters in Union county, will shoot for the county championship at the Indian Run Gun Club, in Union, on Saturday, April 22. Glaser formerly held the title, but relinquished it to Sickley when he moved from Elizabeth to another part of the State.

THOMPSON MAY RETURN.

Harry Thompson, the former local pitcher, who was sold by the Lawrence New England Club to Los Angeles, of the Pacific Coast League, may be resold to Lawrence. Frank Chance, who is managing Los Angeles, has twenty good pitchers, and Lawrence is anxious to have Thompson return.

YANKS WIN.

Home Run Baker's three hits played a leading part in the Yankees' 9 to 4 victory over the Memphis Turtles, at Memphis, yesterday.

GIANTS BEAT FORT WORTH.

The Giants won a game of much batting at Fort Worth, Taxeas, yesterday, 4 to 3. Fletcher made a long home run.

MR. GUINEE VERY ILL.

P. H. S. RIVALS IN PENN RELAYS

Brunswick, Roselle, Hoboken, and Montclair Among the Opponents of Locals.

HOLD FIRST PRACTICE

Half-dozen Quarter-milers Report to Coach Noll—Distance Men and Field Athletes Will be Called Out Later—May Meets Planned.

Plainfield High School is now preparing, for the first time in its athletic history, to enter a team in the relay carnival of the University of Pennsylvania, to be held in Philadelphia, on April 29. This is universally recognized as the greatest athletic meet in America, in which all the leading colleges, preparatory schools and high schools of the country participate, and attracts thousands of spectators from all parts of the Unied Sates.

Plainfield is classed with the following high schools: New Brunswick, Hoboken, Orange, West Orange, Roselle, Mount Vernon, Yonkers, Montclair and Flushing. Silver loving cups and beautiful banners are presented to the winners of each class. The teams entering these events are usually very fast, and it will mean a hard race for every quarter-miler to give his team a place when the mile relay is finished.

The late season necessitates intensive work and training on the part of the runners to get into good shape for the races in April. There is some very good track material in the Plainfield High School, and the prospects for victory on Franklin Field, Philadelphia, are very good. John G. Noll, an instructor in the commercial department of the local school, is coaching the team.

The candidates for the team had their first practice outdoors yesterday afternoon, when Coach Noll put them through a long workout.

The Red and Blue will be represented only in the mile relay event at the Pennsylvania games, and for that reason Mr. Noll will at present coach only tryouts for the relay team. After the meet a general call for candidates will be sounded, and there is a host of good material that will respond. Alfred Seal, recently appointed manager, is planning to arrange several meets during May, and it is probable that a meet between the members of the school will be held on Parker field.

Those who reported yesterday were Daniels, Trowbridge, O'Donnell, Alpaugh, Fields and Miller, while several others will be on hand today. Practice will be held every day.

ASSISTANT MANAGER STELLE P. H. S. BASEBALL EXECUTIVE

Following the announcement at the Plainfield High School yesterday that Holmes Clawson has resigned as this year's baseball manager, it has been made known today that Percy Stelle, who was assistant, will be manager. With a schedule calling for twenty-one games to be played, there are but three vacant dates, and these will be filled by Stelle.

FIRE EQUIPMENT STATISTICS GIVEN

Figures Showing Apparatus and Hose in Service in Cities of 7,000 and Over.

For the third successive year Fireman's Herald has taken a census of the fire apparatus and hose in service and reserve in American and Canadian fire departments, also of the possible purchases during 1916. This year's enumeration includes the cities of 7,000 population and over. Of these cities the fire chiefs of 670 have responded to requests for information. In last year's enumeration the statistics for 500 cities were presented, so that this year an increase of more than 30 per cent. in the number of cities reporting has been obtained.

The rapid elimination of the horse-drawn apparatus from the service is strikingly shown by a comparison between this year's census and that of 1914. In that year 315 cities were represented, wth 7,059 fire vehicles pulled by Dobbin. This year more than twice that number of departments, including the original 315, are entered, and yet the number of horse-drawn pieces of apparatus in service and reserve is less by over 1,000.

The tabulation for this year shows that in these 670 cities there are 9,295 pieces of apparatus of all sorts in service and reserve. The total for horse-drawn equipment is 5,869, while there are 3,426 automobiles. A heavy deduction must be made from the horse-drawn vehicles to provide for the large number that are nominally held in reserve, but are in reality carried on fire department books because it is not easy to find purchasers at fair prices.

Of the horse-drawn pieces, steam fire engines continue to be far ahead of all others, numbering 1,758, which total includes a considerable number that will in all likelihood never again work at a fire. Combinatioin wagons and hose carriers number 2,163; aerial and service trucks and water towers total 945, and there are 1,003 other horse-drawn pieces of all classes.

As has been the case with the previous tabulations made by Fireman's Herald, the serviceable combination chemical and hose car again leads the motor apparatus with a total of 1,012. What appeared to be hesitation in adopting the triple combination pump, chemical engine and hose car seems to have disappeared, as there are 385 of these registered, as against 290 straight automobile pumping engines. Ladder trucks and water towers number 313; tractorized pieces, 573, and all other fire automobiles, most of them chiefs' cars, total 853.

The fate that has befallen horse-drawn apparatus in the fire service is again shown by this year's census of possible purchases. Of the automobiles, 808 are listed, while of the horse-drawn the total stands at 7. When it is considered that for obvious reasons the enumeration of possible purchases is not and cannot be anywhere near complete so far as motor apparatus is concerned, while the departments that are condemned to horsed vehicles are not likely to increase their purchases, it is plain that in a year or two future purchases will not mention the horse at all.

Of the additions to be made this year, chemical and hose cars are again to the fore with 243. Pumping engines number 87; triple combinations, 76; hose cars, 31; chemicals, 14; aerial and service trucks and water towers, 112; tractors, 140; other automobiles, 105.

NEW FIGHT AGAINST BLINDNESS OF BABIES

Chicago, March 31.—A mass meeting being held here today, opens the campaign of a new organization to save the sight of infants. The Illinois Association for the Prevention of Blindness is conducting the campaign, which has the backing of the most influential Chicagoans.

"Fifty per cent. of all blindness is preventable," says Miss Carolyn Conant Van Blarcom, secretary of the Association, and formerly secretary of the National and New York State Committees for the Prevention of Blindness. "The sore eyes of babies so commonly seen during the first few days of an infant's life is responsible for more lifelong blindness than any other cause. It is comparatively easy to save the sight of babies, if the right cure is given at the right time. The eyes of every infant should be treated with preventive drops immediately after birth."

The causes of total and partial blindness, which the association hopes to eliminate, include industrial accidents and diseases, inadequate lighting, trachoma and other chronic eye infections.

S .A. R. PLANS FOR BIG MEETING AT NEWARK

Annual Congress to Be Held in May—1,000 Members in New Jersey.

Arrangements for the entertainment of the twenty-seventh annual congress of the Sons of the American Revolution, to be held in the new Robert Treat Hotel in Park place, Newark, are so far perfected as to give definite details of the general plan worked out by various committees. Delegates will begin arriving on May 13, and will be met at the hotel by the New Jersey delegation to the congress and the officers of the State society, and a cordial and patriotic reception extended. Elaborate decorations will be made in the hotel lobby, as well as upon the exterior.

There are over 1,000 members in New Jersey, and nearly all are expected to attend the congress and the entertainments to be provided. Distinguished guests are expected from every State where the society is represented.

The opening session will take place in the ballroom at 10 o'clock on Monday. An invitation has been extended to Governor Fielder and Mayor Raymond to extend the welcome to the delegates. The response will be made by President-General Newell B. Woodworth, of Syracuse, N. Y., who will preside at the congress. A feature will be the annual exhibit of the historian general.

Assurances have already been given of a large delegation from the New England States and Middle Atlantic States, from the West and Pacific Coast. Illinois, it is understood, will have a complete delegation of twenty members.

In the evening a reception will be given in the ballroom of the hotel to the visitors and the New Jersey members. The third session of the congress will open at 9:30 o'clock on Tnesday morning, when officers will be elected. In the afternoon the entire congress will be taken to Morristown in automobiles, going by way of Elizabeth and Springfield, where the battle took place on January 23, 1780. At Washington's headquarters the Morris County Chapter will receive the congress. From Morristown the party will go to Eagle Rock. Orange and Montclair chapters will act as hosts. The party will then pass through Llewellyn Park, passing the home of Thomas A. Edison, to Park avenue, and thence through Branch Brook Park. From there the party will go directly to the hotel.

In the evening a banquet will be held in the hotel, at which a number of patriotic speakers will give addresses on patriotic themes. The congress and the visiting ladies will be taken Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock by train to Princeton, where luncheon will be served and opportunity given to visitors to visit the battlefield and the college buildings. Later, a special train will be taken to Trenton. General Wilbur F. Sadler will meet the party on arrival at the State Capital, and will escort it to the old barracks, where a handsome bronze tablet will be dedicated. R. C. Ballard-Thurston, former President-General, has offered this tribute in memory of Washington's praiseworthy act after the battle of Trenton, December 26, 1776. He ordered goods stolen by Hessians returned to their owners.

THEY ARE COMING WITH BIEDERWOLF

"MAC" AND "JIM."

Aside from the magnetic personality and forceful oratory of Dr. Biederwolf himself, much praise is due his co-workers for the success of his revival services. Two of the most popular workers in the party are "Mac' and "Jim." William McEwan is chorus leader and tenor soloist; James Heaton is business manager of the party and a member of the National Male Quartette.

EDUCATOR'S NOTEBOOK

Pittsburg—The Congress of Women's Clubs of Western Pennsylvania, which opened here today, is devoting much of its attention to the victory which the women have won in opening up the medical school of the University of Pittsburg to women students. The women demanded that they be admitted on equal terms with men, and this was granted. Two girl students are already taking the medical course, and the congress, in celebration of their victory for women doctors, has raised a fund of $12,000 for two scholarships.

Cleveland—The School of Applied Social Science, which will be opened next September, will be the tenth department in Western Reserve University. The new school is decided upon, and it is the result of plans which have been developing for three years. The work of the school for the first year has been outlined under four general divisions: Family welfare and social service; health administration, play and recreation; municipal administration, and public service. Dr. J. E. Cutler, head of the department of sociology in the university, has been appointed dean of the new school.

Philadelphia—The Law School of the University of Pennsylvania hereafter will not confer a degree upon any student whose moral conduct both in and out of the school is not absolutely unimpeachale. The university is, according to Provost Smith, the first large institution of learning in the East to take such a measure in an effort to elevate the standards of the legal profession and to prevent men of immoral character from becoming members of the Bar.

Newton—In accordance with the plan of Superintendent Ralph Decker, of the Sussex county schools, hundreds of parents and relatives of the school children are visiting the schools, carrying out the idea of "Go to School Week." "Nearly every town in the land has had a 'Go to Church Sunday,'" says Superintendent Decker. "Many towns and cities have their 'Old Home Week.' But I have conceived the idea of having a 'Go to School Week.' What our schools need is more interest in them on the part of parents and taxpayers. Very few of them ever visit the school, relying on the children for any information they care for. I am glad to say that many parents are responding to my invitation."

Seattle—Two massive new buildings will be added to the plant of the University of Washington next fall. The new home economics building will be completed in July. In it will be housed the department of home economics, the college of education and the German department. The building for the journalism, printing, political and social science departments and the law school will be soon begun, contracts for its construction being signed this week. A part of this building will be available in September.

HUNDRED AT EUCHRE MATCH BETWEEN THREE CHURCHES

Euchre players of St. Joseph's church of North Plainfield took the lead in the opening night's play of the three-cornered tournament being played by the R. C. churches of this city, North Plainfield and Dunellen. Twelve players were on each team, the games being played in St. Mary's Social Hall. The standing at the end of the first sitting was as follows: St. Joseph's, 25; St. Mary's 20; St. John's, 18.

About sixty rooters watched the progress of the games last night. The teams will play again next Thursday night in St. Mary's Hall.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature recorded at The State Trust Company today was as follows: 9 a. m., 57 degrees; 11 a. m., 66 degrees; 1 p. m., 73 degrees.

SIEGFRIED ARENS AGENT FOR NATIONAL AUTO ASS'N

Automobile owners in Plainfield, owing to the steady increase in the cost of maintaining their cars will be interested in the announcement that the National Automobile Association has opened a Plainfield branch under the management of Seigfried H. Arens, 1061 Rahway road.

The National Automobile Association is a co-operative association, whose object is to combine the motor car owners of the nation and reduce the cost of maintenance of automobiles to its numbers. The gradual increase in the cost of gasoline, tires, tubes and accessories has reached a point where it is a serious consideration with the individual motorist, as to how far the manufacturers and refiners are going with prices. N. A. A. can save for its members from 10 per cent. to 60 per cent. on accessories.

The cost of automobiles has been reduced by most of the automobile manufacturers but it has remained for the N. A. A. to enter the field, and with the support of the nation to reduce the cost of operating expenses.

Investigation by the N. A. A. has proven that there is an ample and sufficient supply of gasoline, through independent channels. The reason this gasoline cannot be consumed by the motorist is the fact of the lack of facilities to handle same at local points by independent gasoline companies.

It is the intention of the N. A. A. to install gasoline tanks for the benefit of its members, delivering gasoline and oils at a lower price than that which is asked by established firms. The N. A. A. is controlled by practical and efficient men. The president is Hubert C. Anderson, formerly of Philippine Civil Government; the vice president is Col. Charles A. Walsh; James G. Smith, second vice president, and W. F. Hayes, secretary and treasurer.

The service rendered to members of this association in the past is sufficient evidence of the policy of the National Automobile Association to protect the motorist in all questions relating to the cost of maintenance of automobiles. Automobile owners who are interested can learn more about the plan from Mr. Arens.

THE WOMAN'S COLUMN

Montgomery, Ala.—The building of a library memorial to the memory of Amelia Gorgas, who served as librarian at the University of Alabama for a generation, has been proposed and approved by the university authorities. Amelia Gorgas was the wife of General Josiah Gorgas, of the Confederate army, who was once president of the University, and the mother of Surgeon General William Crawford Gorgas, of the United States army, the man who cleared Cuba and the Canal Zone from insect pests. Her maiden name was Amelia Gayle. The library memorial will cost $10,000, and will be one of the finest tributes ever paid to an American woman.

Washington.—The tea dance and Mi-Careme entertainment to be given today for the benefit of the Association for Industrial Education of Mountaineers of Virginia, is interesting the women of the capital. Mrs. Woodrow Wilson is identified with the organization, and Mrs. Claude A. Swanson, wife of Senator Swanson of Virginia, is president. It is the aim of the workers to maintain the support and education of orphan children, or those whose parents are not able to help them. It is said that the mountaineers are accepting gratefully the opportunities being offered to their children.

Philadelphia. — Philadelphia society has a pointed interest in the struggle going on in Mesopotamia, for Brig.-Gen. Offley Shore, of the British army, is well-known here, having married Miss Caroline Sinnickson, of Philadelphia. Travelers from this city who have visited India were well entertained by the British officer. At present, General Shore is Chief of Staff of the expedition to Mesopatamia. At the time of his marriage, General Shore was a colonel, serving on military duty in Canada. He was training the men and officers who are doing such splendid service with the Colonials.

Wellesley, Mass.—The class beauty of the Wellesley seniors this year is Miss Priscilla Barrows, of Hartford, Conn. She will be mistress of ceremonies in the Tree Day pageant. Her attendants, chosen also because of their beauty, will be Miss Marion Mitchell, of Philadelphia; Miss Pauline Shorey, of Dover, N. H., and Miss Madeline Gibson, of Calumet, Mich. Miss Barrows, the class beauty, pulled an oar on her class crew, has appeared in dramatics, and is president of Zeta Alpha Society.

Chicago.—Three generations of woman lawyers is a new record to emblazon the forward march of the sex. Mrs. Florence W. Stephens, of Circle, Mont., who is attending Hamilton College of Law, and was recently admitted to the bar, is the third generation. Her grandmother was one of the first women ever admitted to law practice. She handled the legal end of her husband's business. The mother of Mrs. Stephens practices in Brookings, S. D. A short time ago, Mrs. Stephens motored to Chicago to take her degree, bringing her six-year-old daughter with her. Her daughter also intends to be a lawyer, and keep up the chain of woman attorneys in the family.

St. Stephen, N. B.—Miss Lois Hazen Grimmer, daughter of Hon. Justice Grimmer, of the Supreme Court of New Brunswick, is the first Canadian girl to be accepted for overseas service as a chauffeur in the war zone. Miss Grimmer is well qualified to fill her appointment, for she is an expert mechanic. She has always operated her own automobile and done her own repairing.

Members of Abraham Lincoln Chapter, No. 122, I. C. S. Fraternity of the World, at a meeting held last night realized $2 as the result of a collection for the Marjorie Sterrett Battleship fund. This amount was turned over to the Plainfield Daily Press this morning together with the following letter from Harry W. Swivel, chairman of the executive committee:

"A duty, and a most pleasant one, devolves upon me to offer you, in the name of the Abraham Lincoln Chapter, No. 122, I. C. S. Fraternity of the World, twenty dimes toward the construction of Marjorie Sterrett's battleship "America." The good cause will certainly come out triumphal and by furthering this patriotic movement you are only doing what an American newspaper should do for the protection and defense of our beloved country.

"We have chosen as our leader and ideal Abraham Lincoln, and were the spirit of the great departed to return I am sure he would point with pride to the little share Abraham Lincoln Chapter has been able to do for the protection of our country.

"Your big feature photoplay, "Defense or Tribute?" recently shown at Proctor's has, indeed, instilled more national pride in our hearts and it is with due reverence that the I. C. S. boys claim at least a nail in the new battleship 'America.'"

DUNELLEN WOMEN DO WELL ON THE BOWLING ALLEYS

A number of the young women of Dunellen tried their hand at bowling last evening on the Presbyterian alleys in that place. Miss Ruth Voorhees, who is a good enough basketball player to play regularly with the Pegs, of this city, was among the number who rolled the balls at the pins last evening. She evidently had an off night, the best score which she registered being only 123. Her other scores were 108, 93 and 83.

The names of the others who bowled and their scores follow:

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Mrs. Fred Vail | 83 | 82 | 93 | 96 |
| Mrs. George Apgar | 71 | 122 | | |
| Miss Josep'e Dealaman | 94 | 93 | | |
| Miss Edith Voorhees | 79 | 92 | 111 | |

A number of young men also participated in the games. Those who rolled creditably were Ralph Parker, Fred Vail, N. Willis Newman and Francis Teeling. The women wanted to beat somebody so they induced Bob Bogardus, who is supposed to be the poorest bowler among the men in Dunellen, to roll one game. He surprised them by knocking over the pins for a score of 165.

FRELINGHUYSEN TO OPEN HEADQUARTERS

Plans to Conduct Vigorous Campaign for Nomination for U. S. Senator.

Headquarters from which his campaign for the nomination for United States Senator at the primaries next September will be conducted, will be opened within a few days by Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, former State Senator from Somerset county, and C. S. Atkinson, of New Brunswick, will be in charge. The campaign committee will be J. A. Meis, Jr., of Somerville; Senator W. W. Smalley, of Bound Brook; and Assemblyman O. H. Hammond, of Bernardsville. The headquarters will be located at 64 West Main street, Somerville.

Mr. Atkinson is a newspaper man. He was secretary to Benjamin F. Howell, who represented the third congressional district in Congress for sixteen years. He was also clerk of the committee on immigration and Naturalization, and one of the secretaries of the Immigration Commission which made an investigation of the conditions on the Canadian and Mexican borders. While in Washington, Mr. Atkinson corresponded regularly for numerous newspapers in New Jersey. Before going to Washington for four years he was the editor of the Daily Fredonian at New Brunswick, and corresponded for New York and Philadelphia newspapers.

It is expected that J. H. Bolton, of Somerville, who has had experience in political work in West Virginia, Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey, will be associated in the campaign work.

The headquarters selected by Senator Frelinghuysen are the same from which his successful campaign for election to the State Senate was conducted.

SENATOR ACKERMAN IS CANDIDATE FOR DELEGATE

Through misreading a telegram from Trenton, it was stated in the Press of Wednesday that former Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, of this city, would not be a candidate for delegate to the Republican National Convention from the Fifth District. The telegram in question stated that Mr. Ackerman pledged his vote to no one when he filed his nominating petition. He will be a candidate at the primaries next month, as was announced some time ago, and is unopposed for the place.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

HIPPODROME'S POPULARITY NEVER WANES.

Happiness reigns at the Hippodrome. Having passed its 300th milepost last week, Charles Dillingham's magic spectacle, "Hip, Hip, Hooray!" still claims first place in popularity among current amusements. Since the brilliant record season began at this vast playhouse over one million and a half patrons have found delight in this marvelous pageant of novelty and grandeur. Its ice ballet has been the most talked-of innovation ever produced on a New York stage, and its attendance records to date surpass those of any attraction in history of the theatre. To facilitate bookings a long time ahead, seats are now on sale up to May 6, which period includes the Easter holidays. Matinees are given daily, and new features are introduced each week. Theatres in New York range in seating capacity from the tiny Bandbox, with 229, to the Hippodrome, with 5,274. The Punch and Judy, the Little Theatre and the Princess give their capacities as the same as the Bandbox, while the Metropolitan Opera House has room for 3,366 and the Century for 2,906. The Hippodrome, the largest playhouse in the world, gives shows twice daily, which gives it a seating capacity weekly of over 63,000, while the smaller theatres, with eight performances each week, seat but 1,816.

Madison Square Garden will soon be ablaze with life, light and color. Barnum and Bailey's Greatest Show on Earth will begin its annual spring visit next Thursday matinee and night, continuing thereafter twice daily, for a short engagement only, the circus this year being all new. The opening will be the spectacular pageant, "Persia," or the pageant of the thousand and one nights, the most magnificent oriental display ever seen in any land—1400 persons, 785 horses, camels and 3500 historically-correct costumes.

The circus management is showing some fine Arabic steeds, finely caparisoned; elephants and camels with complete embroidered trappings, appropriately equipped with parade accoutrements, which, all combined with the costumed troops of Oriental types and the incidental music of that period, make the pageant an impressive and imposing affair. Aside from the opening feature, there are all kinds of real circus acts, from the wonderfully daring equestrian feats, awe-inspiring aerial stunts, midair deeds of death-defying nature, performing animals, funmaking clowns and acrobatic marvels to the usual procession past the wild animal cages in the menagerie before the main performance, where will be seen a family of giraffes with the only baby giraffe in captivity.

The committee, to whom was referred the application for District Court room in the Court House, reported having investigated the matter and find that room for the City district courts is required to be furnished by the respective municipalities, and that inasmuch as the room now used by the Elizabeth District Court in the Court House building will, in the near future, be required for county purposes, it was recommended that the Board consent to the use of room now used by said District Court, without expense until further notice; and that the City of Elizabeth, in the near future, provide such room as would be convenient and appropriate elsewhere. The report was received and recommendation adopted.

The Committee on Springfield avenue bridge, Cranford, reported said bridge in bad shape, and too light for the traffic, and recommended that a new bridge be constructed, either of reinforced concrete, arch type, or of steel beam type, at a cost not to exceed $10,000, and that it be made part of the proposed Springfield avenue improvement, in which case the State would share in the cost of the bridge. The report was accepted and recommendations adopted.

The committee on Chatham road bridge over the Passaic river at the electric light works, reported that at a joint meeting with a committee from Morris County Freeholders, it was decided that the present bridge is too light for the traffic, and favored the construction of a new and heavier bridge, either of steel plate girder type, or of reinforced concrete arch type, and the committee recommended the construction of a new bridge to cost not exceeding $10,000. The report was received and recommendation adopted.

The jail committee, after examining the annual report of the jail physician, Dr. Livengood, suggested that his salary be increased $100 per year. The report was received and referred to the County Attorney to report as to the legality of increasing the salary at this time.

The committee on appropriation reported that following the death of the late county clerk, James C. Calvert, it engaged expert accountants to audit the books of the county clerk for the purpose of ascertaining the amounts due the county of Union, the several municipalities in the county, the State, and the United States Government, for various fees of said office, and that a copy of the audit made by the expert accountants was submitted.

The committee further reported that, following said audit, the executrix of the estate of the late James C. Calvert paid over to Abram P. Morris, the new county clerk, the sum of $16,768.88, which said sum is divided as follows:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Due municipalities for license moneys | $ 8,109.25 | |
| Due individuals for cash bail deposited with the county clerk | | 6,000.00 |
| Due attorneys for moneys deposited to cover deferred services | | 620.51 |
| Due United States Government, naturalization fees. | | 158.50 |
| Due State of New Jersey for hunting and fishing licenses | | 40.85 |
| Due State of New Jersey for court fees for October, 1915, term | | 82.34 |
| Due Union county, fees of the office from December 23, 1915, to December 31, 1915 | $ 72.68 | |
| Due Union county for liquor license fees | 184.75 | |
| Due Union county for cash bail forfeited | 1,500.00 | |
| | | 1,757.43 |
| | | $16,768.88 |

The committee further reported that the sums due as hereinbefore set out have been verified, and that, in view of the sudden death of Mr. Calvert, and the necessity of an early settlement with his estate, the audit was made for two years, from January 1, 1914, to December 28, 1915.

The committee further reported that it was deemed advisable that said audit be continued back to the date of the change from the fee system to the salary system, which is November 15, 1909.

The committee further recommended that, in view of the fact that at the present time there is no legislation which gives this board control over the system of bookkeeping in the various county offices receiving fees due to the county, that the committee on legislation be instructed to have introduced in the Legislature such legislation as will provide for the installation of a system of bookkeeping and accounting in the offices of the county clerk, register of deeds, sheriff and surrogate, as may be suggested by certified public accountants, which will give the county government control over the bookkeeping and its audit, irrespective of whether the money received belongs to the county, municipalities, the State Government, or any person or other municipal authority.

The report was received and recommendations concurred in.

On motion of Freeholder McMane, the Director appointed Freeholders McMane, Meisel and Jones to investigate and report upon the construction of a culvert at the junction of Morris avenue and Denman place, and the probable cost of the work.

On motion of Freeholder J. Woodruff, the Director was authorized to appoint a committee of three to investigate and report upon the bridge on Long avenue, near the L. V. R. R., and report as to the advisability and cost of extending the bridge to the side lines of the road. The same committee to examine the culverts at Hollywood and Salem avenues, Hollywood and Robert street, and Hillside avenue and Bond street, and report as to any necessary work and the cost thereof. The Director appointed Freeholders J. Woodruff, Applegate and N. Woodruff, as such committee.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse, the Director was authorized to appoint a committee of three to examine the present bridge on Ninth avenue, near Chandler avenue, Roselle, and also the present brook crossing on Spruce street, near Sixth avenue, Roselle, and to report as to the necessity and probable cost. The Director appointed Freeholders Krouse, Smith and Darby as such committee.

On motion of Freeholder Wilbur, the Director was authorized to appoint a committee of three to examine the condition of the bridges over Green brook, at Westervelt avenue Plainfield, and at Terrill road, and to meet with a similar committee from the county of Somerset with a view to examining the present condition of these bridges and make a report as to the same, together with the recommendations as to reconstruction and the probable cost. The Director appointed Freeholders Wilbur, Hall and Perry as such committee.

On motion of Freeholder Randolph, a committee of three was appointed to examine the present bridge over the Rahway river at Grand street, in the city of Rahway, and report as to the condition of the bridge, the advisability of constructing a new bridge and the probable cost.

The Director appointed as said committee, Freeholders Randolph, Thompson and Marsh.

On motion of Freeholder Darby, a committee of three was appointed to examine the intersection of Mountain avenue and New Providence road, Mountainside, to consider the advisability and necessity of building a cast-iron top culvert at this place and to report the approximate cost.

The director appointed as said committee, Freeholders Darby, Gehring and Haviland.

On motion of Freeholder Perry, the salary of Robert J. Faulkes and Arbie Miller, who have been in the services of the county as keepers in the county jail for many years, were increased from $840 to $900 per annum, payable semi-monthly.

On motion, the director declared the Board adjourned to February 3, at 2:30 p. m.

The approved bills were, on roll call, ordered aid.

J. EDW. ROWE, Clerk.

ASTOR THEATRE

At the Astor Theatre today and tomorrow will be shown on the screen, Mark Twain's "Prince and the Pauper," one of the first Famous Players releases since the great fire, also the initial appearance of the author's work on the screen. The picturization of this romantic story, in which irresistible Marguerite Clark is starred, is remarkable both as the film adaptation of any work of the foremost American humorist to reach the screen, and because it is one of the first motion pictures released by these pioneer producers of great adaptation of stage successes after the devastating fire which destroyed the company's studios in New York on September 11.

"The Prince and the Pauper" is one of the most delightful and thoroughly enjoyable of Mark Twain's many works. It is a film that will be appreciated by young folks of all ages, for in its merriment and clever work and humor, with its dashes of dramatic thrills that frequently sweep the spectator off his feet, as it were, only to replace him with a laugh. The story combines all the elements of a great artistic triumph such as can be conceived of a master, and adequately interpreted only by a star of the unusual ability of Miss Clark. "The Prince and the Pauper" is the latest Paramount picture, and will be seen first at the Astor Theatre. In addition to this wonderful picture we will show Paramount-Bray cartoons, and others.

ARREST GERMAN AS CONSPIRATOR

Gadski's Husband Charged With Welland Plot.

IS AGENT OF THE KRUPPS

Captain Hans Tauscher Is Arraigned as Man Who Planned to Blow Up Canal Running Around Niagara Falls. Others May Be Implicated.

New York, March 31.—The American agent of the Krupps and other German and Austrian ammunition manufacturers has been arrested on the charge of having conspired to blow up the Welland canal, the waterway that runs around Niagara Falls. The prisoner is Captain Hans Tauscher, the husband of Mme. Johanna Gadski, the grand opera singer.

The captain was arraigned before United States Commissioner Houghton and held in $25,000 bail for a hearing a week from next Thursday.

Captain Tauscher, who is accused of having financed and directed a plot to destroy the waterway in September, 1914, just a year prior to the time Paul Koenig, the German secret agent, planned, according to the government authorities, a similar undertaking, is by far the most important person arrested thus far in the federal investigaion into Germany's alleged secret undertakings in this country to hamper the allies.

An Expert on Ordnance.

He has been, according to information obtained from the federal authorities, a most important cog in the invisible machinery built up by Germans in America in connection with the necessities of warfare. A man of wealth, a figure in grand opera circles because of his wife and distinguished in business matters because of his ability and the enterprises he represented, he has been a stanch supporter of the Teutonic cause. He is said to be Germany's expert here on all matters pertaining to ordnance, and as such every matter of this nature was referred to him for his opinion and suggestion.

Since the outbreak of the war he was one of Captain von Papen's right hand men until the latter's recall because of improper activities in military matters. He was in Berlin at the start of the European war, and as a reserve army captain he volunteered his services; but, according to his own statement to federal investigators, he was told to come to this country and report to Captain von Papen.

Captain Tauscher looms in still another phase. Because of the nature of his business he was the buyer and seller of arms and ammunition, and he has stored in this city munitions valued at almost $1,000,000. He sold arms and ammunition extensively to Mexicans and shipped similar supplies to South America and the far east. One shipment which he had planned to make is reported to have been stopped some time ago by the federal authorities.

May Implicate Others.

The alleged plot for which Captain Tauscher was arrested and which upon conviction may net him three years in prison and $8,000 fine has been told in detail by Major Baron Horst von der Goltz, the young German who recently was sent to this country by England on condition that he would tell what he knows about plots of destruction framed by Germans in America.

The story behind the legal phrasing of the complaint made against him by William M. Offley, local head of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, is filled with dramatic touches. Captain Tauscher, as the director and financier of the work, is said to have received funds from Teutonic purses in this country. In fact, the checks left here by Captain von Papen and the checkstub book taken from the military attache at Falmouth show payments by the latter to Captain Tauscher and to men accused of being in the plot.

The stalwart, polished captain is said to have made arrangements for the purchase of a large quantity of dynamite and other high explosives—enough to fill six suit cases—to have furnished revolvers for the conspirators, fuses and electrical equipment for setting off the explosives and maps of the Welland canal. He is reported to have given instructions to men who went with the five or six German reservists—three or four men are still to be arrested—to Buffalo and thence to Niagara Falls, whence the expedition was sent into Canada.

The dynamite was purchased from one of the big ammunition concerns in this country, and arrangements were made for its delivery in September, 1914, on board a steamship anchored off the Statue of Liberty. Thither the alleged conspirators, excepting Captain Tauscher, hurried one dark night in a fast motorboat from a point in Harlem. They loaded the explosives on the motorboat and sped back to Harlem, whence they carried the material to a boarding house. They packed the explosives in suit cases, armed themselves with revolvers and then took a train from the Grand Central station on Sept. 14, 1914, for Buffalo.

TO PROVIDE RELIEF FOR WAR ORPHANS

Organization In New York Seeks Funds.

New York, March 31.—The first step in the development of a systematic plan for the relief of the great army of helpless children in Europe, whose future must be provided for after the war has ended, has been taken in New York city by the International Child Welfare league. This organization has proposed the creation of an international congress, whose representatives are to take part in the final peace negotiations between the warring nations.

Adolph Lewisohn is to be chairman of a special committee that will select a group of eminent persons in European capitals known to be in sympathy with the movement for the protection of stricken children, and they in turn will elect delegates to an international convention or congress to meet at The Hague and crystallize the plan for future relief.

With this object in view the league has joined with the National Plant Flower and Fruit Guild to raise funds. The Flower Guild is the good angel of the "shut-ins" in the big cities, the helpless in hospitals, and has brought joy to many thousands of sad hearts.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the president, and Miss Margaret Wilson, his daughter, are deeply interested in the movement and have consented to act as patronesses of a Shakespeare flower dance or fantasy to be held April 12 at the Hotel Plaza, New York city. The price of the tickets has been placed at $5, and the Columbia Trust company of New York city has named Miss Virginia H. D. Furman as treasurer.

The rose room of the hotel will be transformed into a beautiful woodland scene at sunset, and its loveliness will be further enhanced by a bold and striking floral setting. Interpretations of parts of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," "The Winter's Tale" and "Two Gentlemen of Verona" will be made by a bevy of New York society buds. Miss Greta Torpadie, the famous professional soprano, has volunteered her services and will sing songs from Shakespeare.

BRITISH STRIKE SERIOUS.

Munition Workers' Walkout Calls Lloyd-George From France.

London, March 31.—So serious has the strike situation in the munitions factories of the Clyde district become that David Lloyd-George, minister of munitions, returned from France to take charge of the situation.

Mr. Lloyd-George announced in the house of commons that the government had decided to send Arthur Henderson, Labor member of the cabinet, to Glasgow to confer with the labor leaders and endeavor to persuade them to send the strikers back to work.

VILLA MURDERS WHOLE GARRISON

Slays 172 Men at Guerrero, Is Report.

NOW FLEEING NORTHWARD

Pershing Reports Bandit Beaten by Carranza Troops—United States and Mexican Forces Join in Pursuit. Strange Story of Wounding of Villa at Columbus Proves a Myth.

San Antonio, Tex., March 31.—Francisco Villa has killed every one of the 172 men in the garrison at Guerrero. He is now moving northward and is somewhere near the headquarters of the Santa Maria river, according to unofficial information received by General Funston.

At the head of a considerable force, Villa was reported to be on the San Geronimo ranch or the Quemade ranch, and troops of both the United States and Mexico were believed to be closing in on him.

This information was regarded by General Funston and his staff as probably correct. If correct it appeared probable that very soon Villa either would have to face his pursuers in fight or make another break through the tightening line of troops.

Whether his assault on the garrison at Guerrero was the same as the engagement reported by General Pershing was not known, but it was considered likely, since the action reported by General Pershing occurred on March 27, somewhere in that region. Details of the engagement were not reported.

Given Villa's Location.

General Pershing has been advised of the report as to Villa's location, and it is known that the disposition of his troops and that of the Mexican government are such that Villa cannot easily escape without a fight. American troops are converging in columns from the north, and it was indicated that a part of them had gone so far south that they would be able to join with the Carranza forces in preventing his escape in that direction.

General Pershing reported that on Monday the bandit chieftain was defeated by a Carranza force near Guerrero. After the fight with the Carranza soldiers at the edge of the mountain district south of Namiquipa Villa was known to be making his way south, and General Pershing's cavalry resumed its unrelenting ride on his trail, notwithstanding it might lead them into the dangerous mountain passes of the region.

Miguel R. Davila, an agent of the department of the interior of Mexico, who arrived here from Queretaro, said he saw General Luis Herrera there three days ago. General Herrera, who recently was reported to have rebelled against Carranza, went to Queretaro on a special train to talk with Carranza about getting more supplies for his force in Chihuahua.

Villa Reported Wounded.

El Paso, Tex., March 31.—General Gavira, the Carranza commandant in Juarez, says that he had received a report not yet fully confirmed that Carranza troops at Guerrero skirmished with Villa and that Villa was shot through the leg, but escaped.

According to Mexican Consul Garcia, who said he had additional reports, General Cavasos had only a handful of men, not more than fifty or sixty, when Villa attacked. The bandits overpowered the meager defense and captured the town. They were reported still holding it.

Previous information about Villa placed him somewhere in the fastnesses of the great continental divide, many miles south of Namiquipa, and fleeing in an easterly direction, with Parral as his objective.

So far as the actual pursuit of Villa is concerned, the absence for several days of any definite news has given a new birth to the wild rumors and fantastic stories which flooded El Paso up to a week ago. The bandit chief has been reported in almost every conceivable place on the map and in a number that are utterly inconceivable. If all the stories current on the border are to be believed he has fought in the last few days more battles than Alexander the Great and has had more hairbreadth escapes than Jesse James.

Weird Yarn Disproved.

One of the weirdest tales circulated among the newspaper men here was promptly nailed by the police when they arrested Eduardo Perez, the father of the yarn, as a vagrant. Perez had told a marvelous story of his adventures, which included an account of how Villa himself was desperately wounded in the raid on Columbus and was now in hiding on a ranch three miles from the border. He confessed the fabrication when confronted with letters received by him at San Antonio during the very period he claimed to have been throwing dice with death in Mexico.

Military men here made no secret of their belief that Villa had slipped through the cordon of American troops and Carranza forces pursuing him at that time. The latest information was that the bandit leader was moving through the Santa Maria valley. Roving bands of Villa men were reported everywhere in the region of the Santa Maria valley.

STIRRING ADDRESS BY MRS. FEICKERT

Equal Suffrage League Much Encouraged After Listening to the State President.

The March meeting of the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield was held yesterday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. A. B. Jones. There was a good attendance and those present seemed determined to renew and redouble their efforts in behalf of "Votes for Women."

The reports of the committees were most satisfactory, especially that of the enrollment committee, the chairman reporting a large number of new members. During the meeting a "primary election" was held to nominate officers, their election to take place at the annual meeting of the league to be held in April.

At the conclusion of the business session, a stirring address was made by the State president, Mrs. E. F. Feickert. A round of applause greeted the speaker upon her appearance and continued throughout her address when some particularly good point was driven home. Mrs. Feickert gave an outline history of what happened to the suffrage bill at Trenton and gave valuable suggestions in regard to enrollment methods. Her advice is to discontinue dues but to enroll and organize a large body of suffragists along political lines.

In regard to fighting political candidates who have declared themselves against suffrage, Mrs. Feickert said, "I hold with Mrs. Catt, our national president, and the most able suffrage organizer in the United States. I do not believe in recrimination or bitterness. We do not plan to fight against anybody but it is only natural that we should work for those who are for us."

Referring to Senator Edge, Mrs. Feickert said, "While previously classed with anti-suffragists, the Senator has explained that he is not personally opposed to Woman Suffrage." At the conclusion of the address tea was served.

LONE GERMAN TAKES STEAMER AND CREW

Binds Captain and Overawes Fifty-six Men.

Lewes, Del., March 31.—A lone German stowaway held up the captain and fifty-six members of the crew of the British steamer Matoppo, compelling them at the point of a revolver to change the course of the vessel and land him at the Delaware breakwater, after he had rifled the ship's safe and taken their valuables, is reported here by Captain Bergener, master of the Matoppo.

The stowaway, who says his name is Ernest Schiller and that he had lived in Hoboken, N. J., for the past eight months, is now locked up in the jail here, awaiting the arrival of the United States district attorney from Wilmington, Del., and the British consul general from Philadelphia.

The hold-up took place outside the three mile limit, and federal authorities here say that this government, under the circumstances, probably will have nothing to do with the matter. Schiller, they say, will be returned to the Matoppo and turned over to the British officials at St. Lucia, where the vessel will stop for coal.

The Matoppo sailed from New York for Vladivostok with a cargo consisting chiefly of barbed wire and farm implements. She passed out Sandy Hook at 6 o'clock in the evening, and two hours later, upon entering his cabin, Captain Bergener says, he was confronted by a young man with a revolver in each hand.

"Hands up, and not a sound if you value your life!" was the command that greeted him.

The captain was then bound hand and foot and locked in his cabin, promising, under penalty of death, not to raise an alarm.

BELLIS LIKELY TO OBTAIN CLINTON POSTMASTERSHIP

Washington, March 31.—John Y. Bellis probably will be the next postmaster at Clinton, N. J. There has been a lively fight over this place between the two Democratic factions of Hunterdon county, the Holy Rollers and the Pirates. Mr. Bellis is the choice of the Holy Rollers, led by former Senator William C. Gebhardt. Senators Martine and Hughes have indorsed Bellis and his appointment probably will be forthcoming shortly.

Clinton, March 31.—If named to the postmastership, John Y. Bellis would succeed Frank A. Esty, Republican, whose term expired March 1, and who has held the office eleven years. The office is of the third class and the annual salary, $1,500, with an additional allowance for clerk hire. Mr. Bellis is the junior member of L. B. Bellis & Son, and Bible school superintendent of the Baptist church.

Others who sought the postmastership were Carl Langer and James Mulligan, both claiming to have the support of the Pirates.

Mrs. John Manley, of East Ninth street, is visiting her sister in Albany, New York.

MAN KILLED IN POWDER MILL

Explosive Flares Up In Plant at Kenvil

ANOTHER FATALLY BURNED

Three Hundred Pounds of Smokeless Powder Lets Go at the Hercules Mill. Several Other Workers Have Narrow Escape From Death In Mixing House.

Dover, March 31.—One man was burned to death and another suffered injuries that may prove fatal in a flareup of smokeless powder following an explosion in a mixing house of the Hercules Powder company at Kenvil.

The dead man was Ernest De Champ, twenty-two years old, unmarried, of New York.

The injured man is Robert Bell, twenty-four years old, unmarried, of High street, Stanhope. He is receiving first aid treatment at the company's hospital and later will be brought to the hospital here.

The explosion and flareup occurred at 1:45 o'clock. There were several men in the other end of the mixing house in which De Camp was killed and Bell injured, but none of them was hurt.

In some manner in which Arthur P. Van Gelder, superintendent of the plant, was unable to explain, 300 pounds of smokeless powder was set off. The flames that leaped up after the explosion swept through the full length of the mixing house.

400 VOLTS KILL ENGINEER.

East Orange Man Had Weak Heart, Say His Employers.

East Orange, March 31.—A current of about 400 volts' intensity proved fatal for Israel Lisshitz, an electrical engineer in the employ of the Crocker-Wheeler plant in this city. The management said that the man's death was extraordinary, as so low a voltage rarely proves serious. It could be explained, it was said, only on the ground that the victim had a weak heart.

The victim was considered a man of promise in the electrical field. He was graduated in 1909 from the Liege university in Belgium. Though born in Russia, he spent his boyhood days in Germany and after graduation in 1909 spent some time in France. He came to this country in 1910 or 1911 and immediately went to work for the Westinghouse Electric company.

SCHOOL GIRLS MISSING.

Elizabeth Police Find No Clew to Whereabouts of Young Students.

Elizabeth, March 31.—No word has reached the relatives of Harriet Weigand, thirteen years old, and Minnie Caprario, sixteen years old, who disappeared Monday from Cherry street school and have not returned home. The police and private detectives have had no success in trailing them. The Weigand girl lived with her grandmother at 12 Elmwood place and the Caprario girl with her parents at 321 Morris avenue. They were not particularly intimate until two weeks ago.

Both attended school Monday morning, but did not return for the afternoon session. Harriet had received money from a relative that day, as it was her birthday, and it is believed that this was spent for train tickets and that the girls are now somewhere in New York or vicinity.

DISCHARGE ENTIRE FORCE.

Boonton Company Settles Strike Called In One Man's Interest.

Boonton, March 31.—The strike among the firemen in the electric plant of the New Jersey and Pennsylvania Power company in this place has been settled so far as the company is concerned by discharging the striking men and hiring an entire new force.

The company has had its plant guarded to prevent damage or injury to the new force at the hands of the strikers, but up to the present time no trouble has arisen.

The men demanded an increase in wages, which was granted by the company to all except the foreman, who demanded a $5 a week increase. The men then refused to go back to work until the foreman was given what he demanded. The company refused this and hired a new force of English speaking firemen.

This Case Has 1,057 Defendants.

Camden, March 31.—An order requiring 1,057 shareholders of Linwood Haines, Limited, of America, to show cause why they should not pay up on their subscriptions and make good about $38,000 due unsecured creditors of the concern was made by Referee In Bankruptcy Ott. The order is returnable May 10 at the Camden courthouse, and it affects the largest number of people ever summoned in a single action in a South Jersey court action.

Four Generations at Reunion.

Toms River, March 31.—Four generations were represented when Mrs. Sarah Hankins of Point Pleasant, Mrs. George H. White of Whitesville, Mrs. Albert W. Dorsett and Miss Margaret Dorsett of Toms River met at a family reunion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Dorsett here.

In Want Ads Do Not Use An Unnecessary Word, Nor Omit a Necessary One

A want ad may be too short as well as too long. There ought to be, always, a rational brevity—but this should not preclude a touch of "human interest"—the statement of such facts as will give the advertisements a certain DEFINITENESS instead of vagueness.

A Gray Frock of Taffeta and Chiffon with the New Corded Basque

A Going Away Costume of Checked and Plain Taffeta

The New Blazer Coat will Serve the Bride as a Traveling Wrap and Later as a Sport Coat

White Satin is Pleated Over Net Lace in this Graceful Wedding-Gown

Wedding Gowns Afoam With Lace -- Fawn Or Gray for the Going-Away Gown -- A Smart Traveling Coat the First Consideration -- Hats.

IF "three removes are as good as a fire," a trousseau is certainly equal to "three removes." What a blissful state is the bride's, all the has-beens of the wardrobe discarded, thrown away or given away, and life begun again with an entirely new outfit of clothes from hats to boots—to say nothing of trunks and boxes packed with hundreds of delightful pretty things, frocks, petticoats, negligees and lovely lingerie! Only once in a lifetime—unless there happens the suppositional fire—does this felicitous condition occur.

The Easter bride this year is specially lucky for never were women's clothes so alluring, so daintily feminine, so altogether fetching as they are now. If one has a natural leaning toward furbelows it may be indulged to the utmost, for furbelows are at the height of fashion; if one's leaning is toward simple, tailored things this inclination may be indulged also in the line of sport raiment, the frilly, furbelowed frocks and wraps being provided only for wear when occasion demands.

Paris Decrees Length in the Wedding Gown.

First, under consideration, of course, comes the bridal robe and the average Easter bride is married in full panoply of white satin, veil and lace. There is no time like Easter time for a wedding. The skies smile on the bride—and if they weep because of an unexpected April shower, the tears are soon over and the April sun comes out again. Flowers are a-plenty, and all the friends who attend the nuptials are provided with stunning new Easter raiment, so the occasion is bright and gay with color as an autumn or winter wedding may never be unless it takes place by gaslight.

There is a tendency toward longer skirts in Paris now and the first skirt to be lengthened is the skirt of the wedding gown. Several brides this winter wore frivolously short skirts, because short skirts were so universal that a long one gave the silhouette a grotesque suggestion; and in the face of consistency the long train swept downward to the floor at the back while the short skirt showed the feet and ankles in front. This was not graceful, but it was smart—and what would you? The Easter wedding gown, however, will fall to the tip of the satin slipper, merging into the folds of the train at the back and much stateliness and distinction will the costume gain thereby. The beautiful bridal gown pictured shows this new length and also the quantities of lace that are used to give wedding gowns the soft, airy suggestion so desirable now. Few bridal costumes these days are of satin used alone; almost invariably the bodice and sleeve and some portion of the skirt drapery are of lace; or even of tulle.

One of the loveliest wedding gowns of the Easter season is to be trimmed with tulle pleatings; three pleated tulle flounces down the front of the skirt; three narrower pleatings at the elbow of a full leg o' mutton tulle sleeve and the bodice of draped tulle crossed under bands of pearl trimming at the front. The train and back of the skirt are of white satin meteor and over the train falls a drapery of tulle, hanging from pearl ornaments at the back of the shoulders. The bridal veil is also of tulle and falls only to the waist at the back, over the long tulle train drapery in which it mingles.

The pictured wedding gown which has been selected after some consideration as authoritatively typical of the best mode for Easter bridals this year, is of ivory white satin draped over lace. The lace bodice and long, shirred lace sleeves are draped over white chiffon and the bodice is very simple in style, surplice fronts edged with a line of pearl bead trimming being crossed in a modest V. The skirt is the elaborate and compelling feature of this gown. The rich satin is corded at the foot and faced with a light hairlace, to give the proper flare without rigid stiffness, and at the waistline the satin is laid in soft, heavy pleats. A width of the satin starting at the center front is pleated across to the right hip, then the satin is brought up in a long loop and the other end pleated from the hip to the center back, making a graceful drapery at the right side of the skirt. The entire left side of the skirt is of lace, also pleated into the waistband. A straight belt of satin holds in the fulled lace of the bodice, crosses at the back and comes forward to the front of the skirt, below the waistline, to confine the pleats of the skirt.

An Enchanting Trousseau Frock of White Net

Veils Worn Off the Face.

The blushing bride no longer veils her blushes, but wears her veil as far back on her head as possible to show her beautifully arranged coiffure. If she must cover her face, a small veil of tulle, falling just below the bust, is attached to the longer veil at the back and is removed the moment the wedding ceremony is over. The bride in the picture wears a wonderful veil of Irish carrick-macross; one point of the square being turned in and shirred for attaching at the back of the head where the hair is arranged low on the crown. The bandeau of orange blossoms helps to keep the veil in place and prevents the weight of the lace from dragging the hair down.

This coronet arrangement is much fancied just now. A bride of the late winter season wore her tulle veil over a train of silver brocade, the veil being attached at the back of the head to a flat bandeau of white silver and pearls. The effect was rather severe but the bride was tall, stately and possessed of almost classic beauty, and the jeweled bandeau and straight, long veil at the back became her style.

Still another bride of the late season backed her jetty tresses with a veil that gave the effect of a flaring Spanish comb rising above the crown of the head. A close pleating of tulle spread out above a long, curved pin of pearls placed in the hair and below the pin, the veil was closely drawn together so that thumb and finger could have encircled the filmy folds. Lower, it spread out over the train in conventional fashion. Still another way to arrange the veil is in the Watteau effect. This is pretty and becoming—more becoming than the veil entirely off the face. A lace veil is thrown over the head, the lace edge shading the forehead and falling at either side of the face to the waistline. Then a wired wreath of orange blossoms, with a cluster of the blossoms at one side is fitted over the top of the head, and the veil, as a small Watteau hat would be fitted on the head, tilting toward the front. With this veil arrangement the hair is worn low—in a loose knot at the back of the neck. The Moorish arrangement is odd but "different," which pleases the bride who likes to be sensational. A lace veil is thrown over the head with corners hanging at either side of the shoulders; then the front of the veil, drawn to the very eyebrows, is thrust back, under the drapery of the sides and pinned fast to the hair.

Silk for the Going-Away Gown.

It is a bride entirely lacking in vanity who does not expend special thought on her going-away costume. Usually a rather elaborate tailleur is selected and a very dainty one is pictured on today's page. The little suit fairly riots in scallops and every scallop on the skirt and tunic (of fawn and chocolate in infinitesimal checks) is piped with chocolate taffeta. The taffeta coat in plain color has flaring cuffs which repeat the scallop effect of the skirt. These cuffs are made of squares of the taffeta lined with haircloth and faced with another taffeta square. There is an oval opening at the center of the square and the oval is attached to the sleeve with a cording. The high-brimmed black milan sailor is trimmed with bows of chocolate brown picot ribbon.

A Bodice Fitted With Many Seams.

For formal wear the bride-to-be will have at least one gray frock this spring and a charming gray costume is pictured on the seated figure. The frock is built of dove gray chiffon and taffeta in the same shade; the tight-fitting bodice having many corded seams at the back, opening in front to show an underbodice of the chiffon drawn up on cords. The slashed chiffon sleeve is trimmed, like the skirt, with frills of gray taffeta pinked at the edge. With this exquisite frock goes a turban of rose-colored lisere straw trimmed with dull green leaves and American Beauty roses.

For summer afternoons is a frock of white embroidered net with gathered, ruffled tunic above a wide skirt trimmed with pleatings of white ribbon that give the filmy skirt flare and substance. The bodice approximates a fitted effect, the embroidered net being draped over white chiffon and the chiffon over a fitted underbodice of white silk. The waistline is defined by a straight belt of the net which joins bodice and skirt. Three little pink roses at the shoulder echo the note of pink in the rose trimmed leghorn hat with its drooping frill of white tulle. A nattier blue ribbon around the crown is tied in a soft bow at one side, weighting the supple leghorn brim.

Coats and Hats for the Bride.

A smart traveling coat is pictured in the blazer model of striped flannel—black and white, with white trimmings. The sport hat is also black and white to match. The bride will need at least six hats, including traveling sailor or turban, wide-brimmed leghorn, two dressy, flower-trimmed affairs and two smart sport hats.

FOR THE BRIDE'S BOUDOIR

A DELIGHTFUL wedding gift for the April bride will be something for her boudoir. Such a gift will carry a suggestion of intimacy and affection for the bride's boudoir will be her own sanctum sanctorum and it in will be space for many remembrances from near and dear friends. There will certainly be space for a dainty oval mirror framed in dull gilt; a bit of a mirror eighteen inches high in which the bride can see her pretty face and shoulders. And there will surely be space for chaise longue pillows—for of course the newly furnished boudoir will boast a fashionable chaise longue. Point de Venise lace and linen embroidered by hand, mounted over pale pink satin, makes an alluring pillow for "forty winks" after luncheon. A dainty mantel or desk clock is also an acceptable gift. A foot-pillow of satin and silver cord, made in the new flat shape with oval or circular top, will be a charming gift if the pillow is selected to match the boudoir furnishings.

Household Linens for the Bride

EVEN more fascinating than the selection of the trousseau is the supplying of beautiful linens for the bride's new home. Frocks, hats and exquisite lingerie will have but a brief existence—a year's grace at most may be granted most of the lovely new wearables which are chosen with such care; but the bride's house linens will be a joy to her for many years.

For afternoon tea this hand-embroidered square and napkins of fine linen.

It is wisest to purchase the very best of everything—not the most elaborate, for only a full purse can indulge in costly hand embroidered and lace trimmed dining room, bedroom and bathroom linens—but in the selection of tablecloths, napkins, towels and bed linens quality should be a first consideration.

The bed linens for everyday use may be of fine quality muslin with hemstitched hems. Some housekeepers have hemstitched undersheets and scalloped upper sheets, but this entails more or less extra attention and trouble when the linens are sorted after laundering. Pillow-slips may be hemstitched or scalloped and should be embroidered with the bride's initial or monogram. There is no deviation from the rule that the bride's initials and not the groom's must mark all the house linens for the new home. See to it that the sheets are plenty long—three yards is none too long. This allows twelve inches to turn under at the foot of the bed, and twenty-four inches to turn back over the blanket at the top. Nothing gives the bed such a smart, attractive look as a widely turned back upper sheet; and the extra long sheet will help to keep the upper edge of the handsome blanket from becoming soiled.

For the guest room have several sets of linen sheets and pillow-slips, hand scalloped rather than hemstitched and beautifully marked with initials or monograms. There must be a generous supply of bedspreads and for the simply furnished home the washable spreads with border design are excellent. Some housewives cling to the old-fashioned heavy Marseilles spreads and these are really very attractive, though modern, elaborately dressed beds have put them a little out of style. If the bed has a smart cretonne cover, lay it over a spotless white washable bedspread so that when the cover is removed at night there may be something over the blankets. Uncovered blankets, no matter how handsome they may be, always have an "undressed" look on the bed. The bride-to-be who is clever at needlework may make for herself a very handsome bedspread of cream scrim inset with hand-crocheted filet border and medallions. A set of this sort, including bedspread, bolster spread, curtains for two windows and covers for dresser, table and chiffoniere, was made during leisure hours last summer. The bedspread and dresser covers have been laid over pink sateen matching a pink wallpaper. On the lace-covered table stands a pink silk shaded boudoir lamp. The whole effect is rich and beautiful, yet the curtains and spreads cost but a trifle in actual money.

For the bathroom linen closet there should be two dozen linen damask towels, pure white, with hemstitched or scalloped ends and hand-embroidered initials. Have all the towels alike and get them as large as possible. Guest towels to match the larger ones should be provided also. Bath towels and washcloths to match may show a touch of color and the embroidered initials will match this color.

It is in her dining room linens, quite naturally, that the bride takes most interest. A great many of these will doubtless come as wedding-gifts, but the bride, herself, must supply a goodly store for her new home. In addition to tablecloths of various lengths and weights for everyday and special use and hand-hemmed and initialed napkins in breakfast, lunch and dinner sizes; there must be luncheon cloths, tea cloths, tray cloths, sideboard runners, centerpieces, doilies and small serviettes or tea napkins. Plain, heavy white damask, hemstitched or scalloped and beautifully initialed is always in excellent taste and the housekeeper who wishes to be most distinguished uses little color in dining room linens.

Hand filet and cut work with linen center makes a very handsome lunch cloth. Another attractive afternoon teacloth with small tea napkins to match shows little filet medallions set in with buttonholing, the linen then being cut away back of the medallion. There are two lines of hemstitching, one holding the half-inch hem the other set several inches above to make the border design. Point de Venise table centers with doilies to match are very handsome for the formal luncheon. Point de Paris is an effective lace for edging a lunch cloth of cream linen.

A lunch cloth of hand-made filet and cut-work, with lunch doily and serviette to match.

CHANCE FOR PRESS ADVERTISERS TO ATTRACT THE ATTENTION OF THE ENTIRE COUNTY.

As the result of an agreement between the Plainfield Daily Press and the Elizabeth Evening Times any advertiser placing a classified ad in the Press may have that same ad inserted in the Elizabeth Evening Times upon the payment of one-half more than is charged for the Daily Press insertion alone. Thus, if an advertisement in the Daily Press costs forty cents, the same advertisement may be placed in the Elizabeth paper for an additional twenty cents.

The Elizabeth Evening Times has a circulation of 9,000 and is widely distributed throughout Union County. Thus if an advertiser places his advertisement in the Plainfield Daily Press and Elizabeth Evening Times he places it before the eyes of thousands of readers at a very small cost.

Most advertisers welcome the opportunity to attract the attention of the whole county to their offerings and with the co-operation of the Elizabeth Evening Times the Plainfield Daily Press is now able to make this possible. The Elizabeth Evening Times has earned a reputation for itself as an advertising medium, especially along the classified line, and it is a well known fact that its influence extends into other counties besides Union.
